Great Job

Great Job Jeff Smith's excellent article on deconstruction of freed the most accurate and accessible reading of deconstruction that I have seen to date (Theater Review, April 11). Rather than suggest, as o many have done, the impossibility of any meaning, Smith shows how Derrida insists on the simultaneity of multiple enhanced meanings. And he did it in a much better fashion than I'm doing here.

A difficult topic written with clarity and without distortion. Great job.

Clint: At the time, I was just looking for companionship. I had planned a two-week trip to Baja and wanted someone to come along.

Mexico sounded real attractive to me. I left a message in Clint's voice mail but didn't hear from him for a week and a half. I thought he wasn't interested.

Clint: Right after I ran the ad, I got into a three-wheeler accident. I had three broken ribs and a separated shoulder. So I had to call Kerstin and tell her the trip was off.

Kerstin: I didn't even know what a threewheeler was. I'm from Germany and we don't have any deserts.

Clint: On our first date we went out on my boat. We sailed around Mission Bay and then out on the ocean. Afterwards, we ate dinner at Casa de Pico.

Kerstin: At first I was a little skeptical, but after three weeks, I knew he was it. I've never met anyone I fell for so quickly. He was down-to-earth and not flaky. Clint: We traveled a lot that first year — Germany, Austria, Utah and a short trip to Mexico. Then Kerstin got deported. That's when I made up my mind that I didn't want to lose her.

Kerstin: My visa expired and I went down to the INS office to renew it. But they said I had been in the United States long enough. They sent me over the border to Mexico with nothing—only the clothes I was wearing. I called Clint from a pay phone, crying, "Can you pick me up?"

Clint: I had to sneak her back across the border. Then we got an immigration attorney, and she had to return to Germany and come back again. I proposed before she left.

Kerstin: I said, "Oh, yah!" The INS said we had to get married in three months. So I had to make some quick wedding plans.

A DRIVE-BY ON SAEEGU

April 29, 1992

She is tall, a child of eight. How will the pistol's shot create the backfire of a shard of smoke which throttles through her final thought? From her shallow eyes the ghosts climb up to sob above her face; one whose dream, as near to soo above in race, one wrose gream, as near to thinking as the ear, whispers on the lobe the promise every sun has made, to rise. The other at the rarms, a moon to slow the leafing out each tree has owed the swinging bough at night.

Both will cross the lids with light to feed the inner bulbs, believing each will open out and far. Both, still shining brief enough, will drive the fused field of breath back into the sky.

And what her years have learned will live in metaphor through the progeny of sons. Death will give them birth as when a table in the early sun beads up from feeding pods of berries to the water in an orchard's eyes.

("So-ee-gta," writes James Ragan, in a footnote to "A Drive-by on Saeegu," "is Korean for the date April 29 and the term adopted to commemorate the riots. Forty Koreans had been injured or shot; an 18-year-old college student had been slain amid wild crossfire.") on the time of day, there's a possibility there are more listeners tuning in from other countries than from San Diego County. The station began broadcasting on the World Wide Web April 8, and the television stations came calling. Channels 8, 10, 39, and 51 have either run stories or interviewed station or interviewed station manager Chad DeFerrari regarding the change.

"It's taking San Diego to the world," says DeFerrari. "One thing we don't want it to do is say, 'Oh, we're broadcasting around the world, so we don't want to be local. 'That's the biggest thing with radio. You have to be localized. Primarily, KCR is taking San Diego's bands to places that couldn't hear them before. Obviously, another big push is to get people in San Diego to listen to us on the Internet."

DeFerrari says the station is planning to increase the Number two, it's something that we're not dependent on the cable systems for, in the event that stems for, in the event that we get dropped from cable. It's somewhere else to broadcast to. Number three, pit alone. He seemed apologetic for spoiling the 'fun' but saked the two punks to 'chill or leave.' "People came with a goo attitude," says Ken Alvin. a youth director at Shadow Mountain. "The security were youth staff and high school seniors who wanted everyone to have a good tim by not getting burt. broadcast to. Number three, it can be a money-making device because it does give us more listeners and national companies are more likely to advertise with us in underwriting terms."

Reconsidered Opinion

What kind of critic would applaud a "return" to a callower stage of development?

With the chapsain year and every successive Coen intending with increasing sincerity to re-see their first one, fillow-been see their first one, fillow-been with the company one of them I had not much over the only one of them I had not much ever for on first sight. In my defense (I would have said), I had had lead to be the company one of them I had not much ever for on first sight. Well, now that I have at last been prodded to follow through on the declared intention — prodded not just by the matchless accomplishment of Fargo, but by a common critical refain, into which I could not chime, to the effect that Fargo marks a "return" for the Core brothers to the mode and manner of Blood Simple — I have an awer to halt question. They were Well, now that I have at last been of reference. The movie is full of his sort of nervous cutsways to unimportant details, and of his sort of extravagant tracking shots to nowhere behind a pair of Converse tennies, or behind the four paws of a German hepherd, or — the instance that best reveals the level of stylistic seriousness — along a bar top to ward a slumped-over drunk, there over the head of the latter in a neat little hop, then onward along the bar." Check again, except that I can now view those tracking shots, especially the floor-level ones, as a warm-up for the breathless chases after the crawling

The performances of the actors, "The performances of the actors, with their voices variously hardened, sharpened, flattened, stretched out, or otherwise falsified, are mostly ham, with bits of fat around the edges, and are no less affected than the visual style." Check, and with the addition that these Texas accents are, and were, so much stater as screen commodities than the Minnesota accents in Fargo, but still with the exception that it was fun to see the very young Frances the Command, who in any case does a better accent than John Gett or ("by) on means the least hammy") M. Emmet Walsh, and whom I must have had in mind as the anomaly when I' preceded the "ham" with the qualifier "mostly," can hope to be exonerated on the grounds that the movie is a pastiche, and is viewable as either an 'appreciand is viewable as either an 'appreciation' or a 'send-up' (according to taste) of the hard-boiled thrillers of taste) of the hard-boiled thrillers of the Porties. Second-handedness creates with the addition that, though others of the Coen brothers' movies are derivative or directly imitative of other types of movies, they travel much farinapiration, all the way into independent impairation, all the way into independent impairation, all the way into independent impairation, all the way into sui generis. In budget, unarguably, Furgion words back (partways) in the direction well beyond the gravitational field of film noir.

Third (and out of chronological order): where was Doo on the stormy night when Virgil and Morgan were, spectively maimed and murderred? In his hotel room, it is here revealed, drunk and reciting Coleridge (the fi-nal lines of "Kubla Khan"). Okay, but it never occurred to me to ask. Fourth: Sister Boy (Jason Priestley), whom we had last seen galloping off in a lather after the Shakespearean actor has turned up dead in the stage-coach, is now seen towing the bodies of the actor's killer on horseback and having a moment of manly, or at least learn. This must be the followup to the shot of Priestley aiming a rifle in the coming attractions trailer — also dropped from the final cut. All in all, the extra footage seems pretty stingy, especially since Cosmatos claims that his first cut was nearly three hours long (he also claims that all of the mustaches in the movie are "real," meaning, one supposes, that they are all mustaches and none of them are really sideburns or eyebrows), and it provides no overwhelming reason yet to rush out and purchase a laser-disc

Introducing Reader PHONE MATCHES: a great place to meet San Diego

You are provided with a free personal matching ad in the Reader Classifieds. You also receive a free "voice mailbox"- a phone service that allows you to record and receive messages from any touch-tone phone.

HOW TO PLACE YOUR AD: To place a free Phone Matches" ad, fill out the coupon below and mail or fax it (233-7907) to us. (If faxing, please photocopy the coupon first and tien fax it.) The deadline for receiving free Phone Matches" ads is Saturday at 7 am. No free ads will be accepted over the phone or in person. We'll send you a 5-digit mailbox number

-96-----

(to be printed in your ad) and a 4-digit security code for exclusive access to your responses.

You may also place a late ad until 6 pm Tuesday by phone (235-8200), in our office (1703 India St. at Date St., downtown), or by fax (233-7907). The charge for these late ads is $20 for the first 25 words plus $1.20 per additional word. Ads placed by phone or by fax are with Visa, MasterCard or Discover only.

HOW TO USE YOUR VOICE MAILBOX:

After you receive your mailbox number and private security code, you can record your personal introduction and listen to your responses. Call 527-1966, 24 hours a day, and follow the easy instructions. You must have a touch-tone phone.

QUESTIONS? Call 235-8200, ext. 268.
