Lawrence Welk will probably kill me for this, but I found Paradise eight miles north of Escondido.

You get a different kind of feeling knowing that Lawrence Welk owns the place, rather than someone like, say Frank Sinatra.

—Glenn Grant

Lawrence Welk will probably kill me for this, but I found Paradise eight miles north of Escondido. You see, Mr. Welk owns Paradise, and he’s the one who runs it. That means that he’s the one who makes the rules, and if you break them, you get a letter from Mr. Welk’s lawyers. And if you don’t listen to the letter, Mr. Welk will come and get you. That’s how it works.

Paradise is a beach resort, and it’s one of the most luxurious places you’ll ever see. There are palm trees everywhere, and the sand is pure white. The water is crystal clear, and there’s a swimming pool that’s bigger than a football field.

You can stay in one of the luxurious bungalows, or you can stay in a hotel room. The prices are reasonable, and the service is outstanding. Mr. Welk’s staff is always ready to help you.

But beware: Mr. Welk is strict. He doesn’t tolerate any kind of bad behavior, and he’s known to send his private detectives to catch anyone who breaks the rules. In fact, Mr. Welk has a reputation for being one of the toughest people in the business.

So, if you want to have a great time in Paradise, just follow the rules. If you break them, you’ll get a letter from Mr. Welk’s lawyers. And if you don’t listen to the letter, Mr. Welk will come and get you. That’s how it works.

Garcia came into the ring young and exuberant, his thoughts of supporting "Chili". He stood straight, and except for his baby face, seemed physically equal to his opponent.
