A Kingdom Bought and Sold

There had been many indications of the coming of the revolution, beginning with the day the bathtub in the upstairs bathroom fell through the ceiling of the basement below. Nobody was hurt, but it was clearly an omen.

This is the actual event that the "Kingdom" refers to in the comic strip. The bathtub falling through the ceiling is a symbol of the change that was about to happen.

The South Beach Forever of the downtown three blocks

was once the center of the city's night life is now a well-guarded
green with a par 5
hole. This is not unusual as most of the

this area

city's

In the early mornings, before the sun rises, the South Beach area is almost deserted. The only signs of life are a few people walking their dogs or enjoying the cool mornings.

The Early Birds
City Councilman John
Jones, who lives in the area,
says that the early morning hours are the best time to enjoy the South Beach area. He says that the area is peaceful and quiet, and that the early morning hours are the best time to take a walk or jog.

voted in favor of the budget, with only Councilman John

Jones says that the

planners that
the

Ah, you can see it was a kingdom. It wasn't a neighborhood, but a kingdom. There was a generous king, a handsome prince, a jester, a court of games and fun-loving subjects, plenty of food and drink.

There was the prince: a young man, tall, handsome, wearing a suit and tie. He was surrounded by courtiers, and the king was seated on a throne in the center of the room.

The prince spoke, "My lords, it is a pleasure to be here tonight. Let us enjoy the festivities and the good company." The courtiers erupted in applause.

The king stood, "Let us raise a toast to the prince, and to the joyous occasion." Everyone raised their glasses and drank.

As the night wore on, the prince continued to entertain the courtiers with his stories and wit. They laughed and talked, and the atmosphere was one of joy and celebration.

At the end of the night, the prince bade everyone goodnight and the courtiers dispersed. The prince walked back to his room, feeling content and satisfied with the evening's festivities.

SAN DIEGO OVERVIEW

But if you are a San Diegan you come back to where resistance is least: home, the ocean, San Diego. People have left this place and stayed away for years, to visit mam, to caudale, to rent, to upstate hospitals, but they do inevitably return.

Jill Watson

I don't want to show how long I've lived in San Diego, but I'll tell you it's been a long, long time. I was born here and I have no intention of leaving. I love this place. It's beautiful, it's warm, it's sunny, it's the perfect place to live. San Diego is a great place to raise a family, it's a great place to retire. I've seen a lot of changes over the years, but I've also seen a lot of growth. San Diego is a city that is constantly evolving, and I love that.

Jill Watson

The city has grown so much over the years, and it's been amazing to see the changes. From the old downtown to the new developments in the Gaslamp Quarter, San Diego is always changing and always growing. It's a wonderful place to live, and I'm proud to call it home.

Jill Watson

But there are some things that haven't changed. Like the ocean. San Diego is known for its beautiful beaches, and I love spending time by the water. Whether it's going for a swim, going for a walk, or just sitting on the sand, the ocean is a constant source of inspiration.

Jill Watson

And then there's the food. San Diego has some of the best food in the world, and I love trying new restaurants and exploring the local cuisine. From seafood to Mexican food, there's something for everyone.

Jill Watson

San Diego is a great place to live, and I'm glad I've been able to call it home for so long. I hope to continue living here for many more years to come.

At the College Area
MISSION HILLS

Many of San Diego's older areas such as Golden Hill have turned their large homes into multi-family dwellings, but Mission Hills residents have vigorously resisted rezoning.

TODD STEPH

The Shopper, 1526 Greenwood Ave, Mission Hills

It is rumored that San Diego's older areas are being changed to multi-family dwellings, but Mission Hills residents have been active in fighting against this change.

The residents of Mission Hills have been vocal in their opposition to the change, and have organized meetings and protests to try to prevent the rezoning.

Many of the homes in Mission Hills are large and have been passed down through the generations, and the residents want to keep them as they are.

Mission Hills has a strong sense of community, and the residents want to continue to live in a neighborhood with a sense of history and tradition.

The rezoning would allow for more commercial development in the area, and the residents fear that this would change the character of the neighborhood.

But all the residents in Mission Hills are not against change. Some see the rezoning as an opportunity to bring new life to the area, and to attract more businesses and visitors.

Some of the residents are also concerned about the potential for increased traffic and noise from the additional development.

It is a complex issue, and the residents are working to find a solution that will protect their neighborhood while also allowing for growth and development.
MIDDLETOWN

One day, one of the old ladies appeared in my backyard. She said she needed to sit for a while, so she did. My small daughter was enchanted and promptly got her a pillow—hoping for another visit, which never happened.

FRONT STREET

We moved the Gilberts, and we've since hired two house-sitting friends, the Young Family. The young man is the Young Man who lives in the library on 3rd and 4th Street, and the young woman is the Young Woman who lives in the children's section of the library. They are both very kind and helpful, and they make sure to give me all the updates on the books they've read.
