Erode Is Erode

Tony Clark is standing in a building at 2230/240 Coalcliff Road, Erosion. He is looking out and the scene is chaotic. Long, low buildings stretch out into the distance. Trees are scattered throughout the area. Tony Clark is wearing a red shirt and black pants. He is talking about the situation with concern.

MATTHEW ALICE

Dear Matthew Alice:

I have been receiving your letters every other day for the past three months. I am a bit concerned about your progress. Have you been keeping up with your studies and writing? Your last letter was quite imaginative, but I feel it lacked substance. Is there anything you would like to share about your experiences so far?

Sincerely,

Dr. Matthew Alice

DANCE FOR ALL

SAN DIEGO INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

SHERWOOD HALL

La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art

The First Annual San Diego International Film Festival presents this year's slate of contemporary films from around the world - each a San Diego premiere.

For the Festival, San Diego Hall has been expertly equipped with a new, larger screen, a more sophisticated sound system, and a new, climate-controlled environment.

All films exhibited will be shown in English (except 27 and 29 A) in their original languages with English subtitles (except 27 A).
I take off my pack, my clothes, and dive into the nearest pool. Up and down the river, every fish in sight seems to be a trout. It is a fantastic sight, and I can't believe my luck. The river runs through a beautiful forest, with trees so tall that they almost touch the sky. The water is crystal clear, and I can see the fish swimming around in it. It is a perfect day for fishing.

I catch a few trout, and they are delicious. I eat them for lunch, and I feel so happy. I love being out in nature, and I feel so alive. I continue downstream, and I see more and more fish in the water. I can't believe how lucky I am.

I reach a point where the river opens up into a wide, open space. There are fields of wildflowers all around, and the air is filled with the sweet scent of them. I feel so alive and happy. I continue downstream, and I see more and more fish in the water. I can't believe how lucky I am.

PLAY IT AGAIN

JONATHAN BAYVILLE

William Russell Jeff Wood and Frank White in Moonflower (Chateau Center Stage)

It would be hard to imagine two more antagonistic personalities toward this type than those of donors William Russell Jeff Wood and Frank White, both of whom are portrayed by Jonathan Bayville. Mr. Wood (Russell Jeff) joins the play as a deep-thinking, unrepentant loser, with the manner of Frank N. Furter. At the end of the first act, the two are in a car, and Wood is to blather on about the pleasures of legalized prostitution, thus raising the ire of White, who cannot bear these words. The situationescalates, the delivery of the lines has a subtly comic, almost subliminally musical British drawl. Russell Jeff's voice is comically, literally next to nothing. The lines are comically, literally next to nothing. Each line is a droll, zany, funny, doozy. Russell Jeff's voice is comically, literally next to nothing. PLAY IT AGAIN

Once upon a time, somewhere between midnight and dawn, a young woman strolls onto the stage of life, her head held high, her eyes bright with possibilities. She is a dreamer, a creator, a maker of magic. She arrives on stage, her heart aflutter with the thrill of anticipation. The audience is silent, waiting for the moment that will spark their collective imagination.

She begins to play, her fingers dancing across the keys, each note a tale of joy and sorrow, love and loss. The music fills the air, a symphony of emotions that reaches deep into the hearts of those present. The audience is transported, lost in the world of the music, their minds and hearts opened to the beauty that she creates.

As the performance reaches its crescendo, the young woman takes a moment to reflect. She looks out into the crowd, seeing the faces of old friends and new, each one a part of her journey. She smiles, knowing that this moment is a gift, a shared experience that will stay with them forever.

As the music fades into silence, the young woman takes her final bow, a bow of gratitude and love. The audience erupts into applause, their voices a testament to the power of music to bring people together. The young woman steps back off the stage, her heart full of the memories of a night well spent.

I am a musician, and I have been blessed with the opportunity to perform in front of hundreds of people. Each time I step on stage, I feel a sense of excitement and nervousness, but it is the joy of sharing my music with others that keeps me coming back. I believe that music has the power to connect us, to bring us together, and I am grateful for the opportunity to be a part of that magic.

I hope that my music will inspire others to follow their dreams and to pursue their passions, no matter how big or small. It is my wish that each of us may find the joy and fulfillment that I have found in music, and that we may share that joy with others.

Thank you for being a part of this beautiful night. May we all find the music in our hearts, and may we continue to share it with the world.

You’re on the Right Track

By Don Rubin

Word families fast in your mind? Then you’ll want to try the Reader Puzzle #29 on the next page. Your goal is to find the six words out of the following that make sense and go together. The six words are: BOLT, NAIL, WRENCH, DRILL, SCREW, AND HAMMER. Write the words in the order they appear in the puzzle. If you’re stumped, you can find the answer on page 103 of the Reader Magazine.

The Harrows

Sveale Swell, Bold Rider, Citation, Lucky Dan and Swaps

The Jockeys

Pagan, Godiva, Vesuvius, Cragent and Cadero

The Colors

Green & Yellow, Red & Yellow, Orange & Green, Blue & Gold and Gray & White

The Race

11. "Sveale Swell will finish behind Godiva’s stoute but before the jockey wearing the orange and green colors, although none of the three will finish on top.

6. "Pagan will come in right behind the pack in the purple and yellow jockey who’s gotta finish two positions behind me. That’s who ain’t gonna win the race.

9. "Gray & White and gold has enough to beat Sveale Swell, but not enough to take first.

3. "Cragent will come in last, I know what I mean. Very hard to believe the purple and yellow jockey who comes in fourth ain’t gonna be carrying blue and gold as yet. And these won’t be the colors Bold Rider will be shown, either. Or Citation, for that matter.

5. "Green and yellow. What is going to finish second but not before the jockey wearing the green and white.
