the average American has gained eight pounds. Does the new stress on high-protein diet speak to this? New books like The Zone by Barry Sears and Michae insist that because protein is nutrient-dense, it can help peo-ple lose weight and provides energy, especially in sports. Does this apply to hamburgers? Doubtful. The so-called gloom rating of high fat in cheeserating of high tat in cheese-burgers today is, in many places, over the top. my wife' family. They live near a rocky point where the fishing is good for bluefish and argies. It is a rite of passage in that family finally to be allowed to fish alone from the tide-scoured rocks. Nicholas and his younger brother Justin were in the care of their maternal grandmother that day, and she knew they were too young for the rocks. They wanted, of course, to fish.

river that borders the family's land. This was a pacific place, fit for children. She had an errand, left them there alone for 20 minutes. When she returned, they were gone, and one of the fishing poles was on the dock, put down in obvious haste; the other pole was miss. haste; the other pole was miss-ing. She understood immedi-ately: Justin had fallen into the water, and Nicholas had gone in to rescue his little brother.

She ran to a house, phoned the police and fire department divers in the river, rescuers combing the banks. After half an hour a small motorboat, driven by a cousin, approached the dock, bearing my sons and a fishing pole. The boys were wearing life jackets, just as you'd wearing life jackets, just as you'd expect, and grins. Nicholas had caught a fish, and he was hold-ing it aloft to display his catch to the interested police and divers and emergency rescue volunteers. And of course to his grandmother. Cliff: Sherry's message was the most appealing. She said she was peetly, blond, and liked outdoor activities. She's all of the above! It was important to me that she was active. The dist time! Called her, we spoke on the photone for about two hours! After that, we spoke every night for a least an hour. I liked her then and knew! really wanted to meet her.

Sherry: What I really enjoyed was the time spent getting to know each other over the phone. A real time of discovery! We found that we had so many common interests, sharing similar values and spiritual beliefs, liked romance and were both spontaneous. We laughted so easily together. We still do. We play backgammon, blue, play teams, but the still still

We live in tepees, cook our meals over an open fire, make and wear hand-sewn clothing, shoot black-powder files. ...

Sherry: Cliff never pushed himself on me, which I respected. On our second date he kissed me lightly goodbye ... almost just a peck. We got in our respective cars and drove away but he halled me to stop on the pretext of giving me better directions home. As it turned out, it was just Cliff's clever way of getting another kiss' It was sweet.

Cliff: I didn't want the moment to end.

Sherry: I felt love for Cliff on December 26, my birthday, when I found that he was very sensitive and caring and he allowed that part of him to show. It was a magical moment.

Show, it was a magasal monton.

Cliff: I remember a time just before Christmas when Sherry and I went to my brother's house and visited with some friends. As we were leaving, Sherry got up and gave this sweet, little old lady a kis. It was so touching! I thought she was the kindest person in the world.

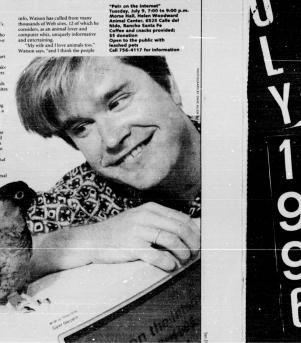

Sherry: We've been together for over a year. Cliff left a proposal of marriage in song form, which he had written, on my answering machine!

our modern saging is entirely a stave to the painting of sets," Appia wrote in 1904, "which purports to give us the illusion of reality. But this illusion is itself an illusion, because the physical presence of the actor contradicts it."

The instant an actor walked onstage, the back-drop lost dimension. And when actors stood against a painted flat, "arranged according to the requirements of perspective painting," they loomed like giants over a dinky landscape. Should opera and theater want "the accumu-lation of dead on the vertical flats," Appul asked. Appia practiced his theories at Hellerau, an experimental "garden city" in Germany, in 1912. He worked with Emile Jacques-Dalcroze, inventor of eurhythmics, a system of "musical gymnastics" many hail as the forerunner of modern dance.

Appia and Dalcroze believed in a radical idea: a production should achieve artistic unity, with all elements subordinated to the music. For Gluck's Orpheus, Appia covered all four of the theater's walls and its ceiting with white, translucent linen. Behind the linen he placed 7000 lights (George Bernard Shaw saw the lights beneath it to make it ca-pable of anything heavenly"). Appia designed a series of massive, sleek stairs, descendor shave a stage diagonally. Ap-pia stressed the three-dimen-sionality of his settings and in-vented movable lighting devices in the recesses. in the process.

He advocated the use of

From Appia's work with Dalcroze emerged the idea of a scenographer: a single person in charge of all design elements. set, costumes, lighting. Appia design control, and he piete artistic control. And he abocated what today we call "concept" productions, freed "concept" productions, freed from realistic details.

Appia's training was in mu-sic. He envisioned light as music made visible, its shades and tones in constant movement, capable of "supernatural

And years before the it be colored either in itself or through glass slides placed in front of it, he wrote in 1896. "Light can create, things which prior to the projection were not even there." Appia, who eventually turned his sights on theater as well as opera, sought to fuse au-dience with actor. He wanted a theatrief and progression of the servi-

Appia turned to Tahiti for another audience-actor bond. "The inhabitants of Tahiti friendship only if the two peo-ple concerned had been afraid together...a very forceful impression, growing out of a common experience, was nec-essary for the union of their essary for the union of their souls." Appia said actors and audiences should become "afraid together in the all-pow-erful embrace of beauty." In his own mind, Appia didn't think he left any legacy.

"It always seems to me that one has done nothing," he wrote to Gordon Craig, "and, above all, that one hasn't known how to do it well."

STOP The MADNESS!!!

Potato on pizza is unnatural, subversive

ATTENTION! ATTENTION! ATTENTION! LET THE SHOCKING TRUTH BE KNOWN: A RADICAL GROUP OF NONCONFORMISTS COMMONLY KNOWN AS CPK. (CALIFORNIA PIZZA KITCHEN) IS RIGHT NOW SERVING POTATO ON PIZZA IN THIS COMMUNITY! THIS GOES AGAINST EVERYTHING OUR FOREFATHERS INTENDED PIZZA TO BE! Whatever happened to COMMON DECENCY?? Who died and gave CPK the RIGHT to CROSS THE INVISIBLE LINE between the Four Food Groups?? Potatoes should

NOT be integrated with Rosemary Chicken, let alone PIZZAI If people start adopting a permissive attitude towards potato on pizza. Next thing you know, it's the COLLAPSE OF CIVILIZATION IN THE FREE WORLD!!!

And the scource is spreading! WE MUST TAKE ACTION NOW!

Consider the cold, hard, Irrefutable FACTS! Fact: "Savory" Rosemary Chicken-Potato Pizza is cooked with fire. Fact: Fire is a destructive element.

Conclusion: "Savory" Rosemary Chicken-Potate Pizza is destructive!!! We must STAND UP to protect pizza from being transformed into a tool of "COUNTERCULTURE" factions. Let's go back to a simpler time when pizza was a place for pepperoni. Not Tandoori Chicken, Shrimp octor Charlotte Baker, San Diego's first octor Charlotte Daker, san Diego female doctor, examines Mrs. Helen T. Hicks in this December 18, 1925 photo. Mrs. Hicks was an applicant for the San Diego Police Department, and had just completed a 25-yard dash as part of her physical testing.

During Dr. Baker's long and storied career, she delivered over 1000 babies to San Diego mothers - reportedly without the loss of a single mother's life. A tireless civic leader, Baker served as the San Diego County Medical Society's first female president in 1898, and later campaigned for women's suffrage years before that proposal received national acceptance. In addition, Dr. Baker helped establish various elder and children's "rescue homes" locally, and was intimately involved with San Diego's YWCA. In an early newspaper article extolling her contributions to San Diego, the then-retired doctor succinctly summed up her career. "If I had my life to live again I would not alter my course unless to fight harder."
