SAN DIEGO'S WEEKLY eader

Q: What are you doing in San Diego? A: The quick answer is, I fell in love with a woman who lives here. And one good thing about being a writer is, you can do your work anywhere, as long as there's a copy store nearby and a three-proof outlet for the computer.

I'd like to say how much I enjoyed the two-part series by John Olson ("Rabbit's Bad Habits," August 24 and 31). However, I think a postscript is in order to find out where he is now, what he's doing, and whatever happened to Sonny. Lights, 'August 241, 'Again 1 say, so?'
First, do you think that Golding should refuse to be a part of Newt Gingrich's kit-chen cabinet because conser-vative Republicans are also represented? She is still a Re-publican, isn't she?

ess than a month before four of its members face the voters in primary elections, the San Diego City Council has begun quietly installing—at tax-payer expense—powerful soft-ware that includes a complete ware that includes a complete database of registered voters in each of the city's eight council districts. The software and database will allow councilmen-bers to track the smallest details of each voter's life and political preferences, causing critics to question whether use of the pack-age, known as "Constituent Ser-vices III" (CS-III) is a badly con-caded attempt to evade the state's

The protesters in the square, outside the hall, the sign-carrying people, had passed out literature. They called Pete Wilson the "Chameleon Candidate," quoting the Manchester Union Leader, meaning, "he'll change his colors as often as a chameleon. At the heart of his speech. Wilson announced his "core must reward hard work and individual effort. I believe that we must hold individuals per-sonally responsible for their actions. That we must shrink the size and the cost and the colors as often as a chameleon on a color wheel." Halfway through his speech, implicit intrusiveness of government to expand individual oppor-tunity and individual freedom. And above all, by every action as a society, honor and prethrough his speech, implicit with the declaration "enough," Wilson's voice began to break. Now Mr, Williams, I'm going to make a request of you that I'm fairly sure would provoke a hostile response if you were talking to any other interviewer. Would you tell us some stories about some of the people you met and the scenes and activities you were part of back in the 1960s?

Az I'd rather talk about the American bankers and stockbrokers (and their political and media puppers) and the sucker game they're running right now on the Mexican people and on the poor in Orange County, your neighborhood next). Except that I honestly feel that no one wants to hear it, which is depressing. Why are we nostalgic for a time when people tried to find out the truth and do something about what was going on, but we resist following the same course now, this decade, this present moment?

At Parth just because it had never been done before I was 17 and heavily influenced and inspired by the two scenes that 14 found to haip out in during my teon years, skience fiction faundom and the Cambridge, Massachiusetts, folk music things. Exten of factor far are readers who get involved in a conversation with each other and soon become more interested in the conversation than in the SF stories that brought them together in the first place. They we invented the properties in the first place. They we invented the ord "fanzine." I used to publish a science fict fanzine when I was 14 and 15, so I knew that the fanzine when 1 was 14 and 15, so 1 knew that the freedom of the press belongs to anyone who owns a typewriter and can cut a stencil and has access to a mimeograph. Actually, I put out four or five issues of an independent newspaper/imagazine on the school ditto machine when I was 9 or 10, so I was always headed in this direction.

I put out my own 'zine, and I read an article

Q: How'd you end up in all these interesting places?

At I was lucky. The thing called the rock press was being invented All I was lucky. The thing called the rock press was bening invented, right along with rock music, and I happened to be there at the right time. I also had fairly good musical taste. I think I can say—or cles I just stumbled into all the right things. But Brian Wilson was definitely the person I wanted to meet in L.A. And thus 18 and more enthusiastic than ambitious in the normal sense. (although I certainly had all the ambition of somebody who wants to be a part of changing the world dramatically—it's a natural addicdramatically—it's a natural addic-tion, once you get a taste of it). So it was easy enough for me to forget about "getting a story" and just hang out and be part of things. It helped that I was my own editor,

Did you do a lot of interviews

A: The strange thing is, I didn't do any; I mean, not to the point of transcribing and publishing them. traiscribing and publishing them. The 1906 blues interviews nentioned earlier are. I think, the only interviews in did with musicians in the 1906 that of the 1906 the order of the 1906 the when you talk with musicians. Eric Burdon, Mike Bloomfield, and Pete Townshend were Eris Burdon. Mike Bloomheld, and Pele Townshend were exceptions. Great slikers. In no sus weby I never published a Townshend interview—I think because we were just hanging out most of the times I talked with him loakstige at the Murray the K holiday show in early 1967, the first time the Who Cream played in it. e. and why the famous Smile album was never completed. I hung out with musiciars whose work I liked whenever I got the chance, but I think most of the time I felt that pulling out a tape recorder would get in the way of being friends, which was important to me—there was no pretense of professionalistic, really. We were anti-professional, the idea was that we were all part of the same scene, including—at least at first—the audier.

Qt Were you going to tell us how you met Bob Dylan?

At Yeah, well, that takes us back to the beginnings of Crowdada/. February 1966. Dylan and his band were coming to Philadelphia. So I sent copies of the first two issues to the theater and adaed on the company of the first two issues to the theater and adaed an interview? So they passed them along to Dylan, who wasned entering his rock, and roll phase and I guess was charmed by the idea of a 17-year-old kid putting out a rock magazine. He invited in to his botted com, and we talked for two or three bours, and me to his hotel room, and we talked for two or three hours, and I was also given backstage passes for the concert. A few weeks later, the Blues Project came to Swarthmore for the first-ever solling rock and red (Festival, which I) was only pertpherally moveded in Introduced myself to all Kooper, and he said, "Oh yeal, I hared all about you freitned, and case to the Kooper, and he said, "Oh yeal, I hared all about you freitned, and case to talk to make be acuse. Save BIG BUCKS by Recycling Spare Refrigerators and Freezers CONSERVE ENERGY and save hundreds of dollars a year by a program offered by Planergy, Inc. turning in that old fridge or freezer that is running in your garage.

older model refrigerators or freezers in their garages or on their patios and may not be aware how they can affect their energy bills. A typical 1970's upright freezer can use $20 to $25 worth of energy a month and an old 1970's avocado green side by side refrigerator can use close to $40 a month. Is it really worth spending several hundred dollars a year to keep just a few items cold? Depending on the size and type you have, you may be spending anywhere from $150 to $500 extra in energy costs a year. This is quite a bit of money that could otherwise be used towards a vacation or something more exciting.

REFRIGERATOR ROUNDUP®

in cooperation with San Diego Gas & Electric provides consumers with Thousands of San Diegans have a free and easy way to get rid of your spare refrigerators and freezers and even pays you a $25 reward. The old units are picked up and taken to a warehouse where the ozone depleting refrigerant is recovered and the appliances are dismantled and safely recycled.

TO QUALIFY:

- You must be an SDG&E residential customer.
- The unit must be a minimum size of ten cubic feet.
- The unit must be one of two that has been operating continuously for the last 6 months.

To see if your refrigerator or freezer qualifies, call Planergy, Inc. at 584-4032 or 1-800-684-4032

March 1961

The door to the phone booth squeaked The door to the phone booth squeaked as I close It arefully shutting out sounds of traffic froor the street beyond. Wiping my sweaty hands on my jeans. Lunfolded a veloc wife of page and stared at the name scribbled there; and stared at the name scribbled there. James Kelgand, Author of Big Roll Hunt Fox. Stomp, and Fire-Hunter—the finest books. an 11-year-old could imagine.

I stood, dime gripped tightly in my hand remembering the sudden surge of excitement when exterday, having finished his latest masterpiece. I'd read on the inside back cover, "James Krelgaard and his wife make their home in Phoenix, Arizonal Phoenix, Arizonal That's where I live, James Krelgaard lives in my town!

And so, trembling inside. And so, trembling inside.

I now stood in the phone booth afraid to attempt so vital a call from home
the dime bot in my palin, almost slipping as I dropped it in the slot.
I held my breath as I dialed.
It rang — once, twice.

"Hello?"
"Is this James Kjelgaard?"
"Yest it is."

"Yes it is."
"Is this the James Kjelgaard who writes books?" "Yes it is."

"Thank you." I said. and hung up.

Intrance gate. Katherine Tingley's School the three-story hotel-sanitarium seen in the background in anticipation of their first Antiquity (also known as the Raja Yoga international convention; later, Madame Academy). Built in the early 1900s by the Theosophical Society at their Point Loma headquarters, the gate provided a grand entrance into the mysterious and exotic world beyond.

At the turn of the century, the Theosophists, led by Dr. Lorin Wood, had erected Point Loma.

Katherine Tingley, the "Purple Mother" of the Theosophists, took over the structure Under her guidance, glass domes topped by lit spires were erected over the building's inner patios. It was said that the spires' burning lights could be seen by ocean travelers far off the coast of (From the Ticor Collection

When I was in my twenties, my friend Kate called me "The Shell Answer Woman." After Kate got Answer Woman." After Kate got married, she told a group of us about her honeymoon in Spain. "It was so strange driving through these tiny villages, and all the women looked exactly alike. They all wore the same black dresses, But it was more than that. Their faces all looked like each other; their bodies, too."

"That's because those women all the driver's sunburned, crewcut head.

Witchcraft From Sorcery to Spirituality

Most people think witchcraft is about cauldrons, broomsticks and devil worship. This centuries old misconception is rapidly becoming obsolete. Today's witch-draws its roots from the land-based religious of the past. Attracting a wide range of believers, modern wiczu (witchcraft) is about achieving a personal transformation in attitude, behavior and actions.

PANELISTS:

Maria Kay Simms has been a professional astrologer for 20 years. She is a high pries ess of a San Diego wiccan circle and the author of several books, including one on wiccan rituals and practice.
