May The Best Memo Win

If local banking powerhouse Danny Miller has room for another award on his wall at the downtown Coliseum, he'd be hard pressed to find a more logical place than the California Governor's desk, where the bank is one of the largest depositors. Last week, Hodgesco made a move springing their 200-200 a day together and half, Eads lead publisher, particularly on the subject of the legislature. The chairman of the board of directors of the bank, Mr. Hodgesco, is clearly in search of a conspiracy mood. His response, scribbled in a memo and timestamped in yesterday's newspaper, "Somebody the read too fast. And we are...very close to..." His words were cut off by the phone ringing and dialed into the newspaper of the day.

The two men have not been seen since Hodgesco decided to oppose incumbent Mike Aoki in the 1975 election. In the article, the Democrat stated that he would hold a seat in the legislature.

Viscous Cycles?

A group of Mission Hills investors were denied a loan at a bank which fell into bankruptcy. The Bankers Loan and Trust Co. announced last week that it had suspended operations until further notice. The loan application, made by the investors, was for the purchase of a parcel of land in Mission Hills, a suburb of Los Angeles.

But the council granted the financiers an escape clause: if they can complete the necessary environmental review then they can proceed with the loan. On May 1st, the council will meet to consider the matter. In the meantime, a group of investors are appealing the council's decision to a higher court. They maintain that the council's decision was based on a lack of evidence that the project would benefit the community.

The path would lead from a nearby park to Mission Hills high school. The developers hope that the park will become a central feature of the community. The construction was halted when the Mission Hills residents voiced concern about the project, but the developers plan to restart construction in the near future.

I Hear You

Complaints on the wires (KFI's News) that the Los Angeles Police Department's "crime rate" is the highest in the city. I understand that a lot of the crime is committed by "muggers" and "beggars." The statistics are misleading because many of the crimes are committed by people who are mentally ill or suffering from drug addiction. If the police could focus on providing services to the homeless and those in need, the crime rate would decrease. I believe in the police but feel that their resources should be better used.

Jolly Roll Blues

I must say, I have never seen such a beautiful sight as a Jolly Roll Blues smokehouse in the city. The aroma of the wood smoke is delightful and the smell of the meat cooking is soothing. I would love to open a restaurant with the same ambiance.

Lodge Order

I read the newscast last night about the Lodge Order of the Dragon's Teeth. It was quite interesting and informative. I appreciate the efforts of the Lodge to keep the tradition of the Dragon's Teeth alive.

Saving Bread on Baked Goods

BARBARA NEST

Like the proverbial farmer’s daughter, the term-on-term strategy. "You get what you pay for." But in this case, we’re talking about the farm and the bakery. The "term-on-term" value of a loaf of bread depends on its production and suitability for the intended purpose. The bakery sector has been described as an "oasis" where the bread is baked fresh daily, as opposed to the mass-produced loaves that dominate larger supermarkets. The bakery offers a unique experience that can’t be replicated in larger chains. The freshness and variety at a bakery can’t be matched by pre-baked products. In this issue, we explore the world of freshly baked bread and why it’s worth paying a bit more for the real thing.

The other source of shelf-life issues is the packaging, with a growing trend towards plastic-free options that keep bread fresher for longer. This is crucial for health-conscious consumers who are increasingly looking for sustainable and eco-friendly options. But what about the cost? How much more are you willing to pay for fresh bread instead of a plastic-wrapped loaf?

The cost of fresh bread can be higher, but the benefits are worth it. The difference in taste and nutrition is significant, and the process of baking bread fresh ensures that it’s baked in a way that brings out the best flavor. In this article, we’ll explore the different types of fresh bread available, the benefits of fresh bread, and how to maximize its shelf life.

When comparing the cost of fresh bread to pre-packaged options, it’s important to consider the environmental impact. Fresh bread is generally more sustainable and has a lower carbon footprint than pre-packaged bread. The carbon footprint of pre-packaged bread is significantly higher due to the energy used in processing and packaging. Fresh bread, on the other hand, is baked fresh daily and requires much less energy to transport.

In conclusion, while fresh bread may seem like a luxury, the benefits it offers are worth the extra cost. It’s an investment in health, sustainability, and flavor that can’t be replicated by pre-packaged products. So, the next time you’re at the bakery, remember the value of fresh bread and the benefits it offers. It’s worth paying a bit more for something that’s fresher, healthier, and more delicious.
Jay J. and Me

JAY J. and ME

JAY J. AND ME

BY JAY J.

Jay J. was a very fine person in our time. Some of his exploits in the music biz are so well known and well documented that I don't feel the need to repeat them here. But the most interesting story about Jay J. that I know is certainly the one involving the famous chocolate-covered and wrapped mints.

It all started with a routine business meeting at the offices of the music label where Jay J. worked. The meeting was being conducted in a small conference room, with only a few people present. Jay J. was seated at the head of the table,给大家一个非常棒的开始。他坐得非常端正，给人一种非常正式的印象。 Governor Ross was seated to his left, while Governor Tim was seated to his right. Governor Ross was wearing a dark blue suit, while Governor Tim was wearing a light grey suit. Governor Ross had a serious expression on his face, while Governor Tim was smiling.

The meeting started with a brief overview of the company's financial performance for the quarter. Jay J. looked satisfied with the numbers, and everyone agreed that the company was doing well. The discussion then moved on to the upcoming tour schedule. Jay J. explained that the band was planning to tour Europe and the Americas, but there were some challenges to be addressed. Governor Ross suggested that they should consider hiring a PR firm to handle the promotion of the tour. Governor Tim agreed, adding that they should also consider using social media to reach out to younger audiences.

The meeting ended with a vote to approve the tour schedule and the hiring of a PR firm. Governor Ross congratulated everyone on a job well done. Governor Tim thanked Jay J. for his hard work and dedication. Jay J. thanked everyone for their support and promised to do his best to ensure the success of the upcoming tours.

As the meeting came to a close, everyone was invited to stay for a light lunch. Governor Ross and Governor Tim left first, followed by Governor Ross's assistant, who oversaw the catering arrangements.

The lunch was served in the company's cafeteria, with a variety of options to choose from. Jay J. ordered a grilled chicken salad, while Governor Tim had a grilled shrimp sandwich. Governor Ross had a grilled salmon sandwich.

During lunch, Governor Tim engaged in a light conversation with Jay J. about the company's future plans. Governor Tim expressed his hope that the company would continue to grow and expand its reach. Governor Ross added that he was confident in the company's ability to adapt to changing market conditions.

The meeting was adjourned at 12:30 PM, with everyone leaving the conference room in a cheerful mood.

In summary, the meeting was a success, with everyone working together to ensure the success of the upcoming tours. Governor Ross and Governor Tim expressed their confidence in the company's ability to continue growing and expanding its reach. Governor Tim also expressed his hope that the company would continue to invest in new technologies and innovative strategies to keep pace with the evolving music industry.

Passion Show

JONATHAN SAVILLE

Women hits - Vietnamese Man — a special show bringing the 70s of the Imperial era to the stage. Compared to new works and other age issues, women's issues are still at the forefront of cultural and social development. Women's liberation movements have had a significant impact on various aspects of society, including art and culture. This show brings us back to a time when women were still deprived of their rights and freedoms, and their struggles continue to inspire us today. The show features performances by female artists, including a dance performance by a Vietnamese troupe. The audience is invited to join in the celebration of women's liberation and the progress made in recent years.

She Is Woman

DUNCAN SHEPHERD

Mary is a character who struggles to define herself within the confines of her social and cultural context. Her life is marked by moments of triumph and struggle, love and loss. Through her experiences, she comes to understand the complexities of gender and identity. Mary's story is a testament to the strength and resilience of women in the face of adversity.

Marianne

Marianne is a woman who has faced many challenges throughout her life. From poverty to success, she has overcome obstacles to reach her goals. Her story is one of determination and resilience, showing that anything is possible with hard work and perseverance.

The news ad for this woman was sent out by the local newspaper to attract potential customers. The ad highlighted her personal journey and the various challenges she faced along the way. The newspaper aimed to increase her visibility and encourage people to support her business. The ad was placed in a strategic location to ensure maximum reach.

In summary, the show, the book, the ad, and the newspaper all have one thing in common: they celebrate the strength and resilience of women. Whether it's through art, literature, or community support, these platforms provide a platform for women to share their stories and inspire others to follow in their footsteps.

WHAT HAPPENED TO DANCE AND MUSIC?

DANCE AND MUSIC are the foundation of life. They are the essence of human experience. They are the way we communicate. They are the way we express our emotions. They are the way we understand the world. They are the way we create beauty.

This Week's Concerts

In the last year or so Hall and Oates and the Bee Gees have rocketed to stardom simultaneously, but both are very different in their approach to music. Hall and Oates are highly polished and produced, with a strong emphasis on harmony vocals. The Bee Gees, on the other hand, are more guitar-based and have a more raw, gritty sound. Both groups have been very successful, but they have also faced criticism for their formulaic approach to songwriting.

One of the most interesting concerts this week is the Montreux Jazz Festival, which is held in Switzerland. The festival features a wide range of artists from around the world, and has become a major event for jazz fans. The lineup includes many of the world's top jazz musicians, and the festival is known for its high-quality performances.

In addition to the Montreux Jazz Festival, there are several other concerts worth checking out. The Blue Note is hosting a night of blues with a number of local performers, and the New Orleans Jazz Fest is a must-see for anyone who loves jazz.

One of the most notable events this week is the release of the new Hall and Oates album, which is expected to be a big hit. The album features some of their most popular songs, as well as a few new tracks.

The Music Scene is compiled every Friday. Send information and photo's to MADE MAGIC 202-320-4557. fax (202) 320-4558. Photos and information must be received by the Monday before the Friday issue to insure publication.

Today, more people are changing career goals than any time in recent years.

Our fast pace of change has meant a "second career"—teachers, engineers, businesspeople, the retail and finance industries—of the "what do I want to do when I grow up" variety, are no longer acceptable. The old-fashioned idea that you can plan what you want to do for the rest of your life has been replaced by a more flexible approach to career planning. Now, you can change careers several times during your lifetime, and still be happy with the choices you made.

The key is to be flexible and open-minded. Be willing to try new things, and don't be afraid to make mistakes. Remember, the best place to be is in a field you love, and that you're good at.

YOU'VE FINALLY MADE IT.

It all started in the Sixties. You did the diets, scanned the fashions, and stayed yourself with a "no-maintenance" hairstyle. And then you wanted a change. In the Seventies now, you may be bouncing between hairstyle to hairstyle, from hairdresser to hairstylist. You get disappointed.

We know a lot more now, as we approach the Eighties. You begin to see what you want and know that you can have it. This is called awareness.

Now that you've made it...

THE READER PUZZLE

#9 Monogrammar

DON BURN

Combining a stylish Warriors fan deck display of some of the best works of time and a keen understanding of city, color, and design, we present the Reader's Choice Award. A picture of a perfectly beautiful girl could win $1,000, but you may not even own it. What could be more exciting than to have an eagle ever soar above lovely, yet unobtainable art? We are looking for a simple, yet elegant design to spell something absolutely unique. Perish the thought. We've tried to create a multi-dimensional jigsaw puzzle of sorts. One possible clue is the use of breaks in the projection of the letters to create a form that could exist in our world. The winner of this competition may not win $1,000, but he will win one of the Reader's prize packages. We're not sure if this is a gift from the heavens, but it's a gift from us. The winner of this competition is the next big thing.

Rules of the Game
1. All entries in the Reader's Choice competition must be received by the Reader's Deadline: January 1, 2023.
2. Entries may be submitted by mail or e-mail. The Reader's Deadline is January 1, 2023.
3. Entries must be original works of art and must be submitted in the Reader's Choice Prizes. The prizes will be determined by the Reader's judges.
4. Entries will be judged on the basis of creativity, originality, and overall appeal.
5. The winner of the Reader's Choice competition will be announced on January 1, 2023.
