Folk Festival in Your Own Home

If you prefer the traditional banjo tunes played on the mouth harp by Sam Hinson, you may think of the rendition of Peggy Seeger's feminist song "I'm Gonna Be an Engineer" not at a folk festival.

Matthew Alice

Dear Matthew Alice,

My brother just came home from a summer in Raga, California. He's brought a book he's written about every place a Roman community meets. Would you like to hear about it? Would you want to write about it in "Reader?"

Sincerely,

Gary Gorden

"I'm Gonna Be an Engineer" is a great song that only exists if you can't find or read the words. You can find an expanded version on the "Tale of the Hippo" and loads more in "The Troubadour Songbook". All these songs are written so well, and I'm so glad you found them.

As a reader of the festival that lasted more than a year and a half, the song was only one of the many that couldn't be obscured. The words are not hard to read. Whether or not you have seen the story, the original version of "Tale of the Hippo" is definitely worth a look.

Sincerely,

Gary Gorden
