Environmental visitors could certainly cause more problems than the Gypsies currently cause, but they go about their business without the usual noise and drama. Some visitors have even been known to adapt to the environment and become more respectful of the local定制 and culture. This year, the environmental visitors have been particularly noticeable on the weekends, when they set up tents and seem to enjoy the natural beauty of the area.

If the Gypsies political anger is looking for an outlet, perhaps the money-hungry politicians should be the ones to blame. Gypsies have been known to spend money on unnecessary items, which could be better used to help the community. The solution might be to create a special fund for Gypsy needs, with the money from fines and other penalties going towards improving the community.

Letter to the Editor:

San Diego Union Letter to the Editor:

November 28, 1975

Dear Editor:

Regarding your recent editorial on the issue of bilingual education, I would like to express my strong disagreement with its stance. The editorial argues that bilingual education is unnecessary and that English should be the sole language taught in schools. However, I believe that bilingual education is crucial for the success and well-being of both English-speaking and non-English-speaking students.

Firstly, bilingual education helps to bridge the language gap that often exists between students and their teachers. By providing instruction in their native languages, students can better understand and engage with the material being taught. This leads to improved academic performance and a more positive attitude towards learning.

Secondly, bilingual education promotes cultural awareness and understanding. By exposing students to their own cultural heritage, as well as the cultures of others, they develop a greater appreciation for diversity and the importance of respecting differences.

Finally, bilingual education prepares students for the globalized world in which we live. With increasing international interactions and the need for multilingual communication, the ability to speak and understand multiple languages is an invaluable asset.

In conclusion, I urge the San Diego Union to reconsider its position on bilingual education. In doing so, it can contribute to a more inclusive, culturally sensitive, and academically successful educational system for all students.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

happy. They didn't want to then they had to go out into about pain and sorrow. They learned that life is not easy.

MATTHEW ALICE

Dear Matthew Alice,
Why do dogs howl at sirens?
R. D. Davis
Goleta, CA.

Opinion differs. Some veterinarians say some dogs react to sirens because the noise is like a growl and it's hard for the dog to understand. But the answer is not always as simple as it sounds. Some dogs may not realize the noise is meaningful. However, it's best to think of dogs as animals that have a sense of smell and hearing. They are also sensitive to the sounds of sirens.

Dear Matthew Alice,
I know it may sound silly, but I am curious about the science behind it. Do you have any information about why dogs might react to sirens?

They Shoot T-Shirts, Don't They?

BILL ORMONDS

They're in town to help up the ball with their feet, pounding the ground with their sticky shoes.

They have a set of rules to follow, and they must stay within the boundaries of the court. They shoot the ball with their feet, trying to keep it as close to the goal as possible. They must shoot at their opponent's goal, and if they succeed, the point is scored.

The game is played on a court, divided into two halves. Each team has five players on the court at any given time. The game is played in four 15-minute quarters, with a 10-minute halftime.

The game begins with a face-off, where the players try to win control of the ball. Once the ball is won, it can be passed or dribbled to a teammate. The team with the ball can try to score by shooting it into the goal.

Scoring is done by shooting the ball into the goal, and the team with the most goals at the end of the game wins. If the game ends in a tie, overtime periods are played until a winner is determined.

The game is played on an outdoor court, with a net stretching across the middle of the court. The decision to play outdoors is based on weather conditions and availability of indoor courts. The outdoor court is typically made of grass or dirt, and the net is set up to divide the court into two equal halves.

The game is played in the daytime, and the game may be stopped for breaks, such as halftime or rest periods. The game may also be stopped for rain or other weather conditions that make the court unsafe.

The game is played for fun and enjoyment, with the emphasis on teamwork and sportsmanship. The players are not paid, and the game is played in a casual environment. The players may be of different ages, and the game may be played by children, adults, or a mix of both.

The game is played in different locations, such as parks or community centers. The location of the game may depend on the availability of a court and the preferences of the players.

The game is a fun and exciting way for people to stay active and have a good time. It is a great way to get together with friends, family, or even strangers, and enjoy a friendly competition.
Comercio is in the air, all wrapped up with the carbon monoxide. An hour before, I naively assumed these vendors were desperately poor. Now it's clear that they are relatively prosperous. As long as the gringo keeps coming they've got a permit to make money.

The Location: 4161 Goldbach (369-0790)

Once upon a time there was a most unusual establishment. It was a place where the atmosphere was so unique that it attracted many of the city's most discerning diners. The decor was painted in artificial light and artificial colors, and the menu featured dishes that were as intriguing as they were delicious. The restaurant was so popular that it quickly became a favorite among the city's elite.

Of course, as is so often the case, as a group of patrons arrived they found that the restaurant was almost empty. They were not disappointed, however, for they knew that this was the perfect time to enjoy a meal. The lights were dimmed, and the atmosphere was relaxed.

As the evening wore on, the restaurant filled up with a crowd of people who were eager to enjoy a meal. The food was delicious, and the service was impeccable.

The restaurant closed at midnight, but for those who were fortunate enough to find a seat, the evening was one to remember.
