His entire ammediate family deed in a plane crash during our third year. Enough catastrophes con-front third-year students to test their sarrity limits envisay. I admiring Derek for the tront thrus-year students to test their santy limits enjway, so 1 admired Derek for the way he handled the most tragic event to happen to a class member in our four years, never losing his kind, gentle manner. The last 1 heard he had finished his pediatrics residence.

Truthfully, most of what happened during the first two years bored us at the time and sin't exciting to recollect here. Gross anatomy broke the rusultine. Taught during the first war at most medical schools, anatomy opened the second year at UCSD, immediately proceding the pathology (study of disease) courses.

Anatomy carried as usin distinguish clayers, the truth of intrigue. Legonds, the truth of many a lecture with an inde-cipherable question about some obscure detail that rei-there the professor nor any of the rest of us carred about. Another otherwise likable for-low had the same annoying habit, although his questions generally maintained a rele-vant thread. Many of us left the auditorium between loc-tures while those two finished their business.

of which purveyors of the oral "history" were never quite sure, were part of course ori-entation. One tells of a stu-dent who borrowed part of his male cadaver to take to the local movie theore. After enter-ing the restruction of the movie house, he strode up to a stall and hurriedly took care of his business. Upon finishing, he transitically vanked up has zip-per, paused, and then let out.

a long how and rus from the hathroom doubted over in mock pain, leaving this 'penis on the floor, to the horror of the dol fellow using the adjoin-ing stall. Another tale claims that a medical student star-ted an East Coast toll colle-tor by handling him a pair of results of the usual for-less others. The atmosphere added to the aura. A distinctive form-Sabride stands greeted the nose of everyone who wan deered into the basement lab, where the 30 or so preserved bodies rested on dissecting tables under drop cloths. The state under drop cloths are stated in the state under drop cloths. The state under drop cloths. The state under drop cloths featured Polecklike zorkstations with sinks and drawers of typical lab design, it also featured laminated specimens tures, including cross sections of the abdomen (about an inch thick) and a human skeleton. nive or its professors roamed among us. Dr. Laurenson, a poetic Canadian, complete with beret and savy wit, always kept things in the proper perspective (when asked for advece before the first earn, he counseled us., "Always drive the Merceden"). Dr. Wilson, a soft-spoken, gentle, matronly sort, periodically suffered attacks of Meniter's diseases, a poorly understood inner-ear condition causing intermentant and the condition of severe dizziness and natures.

Non-Surgical Vision Correction FOR NEARSIGHTEDNESS

There is now a non-surgical treatment for long-lasting correction of near-sightedness (myopia) and astigmatism that is quick, less costly, and without risk.

This vision-correcting procedure was first utilized as a method of mproving vision in the early '60s but now vision can often be restored with a accelerated program, in a matter of weeks.

Orthokeratology is designed to quickly reduce the patient's myopic condition and to improve vision with a succession of specially fitted therapeutic contact lenses which gently reshape the curvature of the cornect.

Advanced techniques and new technology in specialized contact lenses have revolutionized eye care in the field of vision restoration.

Special stabilizing contact lenses are also available to prevent or retard the gradual increase of nearsightedness.

Dr. Michael Satterlee is highly qualified in this procedure, and holds a followship certificate from the International Orthokeratology section of the National Eye Research Foundation, with over 25 years of orthokeratology experience. His practice is devoted to contact lenses and corrective vision care.

Early one evening on call, I admitted to the medical ward an asthmatic dark-haired, chubby-checked Mexican boy, about 14 months old. At that age, one has a well-developed sense of fear and a need to protect one-self from the unknown, so irragine being dragged in that former of mind into a large, unfamiliar building full of strangers, many of whom are trying to probe you with needles to fill your wins with antibiotics and theophylline (a caffeine-like medicine that opens bronchial tubes) or blow cold mist (con-taining overen and how tubes) or blow cold mist (con-taining oxygen and bron-chodilators) into your face. All of this is happening while you feel as though you are drown-ing, you can't get enough air. So this little boy made no effort to hide his feelings about me or my attempt to examine him. He screamed. He punched. He kicked. He bit. We prevailed. I left him to his mother, his nurse, his medication, and his beeathing treatments and con-tinued my evening's work with other parients.

Most Often Asked Questions About HAIR TRANSPLANTS:

Q: Is the procedure painful?

A: The method we use should be no more uncomfortable than having your teeth cleaned. Part of the reason for this is our part of the reason for this part of the reason for this part of the reason for this part of the reason for the naving your teent teaned. The act of the reason for this is our experience with the surgical technique. The second factor is the amount of time we spend with each patient. We are not a high-volume transplant mill; you can be assured that each graft is meticulously performed.

Q: Are there any telltale signs of the surgery?

A: Unless you let it be known, only a hair transplant expert should be able to tell... and even then there can be some strong doubt. Hair naturally grows one to four follicles at a time, the same number we transplant. However, right after the surgery there is a series of blemishes where the grafts have been implanted. If you desire to hide these, there are a number of strategies

Q: How do I handle showing my head after surgery?

 There is no single best approach. Frequently, pre-existing hair can be styled to completely cover the transplanted area. When this is not possible, some patients wear hats, take vacations, or stay home for a few days. Others simply don't care if its noticeable or not...in fact they are proud of their decision to have their hair restored from your own head, which with a permanent and natural solution. styling and trimming.

Q: Is it a permanent solution?

A: More permanent than your original hair...which you will be replacing. Our transplants grow and require hair styling. For most people, it is like a fountain of youth for their head. The question should not be whether or not there is a permanent solution. The question should rather be, are you ready for a permanent solution?

At Compared to a few short years ago, hair transplants are very affordable. Plus, newly developed techniques allow us to create a virtually undetectable finished work using your own hair. One example is our single follicle transplant method that allows us to feather the edges of your scalp line. And, even though we offer the added benefit of superb arristry, our fees are highly comparitive. We welcome highly competitive. We welcome the opportunity to provide you an individual estimate.

TO HER CAT

The cat still has to do a lot of sewing.
But drowses on. The rug matches the kitty.
She can set the shadows at the window
Of the lattle birds fresh from their bathing.
Sprinkling light below them, like white flour
— Or perhaps these were the birdies' children?

She had had a number of cat children: Where were they? Now she must start seving For her family with the cloth like flour. White as the bib-front of her smallest kitty. She would have to teach it to start bathing. There went wings, delicious, past the window.

Blissful to sleep on beside a window Never giving thought to tasks or children. Never mending, mincing, toying, buthing— It was a cycle. She forgot the sewing And dreamed about the pouncing of a kitty On a nest, which scattered heaps of flour.

To make supper she would soak the flour In her own milk bowl, and set it by the window, Yo be out of sight of her young kitty. You could never discipline such children Let alone get them to practice sewing Or to master the paw stroke of bathing.

You must wet the paw to do your bathing: She imagined coating it in flour. You must thread a needle to start sewing. You must grow to wood beside the window (She imagined cautioning her children). So that you might catch a meal for kitty.

But this will not happen to her kitty
Who was still attempting to learn bathing.
Aggravation is the way of children:
She would have to sprinkle them with flour.
Then she saw the scissons at her window,
Winging past the basket filled with sewing.

The imperviousness of this genre to the viccisitudes of fashion — from the moment, at any rate, when it was brought back into fashion — might suggest that its conventions house a body of timeless and unaherabe truths about the American psyche of American beautiful and the support of the sup ican soul or American something. Or alternatively it might suggest the dry well of imagination among the copy-cat American filmmakers of our day. Or both. That's something I must think about when I have that extra late that the more recent noirs, inso-far as they are self-conscious imitations of the piomeering noirs, have inevitably tended to reflect less on real life than on red life. Less on the world around them than on the movies behind them.
