City Lights

The Mailman Moveth

Where once the residence of this man and his trusty steed, the San Francisco post office, now stands a bustling array of businesses and offices. The building once housed the post office, but it is now home to a variety of tenants. The sign on the building reads "City Lights," which is a nod to the neighborhood's name.

The neighborhood, known for its vibrant nightlife, is now also home to a new post office. The historic building, which was formerly the post office, has been repurposed and now houses offices and businesses. The change has been met with mixed reactions, as some residents appreciate the new use, while others miss the post office.

Many people who used to rely on the post office for their mail delivery now have to visit the new location, which is located on the other side of the neighborhood. Some residents have expressed concern about the loss of the historic building and the change in the neighborhood's character.

The new post office, which is located on the corner of Market and Sutter streets, has been decorated with artwork by local artists and features a large mural of the city skyline.

DUNCAN SHIPHEIMER

What am I feeling in the aftermath of the third San Diego Film Festival might be described as a sense of shock. I think it's a combination of everything. After all, it's the only event in the city where I feel I belong. As much as I hate to admit it, I was feeling a little dejected. But then I realized that the festival is more than just an event. It's a community, a place where people come together to share their passion for film. And that's what makes it special. So I decided to take a break from my usual routine, grab a coffee, and allow my subconscious to take over. The result was this essay. I hope you enjoy it.

NORTH COUNTY'S UNDISCOVERED SECRET
...or, how to have a great time without getting sand in your hair.

TO BEACH OR NOT TO BE
North County has always been known for the beach, sun, sea, great people... and a pretty, calm, and quiet life. Not much of a world outside, in fact, and well, nobody would want to be left behind.

GO EAST, YOUNG MAN
If you're inclined to break free of the beach, you might be able to find a little bit of culture. We've got it at the Campus Ballroom, and north of Encinitas Boulevard. And guess what? It's 4:20 of The Great Funkadelic Lakes at 2:00 a.m. Enjoy your cultural horizons, and see the other half does it up.

RED HOT TUESDAY FEAST DAY IN BEACH
Did you hear about the new food craze? Hottest new restaurant in town, no joke. It's called Red Hot Tuesday Feasts, and you can find it right here.

GOIN' UP THE COUNTRY
JOIN THE "TEXAS KAYLERS" on Sunday, Monday, and Thursday nights, and "go down" in some of the finest country drinking dancing that is.

THE READER PUZZLE

No. 162 Locomotion

By Don Boblitz

We're hearing of several sorcery-related incidents in the area, and we're trying to get to the root of the problem. The reader is asked to solve the puzzle by suggesting methods of enforcing regulations of the sorcery-related incidents.

We've put out the call all over the sorcery, and people are turning up and your work will be on the page within the dotted lines.

Rules of the Game:

1. Prices for solving the Reader Puzzle will be Reader Timetables.

2. All entries in the Reader Puzzle must be received by the Reader (addressed to Reader Puzzle, E.O. Box 80093, San Diego, CA 92136) no later than Friday, eight days from the date of publication.

3. All entries must be accompanied by your name, address, telephone number.

4. Entries of the Reader Puzzle that are submitted:

5. In the event of dispute or tie, decisions of the judges will be final and binding. We've got quite a few people in on this one, so we'll have a winner.

6. All entries must be accompanied by the proper stamped self-addressed return envelope.

7. One entry per person.

Women's and Men's Answers to Reader Puzzle #162:

Women's Answers:

1. The answer to the reader puzzle is "air," and the rule is "air is the only element that can sustain life in the absence of oxygen and is essential for the survival of all living beings."
