YOU WANT THE NIGHT STAFF

Let's Visit With The Friendly Folks Who Work The Graveyard Shift

On the toy-town ferry that crosses the bay from San Diego's downtown to Coronado, nocturnal romantics have taken to the water. They have come to watch a sunset, to immerse themselves in the melodrama of oncoming night or else to fondle some Juliet who will only accept a postprandial Romeo. And they can do all this only in the first lawless moments of hight. Journal of the Photographs BY JOE KLEIN

It All Begins With The Remarkable SL 3000 Trilaminate Tweeter

Working with the Johns Hopkins University Center for Non-Destructive Testing, Polk engineers utilized Laser Interferometry to test tweeter designs and materials. They found that ultimately, by vapor-depositing stainless steel and aluminum to a polyamide dome surface, an extended, very flat frequency response, out to 25kHz, was achieved.

Polk also discovered that by using a rare Ultra Low Viscosity Magnetic Fluid, nearly as thin as water, to cool the SL 3000's voice coil, power handline caracity and reliability would vasily increase, Indeed, the SL 3000 revener can significantly exceed normal listering levels without loss of performance or reliability.

The Clear Imaging of Polk's Line Source Array

By amanging its four 6-1/2" drivers in a vertical line source along with the SL 3000 tweeter, superior imaging and midrange purity is achieved

By clearly focusing midrange frequencies and avoiding flow and ceiling reflections. Polk's Line Source delivers a wide open, natural sound without total coloration. Consequently, the RTA 15TL performs superbly in a wide variety of room sizes and

Polk Bass: Deep, Powerful & Tight

Two independently tuned, 10-inch bas radiators, one ficing front, one facing rear, deliver the impressive bass for which Polk is known. These two radiators move a significant amount of air and at the same time produce a more accurate term objection of an instrument's timbre and transience than a single conventional wooler. This configuration provides the right, well-defined has normally associated with small systems combined with the deep, powerful performance found in large systems.

The first constellations, Auriga and Cassiopoia, begin their slow rotation above a Hanging Garden of childish neons. The de-serted nautical boulevards with their curved lines of Imperial palms look like nomadic pathways cut through a desert of glass and concrete. And somewhere behind them, lost in semi-vacan industrial lots that come alive with insects at night, the railway sounds its empty, half-crazy 19th Century hom.

Vertical towers of lights materialize from a night sky already painted the faintly fraudulent lapis lazuli of certain medieval fres-cos. At dusk, as it begins to disappear, seen from the water, the city finally begins to look like a metropolis. Not an electrically powered one or one bristling with the frenzied entrepots of manufacturing, but a silent, floating one made of sinister paper lantems And in the glassy, oily water, its reduplicated lights begin to ex-masks on it down and the demonic activities of night got underway? The ferry nightworkers have not yet witnessed such cannibalistic scenes, but if they did they would hardly be surprised.

One of them explains. "At night people are entirely changed. Believe me, they are. I've been watching them for a long time Yes, they kiss more, it's true. But they also tend to go be/serk more easily. I've seen them. Utterly berserk. Would they go berserk if the sun was shining? Would they? No. sir. They would not go berserk. They..." (he pauses a moment for thought — the boat is pulling out into the bay and the passengers are looking each other up and down a little suspiciously) ... they would be ashamed to go berserk. They would behave themselves.

They all shake their heads. In the blue gloom of early night, it is easy to revert to the pagan fear of darkness. The passengers are definitely now looking a little, shall we say, wild eyed. The "ungodly" hours have always been associated with, well, the ungodly, human, or supernatural. The first report on witchcraft in the 11th Century by Gratian claimed that only at night did witches roam the land. He called them noctiluca, they who shine by night. And since night was when witches labored, all those who did likewise were tarred with the same brush.

inadvertently hit upon one of the sliest of all moral ideas? In daylight, the virtuous sweat, visible to all. But in the hours noc turnal, the footpads, the counterfeiters, the plotters, the sewage workers, and the writers do their vile, unmentionable things. The latter have always been defiant, childishly claiming that night is more cultivated and refined than day. But who believes them? Who is gullible enough to believe for a minute that God made night for heroes and geniuses while leaving day for mere bank clerks, gardeners, and fat-bellied lawyers — bourgeois simpletons and the generally pitiful earners of wages?

"To stay up all night, you have to be over the age of 30," Honorê de Balzac once said, implying brilliant intellectual heroism. But nowadays our cities are like tombs at night. The nocturnal classes have seemingly dwindled to a handful of rebels, and nothing now awards prestige to that most mysterious and despised of creatures, the nightworker. And from the decks of the nighttime ferry, surrounded on all sides by twinkling, playful lights, it is quite clear that, far from being the refuge of poets and thinkers. night has become not only threatening but frivolous as well.

ers are best seen in this light. Like Kafka and Flaubert your sewage worker labors through the night with secret channels and conduits, vigitant between dusk and daw and in command of a mysterious empire of filth.

The largest sewage station in the city is pump station number two on North Harbor Drive, a stone's throw from Lindbergh Field. Here, waste effluvia from all over the netropolitan area is collected via a huge underground system of pipes, pumps, and gravity-operated metering stations. From here it is funneled to the Point Loma treatment works and their into the ocean via the two-mile-long ocean outfall pipe - a marvelous system and one that reminds you that although sewage workers and writers are definitely comrades in-night, the former are infinitely more indispensable.

Pump station two is directed by the suave and handsome Mr. Hoang, a petite figure in corduroy jacket and long, glistening black ponytail, who has the air of a serene and patient Chinese sage as he flits around the pump house control rooms. Mr. Hoang also has very elaborate theories about things nocturnal. For since the station needs to operate continuously around the clock he has not hesitated to employ the services of a nightworkers schedule consulting firm that has created what he now believes is the optimum timetable for those doomed to work the graveyard. "It's very simple," he explains, and not without a certain amount of pedagogic relish. The human organism evolve over inillions of years. During that time, man hunt in the day sleet at night, get up with dawn, and so forth. So the evolution has are ate the circadian clock."

He pauses, beams, and adjusts his tie. The circadian clock? "Yes. The circadian clock. The circadian clock is this mechanism in us which make us get up when it light outside and sleep when dark. It took millions of years to make it, so now you can't undo t. There is an instinct to sleep at night. Therefore, it very unnatural to work at night. Very unnatural, Man hate it because it's very unnatural. He feel tired, angry, irritated. He not at all himself, see? Well, not surprising after two million year.

Mr. Hoang raises his eyebrows and shrugs. "Two million year a long time.

The mysteries of this internal evolutionary clock named after the famous enchantress of Odysseus are certainly considera To a man, the pump station two workers detest the night shift. when there is virtually nothing to do but check the pump gauges every two hours and during which the mind seems, according to them, to go into a kind of deathly trance unrelieved even by boredom. And, Mr. Hoang ardently insists, their behavior has to be carefully watched in case the nefanous circadian clock gets the better of them. After all, didn't Circe change Odysseus's men into pigs? notice that after, say, midnight they go a bit moody. They get snappy. You have to be very careful. You see. it's evolution." Mr. Hoang's eyes light up and open wide with a brief but voluptuous mystery. And they're not the only ones. Here we're next to the AWOL base. During the night, because that damn circa dian rhythm, they come climbing over the fences. They want to escape, because at night they go completely crazy. Then they come in here, find they in the sewage pump station, and fall asleep in the paint cupboard. Amazing, Truly amazing.

Mr. Hoang shakes his head and wags a finger. "That's what come when you go against Nature.

The station itself hums away quetly in the night. The great burnished pumps behind the class partition that separates them from the control room have the slightly menacing presence of brood ing nuclear reactors. The control panel spread out along the facing wall — a maze of warning lights, flow indicators, and electrical power meters — displays at a glance the entire epic movement of sewage and water around the metropolis. It is a beautiful sight and one that Mr. Hoang will only too gladly explain with the fervor of the true sewage careerist.

"Sewage is like a map of the city's social behavior. One hundred and eighty million gallons go through here every day. Between midnight and two in the (continued on page 20)

As 'es spoke with B, it became obvious to both officer Aliken and I that he was intoxicated. We asked B, if he thought that it might be a good idea if, because of his drunkenness, he left the child with the mother for the night. B he came wishly a some the night. B. became visibly angry, but complied. He took the child into out complied. He took the child into the apartment and attempted to put his arms around A. two times. She pushed him away both times and she became very upset. In order to document the situation, we began to ask B. questions regarding his name, address, etc. B. became increasingly belligerant, I decided to place him under arrest decided to place him under arrest because he was very intoxicated and I feared for A.'s and the child's safety if we left him there. B. would not re-spond to our questions and A. was becoming more upset and afraid. I ard B., but at the began to move toward B., but at the same time he said, "Fuck you, see ya," and ran out of the apartment. Officer Alken and I chassed B. west-bound through the north alley of 2200 Burroughs St. and northbound on Ulric St. to 2285 Ulric.

Flanegan and I pulled open the door to the shed and ordered B. to exit. He did and took a position be tween Flategan and I. Flanegan told B. he was under arrest and to put his hands behind his back. B. did not hands behind his back, B. did not comply. He raised his arms and charged at Officer Flanegan. I jumped on B.'s back and Flanega and I forced B. to the ground. We intended to handcuff him there.

B. violently resisted and fough.

Officer Flanegan and I. Flanegan had
arm but the cuffs caught on the fabric of B.'s jacket and did not close. I pulled the handcuffs off to free them his hand free and punched me in the regain control of his arm.

I was now on top of B.'s left side and Flanegan was on his right. I pulled my mace cannister out and shot B. in the right check area with a short blast, hoping the mace would distract him long enough to allow Flanegan and I to handcuff him. The muce didn't seem to really bother B.

Flanegan and I decided to just maintain our positions atop B. until Officer Ed MacConaghy #2598 arrived and assisted us. We were then able to handcuff B. Flanegan and I transported B, to police headquarters. We flushed cold water over B,'s face to wash off any mace that may have still been on

B.'s face. Once at jail B. told me "I was stupid, I'm sorry

Stacy: We had a beautiful wedding at my mother's beach house. Randall: The sun was shining; it was a gorgeous day, I'll always remember it.

Randall: We spent the holidays together. She met my family.

Stacy: By that time I knew I wanted to marry Randall. But he felt we should wait a year. Randuli: Then one day I said to myself, "No matter how long you search, you'll never find someone like Stacy. What are you waiting for?"

Randall: We ended up having a three-hour dinner at II Fornaio. Stacy came back to my house and we talked until 3:00 a.m. We hiked in the Cuyamacas the next day, and saw a movie that evening.

Randall: Brain damaged. Stary Besides that. We're kindred spirits.

Stacy: Randall is the nicest person I know. He's not judgmental, he has a big heart, he's hilarious...

Randail: Aw, she used up all the good words and phrases.

Stace: We really feel we owe a debt to Phone Matches for Randall: That's why we decided to do this ad. Phone Matches is one of those simple things that works great.

It is a project that must almost always be accompanied with a certain wry trony, for the modern primitivist is not really primitive. The style is not his own but another's; it has not come to him naturally, through his tribal upbringing, but he has consciously chosen it (and has consciously rejected its "high-cultural" competitors). It is this kind of irony that it is suggested by

Javier Acvalo's Los Escuentros ("Meetings"). A grid of primitive, masked faces, in stylized drawing and in strong, lively colors, crostea a vivid, topestry-like pattern, pulsaring work visual energy just as the individual faces seem expensive of violent, thannestic fooc, But the profileration and systematic juxtaposition of those tribal beings—some facing left, some facing gibt, some facing each other; come facing the dock of another's head, a few r yeal of the profileration word—deprives them of their rengical potential, and the profileration of the dependent of the profileration of the pr

Introducing Reader PHONE MATCHES, a Great Place to Meet Single People. You are provided with a free personal matching ad in the Reader Classifieds. You also receive a free "voice mailbox"—a phone service that allows you to record and receive messages from any touch-tone phone.

NOW TO PLACE YOUR AD: To place a free Phone Matches ad, fill out the coupon below and mail or PAX it (233-7907) to us. (If faxing, please photocopy he coupon first and then fax it. The newsprint doesn't reproduce well.) The deadline for receiving free Phone Matches ads is Saturday at 7am. Free ads are 25 words or less and run for two weeks. No free ads will be accepted over the phone or in person. Ads with more than 25 words cost $1.20 per additional word. We'll send you a $4-digit intalious number (to be printed in your ad) and a 4-digit security code for exclusive access to your responses.

You may also place a late ad until 6pm Tuesday by phone (235-8200), in our for (1703 India 5), at Date St., downtown), or by PAX (233-7807). The charge for these late add is $200 for the first 25 words plas $1,0 per additional word. Add placed by phone or by FAX are with Visa or MasterCard only. Limit one Phone Matchea ad per person per two-week period.

HOW TO USE YOUR VOICE MAILBOX: After you receive your mailbox number and private security code, you can record your personal introduction. Call 527-1966, 24 hours a day, and follow the easy instructions.

527-1966, 24 hours a day, and follow the easy instructions. Use your instructions. Use your instructions to tell more about yourself than your ad does (see below for guidelines). Give your first name, but DON'T give your last name, phone number or adobtes. Made sure you ask your callers to leave their names, phone numbers and the best times to call them. You can re-record your personal instruction once per 32-hour personal. All introductions are reviewed by the Feader and go on-line within 24 hours.

To listen to your responses, call $27-1966 any time, 24 hours a day, and follow the easy instructions. You can replay any response or more shead to the next one. If you choose to move ahead, the previous response will be erased, so have a pencil and piece of paper ready? You must have a touch-tone phone to record a personal introduction or listen to responses.
