Soil, Water, Light, & Money

The next time you pin a carnation to your lapel, or sniff at a rose, pause a moment to reflect on North County's flower farmers, their woes, their struggles, and their healthy bank accounts.

The Death Of Bear

Bear died a week ago. I was at the beach, hanging out with my friends, when a friend told me she had heard that Bear was dead. I was shocked. I had no idea what had happened. I went home to check, and my friend was right. Bear was dead. I was heartbroken.

I had known Bear for a long time. She was my best friend. We had been together through thick and thin. She was always there for me, no matter what. I couldn't believe it. I couldn't believe that Bear was gone. I couldn't believe that I would never see her again.

I tried to comfort myself with the thought that Bear was in a better place. I tried to remember all the good times we had together. But it was too late. Bear was gone, and there was nothing I could do to bring her back.

I don't know what I'll do now. I don't know how I'll manage without Bear. She was my everything. I'll miss her more than anything in the world.

LETTERS

Now, because of the "dead zone" where the radio waves are not transmitted, we have no way of knowing when our neighbors' music might be too loud. Also, we have no way of knowing if it is nighttime or in the middle of the day when the neighbors are playing their music.

To the Editor: Yes, I have a "dead zone" as well. I live on the northeast side of San Diego. I have neighbors who play loud music at all hours of the day. It is not just the beat of the music that is annoying, but the bass. It reverberates in my house and makes it impossible to hear conversation.

NEW YORK TO LE POINT

The article "New York to Le Point" suggests that the new director of the arts and culture in New York is planning to implement reforms to improve the city's cultural institutions. The new director, who was recently appointed, is expected to focus on increasing funding for arts programs and reducing bureaucracy. The article also mentions a recent controversy over the appointment, with some critics arguing that the new director is not qualified for the position.

Letters to the Editor

Killer Remains At Large

Congratulations on obtaining a parking space on Branciforte Avenue. "The Time is Now," June 21. I have read with disinterest the parking space discussion. I will take my chances at the expense of my neighbors' welfare.

NEW YORK TO LE POINT

Now They Know

My congratulations to my dear friend, Dr. Smith, on her recent appointment as the new director of the arts and culture in New York. It is well-deserved, and I am confident that she will bring new life and energy to the city's cultural institutions.

New York to Los Angeles: Dr. Smith's appointment as the new director of arts and culture has been met with universal praise. New York Times, June 21, 2023.

Soil, Water, Light, & Money

But they will grace some wedding or the same dining room or the same organization on any given day. All of which is to say that there is an art to gardening, and it is worth noting. It is not only what is grown that counts, but also how it is grown.

The next time you are at a garden center or a nursery, look around. You will see plants of all shapes and sizes, some of which are perfectly healthy and thriving, while others are struggling. The difference is often a matter of how they are being treated - whether they are receiving enough water, sunlight, or fertilizer. And it is these factors that can make all the difference in the world when it comes to growing healthy plants.

The soil is the foundation of any garden, and it is important to choose the right type for your plants. Many nurseries and garden centers offer soil testing services to help you determine the best type of soil for your specific needs.

Water is another crucial factor in growing healthy plants. Most plants need a good amount of water to thrive, but too much or too little can be harmful. It is important to water your plants regularly and in the proper amount, taking into account the type of soil and the weather conditions.

Light is also essential for healthy plant growth. Some plants need a lot of sunlight, while others thrive in shade. It is important to choose plants that are appropriate for your location and to provide them with the right amount of light.

Fertilizer is another important factor in growing healthy plants. Many plants need additional nutrients to grow properly, and fertilizers can provide these essential nutrients. However, too much fertilizer can be harmful, so it is important to use it in the proper amount.

There are many factors that can affect the growth of plants, and it is important to be aware of them and take steps to ensure healthy growth. By choosing the right type of soil, providing adequate water and light, and using the proper amount of fertilizer, you can help ensure that your plants thrive.

The nursery I am referring to is the one located on the corner of Main Street and State Road. It is a small little shop that I discovered one day while driving around looking for a new plant to add to my collection. The owner was very helpful and knowledgeable, and he showed me a variety of plants that would be suitable for my climate and growing conditions. I ended up buying a few plants and have been very happy with my purchase.

The nursery is open from 8:00 am to 5:00 pm, Monday through Saturday, and from 9:00 am to 4:00 pm on Sunday. They also have a website where you can browse their selection and order plants online. I highly recommend this nursery for anyone looking for healthy and beautiful plants.
Soil, Water, Light, & Money

The weather here is not always predictable, but one thing is for sure: it's not always sunny. The soil is rich and fertile, but it's also prone to droughts. The water is plentiful, but it's not always accessible. And the light is always changing, from the bright sun to the dense shade of the trees.

The key to success in this field is to adapt. You need to be flexible, to be able to change your approach as the conditions change. And you need to be patient, to wait for the right moment to act.

Of course, there are challenges. The soil can be tough to work with, the water can be erratic, and the light can be unpredictable. But these challenges are also opportunities. They force you to be creative, to think outside the box.

So if you're looking for a field where you can really make a difference, where you can really see the results of your work, then this is it. The weather here may be unpredictable, but the potential is vast.

Behind the wheel, Dr. Mordukhovich was noticeably uncoordinated as he drove down the middle of the road, ignoring all yield signs. "In Russia we drive on the right; in England on the left. So in California I drive in the middle so I should not be confused." The following day, long after our household had comfortably settled in to watch Moscow, there was a knock on the door. It was Dr. Vladimir Mordukhovich. "I think I recognized your face on the phone. You were my translator." He explained that he had called to inquire if we had any children, as he was seeking a translation for "the classics". "Can I have a ride in your car?" he asked. "I am Russian and I speak Russian, but I need to practice." We agreed, and he got in the car. He was wearing a dark, long-sleeved shirt and seemed very nervous. He began speaking rapidly, his words jumbled and hard to understand. We drove to the library, where he spent the next hour discussing the classics with us. He was very enthusiastic, but we were unable to comprehend much of what he was saying. We offered to help him practice in his native tongue, and he accepted. From that day on, we helped him practice his Russian, and he became a frequent visitor to our home. The experience was both challenging and rewarding, as we were able to share our love for literature and help a fellow countryman learn a new language.
Vladimir's Visit

The Dubai Museum's new exhibit, "Vladimir's Visit," showcases the personal items and artifacts of the late Russian composer and conductor, who visited Dubai in 1922. The exhibition features a range of objects, including letters, photographs, and musical scores, that provide insight into his time in the city. The opening ceremony is scheduled to take place on February 15th.

The King Is Mad

Jeff Smith

When he wrote King Lear, Shakespeare took a bold and unusual step for his time by following a plan that he had developed over the course of several years. This plan involved taking the basic elements of the story and then working on the words and the characters. He started by thinking about the different ways in which people think and understand the world. He then considered the possible moral consequences of these different ways of thinking and understanding. Finally, he considered how these consequences might be reflected in the characters and events of the play.

DUNCAN HENDERSON

The note of rejoicing to be heard in a variety of Rudder songs is perhaps a little sentimental. Any person who has not heard at least one Rudder series in their life is an affront. The song was born of the need to find a way to express the feelings of the workers, the laborers, and the folks who made up the heart of America. It is a song of hope and joy, the song of a people who have come together to face the challenges of life with a smile on their faces.

An interesting aspect of the song is that it is often performed in a variety of settings, from casual gatherings to special events. The lyrics are simple and direct, and the melody is easy to follow. This makes it a popular choice for both professional and amateur performers.

The song has been covered by many artists over the years, each with their own unique interpretation. Some have chosen to focus on the original message of the song, while others have added their own personal touches, such as additional words or a different arrangement.

Despite its age, the song continues to be a source of inspiration and enjoyment for many people. It speaks to the spirit of unity and the power of song to bring people together, no matter their background or circumstances.

Second screen. Through the window of the television, you can see the television set. The image is sharply focused on a white background. The picture shows a man standing on a hillside with a large field in the background. The man is looking off into the distance, seemingly deep in thought.

Master Satire

The theme: Donald Rumsfeld and Nancy were the first to arrive at the director's cut of the film. In fact, they were the last to arrive. Rumsfeld is a master of the art of film editing, and his presence on the set was a perfect complement to the director's vision.

The director: George Clooney is a master of the art of film direction. His previous projects, including the hit tv series "The Office" and the critically acclaimed "Olive Kitteridge," demonstrated his mastery of the craft. George Clooney's presence on the set was a testament to the quality of the film.

wax what? why wax?
You've probably read many ways to lighten or remove unwanted hair. Here are some tips on how to wax correctly:

- No stubble trouble
- Leave waxed areas smooth for weeks
- No unpleasant odors
- No ricks or cuts
- No embarrassing moments due to unwanted hair.

Come in for a free consultation or call Jennifer, our new specialist in waxing techniques.

THE READER PUZZLE

No. 162 Number One Sum

By Don Rabbit

The Reader Puzzle is a fun challenge that requires logical thinking and problem-solving skills. Each puzzle presents a scenario or a riddle that needs to be solved. The goal is to find the correct answer or solution to the puzzle. The puzzles are designed to be engaging and thought-provoking, offering a break from the routine of daily life.

Rules of the Game

1. All entries in the Reader Puzzle must be mailed to the Reader Puzzle, c/o the Reader, San Diego, CA 92110, or submitted online. Entries must be received by the deadline specified in the puzzle.

2. All entries must be accompanied by your name, address, and phone number for verification purposes.

3. The Reader Puzzle reserves the right to disqualify any entry that does not follow the rules or specifications.

4. The Reader Puzzle is not responsible for lost, late, or incomplete entries.

5. The Reader Puzzle is not responsible for any typographical errors or omissions.

Winners and Answers to Reader Puzzle #160, 4/28

According to our statistics, the winners of Reader Puzzle #160, 4/28, were selected from all entries received by the deadline. The winning entries will be announced in the next issue of the Reader Puzzle.

Lot of people figured they could get the answer wrong, and judging from the current entries (250 so far, compare 399),

This week's T.D.T. winners are:

1. Linda Holmes, Ocean Beach
2. Steve Baker, San Diego
3. Bob White, San Diego
4. Mary Lou Lipke, San Diego
5. Beryl Moyer, San Diego
