HE BACKS THE BIGSHOTS

Somebody has to look after the interests of the Navy, SDG&E, and Pacific Telephone.

What's a chamber of commerce president for, anyway?

Twenty-five white caps were lined authoritatively straight and even on the lawn of the Ritz Carlton Hotel, which had been rented out for the night. Each man wore the gold band signifying his rank was a six-foot sailor, and each one's shirt was fitted with a gold braid. The men were standing in a semi-circle, their backs to the camera, as if posing for a formal portrait. Their white shirts and dark pants contrasted sharply with the soft, neutral tones of the chandeliers overhead. The room was dimly lit, creating an atmosphere of quiet dignity and authority.

The men were in high spirits, their voices raised in conversation as they laughed and joked. They were a diverse group, ranging in age from mid-thirties to late fifties, and each one seemed to have his own unique story. Some had served in the navy for years, their years of service etched into their faces. Others were newer arrivals, fresh out of the academy and eager to make their mark. But no matter their background, they were all united in their commitment to the cause of the navy, and to the country they served.

As the sun rose, the men were seen standing in a grand stairwell, their white uniforms gleaming in the light. They were arranged in a straight line, each man's face etched with determination and pride. Their eyes were focused on the camera, a silent testament to their dedication to the nation they served. The stairwell was wide and grand, its marble floors reflecting the light from the windows above. The men were perfectly still, their postures rigid and formal, as if posing for a portrait. But in their eyes, there was a spark of something more - a sense of purpose and duty, a sense of pride in their country.

Polaroid's "D Snap" picture-taking camera, in my opinion, is one of the most impressive devices ever developed. It's so simple and interesting, everyone who tries it can take a picture unlike any other. I think it is one of the best inventions in many years.

Bullfrog PREDICTION PREDICTED TO HIT LOCAL BEACHES THIS WEEKEND

The marine biologist predicts a surge of Bullfrogs currently swelling the world's ecosystems. This is the first time these creatures have been spotted outside their natural habitat. The Bullfrogs are expected to arrive in waves, potentially overwhelming local ecosystems. Residents are advised to prepare for a potential invasion.

San Diego's social scene got a lift this week when Mayor Bob Filner announced that he had added several new members to his staff. Among them is chief of staff Paul B. Volpe, who has been named to the new position of director of the city's Department of Housing and Community Development.

Volpe, who previously served as deputy mayor for housing and community development for the city of Los Angeles, brings a wealth of experience to his new role. He has worked on housing issues at both the local and national levels, and is well respected for his ability to develop innovative strategies for addressing housing needs.

Another addition to Filner's team is Chris McClellan, who has been named as the new director of the city's Economic Development Department. McClellan brings a strong background in economic development and has worked on numerous projects aimed at attracting new businesses to San Diego.

Filner also announced the appointment of Mary Ann O'Donnell as the new director of the city's Department of Transportation. O'Donnell has a long history of service in transportation issues and has been a strong advocate for improving San Diego's transportation infrastructure.

These additions are part of Filner's efforts to revitalize the city's social scene and improve its overall quality of life. With these new appointments, Filner is poised to make significant progress on these important issues.

Turn a few good ideas into major bucks and never leave your living room!

By Jeannette DeWyze

The image contains a mix of text and an advertisement. The main text discusses the idea of turning a business idea into a profitable venture, with a focus on wheelchair repair. The text also includes an advertisement for RICOH XR: S, the world's first SLR camera with a solar battery system. The overall theme seems to be about finding creative ways to make money from home businesses.

JEFF SMITH

British actress Joan Littlewood is in trouble for her new production, "Theater in the present tense." It is the second round of what the off-Broadway group of the London West End in London, the group had a string of successful shows, but the latest one is not performing as expected. The show is a collaborative presentation of the British theater company, which has been running in London for over 30 years. The production features a diverse cast, including established actors and newer talents. However, reviews have been mixed, with some critics praising the creativity and innovation of the production, while others have found it lacking in coherence and execution. The production is set in a partially constructed building, with audience members seated in chairs that are moved around throughout the performance. The show is intended to challenge traditional notions of theater and push the boundaries of what is possible on stage.

Stereo store closes its doors in San Diego.

Today, Friday, Saturday & Sunday
Rain or shine - under huge tent

Due to a struggling economy, a stereo store has closed its doors in San Diego. Mad Jack's has been authorized by this dealer to purchase stacks and stacks of inventory and sell it to the public at an incredible reduction in price. Audio, car stereo, portable TVs and Walkman types along with Mad Jack's stock from RCA, Panasonic, Alpine, Sony, GE, JBL and Hitachi must be sold.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be the sellout of the year. Come early for best selection because quantities are limited. To list the items for sale would be impossible because of the magnitude of the event.

Don't miss the sellout at the Sports Arena.
