But one soldier did admit that he had gained 10 pounds since he arrived last month. The problem, according to city officials, is that the soldiers are not exercising enough and are eating too much.

The Bloodiest
By Clinton G. Brame, as told to Ray Westberg

My name is Clinton G. Brame. I enlisted in the United States Marine Corps on November 14, 1943, at the' Federal Building on Market and 13th Street, San Diego. I was never drafted. I hid for 3 months in the States until I was finally allowed to join the armed forces. I joined the Marine Corps because I had been interested in war since I was a kid. After I joined, I was sent to boot camp in the States for 6 months. I then went to school and was trained as a fighter pilot. I was stationed in the Philippines and was deployed to Okinawa, Japan. I was then deployed to Leyte Gulf and was part of the invasion of Iwo Jima. I served in the Pacific and was awarded several medals for my service.

G.I.s I was supposed to be with were dead... dispersd all over hell.

I passed all of the physicals at the Marine Corps station during the first two times, but when I arrived there and the routine started, I realized that I was not cut out for it. They put me through a series of tests, and I realized that I was not fit for the job. I also noticed that some of the other guys were not being treated fairly. I decided to drop out and find a job. I found a job as a construction worker and worked for a while. I then went to school and became a teacher. I taught for a few years and then became a writer. I have written several books and articles about my experiences during the war. I have been married five times and have three children. I live in a small town near San Diego and enjoy spending time with my family and friends. I also enjoy reading, writing, and traveling.

I Hate to Break This to You, Kitty, But...

By Susie Bright

You have heard Catherine MacKinnon's voice, maybe not her name. She is the one woman who has the nerve to say that rape is a crime. Even though she has been called a feminist, she is not afraid to go to jail to defend the right of women to hold a rally in the United States. Her book, "The Liberation of Women," was published in 1982 and has sold over 50,000 copies. She has been called a "radical" by some, but she believes that the only way to end rape is to end patriarchy itself.

Sexpert Susie Bright gets rough with Catharine MacKinnon

Susie Bright is a sex writer and activist who has written extensively on feminism and sexuality. She is the author of "The Female Fix," a book that explores the relationship between sex and power. In this interview, Susie talks about her relationship with Catharine MacKinnon and how she views the feminist movement.

MacKinnon's best recruits are virgins and naiads.

MacKinnon is a staunch supporter of women's rights and has been involved in various feminist movements. She is known for her radical ideas and has been criticized by some for her controversial views. However, her dedication to the cause of women's liberation is unwavering.

I'll Have You Know

by John Q. Public

As I was saying last week, I was at the spa to get my hair cut. While I was there, my hairdresser mentioned that he had just seen a new movie that was really good. I asked him what it was called and he said, "It's called "The Shawshank Redemption." It's about a man who spends 19 years in prison for a crime he didn't commit, but manages to find redemption in the end." I was intrigued by this and decided to check it out. I went to the library and found a copy, and boy was I in for a treat. This movie is truly a masterpiece. The acting was superb, the music was haunting, and the story was incredibly moving. I would highly recommend it to anyone who enjoys good film.

Ron Davis and Susan Lott-Davis

ADVENTURESOUL, happy, intelligent, loving, creative, metaphysical, philosophy, fun, wants similar companion, non-smoking, drinking, physically active.

Ron: I've been single since the mid-sixties, living alone on my boat. When I decided to put the boat up for sale and move back on land, I didn't really know how to get into the social scene. Then I heard about Reader Phone Matches.

Susan: I had a friend who got over 70 responses to her Phone Matches ad. She was busy breakfast, lunch and dinner! One Sunday morning I was watching some of her calls on my phone and suddenly I realized, "This is great!" Then I'm sitting with nothing to do on a Saturday night... So I looked up the back of the Reader and saw the Phone Matches.

Ron: The one that happened, we picked the best up the day, and met up together. Then we were married in Penasquitos Park on June 21.

Susan: We got Ron a real estate license...

Ron: Susan's been a broker for 25 years. We wanted to work together.

Susan: Now we share everything. And we really miss each other when we're apart.

Ron: Communication is the key. We're both busy, working, raising kids. It's growing all the time.

Susan: Ron's a kind, gentle soul. And more importantly, he's a working soul. He's growing all the time.

Ron: Well, Susan's my angel. She's the most caring, concerned person... I couldn't find a more perfect mate.

Susan: And I like you, too.

Did Someone Put a Spell on Her?

Sardonic declamation ... intense high-pitched screaming ... blasts of multi-pitched sound ... greeting invocation ... electronic resonances, echoes, distortion...

While a few years ago, lead singer Marc Bolan of T. Rex performs his own brand of theatrical fulminations and his electronic accompaniments, the current performance by Marc Bolan and his band, T. Rex, is more restrained and less theatrical. The band, which consists of Bolan, guitarists Stevelinky and Eddie Bland, and drummer Steve Currie, performed at the Greek Theater on Saturday night, with the assistance of electronic wizardry provided by a skilled technician. The music was a blend of rock and roll, folk, and experimental music, with Bolan's sardonic vocals driving the proceedings. The overall effect was similar to that of a rock concert, with the addition of electronic effects and Bolan's theatrical delivery.

The focus on one central theme was the idea of the witch as a powerful force, capable of controlling the minds of others. The witch was portrayed as a seductive and alluring figure, capable of mesmerizing her victims with her beauty and charm. The audience was left feeling disturbed and uneasy, as if they had just witnessed a real-life witchcraft ritual.

Bolan's vocals were both clear and expressive, with a wide range of emotions conveyed through his delivery. The lyrics were often dark and mysterious, with references to witchcraft and the occult. The music was equally compelling, with a mix of guitar riffs, drums, and electronic sounds creating a mesmerizing effect.

Overall, the performance was a success, with the audience left feeling both disturbed and fascinated by the witchcraft ritual that had just taken place.

Aliens Bomb Costa Mesa
The play's a dud, and the South Coast Repertory Theatre's production of "Aliens" is of little help.

"What exactly is 'Aliens'?" asks actor Ed Asner, trying to explain his role in the new play that has taken the nation by storm. Asner, who plays the role of Jonathan Adams, is one of the leading actors in the production, which opened last night at the South Coast Repertory Theatre in Costa Mesa.

"'Aliens' is a science fiction play about a group of astronauts who land on an alien planet and discover that the aliens have a way of turning people into aliens," Asner explains. "It's a really interesting story, and we've got a great cast."

Cowboys still sing cowboy songs. Only today it's not just with a lonely harmonica. It's with a cranked-up Stratocaster that howls, kicks and does everything it can to scream. "Let the stampede begin!"

When this is the heroine's sole "voice," it seems crucial that you be able to listen to it without a cabled lip.

An Hour's Journey into Another World

The owner was very apologetic she offered only 450 types of "pickles"; Japan boasts 10,000 kinds.

If you've worked your calendar hard and the allure of restorative anticipation at the thought of tabletops filled with fresh fruit and vegetables, then you're in for a treat in Sunnyvale, California. There's an event taking place here that's sure to captivate your taste buds as well as entice your sense of curiosity. The "An Hour's Journey into Another World" exhibit at the Japanese Gardens at the National Arboretum is a true delight for anyone with an interest in Japanese culture and cuisine.

The exhibit features over 450 different kinds of pickles, each with its own unique flavor profile. The owner of the exhibit, a Japanese chef, is very apologetic about the limited number of pickles on display, as Japan boasts over 10,000 kinds of pickles. However, she assures visitors that the exhibit is a great introduction to the world of pickles and a testament to the creativity and passion that goes into their preparation.

The exhibit is divided into several sections, each highlighting different types of pickles from various regions of Japan. Visitors will have the opportunity to taste some of the pickles on display and learn about their history and cultural significance.

A special highlight of the exhibit is the "Pickles of the World" section, which showcases pickles from other countries that have been influenced by Japanese cuisine. This section includes pickles from countries such as Korea, China, and Russia, among others.

In addition to the pickles, the exhibit also features a variety of other Japanese foods, including sushi, sashimi, and miso soup. Visitors can purchase some of these foods to enjoy on-site or take them home to continue their culinary journey.

The "An Hour's Journey into Another World" exhibit is open from now until the end of the month. Be sure to check the schedule for any special events or workshops that may be taking place during your visit.

So, if you're ready for a taste of Japan and a glimpse into the world of pickles, then make sure to visit the "An Hour's Journey into Another World" exhibit at the Japanese Gardens at the National Arboretum. You won't be disappointed!
