When I was at Higgs, Fletcher 8. Mack I started wearing one. I told myself before I left Vertram that I'd take the time to stop and until the flowers, and I guesa the way that I started to do that was by wearing one a couple days or so. And people there really reacted to it positively. When It came time to have a trial, I questioned whether or not I abould wear the boutonier. I brought. "Well, damm it, I do wear a carration every day, so why should I change and not be myself in the courtroom?" So I wore it. I was shocked at the response. Per male jurnors in particular liked it. and I didn't have a carration on. When I stood up, Judge Gilbert Harelson actually made some comment like "Mr. Barelotota. See that you don't respect this court. You're not properly attited. Now you may address this court when you are. Go get you carrantion." So I had to go to the florist and get my carration and come back!

It's important for first-impression reasons. But if you're putting on a façade, in dress or hairstyle or whatever, a jury will see through it. Some things you can do more effectively than men, because the jury accepts things from women that they don't from men. In damages, for example. I think a woman can more easily displayemotion and tap into feelings. If her eyes well up with tents, the jury probably will tent to accept that more readily than they might from a man. But on the other hand, they don't accept things that they do from men. So you have to be very careful.

They would tell you that they don't pick their clients, but I think having the burden of proof and being effective in selling your case without allenating some juror in some way is harder. And you take all the risks. I mean, the plaintiffs 'lawyer is it. There's a reason why there aren't 500 successful plaintiffs 'lawyer is it. There's a reason why there aren't 500 successful plaintiffs 'lawyers in San Diega, It's very difficult. One perception is that it's all a big vat of money that people fall into, but the plaintiffs' lawyers that I know well work incredibly hard. They may not want you to know that. But anyone who has achieved that level of success has to.

y 5:00 p.m. on a Monday night I'm dressed and waiting for Emma Scott to arrive and take me to Kearny Mesa Bowl on Clairemont Mesa Boulevard. Emma, who's in her mid-30s, has been bowling since she was seven. In New Jersey where she was born and later in Los Angeles where she grew up, bowling with her father and two brothers was not only her number-one sport but her driving obsession — for a brief period she was even married to a bowling fanatic. Emma bowls every Monday night in a league with four men, she drops in for bowling practice every Saturday and Sunday, and mid-week if she has no other pressing evening engagements, she automatically heads for Kearny Mesa Bowl because it's so close to her home. Just as some women are called fools for love, Emma is a fool for bowling. I'm just a fool.

Chris: I placed an ad because I've always thought that people in bars put up facades.

Joann: When he called me, he sounded shy on the phone so I said, "This sounds extremely painful for you—and very, very difficult."

Chris: I felt I hadn't projected myself very well on the phone. She was more pointed in her questions...

Joann: ... ever the New Yorker ...

Chris: With Phone Matches we had a chance to talk on the phone first and get to know each other. I found the things she said intriguing.

Joann: On our first date, at dinner, he was so quiet during the meal, I thought, "Oh no, this is a real winner." After dinner we went to the Grover Washington Jr. concert at Humphrey's.

Chris: We didn't really have a chance to talk because we were focused on the concert, so I asked her if she would like to go out a second Chris: This woman is different. There isn't superficiality. There's intelligence. She's a person you can talk with.

Joann: We had our wedding in the most beautiful place. We had classical guitar music, French food and lots of champagne.

Chris: It was just a coincidence that we married almost a year to the day of our first date.

Joann: I'm a native New Yorker, he's a native - Californian; the odds that we found each other were tremendous. We are fortunate...I will be happy spending every single moment for the rest of my life with him.

The Gentle, Caring World of Dead Fans I just finished reading Gina Arnold's "preview" of Jerry Garcia and have concluded that it would be difficult to find a better example of an ig-norant, hate-filled, stereotypi-cally shallow voice anywhere in print. I'm sure it is very "cool" in Gina's small little writer she would at least feel somewhat compelled to have some idea of what the fuck she was talking about. Her image of Deadheads is so stereotypi-cally shallow it is mind-bog-gling. I first heard about the band from a friend of mine who was finishing up his Ph.D.

Purgod offers another variant on Curry's ex-ploration of what we might call "subjective still life." A calligraphic array of harr, this branches and roigs, dark gray, is disposed against — and immersed — a murby gray green background. It is not the Platonic essence of branches that dominates the jointer, but the constitutive mood of dejection, which is reflected in the subject, in the subbacl (and perfect) color harmony, and in the subbacl (and perfect) color harmony, and in the subbacl (and perfect) which is the sub-design, so seemingly casual — although atten-tive inspection will disclose an intricate, freely inventive, formal arrangement of branches and their forks, almost all expressively oriented down-ward for toward the right. But if has is one con-sured to toward the right.

If you have a membership at another clab, we understand - even if it doesn't offer you nearly the variety of services The Sporting Club offers our members. After all your club is two, maybe three minutes closer to your house. Oh, well... If only your club had a steam room, or executive locker rooms. Still your old club is tried and truce. even if it's not quite as elegant as The Sporting Club, and it does get kind of crowded at your old club. Hmmm...

Come to think of it, why are you still going to your same old club when you could be trying out. The Sporting Club? Oh, go ahead! Call us. We'll show you around; you'll really like our club or we'll evice you your money back!
