THE GODS MUST BE CRAZY
The Latter Days of Unarius

Don't forget, if you have a problem with your sanctuary, always remember that the Gentiles have their own sanctuaries, in addition to Olympus, which is minus Hephaistos.

Since a wise and well and eloquent teacher of the Gentiles has taken the polemic against the Temple
and the Temple organs,
we have all become sharers of the sanctuary.

I am therefore willing to witness, being the best witness among the religionists of the city of Rome,

FROM THE HIP

Matthew Alice

Dear Matthew Alice,

I've been reading your column, "The Hip," and I've noticed a few things about your writing style. While I enjoy your unique voice and perspective, I believe there are a few areas where you could improve your writing. First, I noticed you often use long, complex sentences that can be difficult to follow. It might be helpful to simplify your language and make your points clearer. Second, I've noticed you tend to use a lot of colloquialisms and slang, which can come across as unprofessional. It might be beneficial to use more formal language in your writing. Finally, I've noticed you sometimes overuse certain words and phrases, which can make your writing repetitive. It might be helpful to vary your vocabulary and sentence structure to add more variety to your writing.

Sincerely,
Bob

Of Peep Shows and Piano Bars

Story by Richard Meltzer
Illustration by Sharron Eltmann

Johnny Botton once said that while he didn't personally know what jazz was, he was dead sure Sting didn't either.

A piano player's strategy to teach the new jive music to other players. (I'm sorry. I don't know what the jive music is too.)

'What's the matter with Sting?' I asked the guy. 'I mean, I can't understand it. He's a brilliant musician. Why would he want to be a jive player?'

'I don't know,' he said. 'I guess he just wanted to try something new.'

'I don't think that makes sense,' I said. 'Why would he want to try something new if he already knows how to play the piano?'

'I don't know,' he said. 'Maybe he just wanted to have some fun.'

I didn't know what to say to that.
THE GODS MUST BE CRAZY

Urania is a real cutie from the microscopy world. She was discovered on the higher premises of the California Academy of Sciences, Secretary's Office, on October 31, 1971. Her discovery was made by Dr. E.C. Crick, a specialist in the field of microscopy.

Urania is a very special creature. She is a member of the Urania family, which is a very small and unique group of insects. These insects are known for their bright, iridescent colors and their ability to change colors in response to their environment.

Ruth Norman left Los Angeles and eventually chose the unique and unusual San Diego Zoo as home for her Urania Academy.

According to published accounts, the Academy was founded on August 15, 1968, by Ruth and Charles Norman. The Academy is a non-profit organization dedicated to the study and preservation of the Urania family. It is located in a beautiful location in the San Diego Zoo and is open to the public.

"It is said that they don't treat you black people on the riverboat like you do in Georgia!"
"Sometimes we drive down to town just to buy another wedding gown. She loved these wedding gowns. And she'd wear them in these symbolic wedding processions at the center."

Malashock Waves

BY JONATHAN SAULLE

The Malashock Estate & Company is a multi-million dollar conglomerate based in New York City. The company operates in various fields including real estate, publishing, and entertainment. The Malashock family is known for their philanthropy and involvement in cultural events. The estate has been the site of numerous social gatherings and is considered a symbol of luxury and exclusivity.

lated by Stephen Malashock, the current owner of the estate, is described as being overwhelmed by an excess of sensory input.

Interested, however, by a number of feature stories recently appearing concerning the Malashock Estate and its secrets.

It is not clear what the main focus of these stories is, but the stories themselves suggest a series of events in which they centre on various aspects of the estate, including its history, architecture, and the lives of its residents.

The stories also include interviews with key figures associated with the estate, such as staff members and neighbors.

Unfortunately, due to the sensitive nature of the information, I am unable to provide further details.

QUARTER NOTES

MAINLY MOZART: OPENING CONCERT

When the La Jolla Symphony and Chorus presented a Mozart program last year, it was masterly. This season, the orchestra is back with a similar program, but this time the conductor is not the same. The opening concert, which takes place on Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Mandell-Weiss Theatre, will feature some of the same music as last year, but with a new twist.

The program will include Mozart's Symphony No. 25 in G minor, KV 183, which was written in 1779 when Mozart was just 16 years old. The symphony is known for its dramatic and powerful opening, and it has become one of Mozart's most popular works.

Also on the program is Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 23 in A Major, KV 488, which was written in 1785. The concerto is one of Mozart's most technically demanding works, and it requires a skilled pianist to perform it properly.

The orchestra will also perform Mozart's Serenade No. 10 in B-flat Major, KV 361, which was written in 1786. This serenade is known for its sweet and lyrical melodies, and it is one of Mozart's most beloved works.

The concert will be conducted by the new music director of the La Jolla Symphony, Thomas Adès, who is known for his innovative and dynamic conducting style. Adès has been praised for his ability to bring out the best in the orchestra, and he is expected to deliver a powerful and moving performance of these works.

The La Jolla Symphony and Chorus is one of the finest orchestras in the country, and it is known for its excellent musicianship and dedication to the music. The orchestra's previous performances have been highly praised, and it is widely regarded as one of the top orchestras in the world.

The opening concert is sure to be a memorable and exciting event, and it is sure to be a great way to start the La Jolla Symphony and Chorus's 2023-2024 season. So don't miss out on this wonderful opportunity to hear some of Mozart's greatest works performed by one of the world's finest orchestras.

Jim: It was!
Linda: I had already gotten 25 responses, I was having some trouble sorting through them. I called him on his cell phone, shortlisted to my â€œshort list.â€
Jim: I left her the shortest message. It intrigued her.
Linda: We had our first date at a great Greek restaurant downtown. I told him I’d be wearing a navy blue suit.
Jim: And I was the guy in the Irish kilts. She spotted me right away.
Linda: The lunch went longer than we planned. We really enjoyed talking to each other.
Jim: We dated through the summer. She asked me to marry her in October.
Linda: He declined!
Jim: I took her out to a romantic brunch near the ocean. I told her we should consider buying a condominium.
Linda: I said, “I can’t just live with you. We’d have to… you know…”
Jim: And I said, “I accept!”

EMPHATIC GESTURES

Picture this: a performer, standing on stage, facing an audience. The performer moves, a fluid motion, as if guided by an invisible force. A dancer, in the center of the stage, moves in a series of graceful, sweeping gestures. Each movement is deliberate, each step precise. The audience watches, captivated by the performer's commands.

The performer lifts a hand, a sign of authority. They reach into their pocket, a repeated action, as if searching for something. Suddenly, a flash of light, a moment of intense focus. The performer glaciers, slow and controlled, in a dance of light and shadow. The audience watches, mesmerized, as the performer's movements speak volumes.

INHERIT THE WIND

The winds of change are blowing, stirring the ashes of the past into new forms. The beauty of the wind lies in its unpredictability, its ability to shape the world around it. Just like the wind, the events of the past have shaped the present, leaving a legacy for the future.

HOT WASP

Lost in the heat of the moment, the Hot Wasp stirs, ready to take flight. The sound of their wings hums, a symphony of energy. The Hot Wasp soars, leaving behind a trail of excitement and adventure.
