Theat you so much for your issue on poetry.
Of course Of course there are several times more good local poets than you had space or opportunity to cover. Therefore I make the two following suggestions:

That you make a concerted effort to publish more announcements of our performances and readings in your "Local Events" column We don't have money to advertise without audiences without publicity.

That you publish local poetry in the Reader and pay for it.
We who write poetry do so because we can achieve effects that can't be had in prose. Much of our work is not only good, it is also timely and relevant to local issues. But we have no place to publish our work and so effort.

If you can fulfill these two suggestions you, your readers and the community

Our Pumpkin Pie Fudge is simply the best. Honest Injun.

At this time of the year, the time of Thanksgiving, we stop and think about how much we should appreciate those who established what we enjoy today. In the time of the Pilgrims, the American Indians showed them how to find and prepare many wonderful native foods such as the pumpkin. To celebrate this great discovery, Just for the Halibut specially prepares Pumpkin Pic Fudge. This treat goes well with one of the other foods the Indians introduced to the Pilgrims, the turkey. At the turn of the century, A.G. Spaulding and his wife survey the family's Point Loma homestead. Though no positive identification has been made of the Spaulding's chain-drive car, it looks like an early Locomobile or a 1900 American-Electric runabout. Some believe this was the first car in San Diego, but other sources dispute that claim. According to the February 3, 1900 San Diego Intion, attorney David Charles Collier owned the town's first car — a tricycle-style vehicle fashioned after a French design. Of Collier's first test drive through the city, the reporter noted, "When it was not speeding up and down the street, it was at the center of an admiring throng." The car had a top speed of 25 miles per hour and used three quarts of gas every 50 miles, according to the article.

No matter who was first to the control of the control article.

No matter who was first, by 1903 there were enough vehicles on San Diego's unpaved roads to require mandated speed limits, a full-time street maintenance crew, and rules of the road. And there were car dealers; the San Diego Cycle and Arms Company sold Cadillacs in 1903. In that year, locals owned a total of six of the vehicles. And two area men were testing a design for a car intended for hunters, with compartments for guns, dogs, and box lunches.

ad habits are hard ★ to break, particularly when their bad aspects, damage, are largely un-seen. For instance, many parents, encouraged by misleading manufacturers and misinformed columnists, shrugged off the unpleasant truth about disposable diapers. To combat this, I instituted the popular Eco-camp Program, mandating attendance at ecological reeducational facilities.

For most citizens, reeducation camp quarters were pleasant. almost like summer camp. For recalcitrants. they were more punitive.
