My Apologies

Before sending in the manu-script of "The Forgotten War," the cover story of the June 20 Reader, I was careful to check by telephone with as many of my interviewees as I could reach in order to get final ap-proval for facts and quotations.

proval for facts and quotations.
Alas, my delight on seeing the fine photographs and excellent layout of the piece was brought up short yesterday when I saw that four out of five photo identifications were incorrect! I know that the story was of special importance to the veterans to whom I spoke. The Korean War is, indeed, a forgotten war, and these men were thrilled to be recommized and it gains to tell these men were thrilled to be recognized and at pains to tell me their stories as carefully as they could. Perhaps the most salient point made in the article, in fact, is how acticle, made, is how acticle, made to the comparison of their bornible, 46 years ago.

Why is it that when I grab my newspaper and head for the head to enjoy a quiet dump, I sometimes get this shiver up my spine? Is it the sheer anticipation of the event, or is there something more to it? — Just a Guy, Esc.

Maybe you just need to get out mo.e, Guy. Anyway, Guy and Curious are experiencing basically the same thing. If my medical speculators are up to their usual standards. Everyone's favorite anatomical area, the urogenital rejoin, is crammed full offereve endings, a lost of which respond to pressure — making sea whole lot more fun, for one thing. Likely, it's the pressure stimulation of full bladder-howed, movement of the contents, or some related muscle contraction that zags that little frisson through you. Or maybe you just have way too much fun in the bathroom

What's so practical about a practical joke?

"Why did the chicken cross the road?" serves no useful purpose. Neither does a whoopee cushion, but because you have to do something to get a laugh with the cushion, it's considered "practical," as in "active."

Dear Matt:
Why does my honey crystallize? Even after I nuke it to make it liquid again, the crystals remain.
Could you shed some light on this annoying phenomenon?
— Sidhe, North Park

Blame it on the needs of bees. They take very dilute sucrose (nectar), mix in some bee spit, pump it in and out of their anouts a few times, and family squirt it into -cell in the hive. All this debutrates the solution to reasie its sugar, coment to about 50 percent a point at which incrobes can't grow on the tasty goo and spot in the beer's stored food. Bees who never got their high school diplomas are given caucer slots as honer's fanners. They stand around and beat their wings, which generates a brezer, which speeds up the evaporation.

In response, the honey's big aucrose chains begin a game of molecular musical chairs, rhanging to the simpler structures of fructone and glucose. More of those molecules can cam into a given volume of water. This benefits the beet because that stores more food energy in a into 1 given volume of water. This benefits the bees because that stores more food energy in a given volume of honey.

Unfortunately for us, the 38 percent fractors, 31 percent glucose, and 17 percent water structure of cured honey is just about the saturation point for glucose— the point at which the floating molecules years to cling to spetcher into crystallized solids. This happens eventually to altiqued honey, but it's speeded up at room temperatures. But raise the temp of the girty honey, by making it, for example), and you make the glucose molecules more water-soluble, so the honey a lugarded again, that once it cools, but he task where you startle.

Homey and makes it a nicer place for yeasts and molds to live. Basically, crystallization will cause fermentation, the conversion of sugars to carbon dioxide and alcohol. Of course, you can absyst sow all that bad honey in the basement for a while, then order in lots of pizzas and throw a party.

10: Mairman. The crate that the Spirit of St. Louis was shipped back in is displayed "as" a barn in Maine, not — A Transplanted Maineiac, San Diego

As a transplanted brainiac, I concur with your transpositional preposition proposition. "As" it is. To correct that point from last week's festival of Lindbergh trivia, a private individual acquired the pine crate and converted it into a small guest cottage. The building was later moved to Canaan, Maine, and is now a compact Lindbergh museum.

They had a 75-acre farm in the mountains of eattern San Diogo County until they moved to a 300-acre farm in Texas five years ago. Sain and his friends still come west now and again to sell their wares and spread the Zendik message.

Siah expounds, "It's sort of an artists' commune. It started up in the '60s in a place called Perris, California. It moved to Florida and became a five-person artists' group in Key West, but then it moved back to California and got a piece of land again. What we can't grow, we get from other organic farmers, and there's a lot of things we buy from Radio Shack and Wal-Mart. Electronic shit and stuff, because

20 12 GREATEST BREWS OF THE WORLD OF

The Old European Brewery Company and the Colonial Brewery Company are proud to present something quite superb. The 12 Greatest Brews of the World are the result of extensive work and research done by a panel of beer professionals headed by Dr. Joseph L. Owades of the Center for Brewing Studies. Dr. Owades' commission was to brew the Best of the Best. They first identified the twelve most popular brew styles in the world. Samples of each brew style were evaluated for brew head, color, aroma, taste, aftertaste and stability to identify the most appealing characteristics of each. The results are beers handcrafted in the spirit of turn of the century immigrant family brewers.

We invite you now to enjoy, sample and celebrate with us The 12 Greatest Brews of the World.

Andrew carries a "No Blood" Card. Tma Witness. The reason I carry the card is because of my belief." The card says, "No Blood."

Sharon, the public wants to know, what's the difference between psychotherapy and psychoanalysis? "People who are psychoanalysis are generally medical doctors. They're usually psychiatrisat who decide to go into that format, that way of viewing a problem. We're all therapists. Analysis is a very long-term thing, looking at really early childhood stuff, like when you were notify tringed, and how you were potty trained, and how long did you breast feed, and long did you breast feed, and then all the significant others, and then it ties into maybe having problems with alcohol or ciga-rettes now. But it takes three to five years to grind through this. I was in analysis for three years, and you can't, I mean, nobody pays for analysis for three years. Therapy should be more

"Therapy should be more of where a person goes to a therapist, deals with some of the inner conflicts that are blocking them from resolving a problem or making a decision. Or maybe they have really poor decision. The major making skills, and then they learn a system of coping better."

FINALLY, THERE IS THE BACKPACKER PROPER. BACKPACKER PROFE, David, the cross-country voyager, had called his pack's contents "your basic life." The backpacker has to take these words to heart. His house is on his back; he can literally live or die by what he has or does not have inside it. I asked or does not have unsade it. I asked Floyd Craig, who was preparing to lead a Sierra Club weekend outing to Indian Rock, to give me a picture of both pack and packer.

Asked about Shanks's copilot on that morning, Sloan says, "I knew Randy, too, and I've flown with him. His goal was to become an airline pilot, and that's part of the reason why he was on that trip — he needed to get some hours. And he was welcome company. Eyen welcome company. Ever previous to this flight. Randy and Anthony had Randy and Anthonny had been flying some actual IFR together, shooting approaches in Randy's airplane. So they had flown together quite a bit they each knew each other's experiences." The two pilots had flown Bredign, and a beechearth Stundener to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and back the previous summer. Shanks and Breding turned inland pat Dana Poix and paralleled the coastline, east of 1-5. Other pilots have speculated that the men were hoping the cloud deck would life nough for them to clear the ridges or provide a break they could climb through and continue their trip. Sloan, familiar with the instrument layout of the cocknitism of the control of the co

plies are delivered to the clinic, a collection of peeling, white-washed, red-crossed buildings on a residential street a half-mile from the plaza. Already there is a line of patients, even though the do-tors and nurses won't arrive until eight the next morning. Attired in Sunday's best, their demure dresses and in their ubiquitous cowboy hats and boots but also wearing and boots but also wearing embroidered guydarrars and their finest polyester dress trousers, no jeans. An hour later, the queue has grown to 30 people who smile and nod as Dr. Cason and Nurse Nash passby. Liga was founded by Dr. Iner Ritchie in 1935. According to Dr. Cason, "There were five doctors and a dentist that started this school down near Navaioa. The people in the sur-

In 1947, they decided to form a organization of flyers and do organization of flyers and doctors to hold medical clinics. It stated as a little Adventist group, and then sometime in the '50s, it was rechartered as a nonsectarian thing. Three of the doctors had practiced as missionaries in Latin America, so they were mission-minded. When they chartered Liga, as such, it was called something like 'North was called something like 'North was called something like 'North American Educational and Health League.' Among the tasks Liga's doctors perform are outpatient surgeries: hernias, minor tumors.
They also specialize in plastic surgery—cleft lips and palates and club feet — and eye surgery, having removed thousands of cataracts.

"We bring a lot of patients to the States," says Dr. Cason, "for serious stuff — heart surgery or serious deformities in kids. Both eye and plastic surgery lends itself well to our work because most of it we can do and send the patients home. If

A group from Las Vegas, two months ago, brought down equipment to do laparoscopic months ago, to equipment to do laparoscopic gall bladders — it's a relatively new procedure where they do the gall bladder through a scope, and it just makes about two or three little puncture wounds, so those patients get up and go home afterwards. They do that at the Social Security Hospital, and the local doctors have lined Of course, the Mexicans have never seen that before, and they're rather excited about it.

In the morning, another 200 people have joined the line, which now winds around the examination rooms and drug dispensary. The clinic coordina-

THE CHAIR

I am having a hard time sleeping. Tired of tossing and turning on my narrow share of bed, I leave my companion to her dreams, take my pillow and a blanket, go into the living room, and spread out and a blanket, go into the living room, and spread out on the rug. I do fall asleep, but sometime a little after dawn I wake up again and lie there drowsily, the furniture Iumbering above me in the half light. From down beneath they seem less like artifacts than like a herd of domestic animals, some asleep in their strange corral. Right beside me stands a chair. I look up into its pathetic underbelly and pathetic underbelly and think, what a strange simulacrum of a beast. Its

Also, as dogs can be classified as either work dog or pet, chairs can be similarly divided into the hard and the soft. The hard chair in its ideal form is not so much uncomfortable as energizing. We sit in one to do something: eat a meal, watch on his way. The truly comfy chairs are hidden in the den. These chairs almost always have particular owners, their arrangement and degree of comfort displaying the household's hierarchy. If there is only one such chair, it is usually a grously namering entity

This is why living room furniture often looks softer than it really is. It welcomes the guest but is equally ready to propel him the master's chair at home, the more socially traumatic the workplace.

If the easy chair is the antithesis of the work chair, the rocking chair is a subversive attempt to turn the one into the other. The rocker did not, as one might think, evolve from the rocking or hobbyhorse, which is not a hobbyhorse, which is not a chair at all, but a toy. Instead, it grew out of the habit of which most of us were broken in childhood — leaning back on the rear legs of our chair. Why is this such a pleasure? When you tilt a chair back to a certain point, the weight of your torso need no longer be supported by the muscles of the back. The stomach stops sagging forward, which is especially pleasant for those who have just eaten large meals. The body feels weightless, in repose.

repose. However, at just this point, the chair teeters at the verge of falling backwards and requires a certain amount of focused attention to keep from doing so. Those who once smoked cigarettes (or still do) will recognize this combination — the relaxed body, the alert and stimulated mind — as replicating the gift of picotipe. replicating the gift of nicotine

It is this same oscillation that the rocker makes socially acceptable — the cost, some would say, of housebreaking it. Rocking chairs, after all, belong on the front porch or before the fireplace, set out in companionable pairs. Larry: 1 dated people through Phone Matches™ for a year and I never came across anyone who wasn't a decent, hardworking person. I met a lot of really neat people and even made some friends.

Larry: I lived in Rancho Bernardo, and she lived in Escondido. We were geographically compatible.

Danielle: The first time we met was at Denny's, for coffee. I expected the meeting to last for 10 or 15 minutes. But Larry was so easy to talk to that I didn't want-to leave.

Larry: It turned into dinner at Denny's.

Danielle: I didn't have any money with me, so Larry had to pay.

Larry: She stiffed me on the first date

Danielle: It's hard to say how the whole thing evolved. I liked his ideas, and we agreed on a lot of people issues

Larry: We went through pre-marital counseling and learned even more about each other. It was a good investment.

Danielle: Larry's very gentle, and I can't rattle him. He's a good balancer for me.

Larry: She does the laundry and I take care of the kitchen. The household work divided up naturally, without us even discussing it.

Larry: I think there's a lot of people, like us, who are so busy that they don't run across others they can date. Phone Matches™ is an easy way to do that.

Danielle: It's also a good way to prescreen people. I think it's safer than going out with the guy next door. When I hear women say, "I'm not that desperate" or "It's not safe," I say, "Well, that's how I met my husband."

Savings on rides

In one day, you can do more at the Del Mar Fair than any place around. The best part is, you don't have to spend a bundle to have a great time.

In fact, saving money at the Fair is almost as easy as having fun:

o Save $2 off the regular $8 Adult Pepsi & Admission at any San Diego County Lucky Store with a Lucky Stores minimum $10 purchase.

Pay-One-Price o Tuesdays are Kids Days. with children 12 and Ride Days under FREE (all other days are $3 for kids 6-12). Free ride coupons for Kids Days are available at San Diego County Dairy Queen locations.

Kids 9 Every Monday & Wednesday Days is Pepsi/Lucky Stores Pay-One-Price Ride Day. Buy a Pepsi 12-pack at Lucky and get two $3 off coupons. Bring the coupons to the Fair and ride the carnival rides from Noon to 8pm for $14 (regularly $17). Fair admission is not included.

o 4 San Diego County PETsMART location offer savings on carnival ride tickets. Booklets of 25 ride tickets are just $12.

o Enjoy cheap eats at the Del Mar Diner. A hot dog, fries and soft drink cost only $1.99.

• Pack your lunch and relax at one of 6 picnic areas on the Fairgrounds.

• Save $4 by using the free off-site parking and shuttle service at Horsepark Equestrian Center, 1 mile east of I-5 on Via de la Valle. On weekends, look for signs off I-5 and 805 directing you to other free shuttle lots.

This year's Fair features hundreds of fascinating exhibits, including rare and unusual plants and livestock. Plus special Arena and Grandstand entertainment. All free with your paid admission.

So join the fun, and let the savings stack up.

Caught Insules is an account of Duane's year spent surfing in the Pacific Ocean off Montercy Bay near Santa Cruz. Duane folds into the narrative a history of surfing as sport and tuke explanations of how waves form.

I can't think of anything I'm less interested in than surfing. Maybe bowling, maybe learning to see, but Damiel Duane booked me. Perhaps it's his precise descriptions of natural life. The otter, for instance. Otters can live their whole lives without coming to land, with the quiet mo barding or buring like see shows and seals the tester inst drifts alone, diving for book staying in his small home range, tending his garden, holding a good feeding ground to court females. "Chapter 6, Duane's history of the surfboard, I recomment to anyone who imagnosis himself uninterested in surfing.

One of Cangly Insulés declicates is Duane's uncle, I'm Duane, a San Diego readont for the standard of the surficient of the surficing of the surficient of the surficient of the surficient of the sheepdogs."

I asked how Duane got started —th Caught Inside. Did you know you were writing

Did it begin as journal entries?

"yes."

What made you decide you could make a book out of your entried."

Actually, I was encouraged by a write friend of mine. Tom Farber. I grew up down the street from him. Tom held my hand, shepherded me through the writing of the first book. About this one, he said, "Why Jon't you do a book about surfing? That's what you re doing.— surfing. That's what you re doing.— surfing. That's what you re leding.— surfing. That's what you re living. So it was the push from him. But then once I started it made wonderful kense."

The ritle, Caipfit haside, what does it mean?

When you're puddling, you are 'caught inside' when a group of waves, a set of wavebreaks further out to set ath my our and catches you inside it.

"Well, it's more like pou're stifting on your board or you're puddling out, but you're not riging the waves, you're trying to paddle out to set, and a lig sperc comes and breaks further out to sea than you are, and so the wall of white water that comes in from it is sort of inescapable."

Does the tile speak also to your obsession during that year with surfing?

"Yes. Very much."

I mentioned that although I had zero interest in surfing, I felt sure other readers like your obsession during that the believed recommended his book to readers like you will be readers like you will be readers like myedi.

"Anyone interested in California pop culture, I think, will be interested. Also, there quite a lot of natural history there. The nonsurfers who like to read nature writing will perhaps see this a. Thorea goes seringi. I really had that in mind when I worked on the book, that I would concentrate on one surf break, not even a particularly great surf break-rather than covering the whole California coast. I am seeking the world at my doorstep-believing it is a rich enough world to be worth watching."

Was Daune will surring!

The union of subject and style here is total, with compelling effect. The Berlin Wall turns to other subjects - no-tably, the "Music Series" that confronts you when you enter the Athenaeum. Many of these pictures show individual intru-mentalists, usually violinists, most of them women, com-posed as portraits (bust, head, and instrument against aclose sive background. Others depict larger ensembles, up to and in-cluding the Berlin Philhar-monic, with the roughly sketched figures of the orches-tra members seated at their music stands, in a hextic, conductor.

But if so, I would haz-ard that it had more to do with the cinematic advances in panty-removal than with anything else. (The densely detailed and overwhelmingly sensuous atmospherics might, in that event, come in for some credit, too.) Having just beforehand made a puffed-up chil-dren's film in Little Buddha, Bertolucci has herewith gone on to a puffed-up teen romance. Jame Eyre — The chief reason to see this remake, and sufficient reason to have made in, is for the spectacle of the bony Charlotte Gainsbourg nibbling away at the meany title offer. For that, we have to vein that far hour while the protagonist goes through her ill-used childhood ("At Lowood, we shall tame her unruly spirit") and her first incarmation in the form of Aunt Psagun, Psagunia is a ther untils sport? and her first incarnation to untils sport in an extra from the property of the property of treis, but her limits far surpass the rudi-mentary demands of this Ugly Duckling-cum-Cindrella archetype. The same cannot be said of William Hurt, who lacks some of the runned noblity required in the role of Rochester. He doesn't lack the required ad-jective. He lacks the noun. BARY STROLLIN, give Arona claroset proportional and prop the Serra Museum shines in the summer sun in this July 16, 1929 photo. The occasion for the crowds was the 160th anniversary of Father Junipero Serra's establishment of California's first mission here in San Diego; note that, contrary to the perceptions of many tourists, the Mission Revival-style museum is not the old mission itself.

From 1769 to 1830, the first permanent settlement of "San Diego" comprised whatever housing and inhabitants existed within the adobe walls of the presidio. The view of Presidio Hill at that time was a very different one; United States Engineers later cut away one section of the hill (to make room for Mission Valley Road), and also removed another section on its opposite flank (to use as fill to change the course of the San Diego River).
