GOODBYE HIGH SCHOOL HELLO WORLD

June of 1976 departed from meteorological custom and came to life in a string of sunny days that in the final week turned sweltering. No catastrophes clouded the daily headlines. Developer Ernie Hahn continued to dicker with city officials over the yet-unbuilt Horton Plaza. San Diego cops, demanding payraises, did some picketing. The Marines probed the death of a young recruit who'd been beaten over the head with a pugli stickduring training. And allover the county, high schools planned elaborate commencement ceremonies. Donors, of course, receive nothing but the honor of giving what's known in the trade as "the Giff of Life."

THE LIST
The National Transplant Act created the "list," as it's commonly known—the computer-managed national system for allocating organs. Patients waising for transplants are ranked on the list by a computer-generated algorithm. The beauty of the thing is that it takes out the human tactor. Thanks to the computer system, organ allocation is a "no-brainen," Cutler says, with no apparent awareness of his pun.

OTAC generates revenue in direct relation to the number of donors it works with. So do San Diego's three transplant centers: UCSD, Starp, and Green Hospital at Scripps Clinic, OTAC works with every hospital in San Diego and Imperial Counties. For each donor, the company receives what is called an "organ acquisition fee," Cutler explain. "When we give the kidney to the transplant center, or wherever the transplant is going to take plaze, we invoice the transplant center for the cost of getting that kidney, then they pay us. Most of the costs we incur are the charges we have to pey to recover the organ. We have to reinhouse the hospital where the donation occurred, we do lots of testing in donor hospi-tal laboratories. We pay the San Diego Blood Bank for Blood testing, but to pay for the surgeons who remove the organs."

Fans of Jane Campion, especially those who feel as I do that The Plano and An Anged at My Tables in an alope well below the summit of Sweetin, may want to investigate the recent find of her first feature-length film. Two Prinds, those in form for Australian television stall decade ago; I would not:

Bongers as cinematographer is a pos-sible tipoff), though it undoubtedly has its qualities, some of the best of which are qualities shared with A Confri-sion of the confrience of the confrience of the vulnerabilities and agonies of a very mature sort of honesty and de-tachment in sizing up the Big Picture. Todd Solondz's Welcome to the Dollhouse comes to us as one of the seemingly numberless triumphs at the annual Sundance festival of American independents. The subject matter independents. The subject matter alone — the daily diet of torture and torment endured by a junior-high-school pariah — hardly marks it as boldly independent in spirit: the un-derdog is as prized a figure in the eministream as anywhere else. Other aspects of it seem a bit bolder: the un-sentimentalizing of the victim; (she aspects of il seem a bit bolder: the unspects of il seem a bit bolder the unsertimentalizing of the victim (she passes along the received abuse to those younger and weaker than herself); the barn-broad streak of dark better than the streak of the streak for laughs above the quest for truths (hideously caricatured adults, one and all: Solondz could have taken a lesson there from Campion). Like its short-sighted heroine, the movie craves immediate acceptance and approval. Heather Matarazzo, sporting a constant frown and a squirt and an unbehjuh jair of glasses and uniformly tacky clothes (shopping for which must have been sadistic fun), certainly looks like someone who might be a target of ridicule rather than someone who might be the next Molly Ringwald. But Matthew Faber (might) and Brendan Sexton, Jr., unfailingly seld their individual sense as respectively, the nerdy older brother grimby planning for his future, makstant frown and a squint and an age respectively, a levely older orother grimly planning for his future, mak-ing no move uncalculated to better his chances at a good college, and the class bully tritley covering up his own in-securities. Their limited roles limit their limitations.

plain. the reedy taste of chopped bamboo shoots, all bathed in the chicken broth his noodles swim, in. My kung pao is stronger stuff. The deep winey taste of the red chilies goes beautifully with the chicken, and I've paid 25 cents extra for a minimub of hot succe. Zowiel Now I need that pile of whith rice to tamper it all down.

But there's one thing I have to know from Rod. "Hey, whatever happened to Angela" I ask. "You know, the girl we met In..."

"Oh, nod. Angela I'her Angela" I mean, grest!"
"We're separated."
"Oh. God. How come?"
Suddenly his face flushes. "You want to know why! She never stopped talking about you, that's why. You! A no-good, lary, irresponsible son of a... "But..."

ACADE

Beneath wartime camouflage netting sits the latest addition to the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation (aka Convair) in this October 1943 photo. The netting was not the result of misguided World War II hysteria: fully 6724 B-24 "Liberators" had rolled out of this plant by the war's end most likely made a juicy target, indeed.

Convair had its beginnings in the frigid winters of Buffalo, New York; Major Reuben H. Fleet, owner of that city's Consolidated Aircraft Corporation, decided to move his burgeoning manufacturing and testing operation to a milder climate. After a nationwide search yielded San Diego as a prime location, Fleet erected his first building here in 1935. By the early 1940s, Consolidated had merged with the Vultee Aircraft company of Downey, California; that merger resulted in the legendary B-24 bombers and PBY "flying boats" that rolled out of the Pacific Highway plant. Demolition of the property is now slated for the spring of 1997.

Place your Reader roommate ad today and get responses tomorrow!

Call 235-2415 day or night.

For just $16 per week,

you receive:

> A 25-word printed ad in the Reader

> Use of a 24-hour voice mailbox service

> Placement on the Roommate Hotline

MasterCard, Discover, check or cash. The cost is $16. No matter which payment option you choose, you must first call 235-2415 to place your ad.

Roommate ad on the following worksheet and be ready to dictate it when requested. You will have one minute of recording time. Begin with the neighborhood, then describe the property and list the rent. After dictating 25 words for your printed ad, continue to further cribe your available roommate situation. When you are finished recording, press 2.

The system dictates a mailbox number and security code

6. To retrieve your messages call 235-2415. You may get responses on the Hotline before your ad is printed, so call frequently. Messages are erased after you hear them, so have pen and paper ready. Your mailbox will expire at midnight

6. The deadline for placing voice mail ads is Monday at 6 pm; however, at 6 pm by calling 235-8200. All voice mail 24 hours. So call today! No cancellations changes in your ad copy or mailbox recording. Call 235-2415 and choose the renewal option. You may rensw your mailbox any time Thursday

6. Advertisers are responsible for checking their Roommate ads for accuracy and reporting errors by 6 pm Monday, following publication. Call 235-8200.
