Gold in Them Hills

The real radicals may well be the land developers, whose tendency is to tear everything down and start all over again.

— Robert Louis

If you are tired of fighting to save the last remnants of our natural environment, you may be interested in the efforts of the Save San Diego Wetlands group. The group is trying to save a large wetland area that is located on the San Diego Bay. The area is threatened by development, and the group is working to protect it.

The wetland is home to a variety of plants and animals, including several rare species. The group is working to educate the public about the importance of protecting this area and to lobby for the preservation of the wetland.

If you are interested in getting involved, you can contact the Save San Diego Wetlands group at their website: www.savewetlands.org.
Gold in Them Hills

I lived in Imperial Beach before I came here. To me, it meant hard substances, flat, dirt, people who drink beer and tell dirty jokes about their husbands and wives. Here, I think of green stuff, roses, birds.
