lack of good judgment. But I went to high school with some of these guys and remember when they were just a couple of these guys and remember when they were just a couple of longhairs (Sam and Kelly) listening to glam bands like Poison and Def Leppard. Where they came to this point, I'll never know. It must spurn from this Seattle grunge thing MTV seems to pound in your head while robbing you of any individuality. Pete Small, while talking about racism. while talking about racism says, "I hate about 90 percent of the human race." (Sounds pretty prejudiced to me, Pe tey.) That means that nine out of ten people reading this arti-cle don't fit into your high standards (porno mags and putting a f____ in front of ev-ery sentence). from CHP officer Mason, an accident reconstruction expert.

Although Mason initially estimated Garcia's speed at the time of the accident as 45 miles per hour — ten miles per hour below the legal speed limit — he later testified at trial that Garcia was traveling at least 56.1 miles per nour. That opinion was the basis for the violation of driving at an unsafe speed, which bumped the offense from a misdemeanor to a felony.

The following spring, while Garcia's case was being appealed, the California Highway Patrol "suspended Mason from performing accident reconstruction because his methods were not consistent with current standards in the field," according to

to be enjoying himself. Like an irrepressible little boy who, against all the odds, gets to ride at top speed with a flashing light through a busy city while adults stand around helplessly. When he spots a painted ex-cop car being driven by a face he doesn't know, with a hooker he does know in the passenger's seat, his face lights up. "Gee, I love this bit!" We follow the car around the block two times, and it becomes clear that it is going nowhere in particular. We pass into a leafy residential street and Crankshaw hits the lights. The car pulls over kind of lazily, and as soon as it stops, a plump Latino clambers out in a neat pressed white shirt. He holds up his hands in mock Crankshaw doesn't and is nettled. The hint of small-town corruption is difficult to manage, and he handles it by being suddenly cold and officious. The older officer, somewhat en.barrassed, walks off, and we take the pimp down to the station to fill out the paperwork.

By now the jail is full of doped gangsters throwing their

"You know what? They're all fucking mad. Look at them.

We pull into one of the gas stations of Imperial and look over the haby-faced gangeters fooling around at the pumps. Nothing much seems to be happening. Crusing past the endless neon-int courtwards, sprinklered gardens, and 24-hour donut stores, it is easy to feel calm. Chapter Three, "Planning for Evacuation," finally gets down to the rust and I-solo of developing what the course quainty calls "your personal emergency plan." While your neighbors are tunning through the streets in their panic, you's calmly following your personal cocuration plan, are planning through the streets in their plans, are behind you, even if most of them by this time are playing gin rummy deep in some government shelter. "Later," the text advises, "when radiation levels are safer, bury the waste under one to two feet of earth."

Clearly, latrine duty will not be a popular

Not until the last few pages of the textbook does the course finally address what most people would consider the most likely repercussions of a nuclear crisis sickness, suffering, and death. The authors case into this delicate area by making it seem as though most injuries can be treated with reading burns, features a drawing of a human treating burns, features a drawing of a human the help of a good first-aid kit. It's hard to fathom how such lunacy could have passed for sainty, but the Cold War had its own rivisted logic. Even a sleepy old fossil like Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen was once a wild-eyed atomic warrior. At the height of the Korean War, then-Congressman Bentsen called for American Officials to warn North Korean clizens to evacuate their ordis and then start clizens to evacuate their ordis and then start (This chilling demand is preserved for posterity in the documentary film Atomic Cafe, which has recently been released on video.)

But at least Bentsen wised up and figured out that nuclear saber-rattling was a loser's game—even if you were right, you lost. But FEMA never

At least Washington finally understands there's a problem with FEMA and is slowly working to correct it. FEMA's new director Clinton-appointee James Lee Witt, admits that the agency has done poorly in the past, and he promises rapid improvement. A Senate bill being pushed by Senator Barbara Mikulski (D-MD) would significantly reorganize FEMA, streamlining bureaucracy and providing a one-stop shopping approach for natural disaster victims. And in the most dramatic about-face, FEMA's main the most dramatic about-face, FEMA's main focus would no longer be on nudear viid defense, most of the money FEMA budgets for the Big One would be used instead for natural disaster response. The Day After, it may turn out, is now. That is good nesse for the Bay Area, which, if history is any guide, will be needing FEMA's help again before too long. But it will probably mean the end of FEMA's mucker preparations with enough those, a nuclear great was winnished. You're Not Helping!!!

Well Reader, your writers hash everything from music to movines, from Dan Rather to Los Angeles subways. Now it is time for a taste of your own poison pen. John the proposion pen, don't hope you think that your attempts at critical writing are contributing anything to the public at large (which you seem to despise anyway). You see, Reader, you have a serious attitude problem. It isn't the big, bad world, it is your perception. Pretty frig-ging basic psychology. Don't you ever question your own little dysfunctional family unit? Why do you have a movie reviewer who hates movies? Why do you have a music reviewer who hates mu-sic (or at least has no func-tional knowledge of music)? Why do you listen to a guy who lives in Los Angeles and

Our world suffers from a disease called hopelessness. Ei-ther the subjects themselves, or ther the subjects themselves, or the photographer's predilec-tions, locate a large number of these images in deserts or bar-ren wild places, where the photographer's quest for un-derlying truth can get down to fundamental rock. The juxta-position of religious monuments from such radiimonuments from such radi-cally different cultures, so many of them in similar rocky sur-roundings, suggests that the deepest religious impulse is al-ways the same, in all times and ways the same, in all times and places, and that it is most fully satisfied in remote areas that are hard, dry, ungiving, inhuman.

Lisa Viertel's Deborah, caught in the switches like Danny, is often most eloquent when she doesn't say a word and simply shows us how repulsive Bernie is and how, were it not for which could have more verve than Damy Holgaris' restrained ar-rangements allow. So there are drawbacks. But then again, this is Harold Arlen, and, thanks to a solld, six-person cast and splashy design work (Renneth Foy's Deco-scenic design changes shapes as if it were a huge pack of cards being reshuffled), the musical revue lives up to is title. Monica Foge takes on the titans, Lena Horne, Ethel Bernie is and how, were it not for two very angry singles soloists (and boy, this is an angry play, in the characters and in Mamet's anger at the condition), she and Danny might have turned out together just fine. One of the most notable is simballino case Romeo, a party shell filled with rigatoni, sun-dried tomatose, eggplant, and porcini mushrooms, covered with mozzarella and bechamel sauce. It's baked in a clay oven, as it would be in the old country. The pastry shell is a contemporary touch. If you're a vegetarian, you'll enoy this as a first course or a small m-2d ($7.50). Livernese ($14.93) — grilled hallbut covered with fresh tomate sauce, black olives, capers, and oregano. The fish itself is meaty and appealing, but when you first look down at the plate, you're confronted by a see of fresh tomato sauce. I see that accompanies it. Many people have no objection to wall-to-wall tomato sauce. I, for one, would have preferred the grilled hallbut with nothing more than swordfish (fish of the day), grilled and topped with lemon sites, and enjoyed it more than the hallbut saturated with tomato sauce. Rumpelstiltskin may have whispered into the ears of the Romeo brothers, but only you can decide whether this restautomato sauce.

The service at Romeo Cucina is loving and attentive; the restaurant should prove a rant will turn to gold.

Roommate Hotline

Looking for a place to live? Now you can get a jump on your search before the Reader even hits the streets by simply calling the Roommate Hotline at 1-900-844-4663. Only 49 cents/minute. To place your roommate ad and get it on the hotline, call 235-2415, 24 hours a day. The cost is only $16. See the Roommate section for more details.

Paid Classifieds

Need a roommate or clients for your business? Have a vacant rental property? It's easy to place a 25-word Paid Classified ad in the Reader. For more information on paid ads, turn to page 115.

Phone Matches

L ooking for your special someone? Turn to find 700+ special someone where you'll find 700+ special someone where you'll find 700+ special someones to choose from. Or call the Phone Matches line at 1-900-844-6282 and "browse" through the introductions. Only 98 cents/minute, $1.98 for the first minute. Love is just a call away! See page 127 for details.

Sassy and spunky little spitfire, 21-31, sought by exceedingly handsome, 5'11", samurai. Your slender figure and sharp mind will be shielded from autumn's lonely chill.

In the great tradition of Yojimbo, Miyamato Musashi, and John Belushi, this guy's a real lem-do kinda guy. He insists that he's not just realling his saber. See page 123.

PICTURE STORY

by the San Diego Historical Society

dward Willis Scripps, his wife Nackie. and their Miramar Ranch foreman are seen in this photo taken at the ranch, circa 1906. It sprawled over 400 acres of mesa land 16 miles north of San Diego. Nackie was the daughter of a minister, swept off her feet by the older E.W. (she was 19, he 31) when he journeyed to the Midwest in 1885. They were married within four months of first meeting. Scripps was to say about the beautiful young woman in his writings, "She regarded me as a superman ... almost omnipotent."

Perhaps she was the curmudgeon's only true love. Scripps was known for his irascibility; he never backed down from a fight, be it a boyhood tussle or later while building his newspaper dynasty. He admitted he drank too much, carried a pistol, and practiced in the mirror giving an "evil eye" to his enemies. He died in 1926, reportedly of "Success Story" to share?

Phone Matches Success Stories:

Scott Martin and Carol Powell

LOOKING FOR A GREAT GUY? We've got the one! He's our boss. He's fun, romantic, handsome, smart, motivated, healthy, athletic. Prefers ages 30-40. 합

Scott: I'm the manager of a glass company in North County, and the girls there put the ad in. They knew I was going through a divorce. At first I thought they were playing a joke on me. I had no idea what the ad said.

Carol: Between working, going to the gym and being a single mother, I didn't have much time to meet men. I liked his ad because it was different. I didn't plan on leaving a message, but he sounded so nice and sincere, I did anyway.

Scott: One evening, while I was reviewing my phone messages, she called I freaked her out by calling her back within two minutes.

Carol: We talked a long time. My dinner burned.

Scott: She was so apprehensive at first, so I suggested a low-risk date. We went to Chuck E. Cheese's.

Carol: It was convenient for me to take my daughter; besides, if I didn't like him, she would be my excuse to leave early.

Scott: Our next date we went to the gym, and afterwards the Soup Plantation. The power suddenly went out. It was neat. Standing there in the dark I stole my first kiss.

Carol: At first this seemed risky and out of character for me, but it ended up being the best thing I ever did for myself. Scott is my dream made into reality.

Scott: A lot of people think that only losers use these personal ads. I had a doctor, an ex-C.I.A. agent, entrepreneurs, lawyers, etc.—all left messages. But from the moment I met Carol, I ignored all my messages and we've been together for over a year now!

Carol: We were sitting on the couch — all three of us — when he asked me to marry him. I said, "Wait a minute. I have to have a little conference with my daughter." She said, "Say yes!"

Do you have a Phone Matches"

Scott: It's rare to find a beautiful woman who's even more beautiful on the inside, but I found her and I'm a happy man.

SUNDAY – JACK MURPHY STADIUM. Three minutes and 27 accords left in the fourth quarter. Chiefe down it als to 10, low bottom ates, steps up, and throws his first pass of the series. I'm in the press box, looking down on the field, sipping on cold coffee, turn to the wire service gay sitting next to me, say, "That's it. That's the game. He's going to do it again." And, of course, loe does it again. Whe service gay sitting next to me, say, "That's it. That's the game. He's going to do it again." And, of course, loe does it again, makes his 27th tourth-quarter comeback as a pro.

L've been watching loe make fourth-quarter comebacks since the 1979 ofton Bowl. Joe was quarterbacking for Norte Dame and trailing Houston 34 to 12. Late in the game loe goes to work, makes his touchdowns, hits Kris Haines in the end zone on the final play to win 35-34, limmy Carter was president.

The second of t SUNDAY - JACK MURPHY STADIUM. Three minutes and 27 seconds left in the holes in every phase of the game. Their backup quarterback is the loathsome Dave Krieg and they have a head coach who is both arrogant and dumb, a devastating combo to have in a head coach. You can't imagine K.C. beating a team like Dallas.

Datias.

But every once in a while, for a few heart-stopping minutes, when all the mediocre and B+ Kansas City players are playing over their heads, all of them playing over their heads at the same time, all of them reaching up to where Joe playing over their heads at the same time, all of them reaching up to where lose haps, you can glimppe into the past and see magic. No time-outs, his team down by 4 points, 3 minutes and 27 seconds to play, 60 yards to go. You can see loe's consist of the past of the pa

No one who has ever lived can do what Joe does and has been doing for the last 15 years. He is the Fred Autisire of football. He is a genius. Which is what the Niners (now 3 and 3) forgot when they traded Montand and aslety David Whitmore and a 1994 third round draft pick in neturn for, get this, one first-round pick. They forgot that when you are a genius, you do live by separate rules. Io evil lige told and die (hopefully a long life and an easy goodbye), and along the way he will carry his full human share of defeat, pain and humiliation like the reast of us. But when it comes to football you can't make assumptions about Joe. He is unique; ordinary rules don't apply. At 37, he is still the finest quarterback in the NFL.

Last year, in San Francisco, Montans suggested to management that he and quarterback Seve Younc commette for starting role; but hought it would be a quarterback Steve Young compete for starting role. Joe thought it would be a good idea if he and Young put their salaries up, winner take all, the money and the job. The offer was declined and Steve Young is a much richer lad today

The Day Joe Came To Town

I lived in the Bay Area for most of the Eighties, and have spent my share o time in 49er training camps, press rooms, and locker rooms. Towards the end, '89, '90, when it became clear to even the dumbest amongst us who loe is, and what we had by having him around, it was weird to watch feature writers inter-

A lot of these writers had interviewed the world: Ferdinand Marcos, Georg A to or three whete has interviewed ne worth: returnation Marizon, cooping Bush, Nelson Mandela, Hollywood queens, handlist and generals from Asia to the tip of South America. And these men would arrive in their $800 usits, on their questions, and when the interview with low was over, the tape recorder turned off, the parties would stand up to say goodbye, and some of these writing would stanmer and shuffle like little boys and tentatively offer, "Unim, I just would stanmer and shuffle like little boys and tentatively offer, "Unim, I just would stanmer."

wanted to that you for all the mente topy and tennatively order. Online; ) jobs wanted to that you for all the mente topy and tennatively order. Which is why! I was down pacing the stadium tunnel as K.C. players came off the field and into the showers. I had no questions to ask, didn't want to hear what for thought of the game, or the season. I was there only to catch his eye. A could say "Hey for, thank you. I just wanted have one moment of his attention, a I could say "Hey for, thank you. I just wanted
