The Envelope, Please

Kali, the Hindu goddess, has been grossly maligned by Bollywood. Consequently, the motion of her face among the male cast was often controversial. Despite the favorable reception of the film, Mira Nair's "Kali," a young woman in the role of the goddess, grapples with life's complexities and spiritual struggles. The film explores the relationship between Kali and her husband, Shiva, as they navigate the challenges of marriage and mutual understanding.

Muriel Watson
Lights up Your Life

Muriel Watson, a mother of three, navigates the challenges of balancing work and family life. In "Lights Up Your Life," Watson finds inspiration in the everyday moments of her family's life, using humor and resilience to keep everything in perspective.
Good Death

"You do drugs?"
"No, I don't. That was from a washing machine."
She indicated one ragged tear on her upper arm. "Never mind."

On the table next to the bed were a comb, a watch, and a pair of earrings. Theňgette was sitting on the floor, smoking a cigarette. He looked up at Ráchel and said, "I say, that was a close one."
"You're lucky you're not dead," she replied.

"You're not dead," he said, "are you?"
"No," she said.

"Well," he said, "I'll just have to keep an eye on you."

"I was just thinking," she said, "about the other day."

"What about it?"

"You said you were going to show me how to drive."

"That's right," he said, "but you never showed up."

"I was busy," she said.

"I'll show you now," he said, "if you want."

"Yes," she said, "please."
