BLADE CUTS LEATHERNECK PIECE

BY BRUCE CAVLIN

You just don't have anything to show for it. That's the truth. When you put your hands on the wheel and you pull the trigger, you don't have anything to show for it. It's the same thing with the Leatherneck. You just don't have anything to show for it.

The next morning, the San Diego Union and the Los Angeles Times ran similar stories to their San Diego counterparts. The stories were focused on the Leatherneck piece and the failure to deliver a new, more advanced fighter to the Marine Corps. The stories were written by Bruce Cavlin, who was a reporter for the San Diego Union.

LET'S GO SKOONIN' NOW

BY RICKY JONES

It was Ricky's 21st. One day it will be your 21st. It's not too late to learn the ways of the world. A lot of people make mistakes. But you learn something from them. You should be proud of them.

HOME OF THE NATIVE MEN

BY RICKY JONES

There was a group of people standing outside a building. One guy was holding a sign that said, "Home of the Native Men." It was a group of Native American men who were protesting a proposed development that would have destroyed their cultural site.

PILOL'S BOOK ON LIBRARIES

BY RICKY JONES

This summer, a new $500,000 poll was conducted to determine what people want in their local libraries. The poll was conducted by Pollsters Inc. and it found that people want more books, more space, and more services.

COX CABLE TO DOWNSIZE?

BY RICKY JONES

Cox Cable is considering downsizing its operations. The company is looking to cut costs and improve its profitability. The downsizing would affect the company's employees, who would be laid off or transferred to other positions.

RIVERSIDE'S CHAPARRAL ROAD

BY RICKY JONES

Riverside's Chaparral Road is a busy street that runs through the heart of the city. It is home to many businesses and residential areas. The road is also a popular spot for cyclists and joggers. The road is currently under construction and is expected to reopen in the spring.
"Thankoolayduzngemmin, Thankoovermuch..."

Behind every Elvis impersonator there's another Elvis impersonator.

He liked his peanut butter and banana sandwiches grilled to a golden brown for the Iron Duke white bread. When Elvis was young, he would eat them on the front porch of his Graceland mansion in Memphis, Tennessee. He knew what he was doing was bad for his teeth, but he couldn't resist the combination of sweet and savory flavors. Sometimes, he would even add a dollop of peanut butter on top, just for fun. It was a simple pleasure that brought him joy.

The U.S. Impersonator Association is celebrating its 10th anniversary this year. In honor of the occasion, they are holding a national competition for the best Elvis impersonator in the country. The competition will take place in Las Vegas, Nevada, and the winner will receive a trophy and a prize package worth thousands of dollars. The competition is open to all Elvis impersonators, regardless of age or experience. The winner is determined by a panel of judges who will evaluate each performer based on their ability to emulate Elvis's voice, dance, and stage presence. The competition is free to attend, and anyone can watch from the comfort of their home.

One of the favorite activities of Elvis was to spend time with his family and friends. He loved to play pool, watch movies, and go fishing. He was also known to have a passion for playing the guitar. In his younger days, he often performed at local clubs and bars, and he would sometimes play for hours on end. His music was a source of comfort to many people, and it continues to inspire and bring joy to this day.

The music and legacy of Elvis continue to live on, and his fans are still as dedicated as ever. Whether they are young or old, they are united in their love for the King of Rock and Roll. Elvis will always be remembered for his incredible talent and his heartwarming personality. His influence on music cannot be overstated, and his legacy will be celebrated for generations to come.
Thankoovermuch

In the latest issue of the King's death, a letter from a woman named too much. She writes about the King's death, saying that it has left her feeling overwhelmed.

"I've been feeling really down since the news of the King's death," she writes. "I don't know how to cope with it."

She goes on to say that she has been thinking a lot about the King's life and the impact he had on the world.

"He was such a wise and kind leader," she writes. "I wish I could have known him in person."

The letter ends with the woman expressing her condolences to the Queen and the rest of the royal family.

BOOK

As if it were to make a quick appearance behind him, the shadowy figure emerged from the wooden shell. The room was bathed in the soft, dim light, casting long shadows across the floor. The figure moved with a grace that belied its size, its movements fluid and calculated. It paused, its gaze fixed upon the lone figure seated at the table, engrossed in the pages of an old manuscript.

The shadowy figure approached, its steps silent as it moved closer. The table was illuminated by a single candle, casting an eerie glow over the scene. The book in front of the seated figure was open to a page with the word "FAIRYLAND," written in the thick, ornate script of the time. The figure reached out, its hand hovering over the page before finally resting upon it.

"What brings you here, traveler?" the shadowy figure asked, its voice low and commanding.

"I seek knowledge," the figure replied. "I am in search of the lost library, which is said to hold the wisdom of the ages."}

Better and Better

BY DUNCAN SHEPHERD

This is a story about the power of teamwork. The two men in the picture are working together to build a tower. They are using a ladder to climb to the top and then they will place the last piece. The tower is made of wooden blocks and it is very tall. The men are wearing safety helmets and they are very focused on their task. This is a great example of how teamwork can help us achieve our goals.

The tower is part of a construction project in progress. The men are building a new playground for the children in the neighborhood. The playground will have a slide, a swing set, and a sand box. It will be a great place for the kids to play and have fun.

All the kids are going to love it when it's finished. The project has taken a lot of time and effort, but the community is very excited about it. The men are working hard to make sure everything is perfect.

OFF THE CUFF
By Lin Jolly

Why should you receive a lifetime achievement award?

Karen B. Brown, a former teacher, is now a freelance writer and editor. She has written numerous articles on education, which have been published in both national and international journals. In addition to her work as a writer, Karen is also an active volunteer in her community, working to improve education for all students. Her dedication to education and her commitment to improving the lives of others make her a worthy candidate for a lifetime achievement award.

Betty Lamore, a retired nurse, is known for her compassion and her tireless efforts to help those in need. She has spent her life caring for the sick and vulnerable, and has done so with a heart full of love and understanding. Betty's dedication to helping others is a testament to her character, and she is a deserving recipient of a lifetime achievement award.

Marcella Molare, a former business owner, is now a community leader. She has dedicated her life to serving her community, working to improve the quality of life for all residents. Marcella's commitment to community service and her passion for making a positive difference make her a fitting recipient of a lifetime achievement award.

Steve Baldwin, a retired educator, is well-known for his contributions to education. He has spent his career as a teacher, mentor, and leader, inspiring students and shaping minds. Steve's dedication to education and his commitment to his students make him a deserving recipient of a lifetime achievement award.

Margaret Dellaro, a former social worker, is now an active volunteer in her community. She has dedicated her life to helping others, working to improve the lives of those in need. Margaret's compassion and her unwavering commitment to helping others make her a worthy recipient of a lifetime achievement award.

TEEN SUPPORT GROUP
A tapering group for teens to develop better range skills and to share advice on issues that are important to them.

THE PRESSURES OF ADOLESCENTS
Growing up is tough.
The pressures that kids face can take a toll on their performance, cause depression or affect their parents.
The Center for Children has developed a series of programs that teach kids to manage their anger and other emotions and their families to help them cope with those pressures.
