City Lights

Born into It

At least 50,000 people showed up at Balboa Park as Mayor Pete Lipke and the County Board of Supervisors, along with many others, officially kicked off the centennial of the park's existence. The festivities included a parade, a rodeo, and other events. The mayor, who has been a strong advocate for the park, said it was a fitting tribute to the many people who have contributed to its success over the years.

Editorial

It's been a tough summer for San Diego, and now the city is facing another challenge: a budget crisis. Mayor Bob Filner and the City Council are working to come up with a plan to address the shortfall, which is currently estimated at $60 million. The city has already made cuts to some programs, but more needs to be done if the city is to avoid further layoffs and service reductions.

Shoes and Smoke

The city is taking steps to address the issue of smoking in public places. The City Council has proposed an ordinance that would prohibit smoking in all city parks, including Balboa Park. The ordinance is expected to be voted on in the coming weeks.

County Supervisor Dave Roberts said he has reason to believe that the city's new budget plan, which was supposed to be presented last week, may not actually be in place. Roberts said he has been unable to confirm the accuracy of the information he has been given, and he is concerned about the city's ability to implement the plan.

Dust Flies Over Ancient Settlement

Archaeologists have discovered evidence of an ancient settlement near the site of the proposed San Diego Bay Bridge Tunnel. The discovery was made during a survey of the site, which is part of the city's efforts to understand the history of the area. The settlement dates back to the time of the Starved People, a prehistoric tribe that lived in the region.

The Show-off

The city's popular zoo is once again the focus of attention, with visitors flocking to see the latest animals to arrive. The zoo has recently welcomed a new group of gorillas, which have been the subject of much discussion and debate. The city is currently working on plans to expand the zoo, with the goal of creating a world-class facility for the animals.

STRAIGHT FROM THE HIP

By Mattheis Alice

Dear Mattheis Alice,

I'm wondering if there's a way for me to get a second opinion on the city's new parking regulations. The changes seem quite drastic, and I'm concerned about their impact on local businesses.

Sincerely,

San Diego Reader, December 1991

T he year is 1980. The San Diego Reader is a news magazine that covers local news, events, and culture. The article by John E. Forkey discusses a story about a woman who was reported to be involved in a murder case. The article uses a mix of news reports and interviews to tell the story.

The article begins with a picture of a woman standing in front of a building. The caption reads, "In the case of the woman, a story of murder has been unfolding for years."

The main story focuses on a woman named Mary who was reported to have murdered her husband. The article mentions that Mary was originally from Michigan and had moved to San Diego to start a new life. However, her past catches up with her when she is accused of murder.

The article also mentions that Mary's case has been dragged on for years, and that the trial is scheduled to begin soon. The author of the article expresses concern about the length of the trial and the impact it has had on Mary's life.

The article concludes with a summary of the case and a prediction about the outcome of the trial. The author states that the trial is expected to take place in the next few months, and that the outcome will have a significant impact on the community.

The article is written in a straightforward tone and uses quotes from various sources to provide a comprehensive overview of the case.

Overall, the article is a compelling read that provides insight into the complexities of the legal system and the impact it has on individuals and communities.

Acute Couples

BY JEFF SMITH

The San Diego Opera's production of "The Wild Party" in 1986 was the first to feature a mother-daughter relationship between the leads. The concert was planned to feature a variety of songs, including one by the Mother and another by the daughter. The "mother" role was played by soprano Mary Jane Haggerty, and the "daughter" role by mezzo-soprano Lisa Chaves.

However, the concert was not without controversy. Some attendees were concerned about the appropriateness of the material, and there were protests. The opera company defended its choice, stating that the concert was intended to be a celebration of the works of contemporary composers.
