Too Outrageous for Point Loma

Young Reporter Eaten Alive

In the 1977 World Series, Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Don Drysdale injured the New York Yankees with three complete game wins. At the 1978 San Diego Padres' Old Town Fish Ball, the same Drysdale, who was then a member of the Padres, was eaten alive by the young, enthusiastic writers of the San Diego Reader.

Too Outrageous for Point Loma

By CONNIE BRUCK

She had been too long associated with the December tradition when the Christmas concerts at Point Loma Nazarene University were held there, the time of the year when, a few weeks before Christmas Day, the sun sets over the ocean and casts its golden glow on the beach, the mist rolls in from the sea, and the sound of distant surf can be heard in the distance. It is a time when many people gather to watch the sunset and enjoy the beauty of nature. It is also a time when Point Loma Nazarene University holds its annual Christmas concerts, which are attended by thousands of people from all over the world.

Mr. Harris, head of the music school at Point Loma Nazarene University, describes the concerts as a way of bringing people together to celebrate the spirit of Christmas. He says that the concerts are a way of giving back to the community and a way of showing the university's commitment to music education.

Mr. Harris, who has been teaching music at Point Loma Nazarene University for over 30 years, is a well-known figure in the choral music world. He has conducted many of the university's music ensembles, including the choir, the orchestra, and the symphony orchestra. He is also a frequent performer on the concert stage, both as a conductor and as a soloist.

The concerts at Point Loma Nazarene University are always a highlight of the Christmas season. They are a time when people come together to enjoy the music and to celebrate the spirit of Christmas.
This is California and we don't have spittoons here.

Deep downtown San Diego is a hotbed of sweat and spit. After all, how can you expect anything less in a city where sweat and spit are as common as the day is long? This is the land of the Chicago Bulls, and in a city where sweat and spit are as common as the day is long, how can you expect anything less in a city where sweat and spit are as common as the day is long?

In 1935, the Navy brought Walter H. Clark from Charleston to San Diego. It was to be his home, and he was to remain there for the rest of his life. In 1962, he was named the first mayor of San Diego, and he served for 18 years. Clark has been a powerful force in the city's development, and his legacy lives on in the many parks, schools, and other public facilities that bear his name.

Clark has been a force for change, and he has never been afraid to fight for what he believes in. In 1963, he led the fight to keep the naval base in San Diego, and he was successful. Clark has been a tireless advocate for the city, and he has never let anything stand in his way. In 1966, he led the fight to keep the base in San Diego, and he was successful. Clark has been a tireless advocate for the city, and he has never let anything stand in his way.

No one shares his pot with strangers anymore

Punch-out at the Rock Chow

TED BECK

I closed my eyes and tried to remember the first time I saw the group. Three years ago, Jefferson Airplane was playing at a small club downtown. I went with a friend, and we were both blown away by their performance. The band was tight, and the music was so powerful, I could feel it right down into my bones.

But the thing I remember most about that night was the pot. It was right there on stage, right in front of us, and the band members were sharing it with each other. I mean, it was like they were doing it for the audience, you know? It was just so cool.

The next time I saw them was at a festival, and they had brought their pot along again. But by then, I had become more aware of the dangers. I had read about how drug use can influence a band's performance, and I didn't want to be around it anymore. So, I made a promise to myself never to see them again.

That promise lasted for years, until one day, I saw an ad for a Jefferson Airplane reunion show. I knew I had to go. It was their 50th anniversary, for crying out loud! I just had to see it with my own eyes.

The show was incredible. The band was as tight as ever, and the music was still powerful. But the pot was nowhere to be found. I guess they had learned their lesson.

And that's when I realized something. It wasn't about the pot. It was about the music. It was about the passion, the energy, the raw emotion. It was about the art of creating beautiful music.

So, I decided to give it another shot. I bought some tickets for the next show they were playing in my city, and I went. And I'm glad I did. It was amazing.

But I'm still careful. I don't want to be around it again. I want to enjoy the music, not the drug use. I want to be able to appreciate the art form without the distractions of drugs.

So, if you're thinking about seeing a band with a pot on stage, just remember, it's not about the pot. It's about the music. And if you're really into it, the music can transcend the drug use. It can connect you to the artists and the audience in a way that nothing else can.

So, go out and see a band. Just make sure it's worth your time.
