THE SKY'S ON FIRE!

For the past few days, Americans in other cities have been flocking to stands and stores and roadside tents, where they've been loading up on fireworks. In places like Birmingham, Alabama, and Cheyenne Wyoming, and Kansas City, Missouri, ordinary folks have been buying Black Cat firecrackers, Magical Roman candles, shells that soar skyward and explode into glittering bits of color. California state law prohibits those particular items. But even in Santa Ana and Buena Park and El Centro, people have been stacking up on sparklers and snakes and smake pots and other novelties — cheap and legal. We in San Diego are not allowed to buy any such things, however, which is ironic.

The prohibition here might lead a newcomer to believe this was a city hostile to fireworks. Yet if you count the number of aerial shows staged throughout the year, firm places see more. In all of California, there are only two major aerial display companies. One is based in Lakeside and the other has a division located on Mission Gorge Road. The biggest national organization of amateur pyrotechnicians — firework home-brevers — was founded in San Diego in 1968. And cut of a house in Kensington, a self-styled pyrotechnic guru publishes consumer-oriented evaluations of everything from ground spinners to fountains to rockets.

That fellow, Bob Wesser, uses feireds often ask him with doors it moves to aplace more tradem of personal freeworks. But Wesser likes Southern California. He shorn and raised in the city of Crange. The spring 1997 issue, for example, featured aerial repeaters. anti-fireworks activists present injury statistics out of context. "A total estimate of between 10,000 and 13,000 fireworks-related injuries in the United States sounds horrendous," Weaver fuluminated in a recent issue of his Het Sheet, as long as you don't mention that more in the U.S each your. "That means that fireworks cause less than one-tenth of 1 percent of the trouble. In contrast, cooking ranges burn more than four inness a many people each war, he points out. Bicycles hurt 50 times as many. Wild regulatory inconsistency results from the clash between the pro- and antipyro forces. You get a good sense of this in Weaver's laster publication, a 60-page guide to consumer fireworks vendors throughout the country. At one extreme, Arizona, Delaware, Georgia, Masschusetts, and Rhode Island don't let amone sell any type of freevork any time throughout the year. At the other pole, Alaska, Tennessee, South Carolina, Wisconsin, and Woyming impose virtually no restrictions. In between, California dali toward the more repressive end of the spectrum. It allows only 'safe and saire 'firevorts' tobasically. things that don't explode or fly) to be sold only from noon, June 28, through noon, July 6—provided that local municipalities (such as the City of San Diego) haven't imposed their own ban. On the day we talked, Dixon was deep in the throes of choreographing the upcoming: 22nd Sky Show (to be held on August 29). He works out of his home in Tierrasant, a comfortable dwelling that looks a lot like insmiddle-class neighbors but hims in subtle ways at the calling of the content of its occupants. Little red, white, and blue firecrackers adorn a and blue firecrackers adorn a straw wreath hung by the front door. Uncle Sam dangles from a vind chime and grins up at visitors from the doormat. Irside, Dixon's vocation is even more evident. ning is only one of the changes the fireworks business has seen over the past 25 years. Two oth-ers have been even more dra-matic. Dixon says that for a commatic. Drixon says that for a com-plex production like the Sky Show, all the controls for all the elements can now be put on one master source, usually video-tape or a laser disk. This makes it possible for related actions to occur at the very same second, he explains. The other development is that computers can now send the firing signals, something they do with much more accuracy and precision than any human. The marriage than any human. The marriage of these two advances has made California the setting for the most awant-garde pyrotechnics in the world. Dixon-asserts. That doesn't mean that most of the shows scheduled for tomorrow will enjoy that distinction. Only the show at the Del Mar Fair will be fired by computers. In other cases, the pyrotechnician will huddle

"It was a successful endeavor," says Green Circle owner Paulo Emanuele of the bar. "Except for the fact that homeless people, in an area zoned [for] entertainment and arts, were able to control and manipulate the ABC." Emanuele refers to residents at the Rachel's Women's Center, located adjacent to the Green Circle.

According to the ABC,
the shelter had complained about noise almost since the bar opened. Though the Green Circle was not a "rock club," the pulsing beats and heavy horns could not be contained. The bar's liquor license stipulated that the licensed property. The north side of the women's center is nearly in contact with the Green Circle. "It's called objectionable Steve was off with [Michael] Bloomfield and with Michael Bloomfield and [Al] Kooper cutting their Sr per Session. The Buffalo Springfield was Steve's band. He was the heart and the soul of the Springfield, and as long as he was there! was willing to stand alongside him and say, 'Hey, man, let's do it. Let's keep his thing recipe." When it came this thing going. When it came time, when he said, 'It's over time, when he said, it's over for all of us,' we started going in different directions and things became kind of a blur. "There's Daryl Johnson," said Hoffman, pointing to a tall.

Black Star beer is now in Southern California.

And while it may be new to you, it's already a favorite among Montana beer drinkers, who've been enjoying it ever since we opened our Whitefish brewery a few years ago.

Black Star is a rich, flavorful lager that's double-hopped for a crisp, refreshing finish. Yet, it costs only a few pennies more than the well-known national lagers.

However, there is a string attached. We aren't brewing a lot of it, so Black Star may be difficult to find.

Look for it in your favorite bar or tavern. And if they don't have it, ask them to give us a call in Whitefish, and we'll do our best to deliver some.
