Our three-year-old was disturbed by this incident for several days as evidenced further by onlying, confusion, nightmares, and anger, riten asking, "Why did the destist hit me?" and threatening to "tap" his brother on the head exclaming, "I'm gonna make you behave."

Dr. Gruer had barely begun to drill when he threw the drill down and said. "Screw It. we're going to do it in the hospital."

I am outraged that a licensed professional who specializes in working with children would use such methods. I believe that this incident should not go incomment. I would like the Detail Association's Peer Review Committee to investigate this incident and provide me with information againing the following:

Is physical intimidation and intervention considered appropriate professional conduct?

I would appreciate your informing Or Gruer's office that, of course, I do not inlend to pay for his time. Furthermore, I would like to receive an application.

Now, as we try to salvaige Jonathan's trust in the dentity as someone who works to help him stay healthy, we're struggling against nic very real experience of the dentist as someone dangerous and frightening. Beyond the context of Dr. Gruer's office, it's clear that any autit who induces such a strong negative emotional reaction in a young child, whom he purports to be helping, is actually doing that child a grave psychological disservice.

We would greatly appreciate your help in resolving this situation with the speed and thoroughness it deserves. Thank

Thank you for your letter dated July 14, 1982. The Judicial Council has studied your complaint against Dr. Gruer and his treatment of David and have held a length, frank, and probing meeting with Or. Gruer.

We agree with you that an incident like this should not go unexamined.

It is our understanding that David was first seen by Dr. Gruer in August of 1981 and was seen in October for extensive treatment at the hospital under a general anesthetic.

Gays and Lesbians
In 1977 Wilson declared that the police department should "use discretion in its hiring practices," especially when homosexuals were involved. A barrage of mall quickly piled up in the office. Mayoral assistant Otto Bos wrote a memo suggesting that Wilson launch an aggressive defense:

Apparently so, because Wilson's standard reply to many of the letters was more reserved:

However, there are aps to be individuals already employed by the city who have those that their perfect the control of the city with base these than the performance of their duties.

The Old Med'l Lehnann,

PICTURE STORY

By the San Diego Historical Society

New Year's Eve, 1927. Sau Diego's first woman surfer, high school student Fiye Baird Fraser, and her instructor, Charles Weight, put on a midnight show of tandem surfing with flaming torches at the Crystal Pier in Pacific Beach. Fraser says she got the chance to surf because the was the only young woman who could lift the ten-foot, three-inch-thick redwood board.
