NOTE: In order to prepare for a special test issue the Reader will not publish next Thursday. The next issue will be out Thursday, April 26.

PROMO MAN

A huge metal jug filled with Ripple Pagan Pink wine, was provided by RCA to loosen the lips and pens of the press corps.

When the public expects a forecast report, complimentary samples of the products involved are often the rule. When RCA picked up the baton in promoting their new Ripple Pagan Pink wine, they were not about to shirk the opportunity. RCA picked up the baton and went all out to prove that Ripple Pagan Pink wine was worth the excitement.

The scene was set in the heart of the city, where the wine was served in a large, polished silver pitcher. The guests were seated at tables, each table set with crystal glasses and fine china. The atmosphere was one of elegance and sophistication.

The hostess, a tall, graceful woman, welcomed each guest with a warm smile. She offered each guest a glass of the Ripple Pagan Pink wine and invited them to sample the new product.

The guests were enthusiastic. They raised their glasses and sampled the wine, clinking their glasses together in a toast to the new product.

As the event progressed, the guests became more and more excited. They talked and laughed, sharing stories and jokes.

The hostess returned to her table, her face radiant with joy. She raised her glass and offered a toast to the guests, thanking them for their support and expressing her gratitude.

The guests stood as one, raising their glasses in response. They clinked glasses and cheered, creating a celebratory atmosphere.

The hostess then raised her voice and addressed the crowd.

"As we gather here tonight, we are celebrating the launch of a new product that we believe will revolutionize the wine industry. Ripple Pagan Pink wine is not just a wine, it is a symbol of our commitment to excellence and innovation."

The guests applauded, their faces beaming with excitement.

"We are proud to introduce Ripple Pagan Pink wine to the world, and we are confident that it will be a hit. We hope that you will enjoy it as much as we have enjoyed working on it."

The guests cheered, their glasses clinking together in a toast to the new product.

The hostess then raised her glass again and offered another toast.

"To Ripple Pagan Pink wine, the future of wine, and the success of our company. Cheers!"

The guests clinked glasses once more, their faces filled with joy.

As the evening drew to a close, the guests exchanged words of praise and gratitude. They expressed their appreciation for the hard work and dedication that went into creating Ripple Pagan Pink wine.

"Ripple Pagan Pink wine is not just a wine, it is a symbol of our commitment to excellence and innovation..."
surfs up!

Brandon Wunder

Welcome ladies and gentlemen, this is a character called "Surf's Up!" and we're here to talk about some of the latest and greatest surf spots around the world. We're in Surf City, home to some of the best waves in the world, and we're here to bring you the latest news and trends in the surfing world.

As you can see, the waves are rolling in, and the surfers are out in force. The surfers are showing off their skills, and the waves are breaking beautifully. It's a great day for surfing, and we're here to bring you the latest news and trends in the surfing world.

Stay tuned for more updates and news from Surf City, and don't forget to check out our website for more information on the latest surf spots around the world.
The world premiere of

"TV OR NOT TV"

April 19 - 8 pm

CIVIC THEATER - SAN DIEGO

Produced by NORTHWEST RELEASING