REMEMBER HOW, in the old "Lassie" movies, somebody would be in trouble or need help and Lassie somehow always happened to be nearby and the person would say, "Lassie, go tell the Sheriff that a tree fell on me," and Lassie would run off and deliver the message? It's too bad we all can't walk around with Lassies, because the world would be a better place. But there is another way to tell people we're in a tight spot. Now, we know a cellular phone is no substitute for a collie with an I.Q. of 120, but at least you'll always feel safe and secure knowing that you can call people and get help if you have a flat tire, or your car breaks down, or a tree falls on you. This cellular phone here is just $89, and if you sign up with AirTouch now, we'll also give you $50 of free calls." Who knows? Maybe $50 sometimes, just for kicks, you can call your dog to say hi when you're working late. He worries about you.

about 7:30 a.m. for the book sale organized by the Friends of the Rancho Bernardo Library. This event takes place on the lawn surrounding the library building; it wasn't scheduled to start until 8:00, and ribbons of yellow police tape enforced the perimeter. On the grass, volunteers uncovered the dozens of tables bearing books set out the night before. A dozen or so people waited behind the police tape, some craning their necks to read the closest titles. But I was more preoccupied by a premonition - a certainty that when the tapes were cut, I would stride out amid those thousands of volumes and make my way to a first-edition copy of Larry McMurtry's Lonesome Dove. JEWISH, 33, tall, attractive, professional, unencumbered. Enjoys laughter investments, home, travel, skiing, biking. Seeks unencumbered Jewish professional to share life, laughter, family, home and memories. **☎

Ann: I ran an ad in the Reader almost every week for about four years. I got tons of responses, but I was very selective. Some friends and I even wrote a software program to keep track of them all. We eventually got it licensed and sold some copies. It's called "Date-A-Base."

Alan: Ann's ad was pointed out to me by my mother. She'd look through the Reader every week and then would get my father to call me and say. "Please, answer this ad and get your mother off my back!"

Ann: I got his message on a Sunday night, right after I walked in the door. I was dead tired, but Alan's voice caught my interest. It was very soft and gentle. So I called him and we made a date for the next day. We ate lunch at the Price Club.

Alan: I needed to pick up some things and I didn't have a card Ann: He bought tennis balls and film.

Alan: We stopped at the VCRs and Ann started advising other people on what to buy. She was comparing all the different features, the prices, the warranties... A small crowd started gathering around us. I was impressed.

Ann: He left on a trip to Israel that same week, and I went back to dating other people. But first I called my mother, who used to check in with me every week and say, "Don't settle!" I told her I was very excited about Alan. And then he called me from Israel

Alan: I had to use a pay phone on the Mediterranean Sea. You have no idea how Ann: Then he came back and he didn't call for a while. My mother said, "You call him. It's O.K. It's the '90s." So I did. Then he started calling me every night.

Alan: Three weeks later we went to Marnmoth together on a ski trip I remember the smile on her face as she came down the slopes

Ann: On the way home I heard the entire story of his life.

Alan: It's a five-hour drive, you know.

Ann: I'd like to add that we had separate rooms up there Alun: I wanted to propose on Ann's birthday, but I couldn't wait. I asked her to marry me at La Jolla Cove, in one of the gazebos. We got married on November 5 at Tifereth Israel.

Ann: This Sunday we're leaving on our honeymoon — it's a cruise through the Southern Caribbean. We're really thrilled to be married.

Alan: Neither of us had ever been married before, and I think we were tired of being single. New we've centered our lives on each other. We plan to have children some day. Twelve, I think.

Ann: I have these old letters from when I first started advertising in the Reader. This was before Phone Matches." Suck when you responded through a post office box. I saved them all these years because I knew that some rainy night I'd be able to pull them out and show them to the man I married.

THE READER PUZZLE by Don Rubin

We've used the alphabet at the bottom of this week's puzzle to fashion a word at the top. Honest.

All of the letters are contiguous (touching one another) in correct order, horizontally or vertically. The hazry gay apons in the intersections are an optical illusion.

RULES OF THE GAME

their immediate families are not eligible.

5. In the event of disputes or ties, decisions of the judges will be final and arbitrary. We've only gon five prices seek week to give away, so if there are more than five winners, we'll have a bottery.

6. All answers must be entered in the space allowed on the puzzle page, And please, no phone calls or trips to our office.

7. One entry per person.

Could make a mak

by the San Diego Historical Society

He might look like a character straight out of a Dickens novel, but Louis Rose, shown here circa 1870, was no Fagan. Rather, Rose was one of San Diego's more prominent citizens during the area's early years; he arrived here in 1850 and soon established himself as a leader of the burgeoning Jewish community in Old Town.

Rose left quite a legacy: pioneer of Rose Canyon, developer of Point Loma's Roseville section, and charter member of San Diego Lodge No. 35, the first Masonic lodge in Southern California. While an astote businessman for much of his life, bad investments left Rose almost penniless at his death in 1888. (From the Ticor Collection)

Only yee, Earing with Jim was always Christma. I are hundred of reals with Jim. We spent two weeks together in Julia Child's house in Farnec and in Provence I staved with him. Nepling with a book, for a month.

I interrupted to ask how litid Childs, so tall, and the elephantine Beard managed to work in the same kitchen. He laughed. "Yee, they were something together. And in my small Marhattan kitchen, byee him in site, when he turned around he was apt to the control of the start of the started around he was apt to the started around he was applied to the started around he around he was applied to the started around he around usein a surprise for him. He was very appreciative of anyone brave enough to cook for him."

Although Mr. Ferrone had Brown's correspondence, he printed little in Love and Kiese. What were more interested in Beard. Few people remember the little and the properties of the little and the properties. The little and the properties of the little and the letters perhaps were better written. What did he leave out?

Poem by Philip Levine

The Old Testumoni The Old Testument
My rwin brother swears that at age thirteen.
I'd take on anyone who called me kine
I'd take on anyone who called me kine
I'd take on anyone who called me kine
I only wish I'd been that turk idd who fought back through his tears, swearing he would not go quietly, jos quietly packing bark chips and learn into the rose beds, while in his memory I remain the constant child daring him to were Derroit from lean gentiles that step slowly into the word we have tairred, and have their reenge. I remember none of this.
He insists, he names the drug store where I poured armikhadae over the head of an Episcopalian with quick lists as tight as request balls.
He remembers his license plate, his this lips
the remembers his license plate, his this lips the substitute of the store of the control of the substitute of the store of the control ting would not brow the last purch. He's making it up. Wan't I shaws serrified.
"Off course,' he sells me, 'bat's the miracle,
you were even more scared than me, so scared
you went instanc, you became a whirlyind, an averging angel."
