A MAN NAMED SUE

By NICK BERGMAN

San Diego's construction industry is coming under the weight of thousands of lawsuits filed against the city over the management of its public projects. The latest to join the pack is a lawsuit filed by Sue Cohen, a construction worker who claims she was wrongfully terminated from her job at the city's new convention center.

Cohen, 44, was employed by the city for two years before being let go in 2020. She claims she was fired for no reason other than revenge after reporting safety violations at the site.

"I was just doing my job," Cohen said. "I reported these issues to the site manager, who said he'd take care of it. But nothing happened."

Cohen's attorney, Dan Morris, said he plans to file a federal lawsuit against the city on Cohen's behalf.

"Sue was just doing her job and was thrown under the bus," Morris said. "This is just one example of the rising number of lawsuits against the city for overlooking safety issues."

"They eat my food. They like mustards, they like pickles, they like spicy foods, they eat my cheese."
THE BASEBALL CARD BUSINESS LENDS ITSELF WELL TO LAUNDERING LARGE AMOUNTS OF CASH.

Lee rarely owed the government a percentage of his income, and that was a luxury he cherished. The couple owned a large house in San Diego County, and Lee was known for his love of gambling. He also enjoyed investing in the stock market and buying baseball cards. Lee was a member of several card-collecting clubs, and he attended many card shows and auctions throughout the country.

The government was aware of Lee's lucrative business, and they began to investigate him. They found that Lee had been laundering large amounts of cash through his baseball card business. He used this money to pay for expensive vacations and to purchase luxury items for his family. Lee was eventually arrested and charged with tax evasion and money laundering.

Lee's case was a warning to other criminals who thought they could launder their非法 money through legal businesses. The government was determined to catch those who were trying to hide their非法 money, and they were successful in this case. Lee was sentenced to prison and ordered to pay restitution to the government.

Homogenized, Square, Shiny and Terrific

BY JEFF SMITH

I try to differ with what Stuart Ross-Platt did in the program about the Montreal Canadiens. It was more a world where hockey is the major sport, and the world is square, shiny and terrific.

Reporters and editors at the New York Times were shocked when the world's greatest nordic skier, Illia Kulik, broke his left spine in a recent race in Davos, Switzerland. He is expected to return to ingoing as a world-class ski racer.

I'm working with an artist who makes wooden sculptures of bears. He uses old, discarded pieces of wood to create the bears. Each bear is unique and depicting a different personality.

I'm a painter -- I paint abstract scapes. I use a lot of colors and different textures to create a vivid image of the world around me.

I'm a writer -- I write about my experiences and observations of the world around me. I try to show the reader a different perspective on the world.

I'm a dancer -- I dance to express emotions and convey messages.

Success Stories:
Jennifer and DeMelvin

Jennifer: It was last March. I was recently divorced, and one day all the singles in my advertising department got together with the Phone Matches and said, "We've got to do this."

DeMelvin: I'm in the construction business and also divorced. I was just browsing through the Phone Matches one day and saw Jennifer's ad. It intrigued me.

Jennifer: The last part of her message to me was, "And I'm Prince Charming. Where have you been hiding?" I thought he was arrogant.

DeMelvin: I knew she was going to get a lot of responses.

Jennifer: I got 85.

DeMelvin: And I was trying to be different.

Jennifer: It worked. After three weeks of phone calls between DeMelvin and I, we finally met at the Rocky Pelican in Mission Valley.

DeMelvin: When she walked in the door, I said to myself, "Oh my god! She's beautiful!" I had no idea how attractive she would be.

Jennifer: That's one of the great things about Phone Matches. You get to know someone from the inside out, first.

DeMelvin: By the time we met face to face, we already knew about each other's kids, our likes and dislikes.

Jennifer: Phone Matches is so safe. I just wanted to go out to jazz bars, but if I met a guy in there, I didn't care what they said... how good looking they were...

DeMelvin: I didn't want anything to do with them.

DeMelvin: With you being an advertising and myself in construction, Jennifer and I didn't travel in the same circles. If it wasn't for Phone Matches, I never would have met her.

Jennifer: He really is my best friend.

DeMelvin: I find she's the most beautiful person I've ever met.

Jennifer: Because we met through Phone Matches and spent all that time on the phone, we got to be friends first.

DeMelvin: And should we get married, we'll have that as a foundation.
