The case was marked "Unfounded," and synapathy and reassurance were offered by the caseworkers. The school's social worker drove my sobbing daughter home as soon as he got the all-clear signal that the workers had left and weren't going to charge me with anything. "There are also to fiside who request home study. Tann is one of the few that I'm absolutely confident to both intelligent and mature enough to do extremely well with it."

I'd heard of home study before, in a vague sort of way, mostly in connection with newspaper reports about parents protesting public schools science classes teaching the theory of evolution. I figured anyone who had their lads on home study was probably a religious fundamentalis. I also werried about the lads being isolated, their lack of exposure to different people with different litestyles and ideas. So I wasn't exactly an avid The social worker left me the phone number of the district's

True For Jack

Re: Peter Jensen's article on the architectural devolution of Jack in The Box (Architecture, March 30): it reminds me of TV. In the 1950s, a television TV. In the 1950s, a television was styled as living room furniture: the box itself looked a lot better than the grainy black-and-white image. Now that TV is the centerpiece of what TV is the centerpiece of and the box is just a box. The same is true for Jack. The same is true for Jack. The architectural exuberance that Jensen finds missing is still around: the only difference in that now it comes out of the box in years and the box in years. The same properties of the propert artwalk a director, Dorothy Annette, stresses the "positivity" and "fun" the event offers to all. "We have no frightening or 'dark' locations on our tour. Parking downtown can be a problem, so we provide a shuttle, which picks people up and takes them fr one area to another, and volunteers at every stop wearing hats that identify them, to help people who may get lost and so forth." Be sure to pick up a map from one of the friendly volunteers at the shuttle stops, listing the fer-real ArtWalk locations.

In spite of all the hype and hoopla, it appears not everyone is a complete fan of the AW phenomenon. Scott White, owner of much more enthusiastic."

Speculating on the enthusiasm-level nosedive, White says,

"This is a delicate question. I get the feeling there's a playing-off, an overall competing for success. Avenue of the Arts is a whole 'nother avenue of art, which piggobacked onto Art-Walk to take advantage of the publicity. People looking for fine art are no longer attending. After three introductory plates, the remaining etchings depict episodes in the jeurney of Mary, Joseph, and the infant Jesus from Bethlehem to Egypt — 24 "pixturesque ideas" (as Giandomenico's title calls them) imaginatively elaborating on the single sentence in the Gospel of Matthew: "When he (Joseph) arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and de-atmosphere.

To fully appreciate these effects, one must see the prints in person, rather than in reproduction.

Still, reproductions will have to do if one wants to perceive the overall structure of the series, which is one of its most remarkable features. This is not a mere assemblage of individual images, however beautifully achieved, but a novel-like narrative its totality conveying a dynamic experience of process in time. We follow the Holy Family and the cess in time. We follow the Holy Family and their attendant angish from scene to socie, sharing their feelings and perceptions — above all, the lived caperness of the long treds in time and space, the slow, plodding, but determined progress partle (sign and fortified cities, among shephords and goatheeds, through wooded natural lands are sometimes of the state of the

As we move along with them, the characters of this "novel" become familiar pres-ences, including the laden donkey, who appears in all the pictures except the first, and whom Giandomenico portrass from every possible angle in codonkey, who appears in all the pretures except the first, and appeared to the first, and pretures except the first, and the pretures except the first and except the except the first and except the except the first and except the except th

Yet these conventional, picturesque set-tings are demythicized with touches of observant natural-ism. The shepherds are not idealized types but Italian rus-tics. The donkey has to be led or hustled. In the five etchings de-voted to the crossing of a body of water in a ferry, Gian-domenico pays attention, to all of water in a terry, Gian-domenico pays attention to all the physical details of the em-barcation and debarcation, the crowding of the Holy Family. their baggage, and their donkey into the little boat (very much like a Venetian gondola), and who, although he is a winged angel, nevertheless has to work hard to pole the vessel through the reeds of the shallow water, while his hair and wings are mussed by the breeze.

Of course, the presence of the angels is in itself counternaturalistic and there are other remindes throughout that this is a sacred story Gaindomenico is telling, not a "genre"-style recording of casual actually, in one of the prints. The strong articu-lation and heavy shadows of the foreground contrast with the pale flutteriness of the receding foliage and the delicate grays of the distant town, further estab-lishing the sense of energetic movement into the back-ground. The closeness of the figures, along with the fact that we look where they are looking and see what they see, makes us identify with them: with the white-shrouded Virgin, stati-cally erect as though in more heavily modelled Joseph at her left and donkey at her right, both burdened with baggage and leaning forward into the path. In the other Hoehn print, the other Hoehn print, the large-scale figures of the foreground dominate the pic-ture across its entire breadth; dicate the middle-ground, and the background is mainly an in-determinate, cloudy sky, with a marginal view of distant hills at the lower right. The Barcoque emphasis on diagonals and on movements into the picture space remains essential to the composition, however, which the chickens and was res ing on the edge of the back porch, lazily scrawling let-ters in the yard dirt with a ters in the yard dirt with a prized stick, when an old, raggedy, smiling hobo ap-peared out of nowhere. He wore a faded, floopy straw hat and was carrying a burlap croaker sack. I stood, startled, and looked at once to see what Claude was go ing to do. Claude was ou sleek, black farm dog whow jet, keen nose usually picked up everything. But Claude didn't stir; he didn't let out so much as a low growl. That tattered stranger, armed with nothing but a grin, crouched at the porch steps where Claude had been dozing and.

snap beans, and green toma-toes. I could see she was as puzzled as I was. Nevertheless, she put on a smile, walked and to where we were, and she and the hobo exchanged pleasantries. He wasn't asking for a handout or odd jobs to do; he was only passing through and had somehow lost his way Mama, her gold tooth fittings flashing in the late sunlight, pa-tiently rerouted him, invited him to pluck a few figs and gather some pecans, then sent him on his way. He seemed harmless enough. But when he was gone, she studied Claude and looked at me, then stepped and looked at me, then stepped into the shadows of the porch. Narrowing her lucent brown eyes, she said. "I do believe that old rascal musta hoodoo'd that dog." She said this low under her breath, just loud enough for me to hear. "Hoodoo!" I will be her breath the said the said the said that the said the sai said. I must've been seven, maybe eight, and I'd heard the term, but never from her lips until now. Mr mother advised me long ago

Mi to take time for the little things, and don't shays be in such a hory.

I try to follow that. I have a hurried personality sometimes. With a threeyear-old it can be tough to do, but it's a necessity. I sit here in the park and let him get fifthy and play with sitics and don't west it. Thas advissitics and som't west it. Thas advististics and som't west it. Thas advististics and som't west it. Thas advishas been a real help in my life.

Yokohama City, Japan low that advice. So people don't rembersus no. because I'm not that good at English. Don't pay attention to what tools to what other people think. Maybe very good for the strong perment of the pays attention to somehood because they always embersuras you. Wait, I have a dictionary. Torment? Torment. Why do people torment! Making fun, Most people to see all thinks, so, I think don't care is best weak!

Introducing Reader PHONE MATCHES, a great place to meet San Diego singles.

You are provided with a free personal matching ad in the Reader Classifieds. You also receive a free "voice mailbox"- a phone service that allows you to record and receive messages from any touch-tone phone.

NOW TO PLACE YOUR AD: To place a free Phone Matches" ad, fill out the coupon below and mail or fax it (233-7907) to us. (If faxing, please photocopy the coupon first and then fax it.) The deadline for receiving free Phone Matches" ads is Saturday at 7 am. No free ads will be accepted over the phone or in person. We'll send you a 5-digit mailbox number

(to be printed in your ad) and a 4-digit security code for exclusive access to your responses.

You may also place a late ad until 6 pm Tuesday by phone (235-8200), in our office (1703 India St. at Date St downtown) or by fax (233. 7907). The charge for these late ads is $20 for the first 25 words plus $1.20 per additional word. Ads placed by phone or by fax are with Visa, MasterCard or Discover only.

HOW TO USE YOUR VOICE MAILBOIL

After you receive your mailbox number and private security code, you can record your personal introduction and listen to your responses. Call 527-1966, 24 hours a day, and follow the easy instructions. You must have a touch-tone phone.

Call 235-8200, ext. 268.

Phone Matches Success Stories:

Clint & Kerstin Crowe

26, DOWN-TO-EARTH, California guy, 6'4", 180 lbs., blond hair, blue eyes, looking for adventurous female for travel companion, maybe more. Going to Baja late October.

Kerstin: Every once in a while I would answer one or two Phone Matches" ads, and then I'd wait a few months and try again.

Clint: At the time, I was just looking for companionship. I had planned a two-week trip to Baja and wanted someone to come along.

Kerstin: I love to travel, and going down to Mexico sounded real attractive to me. I left a message in Clint's voice mail but didn't hear from him for a week and a half. I thought he Clint: Right after I ran the ad, I got into a three-wheeler accident. I had three broken ribs and a separated shoulder. So I had to call Kerstin and tell her the trip was off.

Kerstin: I didn't even know what a three-wheeler was. I'm from Germany and we don't have any deserts.

Clint: On our first date we went out on my boat. We sailed around Mission Bay and then out on the ocean. Afterwards, we ate dinner at Casa de Pico.

Kerstin: At first I was a little skeptical, but after three weeks, I knew he was it. I've never met anyone I fell for so quickly. He was down-to-earth and not flaky.

Clint: We traveled a lot that first year — Germany, Austria, Utah and a short trip to Mexico. Then Kerstin got deported. That's when I made up my mind that I didn't want to lose her.

Kerstin. My visa expired and I went down to the INS office to renew it. But they said I had been in the United States long enough. They sent me over the border to Mexico with nothing—only the clothes I was wearing. I called Clint from a pay phone, crying. "Can you pick me up?"

Clint: I had to sneak her back across the border. Then we got an immigration attorney, and she had to return to Germany and come back again. I proposed before she left.

Rerstin: I said, "Oh, yah!" The INS said we had to get trarried in three months. So I had to make some quick wedding plans.

Clint: We've been married for a year and a half Im: We ve ocen married or a year and a nam met his wife through the Reader.

Kerstin: You have a much bigger pool of people to choose from than you would in a bar. I tell people not to give up if they don't meet someone right away. It's like the lottery: if you don't try, you can never
