

The night before l'entered the Chocolate Mountains, I saw them in a dream. Their profile against a unimization saw dark and twisted, their canyons deep and hild den in shadows. The mountains seemed beautiful and intriguing to me, but there was another quality about them, book. Hanging in the air over the mountains, I saw in y sleep, was some unknown danger, a black pall, like a curse in a child's fairy tale.

A few days earlier, I had read that the Air Force had lost a B-IB bomber in Colorado when a flock of birds flew into

Our tour continued onto Salvitin Pass,

We got out of the truck and walked up the sandy wash toward the pass. We were only about 1000 feet in elevation, in a mountain range whose highest peak wasn't much over 2000 feet, but there was a much over 2000 feet, but there was a definite impression of lottiness, of removal from the ordinary world. Granty stopped to puff on his pipe a bit, then said, "One thing, about the desert, it's always quiet here."

There was anothes water tank just below the pass, where we found abundant evidence of burron. Pound for pound, bur-row must be the champion defections of the animal world. In spite of the sentimens of machines are a bane to the desert; they compete directly with the highorn sheep for food and water, and they foul, trample, and descerate every place they go. The emilitary claims the Chocolates are a de factor wildlife refuge, but if they were truly being managed as wildlife refuge, the burrows would have been removed. We continued driving north, rising the northern, more rugged sector of the Chocolates that is owned by the away. That sector is probably the most beautiful area of the range, but unfortunately it is also the most heavily bombed, by far, and will aimson certainly not be open to the public places. The public aimson certainly not be open to the public places of the Chocolates, in the area of Surveyer of the Chocolates, in the area of Surveyer Pass, is a bourfer zone — what Inchmond called a "no-drop zone." A fairly passable road crosses the mountains at Surveyor Pass, and the southern sector, the sector that is the subject of the current legislation, lies south of there.

I posed a hypothetical question to Major Lohmond: "I can see how you would need the southern sector as a buffer one and for flying approach patterns on bombing mis-ting approach patterns on bombing mis-ting approach patterns on bombing mis-understand why you need to bomb in the southern sector. What do you suppose sould happen if Congress told you to con-tinue using the southern sector as a buffer zone — still ciscloding the public — but some — still ciscloding the public — but you have also implied to the public properties of the public of public public public public public per public public public public Lohmond replical immediately," Its use wouldn't shar us down," but he also implied

My friend had the five-vegetable plate for dinner, which held braised cucumbers, collard greens, "yellow" potatoes (so named because they are cooked with fennel seeds), mixed vegetables, and string beans ($6.99). She ordered the vegetables spicy, and due to a lavish hand with the chili powder, they were. I ordered the lamb curry, which was nicely done ($9.50). We enjoyed the pappadoms and pureed lentils (dal) that preceded our dinners. However, when I asked for a little yogurt, none was available. I was brought about three spoons of sour cream instead and then charged $1.25 for it. That's not good karma. Still, for those of you who like mildly exotic meals presented without fanfare in simple surroundings, the Curry Pot should present an alternative.

MOSCOW VIRTUOSI

The La Joila Chamber Music Society has been inundating us with music, all of it good, all of it welcome. Their latest offering, after the Liege Philharmonic with Gustavo Romero and the Los Angele Chamber Orchestra with James Chamber Orchestra with James Galway, was the Moscow Virtuosi, who played a concert of Bach, Shostakovich, and Tchaikovsky at Symphony Hall. This ten-year-old chamber

This ten-year-old chamber orchestra is made up of some of the Soviet Union's leading instrumentalists. It is essentially a string orchestra, with a couple of oboes, a couple of horns, and a harpsichord to play the continuo in baroque works (at the Symphony Hall concert, the oboes and horns joined the oboes and horns joined the strings only for one of the encores). The tone of these strings is something quite phenomenal: a creamy, velvety, purring tone absolutely unique in my experience. Along with impeccable intonation and the

Another striking characteristic is the eviden delight the musicians take in performing with each other. performing with each other. They are constantly looking at each other, smiling at each other, unselfconsciously demonstrating their pleasure in any particularly expressive or with moment in the music, witty moment in the music, enjoying themselves mightily from beginning to end of every piece. The Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra never looks like this! Nor does it sound like this — for the smiles and nods

The San Diego Computer Society is proud to announce its Eighth Annual Computer Fair, to be held the weekend of November 7 and 8, 1987, at the Scottish Rite Center in Mission Valley, at 1895 Camino Del Rio South. General admission each day is five dollars at the door. No pre-registration is required.

Each year the SDCS Computer Fair brings together computer users, dealers, and manufacturers from all over the country, creating a buyers' market with outstanding values for anyone shopping for computer hard-ware, software, supplies and peripherals.

In addition to the great bargains, computer seminars headed by com-puter industry leaders will be held every hour on the hour, covering topics of interest to the beginner as well as to the experienced computer professional. Admission to all seminars is included with the registration fee. The hardest part is deciding which presentations to go to.

Some of the scheduled speakers are Dr. Cidney Karin from UCSD Super Computer Center, who will cover Applications of Supercompu-ters. A.J. Anala and Jeff Hazen will discuss Artificial Neural System, Jack Davis on Computer Animation, Craig Davison on Parallel Processors, and a whole lot more.

For more information, call the SDCS Fair Hotline at 283-7757, or the SDCS information hotline at 549-3787.

WHAT IS COMPARATIVE FAULT?

The law in California used to be that either one person or another was 100% at fault in an accident situation. This law was changed a few years back by the California Supreme Court.

Now we have what is known as comparative fault or comparative negligence, if you will.

negligence, it you will.
This change of law complicates matters. We feel it is more important than ever to have a qualified personal injury lawyer on your side if you are injured in an accident.

Is your back a pain in the neck?

Life's daily pressures can get anyone bent out of shape.

And not just emotionally. Headaches, dizziness, neck pain and muscle spasms are warning signs of pinched or irritated nerves caused by misaligned vertebrae.

At Abundant Health Chiropractic, we'll give you a free spinal screening examination along with a complete case history and consultation with one of our doctors on staff.

There's no obligation. And, if chiropractic care is what you need, most basic medical insurance plans cover such treatment.

So, if you're not feeling right, call Abundant Health Chiropractic.

Because we think life shouldn't be a pain.
