Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy bumble throug another fine mess in Busy Bodies (1933).

just enjoying the scenery. If that sounds like a good time, San Diego Trust & Savings Bank has just the ticket. Our special centennial exhibit starting June 11 at the Museum of San Diego History.

It's called "Tools, Toys, Trains and Treasures:

Reflections of a Lifetime of Curiosity." It features all kinds of interesting items from the collections of our president, Thomas W. Sefton. You'll see antique Buddy "L" toys. Oil paintings by local artists. An assortment of early American handtools and railroad memorabilia. Plus, some rare Laurel & Hardy films.

Mr. Sefton used to get up at 3:00 a.m. to watch Laurel & Hardy movies on the Late, Late Show. But you can see some of his favorites. At a much more convenient time. Saturdays and Sundays beginning June 17, at noon and 2 p.m.

The other treasures are on display daily during regular museum hours. Tickets are just $2 at the door. And proceeds benefit the Historical Society.

Don't miss our centennial celebration in Balboa Park. Because you never know when you might see all these old friends again.

Don't miss the Buddy "L" Railway Express Car, built by Moline Pressed Steel Co., East Moline, Illinois.

For over 30 years, Ray Charles has been one of the great synthesizers of American popular music. In the 150s, he led a very good, understand hard bop bland that certifield his credibility as a jazz player of formidable stature. But it was his uncanny ability to med disparate style les eartiments in Fan Ahley badisks, bin's jazz in the Horace Siver mode, country and western, and blues. jazz in the Horace Silver mode, country and western, and bules that led publicists, critics, and audiences to label him a genius. Even allowing for overstatement. Charles has always proven himself a versatile interpreter of styles one never thought would comple-ment each other. For me, at least, he made C&W not only palatable.

but also striving.

To this day, Charles remains a polished but highly charismatic and dynamic performer. Even though his music stretches beyond the boundaries of elemental blues, it is inherent in even his forthiest, pop material. The late Michael Bloomfield, a sad figure whose excenters as the authority of the second on, once remarked that flay. pop material. His later Michael societied on, once a reguler whose six-pertise on the subject could be relied on, once remarked that Ray Charles (along with BB, King) was "the last word" among blues musicians. Charles has slift competition, of course, but his posi-tion in the upper echelons has long been secure. He will be at Humphrey's on Friday night.
