No Time

The drama first appeared in the scientific literature in February 1989, when nine patients were described with a rare and peculiar syndrome. The patients, all female, were between 16 and 65 years old and had undergone a range of treatment, including radiation, chemotherapy, and hormone therapy, for breast cancer. They all presented with symptoms of severe fatigue, weight loss, and muscle wasting. The doctors who treated them described the patients as "having lost all sense of time," and they noted that the patients often had difficulty remembering the past and the future, and the present was a blur.

The syndrome was named "Ehlers-Danlos syndrome, type IV" after the two scientists who first described it, Mary Ellen Dant and David Dant, who had a daughter with the condition. The syndrome is characterized by a lack of awareness of the passage of time, a lack of memory, and a lack of the ability to plan for the future. The patients also have a range of other symptoms, including difficulties with language, motor function, and the ability to understand and process information.

The syndrome is thought to be caused by a mutation in a gene that regulates the production of a protein called FBN1, which is involved in the production of collagen, a protein that gives structure to the skin, muscles, and connective tissue. The mutation leads to a lack of collagen, which can cause the symptoms of the syndrome.

The syndrome is rare and is estimated to affect fewer than 1 in 100,000 people. There is no known cure for the syndrome, and the patients are usually managed with supportive care, including physical therapy, occupational therapy, and medication to manage the symptoms.

In conclusion, Ehlers-Danlos syndrome, type IV, is a rare and unusual syndrome that affects the ability of patients to experience time and the passage of time. The syndrome is caused by a mutation in the FBN1 gene and affects multiple systems in the body. While there is no known cure, supportive care can help manage the symptoms and improve the quality of life for affected individuals.

I'll tell you a story. It's the story of a man who didn't have time, and who didn't have any money. His name was John Smith, and he lived in a small town called Edgewater. John was a hard-working man, but his life was filled with so much stress and pressure that he didn't have a moment to spare. He was always busy, always on the go, and always in a hurry. He was constantly rushing, always trying to do more than he could handle. And yet, he didn't have any money to show for it. He was always broke, always struggling to make ends meet.

John's story is a common one. It's the story of a man who is so busy trying to get by that he doesn't have time to think about his personal life. He's always looking for ways to make more money, to keep his head above water. But in the end, he's just running on empty. He's tired, he's stressed, and he's always looking for a way out.

But there's one thing that John didn't have, and that's time. He was always in a rush, always trying to get things done. And yet, he didn't have any money to show for it. He was always broke, always struggling to make ends meet.

Around Downtown

Four years ago, I poured the word about Christmas to a large audience of downtown in Fishtown and Market Square. That's how I first found my way into the music business. It was still early in the season, and I was covered with both sheets and newspapers to hold the wind at bay. I was barely able to keep my voice down, but I was doing my best to make sure that everyone heard the music. After all, we were all trying to keep warm.

Somewhere In The Cello Section

The jazz is full of life and energy, the excitement of people moving and dancing. The music is lively, and the atmosphere is electric. It's a great place to be, and I can't wait to return next year.
If you think "pads and rollers" are just a California craze, you're not ready for New Memorex.

Pads and rollers are key components of a cassette's tape transport system. The pads ensure the tape passes even when your deck is off. The rollers help keep the tape even when the head is off. Without these parts, your cassettes would be at risk of becoming damaged or unplayable.

The New Memorex tape transport system is precision-engineered to reduce wear. Our unique anti-friction system minimizes friction and wear, keeping your tapes in top condition.
If you think “pads and rollers” are just a California craze, you’re not ready for New Memorex.

Pads and rollers are key components of a cassette's tape transport mechanism. These components guide the tape path and ensure that the tape is fed smoothly. A common misconception is that memorex tape is newer than newmemorex tape. However, this is not the case.

The New Memorex tape transport system is a patent-protected technology that eliminates problems with roller noise and reduces wear. Our unique ultra-thin flexi-ribbon provides high-speed recording without the risk of damage to your tape. With New Memorex, you can enjoy clearer, more audio-quality recordings and playback.

METAL V. don’t forget the importance of these pads and rollers. Enjoy the music at the tape glides, but remember it’s all about the pads and rollers. If you want to see the future of audio, check out New Memorex today.

HUM VS DRUM
Look yourself in a room and smoke a few of your regular cigarettes.
Hmnn, right?

Now come out and turn on the stereo. Pour yourself a nice cool beer. Then open a pouch of DRUM. Roll the rich, imported tobacco into our slow,
even burning DRUM paper. Now light up. There are 32 more surprisingly mild smokes where that came from.

And if that still bores you,
maybe you should consider rolling
a DRUM in one of the following places:
A roller coaster in a 6-62. On water skiis.
In your Astroman. In Sequoia, New Jersey.

Break away from the pack.
