Where is that Carter?" said one of the men in the roping arena behind Jeff Moore's ranchhouse in Brawlry. Tuesday was a regular practice night for Carter Taylor, Moore, and other team ropers. This week in particular, in early November, they were getting ready for the Cattle Call, the Imperial Valley's annual rodeo.

What's the matter here?

There are serious problems at the San Diego Union and The Tribune:

- Federal prosecutors have charged the papers with numerous violations of federal labor laws.
- The state of California has assigned a mediator to monitor company negotiations with its employees, which have dragged on for two years.
- In these two years, more than 1,000 employees represented by the San Diego Newspaper Guild have had no raises and two pay cuts in the form of health insurance increases.
- Advertising rates climbed 17 percent over this period. Subscription rates will rise 11.8 percent in January.
- Though the county is growing rapidly, the percentage of residents who read the Union or The Tribune is falling.
- Helen Copley, owner of the dailies, has increased her net worth to $865 million, doubling it in the past four years.
- More than 200 reporters and photographers have withheld their bylines and credit lines for three weeks, and hundreds of advertising, circulation, maintenance and other employees have also protested in other ways.
- The San Diego Newspaper Guild cares about our readers, our advertisers and our community's newspapers.

Mrs. Copley, after two years without a labor contract, two years of pay cuts, two years of circulation problems and two years of declining morale, isn't it time we settled our differences?

Lake its twin in the film world, music criticism is beset by an anyone-can trend that is self-perpetuating. In the push ethor, "separating," and certainly that aris-ident actitude has carried over to criticism. As the unskilled continue to flood the writing market, reams of mediocre work encourage the belief that there's nothing to this music-critic stuff, a conclusion that in turn beckons others to try their hand at it. After all, being a critic sim-ply means you get paid for voicing your opin-

QUARTER NOTES

GUSTAVO ROMERO

Having long ago attained a brilliant technical mastery of his instrument, young pianist Gustaon Romero has nowhere to go in his progress as a musician but more and more deeply into the music itself. If one can really speak of progress, that is, for even as a child prodigy Romero was most startling not in his power or fleetness of fingers but in the extraordinary emotional fleeness of fingers but in the extraordinary emotional profundity of his playing. PICTURE STORY

By the San Diego Historical Society

This undated photo, labeled only "Lowell School," is probably a student-run garden at the James Russell Lowell School at the southwest corner of 17th and Market Streets in Sherman Heighs, (The school building is shown at the right, Jaccording to address listings in the San Diego directory, the Lowell School was operated from 1905 through 1925. An article in the San Diego Union on May 1, 1940, describes plans for a new selementary school in Logan Heights that will be named "in memory of an old school abandoned years ago." It would seem that the present-day Lowell Elementary School, at Newton and Beardsley Streets, was named after the school shown in this picture.

A Model T Ford came in one color - black.

Well, that was also the plan for Carver electronics. And after several attempts they succeeded; finally all component match each other. Sound Company was able to purchase 100 of the "original color" TL-3200 CD players. Once they're gone the price will be $116 more. This is one of the best sounding CD players regardless of price.

Determining an audio component's worthiness relies as much in its convenience and usefulness, as in its ability to provide exceptional sound. The advanced thinking behind the Carver TL-3200 is called "human engineering." The advanced features are:

Remote Volume Control

Accessed by the volume buttors on the remote control, this feature is of particular use if you do not have a remote control storeo system.

The TL-3200 will decide in what order to play the disc when you select RANDOM PLAY. The six-digit display gives you a visual check on track, disc playing time, and time remaining.

Digital Time Lens
When Bob Carver first listned critically to CDs, he immediately detected differences between the digital version and well-mastered analog versions. These differences continue to exist on many compact disc releases. The Digital Time Lens restores both the lost ambience and the balanced response originally intended by the musician and recording engineer.

Superbly styled, sonically accurate, the Carver TL-3200 offers you unusual innovation and exceptional musicality at a most affordable price. This is a brand-new, current model.

NOW ONLY $333

(After these are gone, the identical model (new color) will be $449)

Christmas Isn't Far Away.

hen you're in that long checkout line at the mall, think palm trees and beaches. When you're stuck in downtown traffic, think of leisurely strolls and small, unique shops. When the "food courts" are packed, think of family-owned restaurants and a great cup of coffee. Got the picture? Think Ocean Beach for all your holiday shopping. Antiques, activewear, beach and surfwear, jewelry, books, music and more! With personal attention from friendly merchants. And when you support these merchants, you help keep Ocean Beach just the way it is. Intimate, friendly, and not far away.
