Matthew Alice

Dear Matthew Alice,

For some time now, I have been fascinated by the history of my hometown. Recently, I came across an old article about a house that was built in the early 20th century and recently restored. The story is quite remarkable and I thought you might be interested.

The house, known as "The Old Mill," was built in the style of a New England mill and was originally a working mill. It was converted into a private residence in 1920 and has since been restored to its original condition. The mill was once a popular stop for travelers on the old stagecoach route and is now a popular destination for tourists.

The house is surrounded by beautiful gardens and features a large stone fireplace and a wrap-around porch. The interior is furnished with antiques and period pieces and is a tribute to the mill's history.

I have attached a few photographs of the house for your reference. It's a wonderful example of historical preservation and a testament to the skills of the craftsmen who worked on it.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Under a forty, five-foot high wall of dense white wire, hundreds of small, sample-size fake flowers hang down through the perforated metal sheet that forms the rear fence. These flowers are interspersed with green plants, adding to the realistic appearance of the exhibit. A few fake elephants and giraffes are also present, creating a sense of depth and scale.

The exhibit includes several life-size models of animals, including a giraffe and several species of birds. A few of the birds are perched on branches, while others are in flight, adding to the dynamic nature of the display. The models are well-detailed, with lifelike features and colors.

In the background, there is a large screen displaying a video of a nature scene, further enhancing the educational aspect of the exhibit.

Overall, the exhibit is an impressive display of animal life, providing an immersive and educational experience for visitors.
Halloween is a favorite time of the year for me. It's a time when I get to dress up as someone else and enjoy the festivities with my friends and family. But this year, I decided to try something different. I went to a haunted house that was located in the middle of the city. It was a bit scary, but I enjoyed every minute of it. The costumes were amazing, and the actors were very good at their jobs. I was especially impressed by the last one, who jumped out at me and almost made me scream! Overall, it was a fantastic experience and I can't wait to go back next year.

EACH summer there's a very special attraction, but it's not an automatic sellout. It's a chance to see new and rare films. Mike Fortier is a cinemaphile and loves the film world. He's a member of the Los Angeles Film Critics Association, and he tells us that this summer's must-see films are:

1. Patton - Directed by Franklin J. Schaffner, starring George C. Scott and Audrey Hepburn, this film tells the story of General George S. Patton, Jr., who led the U.S. Army to victory in World War II. The film is a powerful portrayal of leadership and courage.

2. The Conversation - Directed by Francis Ford Coppola, starring John Cassavetes, this film is a psychological thriller about a private investigator who begins to suspect that his client is involved in a plot to assassinate the President.

3. The Sting - Directed by John Sturges, starring Paul Newman and Robert Redford, this film is a classic caper movie about two con artists who attempt to swindle a wealthy businessman.

4. The Exorcist - Directed by William Friedkin, starring Ellen Burstyn and Max von Sydow, this film is a horror classic about a young girl who is possessed by a demon.

5. Serpico - Directed by Martin Scorsese, starring Al Pacino, this film is a gritty crime drama about a police officer who exposes corruption within the NYPD.

These films are not only entertaining, but they are also thought-provoking and well-crafted. Be sure to check them out this summer!

On a musical note, Translator's debut album was the first for Analog Recordings, the label that has been known for its focus on electronic and ambient music. The album, titled "Translator," was released in 1996 and featured a blend of electronic and orchestral elements, creating a unique sound that set them apart from other artists in the genre.

The album, which was recorded in Hollywood and Los Angeles, has been described as a departure from the label's usual sound, but also a reflection of their commitment to pushing the boundaries of music. The album features tracks such as "New Light," "Translator," and "Metamorphosis," each showcasing the group's innovative approach to music.

For more information, please visit the Analog Recordings website at analogrecordings.com or follow them on Twitter @analogrecords.

REESTAURANTS

Are you fed up with lunch?

Day after day, the same stale, downtown routine. Well, here's some food for thought. You're only 5 minutes away from a couple of restaurants that will spice up your lunch life.

China Camp and Fat City Cafe. Both in the famous pink building.

China Camp's California style cooking blends authentic Chinese sauces, savory spices and herbs with entrees of meat, fowl and fish. Like our Chicken or Beef-in-Clay-Pot, Yak-A-Mein, or a Chinese Cowboy Steak Sandwich.

Fat City Cafe is a visual as well as culinary experience. You'll see glowing neon art in a high tech interior and a dazzling menu of over 75 items. Everything from Chicken Kiev to Fat City to a Wellington Burger.

So come in for lunch and bring the gang for business or pleasure.

Or even for your next office party.

There's plenty of free parking.
Now you can have a great time at lunch time.
But only if you change your eating habits.

THE READER PUZZLE

No. 2415, 2990

by Bob Robbins

The magic of the puzzle was created by combining the elements of the description using a hokey formula: one secret key and a second key connecting the words and sentences.

Under normal circumstances, of course, both the reader and the recipient would have copies of the key and only the recipient would have a copy of the second key. This kind of puzzle was to be kept.

If you can decipher the messages, then fill in the rest of the key at the top of the page.

Rules of the Game:
1. Place for solving the Reader Puzzle will be Reader Annex.
2. All entries submitted for the Reader Puzzle contest must be entered by the Reader Annex at 301 S. Broadway, San Diego, CA 92101 no later than 5:00 PM on the Friday following the entry date.
3. All entries must be accompanied by the name, address, and phone number of the person entering the Reader Puzzle contest and their immediate families.
4. In the event of disputes or ties, decision of the judge will be final and binding. No entry will be considered as tied or tied in any way. The decision of the judge will be final.
5. All entries must be received in the form described on the puzzle page.
6. One entry per person.
