"But for the most part, the problem is that Medi-Cal reimbursement is way below the actual cost of rendering the service, and the hasels factor is tremendous."

THE HASSLE FACTOR

For Dr. Mazer and others who treat Medi-Cal patients, the "hassle factor" comes in the hassle factor comes in the form of prior authorizations, complicated billing procedures, denials of payment, and overdue payments.

Dr. Davis Bronson, 47, is a plastic, reconstructive, and hand surgeon in La Mesa. He says he treats all Medi-Cal patients who come to him but also explains that he sees very few, because Medi-Cal doesn't cover matey types of plastic sungers. About the paper work. Medical-office manager

Medical-office manager Fern Wood says of the Medi-Cal billing process, "It's just complete repetition. They return things for miscellaneous infor-mation, if there is something mation, if there is softenance wrong on the identification. They also kick out things, stating that the patient is not eligible. Well, if the patient is not eligible, how come I received an eligibility okay [from Medi-Cal] when I first saw that Call when I first saw that paient? It takes three months to get [the paperwork] correct carase of all this bureaucratic crap. So these are really frustrating reasons who physicians don't want to take any more Medi-Cal patients. We do take them on referral only."

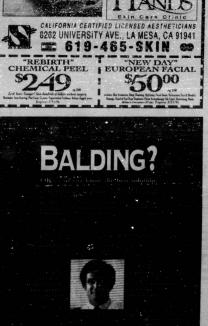

Ms. Wood says part of the functioning dealing with their frustration is dealing with what she calls Medi-Cal's "five-dol-lar workers" responsible for accepting and authorizing claims. "I have a gentleman claims. "I have a gentleman who is a student going to Gross-mont College. He applied in December '94 for Medi-Cal benefits. The request sat on the [Medi-Cal] worker's dask for 45 days because she didn't know what melanoma was. Melanoma is one of the deadoma is one of the dead-

Dr. Z credits such hassles as the main reasons he limits his Medi-Cal practice. "Medi-Cal has a completely different struc-ture than any other insurance company, so the billing is com-pletely different. Just the production of the book and its contents provide insign into Asian aesthetics and taboos. "You see?" says Maya, pointing to the cover "Yellow border. Appropriate color. Even though his parents were born in China and "brought me up in a Chinese family way," Wayne was raised in Michigan and grew up an American. When he came to San Diego, it was the Asian culture he needed to learn.

For Maya, it was the opposite. "I was born and raised in Taipei. I grew up in the city. Very much a city girl! My father was born in China, much a city girll My father was born in China, he same province where Ching Kai-shek was born. He is semiretired now from real estate, his own business. school. And every year I represented my school school. And every year I represented my school to compete in public speaking, calling raphy, and debating teams. I think partly because my parents were avery strong force leahing me they always encouraged me to be the best that I can possibly be. When I was in kindergarten I was very shy. I was always very thind, and I didn't speak to any kid. I didn't play with them: I would just stay in a corner and read — I loved to read. Wayne's as American as anybody clee, but because of his Asian Features, he's treated differently. And it makes him mad. He feels Asians are not getting respect. "We're not just restaurant owners and laundry owners," he says. "Someone gave me a report, a study about different ethnic groups and how well they're doing in the community economically. And this report was talking al out Asians. It said that while other ethnic

My Beautiful Friend Your cover story regarding Janne Cafara ("A Wonderful Life in Burlesque," February 22) and the Hollywood bur-lesque theater reminded me of a wonderful woman I knew who was featured at the Holyears, Bobbi Roberts, "The Tall Texan."

When I was 14 years old I did a song-and-dance act for the USO, and often Bobbi would be on the bill in what, suppose, was a much more demure performance. The au-diences loved her, even if she did keep her clothes on.

One late summer's day, my mother took me to Marston's department store to buy back-to-school clothes. While shop-ping, Bobbi spotted me and came over to say hello. I introchatted a bit, and she left. My mother, who had been a model at I Magnin, asked me how I knew such a beautiful, sophisticated lady who was wearing an original Chanel suit. I explained that I knew her from a USO tour. Weeks later, my mother clipped an ad from the San Diego Union showing Bobbi in all her glory at the Hollywood burlesque and said maybe I would like to keep this picture of my beautiful friend.

etched in my memory. The Hollywood always had some quality dancers/strippers that were on the circuit. I/we saw Blaze Starr, Betty Rowland, Margie Hart, Lili St. Cyr. Gay Dawn ("The dawn of a beauti-ful day" was her billing). Not to mention our own native, homegrown dancer, the very popular "Texas" Bobbi Roberts. She was something else. Very tall, red hair as I recall, and so far out of our league she might have well been from Mars. She was dating some big land de-veloper, and he would pick her up after the show in a Cadillac

As a native San Diegan, I remember vividly the old Hol-lywood Theater. While an undergraduate student at Point

Loma High School, it was just a ritual for many of us to go to the show. I could give names of my associates in this venture, but it would be compro-mising a bunch of superior court judges, lawyers, doctors, advertising executives, and some other names still well known on our society pages. So, I'll not rat on them. They know who they are.

Sure the dancers were beautiful...the names are still up after the show in a Cadillac-roughly the size of an air-craft carrier. V., would, stand around like goofs and then wander off to Topsys for something to eat. Big deal. However, as wonderful as the dancers were, and they were just terrific, we also love the comics...the blackout skits look at the audience and get big, big laugh. I remember those comics. "Say No More" Joe, Eddie Ware, Bozo Lord, and a screamingly funny gu named Eddie Lyle. Eddie and named 3ddie Lyle. Eddie and I became close friends over the years. He was a dead ringer for Jerry Colonna. Bob Hope's foil for many years. He was sharp, could dance, and could deliver a line with the best of them. We saw every classic burlesque routine: "Floogle Street," "In Court," "Slowly I Turned," Susquehanna Hat Com-pany"...and I, to this 4ay, still laugh at lines like "Wait, I'll get my hat and go with you" or "Meet me 'round the corner, in a half an hour." The pro-duction numbers were very duction numbers were very well done; everyone seemed to work hard and want to please the audience. I remember one of the favorites was based on a popular song of the day, "What Do They Do on a Rainy Night in Rio."

And lastly, to show you that my memory is not observed.

And lastly, to show you that my memory is not playing tricks with me, I even remem-ber the opening speech given before each show. It was a tra-dition, and we all recited it in unison. It went thusly: "Good evening, ladies and gentleman, and welcome to the irolly-wood Theater. At this time, the management would like to the management would like to remind you all that this is a Stage show, not a stag show. Obnoxious or off-color behav-ior will not be tolerated. And

Mr. Mihalkanin says 10 percent of the seats face the side of the stage. Here's what it seems like to me: The stage is at a 45 degree angle to the room, facing the few more-expensive seats upstairs and about 30 more seats, most of which are on or near floor. which are on or near floor which are on or near floor level, making it impossible to see over all the people standing in front of you, using your table to hold their empties, as someone else pointed out in a pool tables once were the pool tables once were, do in-deed appear to me, a guy who passed high school geometry, to be behind and at a 45 degree angle to the stage. I can't un-derstand why the BUT's stage wasn't made to face straight back down the middle of the room a long time ago.

As to the misinformation regarding the size of Dr. John's ensemble, this apparently wasn't the BUT's fault, but the very same thing happened to me with another Dr. John show at the BUT a few years ago. He had an album of big-band stuff in release (Sentimental Mood) but showed up with a little pickup showed up with a little rel.'sup group. Rowever. A tought years ister D. J. John eelsaced Back to New Orlmans, and this time when he played the 8U.7 he had one held of a band with him, including Charly Neville on tenor, a guy with a bass sax, and a real good guitarist i couldn't recognize. At this time there were chairs and ta-bles in front of the stage, I got a great sart without having to a great sart without having to rail was close to perfection— in short, a fabulous show. If it could be like that then, why could be like that then, why not anymore? And speaking of the sound mix: why, oh wity, with all these neighborhood noise complaints would you want any band to be any louder good? The last few shows I've attended at the BUT just seem attended at the BUT has seen to be getting more and more base-heavy all the time. Guys, and the seen and the catampta, after having seen the Seedy Damed several times at the Catamaran (where, by the seen and seen and the seen and s knocked the wind out of you. Hey, I'm sure you're the ex-perts, but to me, a musician for the last 30 years or so, it SOUNDS LIKE SHIT, OKAY? Was that loud enough? I'm telling you. I five about a quar-and on nights when, for exam-ple, a reggae band is playing. I can sometimes go out in the street in front and tell you what key the base player is in. This doesn't bother me as a lim not a paying customer ex-periencing the wall of sound up close.

Now, look as you can see I live near the BUT. I 've been a somewhat regular patron over the last 20 years or so; basically, I really want to like the BUT. I 've engot some idea what they're up against trying to book national acts into a small wenue, but irrespective of a small wenue, but irrespective of a phasmas experience. I think lately the BUT could be doing a lot better.

Will: I didn't want a walk-on-the-beach lady — I wanted a camper There's a difference between loving the outdoors and just visiting it. And Mary's ad was the only one that said she liked camping. To me, it implied simplicity and non-materialism. Which in Mary's case, turned out to be true.

Mary: This was the first ad I placed. I tried to be clear about what I was looking for, and to describe myself succinctly. I intentionally put in my age because I didn't want anyone to imagine that I could have more children.

Will: Both of us already have children. Mary described her daughters in her recorded message, and I liked that. It was important to me to have a relationship where our families could fit together.

Mary: I stil! remember the message Will left. His voice was upbeat but comfortable. Instead of focusing on what he looked like, he talked about his job and his daughters.

Will: The first time we met was at Quiig's, in Ocean Beach. We had some wine and talked for a couple of hours. It was a very revealing conversation.

Mary: Will was far and away the most interesting first date I had. Will: After that, we talked on the phone every day but had trouble getting together again. I'm a management consultant and I travel a lot.

Mary: i'm a nurse and was working nights at the time. It took us ten days. But by then, it was cinched. I definitely had the feeling that "this is the kind of person I've been wanting to meet."

Will: We started living together a year after we met. I suggested that we get married a couple of times, but Mary was more hesitant.

Mary: When I first placed the ad, I was just looking for some men to socialize with. Now I think that maybe I did want a partner but didn't want to admit it to myself.

Will: We just celebrated our third anniversary in Baja, at the same place where we had our honeymoon. That was the camping trip where it rained for 24 hours and everything started floating away — including the tent. It was a test, and Mary: We designed our wedding bands to have a mountain range, a desert, and an ocean on θem. Different sides turn up at different times. It reminds me of the ebb and flow of a relationship.

Will: We get angry and we fight, but there seems to be an unbreakable connection between us that we never attack or jeopardize.

Mary: I've encouraged some friends and neighbors to try Phone Matches". I think we've proven that you don't have to be young and extraordinary to meet someone.

will: In this fractured, mobile society, we no longer have a thoughtful aunt who's going to introduce us to someone. I see Phone Matches" as a replacement for a lack of community. It's one of the few technological advances that really works.

But I must tell you, your last self-portrait frightens me. Seeing your disintegration into madness makes me relive events in my life when I felt the bosely knit cloth of my sanity was fraying, and I was only twenty-five.

is the mirror and document your terror for us.

My mind began screaming like a siren during my fourth night-school exam. Clenching my teeth to maintain control. I handed in a half-finished geography exam.

Having four flu-sick children vomiting night and day, worrying about them, exams to study for and term papers to complete made sleep impossible that week. Then my husband chose this time to flaunt a new lover.

Vincent, can you understand a man whose pleasure is to hurt and humilate the woman he loves? He liked to see me the same room with his He liked to see me the same room with the just to see my pain, then humilate me further by aking if I do a foursome with his lover and her husband. He knew I never would. Sometimes it hurt so much! I wanted to die.

LETTER TO VINCENT VAN GOGH

Dear Vincent,

This very week "The Thicket," your last painting, sold for 27 million dollars. And you, buried in a pauper's grave before you knew how loved your art would become.

I've always admired the wildness of color and movement in your paintings. The vibrant stars alive and swrling across the heavens. The fir trees trembling to get there, too. One could almost hear them screech and moan.

What courage for you to scrutinize your face

So there I was, falling apart during my fourth exam. I told my instructor I couldn't think anymore and I was visibly shaking. He asked, "Has this ever happened before?" I said, "No."

I knew I was too rattled to drive. Church lights were on where my car was parked so I went in. Passing a small mirror in the vestibule, I saw my eyes stretched wide with fear.

There were several people at a prayer meeting. The minister came over and asked what was wrong. After I told him through clenched teeth I'd like to go to the hospital, he asked, "Has this ever happened before?" I said, "No."

At the hospital, a young doctor asked what was wrong. I grz-ped his arm tightly and said I was too tired to think, could he give me something so I could get some rest. He asked, "Has this ever happened before?" I said, "No."

After an injection and three days of rest, I returned to exams, sick babies and husband.
I've never forgotten how it felt to be shattered.
That's why I admire the courage it took for you to stare at your fear and document your decline.

Vincent, If you were living today they'd probably give you Lithium to even out your manic/depressive extremes. Everyone is on Prozac or something. You'd be painting into old age and still have your ear.

With luck your work would sell while you were still With luck your work would sell while you were still alive. If it didn't you'd join the throngs of people living on the streets, like here in San Diego, pushing your paint supplies around in a grocery cart, scrabbling in garbage containers for soda-cans to sell and scraps of food to eat. That's the way life is today, Vincent.

With much admiration, by far — Gatemouth can play an uptempo jazz number such as "C-Jam Blues," and he does show tunes and zydeco numbers and country music, or even a soulful rendering of Dylan's "Don't Think Twice." He plays acoustic guitar boogles that are the real thing, and he croons in a voice like rough-cut lumber.

From that point on, the movie proceeds deliberately and deliberatingly, involvingly; convicingly—if not always in perfect concord with your own inner voice. Barbet Schroeder directs with a level head and an even hand; and his regular cameraman, Liuciano Tevoli, decorates the taruly home (though not the coldly institutional settings of courthouse and jailhouse) with his dis-tinctive delicate shadows and gentle light. Meryl Streep makes a completely believable bewildered parent, and a fine fool of herself bewildered parent: and a fine toot of terrest in an awkward run-in with the mother (a clenched Ann Magnuson) of the dead girl. Less completely believable, closer even to completely unbelievable, is Liam Neeson, handicapped in part by the crotic accent, in part by the "glamour" profession of Suc-cessful Artist, and in largest part by the

"Get you something?"
Ah, an Island Girl. "A Miller Draft," I say, then look over my shoulder towards the "Catfish Spe-cial" sign. Maybe this is my chance to get over catfish shobia. Those long, feelie efelie whiskers, how the bottom-feeder ozors through the mud, sucking it in, squirting it out. Oh, what the heck. "And I'll have the Catfish Special." "You want 12 eat? i just go call the cook. She's at home."

bat. They start everything from scratch. Too Can take it. He produced oncome out. Tessile brings a plate of humpie to one of Bill's girls. Lisa. "Taste "Lisa says. Behands are fork. Light girts a sea of noodles with bits of chopped egg foll mixed in Rich and suly." "Shanghai humpi." she says. '$3.99. Try it next time, okay?" "My favorie's best Proccoli. Same price." says Bill." I come in every night. Heck. I live just accound the corner, New I of ed stress. I wor as Rich.! I'm Parris for the F-14. Every F-14 flying has my signature."

so we talk fresh food. He says he's the son of a sharecropper back in South Carolina. "Yup, My daddy was the red thing, I picked cotton, cabbages, sweet postatoes, you name it. We grew the same of t everything, My fasher did all the cooking, Always freish."

And guess what! The cattlish does taste fresh. Nor fishly, bot muddy. That I because. Tessie says, she skinned it. And it's hidden inside a thick and the skinned it. And it's hidden inside a thick and up, and with plenny of stectule, it testes clicious, just like shark. But I have to watch the beers. The catfish absorbs a for. Each bottle costs 137-8 and that's gonna bust my bank real soon. At least we're not sitting a silent, a row of minepins craning our necks up at Mike Wallace as At least we're not sitting a silent, a row of minepins craning our necks up at Mike Wallace as the place bely fill eight backs poorer! PICTURE STORY

by the San Diego Historical Society

Parly San Diego policemen, circa 1890. These men fought crime 12 hours a day, seven days a week, for the princely sum of $100 per month. (In the mid-1890s, the coppers' duty time was reduced to a standard 8-hour day; at the same time, though, their salaries were cut to $75 per month.) Their police chief, the colorful native Irishman Joseph Coyle, received an equally grand $125

In 1889, the signing of the city's "Freehold Charter" allowed an existing police patrol to be reclassified as San Diego's first official department. Covle, a former marshal, took over the group and patterned its organization after the most sophisticated department on the West Coast at that time -- the San Francisco City Police. As shown here, Coyle's men even imitated the natty uniforms worn by their brethren to the north. (From the Ticor Collection)

SOSU EXTENDED STUDIES

Conference 2000

Call it a hunch. Call it a gut feeling. But a growing number of people across the nation would tell you it's a lot more - they call it intuition!

Experts from many fields will discuss the value of intuition in business, economics, education, science, art, and human development. You will learn techniques and exercises to help you learn to use your natural intuitive abilities.

Saturday, March 30 8:30 am-5:30 pm SDSU Aztec Center,
