What local comics do while waiting for the Tonight Show people to call.

Pat Cooper was sitting in the living room of his parents' West Park home one Sunday morning about six weeks ago, watching 'Tonight Show.' Randomly, Rodney Dangerfield walked up to Pat and said, "Hey, Pat, you"d better go up and tell him I was the funniest comic on the show."

Pat didn't think much of it, he had been hearing stuff like that for years. The next Saturday, Pat was again in the living room watching 'Tonight Show.' Rodney didn't show up, and Pat was beginning to wonder if he had missed Rodney Dangerfield.

Rodney didn't show up on the two following Saturday nights either, but Pat was beginning to wonder if he had missed Rodney Dangerfield.

"Well, I heard that Rodney Dangerfield was in the mental hospital," Pat heard one of Rodney's comedians say in the middle of a routine.

"What's wrong with him?"

"He got into a fight with his wife."

"What happened?"

"Well, he tried to tell her something so funny, she smacked him in the face.

"But Rodney didn't give up. A couple weeks later, he made his way to the hospital bed and said,
"Pat, Pat, do you want to hear the funniest joke I ever heard?"

"What's the joke?"

"Okay, I'll tell it to you.

"Why did the tomato turn red?

"Because it saw the salad dressing"

"Pat, Pat, did you hear that?"

"Yes, yes, I did."

Then Pat got an idea. Pat began to think about how Rodney was always telling people he was the funniest comic on the show.

So Pat decided to see if he could make a joke. Pat sat down at a desk and began working on one.

"I was watching 'Tonight Show' the other night," Pat said to himself. "Rodney Dangerfield walked up to me and said, "Hey, Pat, you better go up and tell him I was the funniest comic on the show.""

Pat went up to Rodney Dangerfield and said, "Rodney, Rodney, what's the funniest joke you
ever heard?"

"Why did the tomato turn red?"

"Because it saw the salad dressing."

"His wife, "I wanted to smack him in the face."

"But Rodney didn't give up."

Freak Investigation

After two weeks of extensive investigation and diagnostic work, we are ready to analyze a few of the whys and wherefores of the latest cases of Freaks. As you know, the term "Freak" is applied to individuals who exhibit unusual behaviors or characteristics.

We have identified several suspects who exhibit symptoms of Freak behavior. These symptoms include extreme sensitivity to light, unusual饮食 habits, and an increased frequency of nocturnal activities.

We are currently conducting experiments to determine the cause of these behaviors. Our hypothesis is that Freaks are responding to a new strain of electromagnetic radiation known as the "Freak Wave." This radiation is believed to be produced by an unknown source and is causing a shift in the energy field.

In order to confirm our hypothesis, we are conducting a series of experiments. We will be monitoring the Freaks' behavior in a controlled environment and adjusting the radiation levels to observe any changes.

We believe that this research will provide valuable insights into the nature of Freaks and how to mitigate their effects on society.

Softball's Been Very, Very Good To Me

Undefeated in their first 11 games of the season, the city's softball team is off to a hot start. The team is currently ranked second in the state, trailing only the powerhouse City High School.

Softball has become a popular sport in the city, with many local teams vying for a spot in the championship. The city's softball league is one of the most competitive in the state, attracting teams from all over the region.

The city's softball team is a tough opponent, and they have proven it so far this season. They have scored at least 10 runs in every game, and their pitching has been consistently strong.

The team's star pitcher, Sarah Johnson, has been a key to their success. She has a perfect record so far this season, with a 0.00 ERA and 102 strikeouts in 57 innings pitched.

In addition to their impressive pitching, the team also has a strong hitting lineup. Center fielder, Rachel Smith, leads the team in batting average with a .450 mark. Second baseman, Shelby Boston, has been a consistent hitter, with a .350 average and 14 home runs.

The team's next game is against the city's arch-rivals, City High School. It is sure to be a battle, but the team is confident in their chances.

Bakery Couldn't Raise Any More Dough

Kendall, 20-year-old owner of Kendall's Bakehouse, says he's experiencing difficulty raising money for his business.

Kendall has been operating his bakery for three years, but he's had trouble finding investors willing to support his venture. He has been relying on loans from family and friends to keep his business afloat.

"I've been trying to get some investors interested in my bakery," Kendall says. "But so far, I haven't been successful."

Kendall says he's been approached by several potential investors, but none of them have shown interest in investing in his bakery.

"I've been told that the market is saturated with bakeries," Kendall says. "And that's true. But I believe there's a demand for a bakery like mine."

Kendall's bakery offers homemade bread, pastries, and other baked goods. He says his bakery is unique because he uses only fresh, locally-sourced ingredients.

"I want to create a bakery where people can come and buy fresh, delicious bread," Kendall says. "And I think there's a market for that."
Dear Matthew, Allen,

I am currently a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee. The Olympic Games are an exciting event that brings together athletes from around the world to compete in a variety of sports. As a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, I am passionate about promoting the Olympic values and encouraging young people to get involved in sports.

As a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, I have had the opportunity to see firsthand the dedication and hard work that goes into preparing athletes for the Olympic Games. It is truly inspiring to see the level of commitment and sacrifice that these athletes make in pursuit of their dream of representing their country on the world stage.

Thank you for your interest in the Olympic Games. If you have any questions or would like more information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

The past was a page for NIK studies in Los Angeles, where the lads built for the last time. It was not an easy thing to do.

In the middle of the afternoon, they were scheduled to appear. The show was on sale. The crowd, which consisted of the usual suspects, was gathered around the stage, waiting for the show to start. The sold-out crowd was excited, and the energy was high. The lads were determined to make this show memorable. They practiced hard and put in the time to make sure that the audience would not be disappointed.

As the show began, the audience was captivated by the performance. The lads, with their unique and entertaining style, kept the crowd engaged. The audience laughed and cheered, enjoying every moment of the show. It was a testament to the hard work and dedication put into it. The lads were happy to see the positive reaction from the audience and felt proud of their performance.

After the show, the lads headed back to their hotel to rest and prepare for the next day's activities. They were looking forward to continuing their tour and expanding their fanbase.

Forrest from San Diego, went to work part-time at a supermarket as a produce manager at Grocermart Hospital, ah, Vegas performing wherever he could. Sometimes just the sight of his skin was enough to turn off an audi ence or a client. "It's a lot better when you're in the show business like everything else. You can't get a chance to do what you enjoy."

McGee, who is often sighted at some of the comics shows in the city, is a regular at the Comedy Store. "I was looking for a good place to do a set, and I found it at the Comedy Store. It's a place where you get a chance to do your own thing."

Forrest talked about his time at the store, saying, "I've been performing here for over six years now, and I love it. It's a great place to work, and the audience is always supportive."

Forrest's next set is scheduled for this Saturday at 8 pm. He will be performing a special set that he's been working on for the past month. "I'm really excited about it. I've been working hard on this one," he said. "And I'm hoping to get some positive feedback from the audience."

Forrest is looking forward to his upcoming performance and is excited about the opportunity to perform at the Comedy Store. "I'm really looking forward to it. I'm ready to go."

Forrest's upcoming performance is a great opportunity to see one of the city's most talented comics. Don't miss it!

A visit with Theo

The light blue van was the only vehicle in an otherwise vacant lot. The driver, Theo, was standing beside it, staring at something on the horizon. He was dressed in a blue shirt and jeans, with a backpack slung over his shoulder. His hair was short and neat, and he had a beard.

He was looking for somewhere to park, but it seemed that everyone had chosen to drive elsewhere. The parking lot was empty, except for a few stray cars that had been parked there earlier. Theo looked around, trying to find a place where he could leave his van safely.

Theo was a quiet man, and he didn't say much as he drove away. He turned onto a small road that led up to a river. The road was narrow, but it was the only way to get to the river. Theo drove carefully, trying not to damage the road. He was careful not to drive too fast, as he didn't want to wake up the animals that lived there.

Finally, he arrived at the river. The water was calm and clear, and it was a perfect day for a swim. Theo got out of the van and walked down to the water's edge. He sat down on the rocks and looked out over the river, watching the fish swim and the birds fly by.

After a while, Theo decided to go for a swim. He undressed and walked into the water. The water was cold, but it felt good on his skin. Theo swam for a while, enjoying the peace and quiet of the river. He had always loved spending time in nature, and he found it to be a great way to relax.

When he was ready to leave, Theo got out of the water and put his clothes back on. He walked back up to the van and got ready to drive home. It had been a long day, but he had enjoyed it. He was looking forward to spending the rest of the afternoon in the river, watching the fish and listening to the sounds of nature.

The King of the Collectors

Sometimes Theo would drive home through the Bowery. He saw the bums sleeping in the streets. They looked carefree and he envied them for their free spirits.

Although it is not even seven yet, the cars fill the line, the old man still has a few more steps to make before dipping into his coat. He has a strange manner of walking, he carries the coat on his arm, and yet it is strong, steady, and purposeful. The old man, however, does not seem to notice the rain. He is wrapped in a large, heavy cloak, and his pace is steady. He walks with a confident stride, and his face is thoughtful.

The old man stops at the corner of a small building. He looks around, then enters the building. As he steps into the room, he is greeted by a man who is also wearing a cloak. The two men talk for a moment, then the old man is shown to a small room. He sits down in a chair, and the man who greeted him begins to speak.

The old man listens intently, then he begins to describe the cloak. He says that it is made of the finest silk, and it is embroidered with gold thread. He describes the design on the cloak, and then he shows the man where it is located. The man who greeted him takes the cloak and examines it carefully. He then nods his head and says something.

The old man stands up, and he is led to another room. There, he is shown another cloak. He looks at it for a moment, then he says something to the man who greeted him.

The old man leaves the building, and he begins to walk back to his car. As he walks, he thinks about the cloaks and the man who greeted him. He wonders what the man knew about the cloaks, and what he was going to do with them. He knows that he will have to be careful, as the cloaks are valuable.

The Old Man and the Sea

The old man was on a boat, fishing in the sea. He was wearing a blue shirt and pants, and he had a large fishing rod in his hand. The old man was very patient, and he waited for hours before finally catching a fish.

He was very proud of the fish, and he began to pull it onto the boat. As he did so, he realized that it was a large shark. The old man was not afraid of the shark, and he began to fight it. He pulled and he pulled, but the shark was too strong.

Finally, the old man gave up and let the shark go. He was very disappointed, but he knew that he had done his best. He sat back in his boat, feeling a sense of satisfaction, and he thought about the lessons he had learned from the shark.

The Collector's Assistant

The collector was sitting at his desk, surrounded by books and papers. He was very focused, and he didn't seem to notice the time. He spent hours looking through the books, trying to find the information he needed.

Finally, he found what he was looking for. He smiled, and he picked up a book and began to read. He read for a long time, and he didn't notice when the sun began to set.

When he was finished, he closed the book and stood up. He looked around, and he saw that it was getting dark. He decided to go home, and he began to walk out of the room.

A Pocket of Resistance

JOHNATHAN MAUDE

The opening of ‘A Pocket of Resistance’ at the Elia Theater, Boston, is a significant moment in the city’s cultural life. The play, written by Jonathan Mauve and directed by Jane Bannister, explores themes of resistance and the power of art in the face of oppression.

The play focuses on the story of a group of artists who use their art to empower and inspire the people of their community. Through their work, they challenge the status quo and fight for justice and equality.

The cast is led by acclaimed actors John Smith, Mary Johnson, and Robert Brown, who deliver powerful performances that capture the essence of their characters.

The set design is a masterpiece, with a minimalist stage that allows the audience to focus on the actors’ performances. The lighting design is also remarkable, with a range of colors and intensities that enhance the emotional impact of the play.

In summary, ‘A Pocket of Resistance’ is a must-see production that will leave a lasting impression on its audience. It is a testament to the power of art and the importance of standing up for what is right.

In general, I've always found it necessary to use a certain amount of imagination in adopting the roles I play, about the way I see things. If I were to be asked to play a character that was really me, I'd have to come up with a new way of seeing things. It's not always easy, but I try to always be true to my own feelings and emotions, because that's what I believe in.

It seems to me that the human body is a mystery that we are only beginning to understand. I think that there is something very special about the way in which we perceive ourselves and the way in which we see the world around us. It's a mystery that will continue to fascinate us for generations to come.

At The Radioman, we are specialists in car audio. Since we focus entirely on car audio, we have the answers. That is why you will find San Diego's finest automobiles here.

We give you the straight scoop—what's hot and what's not—and why.

Come watch quality in action and experience what autosound was meant to be.

Whether we are installing a tri-amplified Zapco system in an Exotic or a basic system in a Honda, there is a common denominator—quality. The key is value, achieved with high performance equipment and advanced technology to back it up.

Our installation and service departments are well known in San Diego for our quality of workmanship.

THE READER PUZZLE
No. 264 Silent Pictures

By Don Double
You know how this works. First we read the book title, etc. Then the reader pulls out the puzzle. This is one of the many, many puzzle books we've ever designed. The best way to work on this is to write down the puzzle and any other information you can think of. The puzzle will work if you are smart enough to work on it. You can work on it as a group, and the clock makes it fun.

Rules of the Game
1. Print out your free Reader's Puzzle book.
2. All entries in the Reader's Puzzle contest must be mailed in with the Reader's Puzzle and a Reader's Puzzle entry form.
3. All entries must be postmarked by June 30, 1980 a.m.
4. Entries must be accompanied by your name, address, and phone number.
5. Employees of the Reader's Puzzle contest remain for all entries.
6. In the event of disputes or ties, decisions of the judges are final.
7. All entries will be judged on the basis of originality and creativity.
8. No entries are accepted after June 30, 1980.
9. All entries must be received by the Reader's Puzzle office no later than June 30, 1980.
10. One entry per person.

Winners of the Reader's Puzzle contest will receive:

<table>

Almost all of the 250 entries will receive this prize:

The Turkey winners are:
1. Prody Schramm, Honolulu
2. Richard Osterman, San Diego
3. Kari Sullivan, Lenexa, Kansas
4. Dan Lyons, San Diego
5. Mark Johnson, San Diego
