CAN A REGION OF CANCEROUS FREEWAYS TURN ITS PRECIOUS REAL ESTATE INTO PARADISES OF VINES?

AN AUSTERE

BY LAWRENCE OSBORNE PHOTOGRAPHS BY PAUL STACHELEK

Over the last year the powerful, sumptuous vineyards of Northern California, the Napa and Simi estates that have poured the Golden State's vinous nectar across the globe, have been the scenes of viticultural carnage of unprecedented ferocity. The worm that has caten into the rose? The winemaker's most clearly fouce. Phyllacrar. Whole vineyards have been ripped up and replanted, 1600 acres in Napa alone, 420 in Simi. Says Napa County farm advisor Ed Weber, at least another 6000 acres are infected. In short, catastrophe. Type B of the bug is a new strain, attacking the AXR#I root stock planted in the 1970s to combat the original strain of Psyllozers of a century ago. And as Napa and Simir run into their biggest crisis yet, some eyes are turning southward to the virtually unknown wine-producing estates of Temecula and Escondido. There may as yet be no great wines here, but, contrary to accepted opinion, the materials to make them are.

Why pick someone up, when you can pick someone out?

If you're still hoping to meet the person of your dreams by chance at a bar, supermarket, gym or carwash, then keep dreaming. At Great Expectations we provide an exclusive environment where you can meet hundreds of eligible singles who share a common goal. Not staying single. What we do best is take the guesswork and the awkwardness out of dating. Through up-close and personal videos, you have an opportunity to get to know the person before you ever meet face to face.

Pick up a pen and fill out and mail this profile to take control of your romantic future.

A Good Flattop Is Pretty Hard

By Pat Daugherty

where's usually not a compelling reason to drift through the small towns of Imperial Valley — Kane Spring, Westmorland, Brawley — and there wasn't that time. I'm driving north out of Brawley on Route 111 past farming roads with grand names like Hoober, Schrimpf, Noffsinger. To the east, in the distance, is an artifact from California's last functioning public works program.

Inside the shop is its proprietor, Citriano Dellira, late-middle age, an Imperial Valley resident for nine years. Five-foot-cipht, large brown eyes, a barred chest but no pot belly. Dellira swars a light blue barber's smock, black slacks, losfers. On top of his tanned, brown, oval face is a dashing, one could say vibrant swath of thick black bair. It was a good two hours before I realized it.

hair. It was a good two hours before I realized it was a toupee.

The barker shop is small, maybe 12 feet by 26. There are a half dozer leather smokers, chairs you'd have seen in train stations back in the '40s. A cracked mirror langs on one wall. Opposite the mirror are Not and the '40s as eat in the vacant, chrome-trimmed barber chair and ask. "How long you been in Niland!"

An appealing, basso, Spanish-accented voice replies, 'Got here three years ago. So I drove over and saked the owner if he needed somebody, and he says, 'Well, I won't need anybody for maply an other two or three works. So I said, 'Olasy, 'Ill give you my phone number.' I bout coming over and giving me a hand?

"He's a snowbird, so I'm in the shop and pretty soon he tells me. 'You know, 'I dile you to buy this shop from me.' I said, 'No. I don't want to, I just want to work.' To make a long story short. "When did that stop?"
"It's been going on for four or five years, maybe more. But just said, Well, we don't shawe. When I was at the shop in Brades, we didn't shawe either. Another thing, you kind of love the knack of sharpening the razor. You'd be surprised, when you don't do it too often, how quick that goes. You've got to have a sharp razor. "Is there a future in small barbers shops, or is it going to be all fast-food barbering? "I don't think these small shops will ever go out of exis-shops will ever go out of exis-parbering?"

"I'll speak frankly. There are dirty people. Some people their personal hygiene is not too good. Some of these guys. I'm telling you, you can't even get close to them. How many times do you see people they get close to them. How many times do you see people that look clean, but they strik like hell? A nervous person, their perspiration striks; yoo can smell them from out the door. They don't realize you have to have clean hair to get a good haircut."

Dear Matthew Alice: How do they get the lead into a wood pencil? And how come we don't get lead poisoning as children by doing all that schoolwork in pencil?

Where have you been for the last 400 years, I.H.? You've got some catching up to do. Actually, the lead-in-a-pencil question is a classic. It's the one-bit of "common knowledge" that practically everyhody know is wrong. And because we think we're clever enough not to be footed by this "fact," we're consinced that everything else we know is right. Each of us somehow, somewhere has karmed that there in it any lead in a leed pencil, so we smught figure we're immune to be the bad facts. (We base this on the assumption that everybody else believes there is lead in a pencil. Wrong, Nobody else believes the Well, almost nobody.) If we arreit fooled by that one, figure, then we must have some inside track on reality. But of course, that belief is just one more had fact.

Dear Mart:
I know that question is probably not very P.C. but I've got to ask it anyway. I think I have a pretry good idea of what the Third World is. And I think from that I can figure as what the First World is, But then what is left to be the Second World? Is there as a World? There must be if we have a Third World and a First World. Back in the Egregious Eighties, the U.S. government and news media liked to play a little game colled Middle Eastern Terrorist. The way the worked was, you found some violent assassination, a random shooting—and blamed it on Middle Eastern Terrorists. Then you'd have a blaze of newspaper heedlines and hyperfolic speculations on the TV meeting of newspaper heedlines and hyperfolic speculations on the TV meeting of the play of the play wave of arroscines by Middle Eastern Terrorists.

The moral of the story was always the same. Mr. and Mrs. North America, you are no longer safe in your bods. We dell all shudder a bit, thanking God that Ronald Reagan's handlers had doubted the defense budget. Gradually the headlines budget. Gradually the headlines budget. Gradually the press ("Six Monthis Later, Terrorist Act Is Sill a Nystery"). Then we'd get hit with a new atrocity, and the game would begin all over a gain.

By the mid-80s, the basic rules of Middle Eastern Terrorist were clear.

The Act must be described as the work of Islamic Fundamentalists or Shiite Moslems.

2) The Terrorist Act must never hurt anyone really important. Victims had to be nobodies — Marine grunts in Lebanon, a black soldier in Berlin, holiday passengers in the skies over Lockerbie. 3) Finally, the Terrorists du jour it — authentically brilliant, no flute can express erotic gypy passions the way a violin can.

No such reservations were suggested by Piccinni's performances of Schubert's Introduction and Variations on "Trock'ne Blumen" or the Poulenc Flute Sonata, both of which were compacted for this instrument, and both of which the fluttist played with extraordinary beauty and fire. The Poulenc, in particular, was stunning, and it also had the advantage of providing an impressive example of Haefliger's artisty, for the piano part is quite as substantial as the flute.

Tind camping very romantic. Problably one of my most romantic date was out camping. I leve flow red and the was out camping. I leve flow rodge of flowers are in bloom. I drove out there with a girlfriend once, and we venued off the beater trail in her old Honda. It took just a few minimary rodge of the property of the pro and confortable with him from the beginning. He invited us to his camp-for dittner that night. He barbecued great chicker, and we drawk sive and told ghost stories. He was working in Orange Country at the time, but he moved down here three years ago, and we've been together ever-since.

Dear Dr. Perlman:

I often talk to aliens. No one believes me. Some people told me. I was severely mentally ill because only I can hear their voices. In I it possible that there are aliens and that they can communicate psychically into my mind? How can I tell?

Dear Chosen:
All things are possible, but not everything is probable.
Aliens communicating psychically into your mind falls in the category of improbable. If you share these communications with those around you, the likely outcome will be disbelief and those around you, the likely outcome will be dishelief and ejection. People who claim special "fifthe" or implish other find themselves socially isolated. Since your illumination is even more improbable, you are likely for find youneff more isolated than they. Therefore, you might wish to be cleared physically by a professional before you share your experiences any further, or before you act on anything the alien voices might suggest. Confirming your physical and mennal stability is expectally advised before acting usen any of the voices' requirement services are supported, or that involves financial is fol any type.

WOMEN, YOU'RE NOT ALONE.

Why?

Because over 40 million Americans are affected with a sexually transmitted disease, otherwise known as an STD. Over three million are affected with GENITAL WARTS.

NCRC of San Diego is conducting a clinical research study on a new treatment for external genital warts.

Qualified volunteers will receive free medical attention which includes:

- · a free medical evaluation
- · free laboratory tests, including a PAP smear and HIV testing
- · free study medication.

If you are over 18 and think you have genital warts, fessed to murdering a repo man ("Letters to the Editor," February 4). What makes one skeptical in this case is howmurder. Not only does Chris G. tell us (and therefore the police) cascady who his victim was (a repo man shot Los Angeles in 1979) but, more amazingly, who he himself is (a person with a truck
