San Diego has been keening records of temperature since 1872. The hottest day ever was 110 degrees on September 26, 1963; the lowest, 25 degrees on January 7, 1913. "Records will show that San Diego has gradually warmed up from an average temperature near 60 degrees, steadily climbing on a year-to-year basis, [until] about 1982 to 1984," says meteorologist Wilbur Shigehara. Then it averaged 67 degrees, and it's been falling again ever since: 1985 was 65 degrees, '86 was 64, and '87 was 63. However, the summer of 1984 was one of the hottest, and this past April was the hottest April since 1872. "The fifth, sixth, and seventh had record highs," Shigehara says. "Only four days had a temperature below

Computers have changed forecasting since the late 1969s, when Shigehara began weather forecasting, after obtaining degrees in geology and meteorology. Imported Water. When most of us think of imported water, we envision fancy water bottles coming from exotic, far away places. Although San Diego's water doesn't come out of a fancy bottle, it too, is imported. The vast majority of our water comes from the Colorado and northern California news.

Why does San Diego Import Its water? America's Finest City is built on a desert. Our annual rainfall is usually less than 10 inches, We only have enough local water to meet the needs of one out of every 20 families. Each day our City imports 250 million gallons of water. If this imported water were poured into one gallon containers, it would encircle the world almost one and a half times.

The next time you turn on the tap to get a glass of water, to wash dishes, or to brush your teeth, remember to use water wisely. Although San Diego's water doesn't come in a fancy bottle ours is imported too!

Please conserve water... San Diego's most precious resource

FIRM UP • TONE UP OUICKLY

One session of Passive European Electronic muscle stimulation is equivalent to one week of exercise in one hour. One session gives you the muscle tone equivalent to stomach 1000 sit-ups; legs - 1000 leg lifts; 1000 knee bends; chest and arms - 1000 push-ups or pull-ups. This advanced electronic method enables you to exercise exact muscles necessary to lift and support sagging, flabby, out-of-shape muscles.

We guarantee this will make your workouts a lot easier.
