"What's your day like?" Well, we have to be here at 5:30 a.m., and start surgery at 7:30. When we walk into work, there's a board on the wall that lists the surgeries, and then you know where you are going to be. You're usually in that room for the whole day unless every thing is changed around, or something is canceled. We get off at 3 o'clock. Today is a very mellow day; some days, it's just one operation after the other.

$1000 House Payment Might Be Less Than $850 In Rent.

(Second In A Series On How To Get The Home You Want.)

To a lot of us, the idea of making house paymer means you'll never order Filet Mignon in a restaurant again. While paying rent allows you to afford not only

Not so. Especially these days, with home prices ning down and mortgage interest rates at their lowest in 20 years.

In fact, owning a home is actually more affordable than renting. Consider these facts:

First of all. house payments are one of the few tax deductions left from your personal income. You can't deduct credit card payments, car loan payments (unless it's part of your business) or a personal loan. But you can deduct the interest on your monthly mortgage payments, which For example: Let's say your household income is $45,000 a year and you've been paying $850 a month rent. With the tax deductions of home owner-ship, you could afford a housepayment of $1000 a month - including property taxes, Mello Roos and particular case.)

Second, some of the fees you pay in obtaining your loan (particularly those known as "points") are also tax deductible.

icantly more house these days

In fact Presley alone offers 13 different models ere the payments can be under $925 monthly (P&I only) with a 5% down payment.

Take, for instance, Glen Arbor. Here, you could pay as little as $750 a month (PSI)* for a wonderful 3-bedroom single-family home in inland North County's scenic ity. With taxes, Mello Roos and homeowners insurance, your payment comes to $975. And that's with only 5% down on an ARM loan. There are also 30-year fixed rate loans beginning at $1225 a month - including taxes. Mello roos and insurance - with 5% down. So, the rent check you're making out to your landlord (who still hasn't ixed the screen door) could just as easily be going toward a home.

ou, talk to us at any neighborhood Presley builds. Or for those who hate talking to people in "sales," we'll send you a Monthly Payment information kit without obligation. So you can look over some figures and charts in the privacy of your own home.

Just call us at (6)9) 451-6300, ext. 300 and ask for your Monthly Payment Information Kit. It's free. Which will leave you free to think about where you'll plant the roses, place the hammock, and order the Filet Mignon

I was eating my second piece of chicken when I noticed that Alan was semi-tangled in hid shoul-der holster straps. He was trying to take his shoul-der holster off, so I pulled the strap down his left shoulder, causing the pistol to fall out. Alan put the pistol in the side pouch, then went to the

I always walked the strip — call it supersti-tion or whatever. Pilots are a strange breed. The coastline was five miles off our right wing. Shrimp boats were working the shallow coastal waters north of Mazatlán. The flat coastal plain stretched 40 miles to the mountains off our lef wing. It was spring; the plains were green and lush.

We passed over the west end of the Mazatlán airport and Alan came alive. He tuned Mazatlán tower in and looked out for traffic. When we were clear of the airport traffic area, he said, "All right, old boy, turn 25 degrees to the right and fly to the shoreline." I did.

We reached the shoreline, and I turned left and paralleled it. "All right, Alan, show are the nclusions. Finally, I feel I should add a word here with specific ref-erence to the Akiki case. The erence to the Akiki case. The recall procedure available to adults through the therapy I describe is simply not there for little children, and there is a reason for this. Little children have a built-in emotional sur vival mechanism that allows them to effectively block (n press) the memory of early traumatic experience. Survival is the name of the game for little children, and nature provides them with the automatic ability to push such experience down, store it away for a later time when the older adult whom that child eventually equipped to deal with the trauma.

The manipulating tactics of neurotic adults who are unable to face and deal with the emotional problems of their own lives are directed instead toward their children. It's a diversionary ploy in which par-ents and the authorities join forces in an attempt to drag out of the children conscious memories. In the case in que tion it is probable that such memories are totally nonexistent. The responses extracted from the children are most likely simple survival tech-niques, natural reactions to satisfy meddling adults: give the adults the answers you healthy business of being a child. There may indeed, in some cases, be behavioral symptoms of other real trauma in the lives of some of these children, but you can be sure those experiences are safely buried for now. The fact is that all too often, emotion-ally disturbed adults use chil-dren to avoid looking at them-selves. As in the McMartin case. I believe that is what we are witnessing here.

The Biggest Hidden Scandal In San Diego

Abe Opincar's Akiki article, "Speak, Memory," really hit the nail on the head. I like your sound and scientific re porting and the fact that you use credible sources, like Dr. Michael Yapko, to expose the Akiki case for what it really is. county has never worked. It is time for the Board of Su-pervisors to take direct action. Psychiatrists and psycholo-gists are making big bucks off Akiki, wasting time trying to extricate "lost, nonexistent" memories at $70-$150 per session. Carefully picked thera pists that are on the court's approved forensic psycholo-gist/psychiatrist list get regular case assignments and funding for this kind of work. It is easy to see how there is big money behind supporting false molest allegations. This is actually the biggest hidden scandal in San Diego County. I call it "ther-apy fraud."

Victor and Robin Bagwell

CUTE, LOVING WOMAN, 26, 5'3', 155 lbs., looking for man that wants

Robin: I placed the ad in February of 1991. I really wanted someone to settle down with. I wasn't just looking for fun and games.

Victor: At the time, I was meeting a lot of my dates at bars. It was getting old ... and expensive. You know: "Been there, done that."

Robin: I had 75 responses to my ad. Everyone who called was very professional.

Victor: I was looking through the Reader classifieds for a computer. I noticed Robin's ad and said, "What the heck?" I called and left a message.

Robin: I don't remember his message, but his voice sounded very nice. When I called him back, we talked for an hour and a half.

Victor: Then she broke our first date.

Robin: I was already dating someone else from Phone Matches, and that person wanted us to get more serious. Even after I cancelled our date, though, I wondered what Victor was like.

Victor: So she called me back. We met at the Bennigan's in Mission Valley.

Robin: I got there first. When I met Victor, I just knew he was the one. I felt real comfortable with him.

Victor: I was driving a Volvo. Not many creeps drive Volvos

Robin: And he was wearing a suit and tie. The same one he wore when we got married 12 days later.

Victor: True. By our third date, we had decided to move in together.

Robin: And then we said, "Since we're going to live together, why not get married?"

Victor: So we got married in a civil ceremony on March 9, 1991.

Robin: We didn't wear our rings until the Catholic ceremony on May 9 of this year. Now we're looking forward to having two children — a girl and a boy.

Victor: 2.5, actually. A dog, too.

Robin: And after Victor sells his screenplay, we're retiring and moving to a big house in Montana.

Victor: Right now, we're just enjoying sharing

The playwright is obsessed with oppositions — art versus nature, science versus religion, illusion versus reality — many of which he underscores with curtain lines that a triunderclaps headed our way. A lively production can overcome these difficulties. But at the Lamb's Players, Theater, editor, the Robert these difficulties. But at the Lamb's Players Theater, director Robert Smyth's Isidessly paced, stiffly acced staging has coaxed the play's flaws into sharper focus. She, like Katchur, is stuck in the '70s-folk mode of song-writing. I don't want to hear any more about breezes blowin' or raindrops fallin', I don't like it when singers close their flut-tering evelids to intone the mos/universe thing it bums me out, reminds me too much of my childhood: my drug-entranced mom, the hammocks (yes, more than one) on our front porch, the green jugs of cheap red wine, and the macrames my mother spent her free time making. It all leaves a rancid taste in my mouth, just like the crappy vino.

Iris has a great someplace-else voice, a deep-woods, country inflection, rather than the slick Texas accent of to-morrow's K-Tel country superstars. Hearing her pour her honey-tinged voice all over her best lyrics is like standing in an open field in the dead of summer and having a breeze swing by and blow you down.

"Church was better than TV."

From "Hotter Than Mojave in My Heart," Iris sang:

DeMent's voice isn't per fect. It isn't conventionally sentimentally sweet. She hits some notes off-key. She re-minds me a little of Hank Williams's wife Audrey and her collection of rustic songs. In their off-centered, awkward their off-centered, awkward way, they provided the most charming tidbits of Southern life. Likewise, Iris DeMent makes you feel the humidity of a summer in Arkansas. one time (though later in the movie she will taunt him with the fact that she never once had an orgasm with him, giving us some idea of the steepness of her expectations), and he is now reduced to climbing the tree on her front lawn and peeping into the second-story bedroom window. The view from the branches is truly spectacular, like something out of a music video — candles aflicker, diaphanous drapes stirred by the breeze, a bit of absentminded striptease from peignoir to brassiere — and indeed, "Woman in Chains" by Tears for Fears soon begins to play on the soundtrack, before a long-haired pop-singer-type enters the window frame, bends the sex ob-Chains" by Tears for Fears s ject ninety degrees backwards, and generally spoils the view.

Anxious for closer contact, the hero invites Helena to the housewarming at his newly inherited mansion, and she, always on the lookout for another piece of masculine Kleenex to use and iscard, condescends to make an appearance. His current girlfriend, an attractive but small-breasted woman, poses the natural question: "Who's hat?" "She's Helena," is the host's that? "She's Helena, is the host's complete reply, and it's left to Helena herself to provide further definition by taking off her dress and stepping into the outdoor fountain in slow-motion. And now, fin to earlier, might be the proper time to mention that the writer and director of the movie is a woman herself. Jennifer Chambers, Junch, further the mention at the same tor David Lynch (Twm Peaks, etc.). Al., sex., well.

Ah...yes...well.... The day after the party, and after, needless to add, she has selected a fresh piece of Kleenex to take home with her, Helena is lured back to the house her, Helena is Iured back to the house to retrieve her purloined address book, and is considerate enough to get her-self run over by a van in the street out front. The hero, who will not stop at purloined address books to hold on to her, performs an emergency dou-ble-leg amputation right on the premises (Twin Shumps, so to speak), the blood of the condition of the condition of the blood of the condition of the condition of the blood of the condition of the condition of the blood of the condition of the condition of the condition of the blood of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of the condition of the condition of the condition of the street of the condition of t his beloved 'round the clock.

A situation somewhat reminiscent of The Collector develops (a caller of The Collector develops (a caller comes to the front door, the prisoner is bound and gagged, and so on), most particularly in the captive's relectance to the comes to the front her captor, develorin. The life time, slap him, choke him. And so, partly inspired by the plaster reproduction of the Vernus de Milo in the parlor, he lops off both her arms for both times of the comes o tire business. In fact, not nearly enough of it. But no matter. The it-was-only-a-dream excuse is not just a bad excuse; it's no excuse.

Kulifornia centers around a sub-sict of broader interest serial murder. Yet it is guaranteed to lose interessed parties all along its road-movie itinerary from Kentucky to Kalifor-nia — so spelled in order to convey the illucory nature of the place, where, ac-cording to Middle American myth, you never have to buy fruit because it grows on trees all around you, and you get the first month's rent free by law. Among other things.

law. Among other things.

One point — actually a continuous unbroken line — at which the movie is apt to lose people is its visual style. The first-time feature director. billoof hap come propin a com-tinuous propins and the common of the common of the con-contail-party colleguy on market and ceil and capital punishment is just a collage of sound-bite platitudes a cled-dazzle helter-skelter surface a cled-dazzle helter-skelter surface a cled-dazzle helter-skelter surface a coverhead shot of the clear cleder cetc.). The style never betrays the least warreness of, much less interest in. Another point—another continuous line—at which the movie is likely to lose people is the on-screen silicitud of the subject. David Duchowny, whose fat lipped pouti-style collegues and the collegues of the sacre of What does Richard Gere have that I haven's got! and How would my face look if I actually had thoughts my head? His voice-over narration which incidentally squelches some of which incidentally squetches some of the potential suspense, offers no reassurance as to his mental capacity. "I the bad things that happen, You never really do, though."

Another likely point of debarkation is the tremendous stroke of luck bestselling author decides to set out on a cross-country tour of historic murder sites in preparation for a book (with photos by his guiffriend, a special and advertises on a campus bulletin and advertises on a campus bulletin and advertises on a campus bulletin board for a ride-share couple (his Lin-coln convertible gets only eight miles per gallon). Who should be the lone per gallon). Who should be the lone applicants for this position but a redneck serial murderer — quelle coincidence!— and his dimwit gilfriend? And still another point, or merely a continuation of the previous point, is the outfitting of these two characters, by Brad Pitt and Juliette Lewis respectively, with Southern accents designed for maximum mockery and insuit.

Actually, the mockery and insult provide what little (and low) entertainment there is to be had in the movie. It is far too little, however, to stand up to the final, protracted, depressingly formulaic spree of gore Maybe a few people in the audience, maybe a lot of people in the audience, maybe a lot of people in the audience, honestly enjoy that modern-day ritual of silently imploring the terrorized hero and heroine, or even of crying out loud to them, to hit, stab, shoot, bash in the skull of their terrorizer while he's down, because it's one-hun-dred-percent certain he will soon be popping up again.

For those with very different tastes, especially those who need to get the above tastes out of their mouths, we are fortunate to have, in its second and final week at the Park, El Cid (1961), complete with intermission and four-minute blank-screen "overture" (the estimable Miklos Rozsa, musical scorer), and at the Ken for five days starting Friday, The Scarchers (1956). We do not have the former in 70mm nor the latter in widest-screen Vis nor the latter in wides screen Vis-urbison at a two-to-one aspect ratio (at least we didn't at the press screen-ing), but we can't have everything, equal as palate-cleaners, but re-secing The Searchers offers the sup-plementary interest of musing on the systemious singling-out process of film ities that make it somewhat taxing to st through (pretentiousness, ponder-ousness, epe-ness) are the ones that qualify it as loth Ford's 'definitive allering the process of the control of the critics' poll, sight and Sound maga-critis' poll, sight and Sound magacritics' poll, Sight and Sound maga-zine). The indifferently staged action, the cornball comedy, the hero's unconvincing last-second change of heart are relatively minor drawbacks. Geology lab was on Tuesdays and tists even though she needed to go. Geology lab was on Tuesdays and Thursdays. As much as I liked it because of the subject matter, I was because of the subject matter, I was always heritant because of her has breath. I guess I was just a wimp. I should have been more direct, has I didn't want to hurt her feelings. Later that year, I saw her on campus walking arm in-arm with a guy. I remember wondering whether she had resolved the problem or if he was able to somehow overlook it.

Have you ever had to interact with someone with B.O.?

an Diego's turn-of-the-century answer to Monterey's Lone Pine? This gnarled wooden bridge, part of a series of similar walkways, gazebos, and retaining walls, once graced the edges of Sunset Cliffs. "Spalding Park" was the dream of sporting goods magnate Albert Goodwill Spalding, who had snapped up the land west of Ocean Beach extending up to the Theosophical homestead atop Point Loma. In 1925, ten years after Spalding's death, the land was purchased by real estate subdividers, who in turn improved the land and deeded it to the city in 1926. The soft sandstone and clay of the cliffs eventually yielded to the inexorable waves of the Pacific Heart floys Choir reveal their spread-busting, double-bed, no-touching, par-ley-party techniques. — Local sports round-up: The San Diego Croquet Club, aka the Malleteers, have recently finished their Baja Invitational Croquet Tournament held each year at a different location along the sunny shores of our Laiin neighbor. The never-say-die team of David Baze and Robert Schneider sxored a four-hour-plus, come-from-behind victory to humiliate the seemingly invincible "No, you can't come from obtaind sector to humbiate the seemingly inviscible. "No, you carly borrow our equipment." Invitries, Andrew Spurgina and Alfred Paganos. Hats off proper attite, good manners and decent follow-through will still carry the days. Regulars will notice that Nexada Bob has returned for the footfall section. His first pick was Kansas Gity, "That's the way to start. Lay a touchdown on the road, Jee will swart to look good." Welcome back, Bob.
