Honest-to-God Crooks with Blood on Their Hands
Tax-Funded Jubilation
By Matt Panter

As an army of bulldozers, pile drivers, and concrete-mixing machines moved outside the gates of San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium, a crowd gathered on the construction site to see the last bit of the old stadium fall to the wrecking ball. The crowd was jubilant, and the sound of the demolition was deafening.

How Do You Keep Warm at Night?
By John Brinckler

If you think of the homeless at all — and from how to avoid them or that daily mini-moral crisis as to whether to give them spare change or not — you must think that there are people who have certain expectations of us as to how we treat them. But if you are in San Diego, you'll know it's a city that can get cold even at night. During the winter months, the temperature can drop below freezing, and people are forced to find shelter. One homeless man, whose name I never knew, said that he had bought a couple of blankets and a sleeping bag to keep himself warm during the night. He said that it was not easy, but he had to do it because he didn't want to end up on the streets.

Tolstoy Hated Your Plays

"When a cup of coffee is set before you, don't try to find beer in it."

In 1875, the San Diego Daily Union published an article about the theater, noting that Tolstoy had hated the plays. The article was titled "Tolstoy Hated Your Plays." The text reads:

"Tolstoy Hated Your Plays"

"When a cup of coffee is set before you, don't try to find beer in it."

The article goes on to discuss Tolstoy's life and work, mentioning his famous novel "War and Peace." It notes that Tolstoy was a great writer and his work had a deep influence on the literary world.

The article also mentions the San Diego Union's own theater column, which covers local theater news.

The article concludes with a quote from Tolstoy: "The best works are those which are not written by us, but only by us." This quote is attributed to Tolstoy's writings and reflects his belief that the best works come from the heart.

Let's Say I Was Capable
"Elvis Presley, Ann Margaret, Liberace, Glen Campbell. I was in Vegas seven years."

Denny Caglione died two years ago in the arms of someone who didn't know him. Today was the day he took his last breath.

"Don't think I'm being grateful," he said. "I love you, but I can't love you. I'm a man, and I'm a man. I don't want to be a woman. I don't want to be a man. I'm a man. I'm a man. I'm a man."

Brooks on Tape

“Whoever likes me, I at least know why they like me.”

I’ve been five years since the last album Brooks left, and there is no one else who has a style quite like that. If you think about the way they write songs and create music, it’s truly amazing. They have a way of understanding the human condition that is unique.

REVIEW

We settle down to share dishes. Soon we're sucking noodles and confining True Confessions.

O.K., it's true. We're all right. The kids are here, the beds are empty, and the television is on. This is the only place you can go where you can watch all the children's programs and have a good time without being disturbed. Everyone's happy and content.

To get started, we grab some plates, a fork, and a knife. We sit down and begin to eat. It's like a family meal, except there are no kids to bother us.

First we have the main course, which is a meatball sub. It's filled with beef, cheese, and miracle whip. We also have a salad, which is just a few leaves of lettuce and some croutons.

Next we have the dessert. It's a chocolate cake with vanilla ice cream. We also have a cup of tea to drink.

This is a great way to spend an evening. We get to watch TV and eat without anyone bothering us. The kids are out and we can relax.

I'm Sorry, Jack

By Anne Albright

I picked up the bottom part and pulled Jack out of the living room. We turned back at the door. "You're not going to up to that?" asked Jack. "Well, you can't touch it. I'm just going to turn the switch off the power. We can't go out there. The air conditioning is on high and the heat is below zero.

"Yeah, I went through the back door. When we opened it, I let out a scream, and the dog bit me on the neck. Lucy was screaming in the backyard and the dogs were barking." Jack said.

I scooped Lucy into my arms and hugged her head against me. She was sobbing. "Don't worry, don't worry," I said. "I'll fix it. I'll fix it."

"I'm sorry, Jack. I just can't do it. I don't know what to do."

"Just do it, just do it," I said. "I'll fix it. I'll fix it.

In the end, Jack glared at me for a moment, then walked out the front door. He turned back at the door. "You're not going to up to that?" asked Jack. "Well, you can't touch it. I'm just going to turn the switch off the power. We can't go out there. The air conditioning is on high and the heat is below zero."
