CHRIST EXALTED IN TIJUANA!!

There is a pastor in Tijuana, Mexico who is greatly exalting Jesus Christ. His name is Jorge Castellanos. He came to an empty lot in La Mesa, Baja California — the outskirts of Tijuana — and gave two hundred dollars — down payment — and just began to preach on that lot without anything on it! Now he has a wonderful congregation there and a very nice church building. When he began to preach there, he placed a P.A. system high above. Even if the people from this neighborhood don’t come, they will have to hear his message anyway!

Pastor Jorge has now opened a motorcycle business downtown Tijuana at avedas negotes 7270 — between 3rd and 4th streets — and he is taking in alcoholics, drug addicts and men who don’t have a place to stay. Already he has over thirty of these men!! Jorge built a building where they are living. There they get a place to stay, food, a bed, a place for Christian training and many other benefits.

Because of his wide experience working in Tijuana, Jorge has been asked to undertake assignments as religious counselors by the local newspapers. He has written for the ABC newspaper (the car that was in the news recently because its former president, Jesus Blanco, was replaced) and Heredia newspaper. He is now writing a daily column for El Mexicano, the largest paper in Tijuana. And every Sunday, pastor Jorge has a fifteen-minute Spanish language program on Radio Caliente. It is called "The Seven Words," which is also the name of his daily column. Pastor Jorge has preached in the U.S. too in California churches such as Calvary Chapel of Costa Mesa; Maryknoll of Anaheim; San Antonio Episcopal in Oxnard; First Methodist of Los Angeles; also at the First Baptist Church of Las Vegas, Nevada and many others. He just returned from preaching at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church of Honolulu, Hawaii and Christian Missionary Alliance in the same city.

Pastor Jorge’s dreams is to preach Jesus’ message all over Mexico. He is training the men — he picks up the men — so that they will go to other cities of Mexico to present the Gospel of Jesus Christ. For this project, pastor Jorge wants you — who are reading this ad — to help him with your prayers, with food for his men, with vitamins, clothing, bedding and other necessities. Pastor Jorge is now also working with children who can’t go to school. He has some girls teaching these children how to read and write. Some are even learning English. These are close to one hundred children daily, many of whom come to class without shoes. Pastor Jorge just opened another church in Ensenada, Baja California.

We would need much more room than we have here to tell you all the many ministries pastor Jorge is handling now. For example: a printing press, and he says, "I want to cover Mexico with Gospel messages." To do this, all needs is prayer and light!

If you are a true reader — want to serve Jesus in a great way, here is a wonderful opportunity! Please contact pastor Jorge at:

PASTOR JORGE CASTELLANOS
P.O. BOX 3432
SAN DIEGO, CALIF. 92112

Or you may come to his service in Tijuana. This mission opens daily at seven P.M. and Sundays at five P.M. If you feel God leading you to send pastor Jorge a love offering, just make your check out to: TIJUANA CHRISTIAN CENTER and it will be deducted. We have been to visit pastor Jorge and seen God blessing him. He never passes the plate at any of his church meetings and the Lord miraculously supplies all of his needs. He was recently married and he and his wife have a beautiful two-month-old daughter. He wants not only your help but also your words of advice. If we did not feel strongly that God is with this cause, we would have never placed this ad. Pastor Jorge does not belong to any denomination. From his preachings, many have gone to attend different Christian church and he is happy about that.

God bless you.
Some Friends of Pastor Jorge.

Dear Marketing Desk,

While researching a production of Shakespeare's Globe Theatre in London, I was fortunate enough to visit the site of the old Globe Theatre, which was destroyed by fire in 1613. I was fascinated to learn that the Globe Theatre was not the only one in London, but rather one of several theaters that were popular in the Elizabethan era. The Globe was a significant landmark in the history of theater, and its reconstruction in the 1990s has allowed visitors to experience the excitement of watching a Shakespeare play performed in a setting similar to the one in which the plays were originally staged.

The Globe Theatre was built in 1599 and was situated on the south bank of the Thames River. It was designed by James Burbage, who also built the Curtain Theatre and the Blackfriars Theatre. The Globe was a circular structure with an open-air stage, and the audience stood or sat on the grass in front of the stage. Performances were free, and the audience was expected to contribute money to the actors to support them financially. The Globe Theatre was a popular place for a variety of performances, including political speeches, concerts, and even executions.

In 1613, the Globe Theatre was destroyed by fire, and it was not until the 1990s that a reconstruction project was initiated. The Globe Theatre was built using the original dimensions and materials, and it opened in 1997. The new Globe Theatre is a popular tourist destination, and it attracts visitors from all over the world who want to experience the excitement of watching a Shakespeare play in a setting similar to the one in which the plays were originally staged.

The Globe Theatre has been a source of inspiration for many authors and playwrights, and it has played a significant role in the history of theater. Its reconstruction in the 1990s has allowed visitors to experience the excitement of watching a Shakespeare play performed in a setting similar to the one in which the plays were originally staged. The Globe Theatre is a significant landmark in the history of theater, and it continues to attract visitors from all over the world who want to experience the excitement of watching a Shakespeare play in a setting similar to the one in which the plays were originally staged.

Yours truly,

Matthew Alice

The Schnitzel of My Youth

The schnitzel was a triumph; the meat was tender and the sauce was rich and flavorful. The potatoes were fluffy and the vegetables were cooked to perfection. The overall dishes were well-presented and satisfying.

Eating out at Coli Vino

The restaurant was bustling with activity as we arrived. The ambiance was warm and inviting, with soft lighting and comfortable seating. The staff was friendly and attentive, ensuring a pleasant dining experience. The menu was diverse, offering a variety of options to suit different tastes. The dishes were carefully prepared, and the presentation was elegant. The prices were reasonable, making it an affordable option for a night out.

Overall, Coli Vino provided a delightful dining experience with delicious food and a pleasant atmosphere. It is definitely worth a visit for anyone looking for a great meal in a comfortable setting.

The decision of the Los Angeles Symphony to invite David Atherton to conduct its music is welcome news. Mr. Atherton is a revelation. He has given us a reminder of the superb quality of the younger generation of conductors and he will be able to demonstrate his skill, grace, and personality. I believe that he is an excellent choice to conduct the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra has been under his direction and it has been noted that under his leadership the orchestra has shown a remarkable improvement. Mr. Atherton is a conductor of great talent and a great conductor. He is a conductor who has the ability to bring out the best in every musician, no matter how young or how experienced. He is a conductor who is always striving to improve his conducting and to bring out the best in every performance. The Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra is fortunate to have him as their conductor. I believe that he will bring a new level of excitement and enthusiasm to the orchestra. His conducting style is dynamic and exciting. He is a conductor who is always looking for ways to improve his performances and to bring out the best in every musician. His conductorial work is a delight to watch and he is a conductor who is always looking for ways to improve and to bring out the best in every performance. I believe that the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra is fortunate to have him as their conductor.

As you do the free-for-all on your way to work in the morning, you're spewing out 3.69 grams per mile of hydrocarbons and oxides of nitrogen. This may not seem like much, but studies have shown that San Diegoers drive a total of 11.25 million miles every year. In this article, we'll explore the reasons behind this phenomenon and discuss some potential solutions to reduce the environmental impact of our transportation habits.

Robert Smarr

Brown says that despite the strong winds, the grass was a problem in Alpine. The natural breeze sweeps the dry leaves into the crevices of Alpine's narrow streets. Because the city has a large population of older people, there are many driveways that are not accessible to trucks, which makes it difficult to clear the leaves. However, the city is working on ways to improve this situation. In the meantime, residents are encouraged to take responsible action to keep their driveways clear and prevent the spread of fire.

When driving in San Diego, you may notice the city's commitment to reducing pollution. Public awareness campaigns and initiatives have been launched to promote the use of alternative fuels and reduce the overall carbon footprint. San Diego is a leader in sustainability, with a strong focus on clean energy and environmental conservation.

For the San Diego community, two branches of state government are currently responsible for setting and enforcing regulations to control pollution. The California Air Resources Board, which is responsible for setting pollution standards, monitors air quality and enforces regulations on local governments. The San Diego Air Pollution Control District, on the other hand, is responsible for setting and enforcing regulations on local businesses and residents. These agencies work together to ensure that pollution levels remain within acceptable limits.

As local businesses and residents continue to work towards reducing pollution, the city of San Diego is committed to providing resources and support to help make this goal a reality. With the help of these initiatives and partnerships, San Diego is making progress in reducing pollution and improving the quality of life for all its residents.

Sensitivities

Two days after the San Diego's Air Pollution Control District issued an alert on local conditions, residents began noticing an unusual smell in the air. The smell was described as a mix of sulfur and smoke, and it was first detected in the early morning hours. The source of the smell was not immediately clear, and it was speculated that it could be related to a nearby industrial facility. However, the city's public health department reassured residents that there was no immediate danger and that the smell was not a cause for concern.

The incident raised questions about the city's ability to monitor and respond to air pollution events. Some residents expressed concern about the lack of communication and transparency in the city's air quality management system. They called for more information and public involvement in decision-making processes.

In response to these concerns, the San Diego Air Pollution Control District has launched a series of initiatives to improve public engagement and transparency. These initiatives include regular updates on air quality conditions and the results of pollution monitoring, as well as public forums to discuss air quality issues and solutions.

Overall, the incident highlights the need for continued efforts to improve air quality management in San Diego. By working together with the community, the city can take steps to reduce pollution and create a healthier environment for all.

The city has recently opened a new park that is designed to promote active transportation and reduce pollution. Known as the San Diego Riverwalk, the park features a network of bike paths and pedestrian walkways along the river. The park is a popular destination for residents and visitors alike, and it provides a healthy and sustainable alternative to driving.

The San Diego Riverwalk is just one example of the city's ongoing efforts to reduce pollution and improve quality of life. By promoting active transportation, the city is encouraging residents to make healthier choices and reduce their impact on the environment. This is a positive step forward in creating a more sustainable future for San Diego.
Take My T.V.—Please...

By Eleanor Widmer

The old story comes around more about their frustrations with family and everyday life. Jack Benny had his Maxwell car and was too rich to drive it. But what he needed was a new car. He had a Jaguar, but it was too expensive. He had a Rolls Royce, but it was too fast. He had a Ferrari, but it was too small. He had a Lamborghini, but it was too loud. He had a Bentley, but it was too slow. He had a Porsche, but it was too sporty. He had a Mercedes, but it was too stuffy. He had a Zenvo, but it was too exotic. He had a Bugatti, but it was too expensive. He had a Lamborghini, but it was too fast. He had a Ferrari, but it was too sporty. He had a Porsche, but it was too slow. He had a Mercedes, but it was too stuffy. He had a Zenvo, but it was too exotic. He had a Bentley, but it was too loud. He had a Rolls Royce, but it was too fast. He had a Jaguar, but it was too expensive.

The story goes on, but the point is that Jack Benny was never satisfied with what he had. He always wanted something better. He always wanted something more. He always wanted something different. He always wanted something more exciting. He always wanted something more luxurious. He always wanted something more elegant. He always wanted something more stylish. He always wanted something more extravagant. He always wanted something more exclusive. He always wanted something more luxurious. He always wanted something more elegant. He always wanted something more stylish. He always wanted something more extravagant. He always wanted something more exclusive.

The story is a metaphor for the human condition. We are never satisfied with what we have. We are always looking for something better. We are always looking for something more. We are always looking for something different. We are always looking for something more exciting. We are always looking for something more luxurious. We are always looking for something more elegant. We are always looking for something more stylish. We are always looking for something more extravagant. We are always looking for something more exclusive.

The story is a reminder that we should be grateful for what we have. We should be content with what we have. We should be satisfied with what we have. We should be happy with what we have. We should be satisfied with our lives. We should be grateful for our family. We should be grateful for our friends. We should be grateful for our health. We should be grateful for our possessions. We should be grateful for our opportunities. We should be grateful for our experiences. We should be grateful for our lives.

If John Williams’ score to The Godfather is the soundtrack for the Godfather, then the score to The Godfather Part II is the soundtrack for The Godfather Part III. The same goes for the novel. The novel is a sequel to the movie, and the music is a sequel to the score. The sequel is better than the original. The sequel is more interesting. The sequel is more exciting. The sequel is more suspenseful.
Try, Try Again

DUNCAN SHEPHERD

On the most recent time that I have been appointed to what has been officially defined the "Special Editions" of "Close Encounters," I have been there only after getting down to the studio, and reading the script. The plot of the story is simple: a couple of aliens from another planet visit Earth, and the world is divided into two sides: those who believe in the existence of extraterrestrial life and those who do not. The film is about the relationship between the two sides and how they learn to coexist.

The critical aspect of what Spielberg has done would never have occurred to me if I had been there for the most recent "Close Encounters." It would have been a different story. In the film, the aliens are portrayed as benevolent creatures, and the relationship between the two sides is based on mutual respect and understanding. The film is a powerful commentary on the importance of open-mindedness and tolerance.

It is important to note that "Close Encounters" is not perfect. There are some scenes that are slow and not as engaging as they could be. The film's length is also an issue, as the story could have been told in less time. However, overall, the film is a masterpiece and a must-watch for anyone interested in science fiction and the science of human behavior.

The film stars Richard Dreyfuss and Teri Garr as a couple who experience a near-death experience and encounter the aliens. The acting is excellent, and the chemistry between the two actors is believable. The aliens are portrayed by Tim Robbins, who delivers a subtle and convincing performance.

In my opinion, "Close Encounters" is a classic of the science fiction genre and a testament to the power of cinema. It is a film that will continue to be relevant for generations to come.

THE READER PUZZLE

No. 121 Spaced Out

Rules of the Game

1. Prizes for solving the Reader Puzzle will be awarded at random.

2. All entries in the Reader Puzzle competition must be mailed in full to Reader Puzzle, P.O. Box 10663, San Diego, CA 92136, no later than Friday night, April 30th, 1988. All entries must be postmarked by this date.

3. A maximum of 20 entries per person will be accepted. If there are more than 20 entries, the first 20 to arrive will be selected for prizes.

4. Entries must be accompanied by a name, address, and area code of U.S. M.L. to ensure eligibility.

5. In the event of disputes or technical malfunctions, the decision of the judges will be final, and advisory. We reserve the right to modify the rules at any time.

6. All entries must be accompanied by the entry form and must be postmarked by April 30th, 1988.

7. The entry fee per person.

Instructions for Solving

Winners of said Answers to Reader Puzzle #121, Spaced Out, will receive prizes as follows:

1. 1st Prize (10): A complete set of the Reader Puzzle book plus a one-year subscription to the Reader Puzzle magazine.

2. 2nd Prize (20): A Reader Puzzle notebook and a Reader Puzzle pencil.

To solve the puzzle, you must:

1. Solve the puzzle by finding the word that is hidden within the grid.

2. The word is a palindrome, meaning it reads the same backward as forward.

3. The word is a 7-letter word that is commonly found in a crossword puzzle.

4. The puzzle is divided into 4 sections, each containing a set of letters that spell out the word.

5. The letters are arranged in a specific order, and the word is hidden within the grid.

6. The word is hidden in the following sections:

- Section 1: Across letters A, C, and D
- Section 2: Across letters E, F, and G
- Section 3: Across letters H, I, and J
- Section 4: Across letters K, L, and M

7. The word should be written in the spaces provided to form the complete word.

Good luck and have fun solving the Reader Puzzle #121, Spaced Out!
