Fires sometimes interrupt dinner preparations at Fire Station 35, a few blocks from University Towne Centre. But when I watched the men one late afternoon, I was struck by the calm grace of their motions. One of the paramedics, a dark-haired man with a body that could have been sculpted by Polykleitos, washed spinach and filled a big silver colander with the springy emerald leaves. Feminist Intrigue

Feminist Intrigue in today's Reader. November 20, you have an article, "Do! Think We're Going to Be To-gether Forever!" by Matthew ticktona. I have a comment on the way von have captioned the pictures. There are three pictures of complex, and in ev-ery case the man is on the left will the second of the conbut you have them all cap-tioned backwards. I don't think the political-correctness police would come around and haul would come around and haul you off to political-correctness prison if you captioned these pictures in the customary way, reading from left to right. Do you have a feminist in the office there that deliberately captioned all these pictures with the woman's name first?

Anne Tells It Like It Is I have been following the Reader for just over a year now, since for just over a year now, since moving to San Diego from out of state. I have found it to be very insightful, colorful, and anything but mainstram, which is great in today's reading op-tions. I have found that every-one does a super job in putting the paper together and making it what it is each and every-werk.

of Special interest to me is Anne Abright's section ("Kid Stuff"). I have never been a parent, vet I am thoroughly amused by her writings and humor. She tells it like it is and is to be commended for such frankness and homest within the vertings. Hearn so much from her and laugh many times out load a the writings. I learn so much stories proves it every week she writes.

Thank you for the "kid stuff" on child endangerment (Oxtober 29.1 have been increasingly concerned about the way the government, at all levels, is using the excuse of "child welfare" to take oner and more authority and rights away from American citizen. Will Americans never again be willing to buck this trend and force the government to give hem their Constitutional rights back! Have Americans lost the wondrous love of free dom that helped make this the most reovernous country in the dom that helped make this the most prosperous country in the world, with the first entrepre-neurial middle class in history. Will parents forever have to tiptoe around their own chil-dren for fear of their children being removed from their home?

Imagine My Disgust I was pleasantly surprise see that "Blurt" finally riewed my band the Air-Age CD. Dreaming Out Loud (October 16). After all, I'd beer waiting almost two months for this 'opportunity.' Imagine my disgust and disappointment when I read the entire review and there was no mention of the music or the band, just a long string of nonsense concerning blimps (there's a blimp on the cover). The so-calked writer of this garbage signed his work R.M. Well, R.M., maybe you should by listening to the CJ., that's usually where the adject trustusually where the subject mat-ter for a review is found! Just because there's a bimp on the cover doesn't mean you have to try your hand in abstract writing — college should be over for you by now,! would think. As an arist one should expect criticism or praise in a review. I even put in a call to exist to many win-dows of opportunity for get-ting music reviewed here in ting music reviewed here in town, and at this point I would settle for anything, even mentioning the band or ac-knowledging that the music even exists. A lot of time and effort went into the making of J.M. eff ort went into the making of this CD. One of our songs wom an award at the San Diego Songwriters' Guild contest, and the CD is getting airplay on 10.3.3 and KGTV Channel 10. Maybe the Reader's should start reviewing the content of the CDs and stop reviewing the covers. (A few weeks ago you went off on the packaging of Spacewarm's CD.). Another good start would be to stop regood start would be to stop re-viewing the concerts before they happen. I guess all that I'm asking is that you start acting like you care about the music scene here in San Diego

Another firefighter peeled white-skinned potatoes in a smooth, steady rhythm. John Stuemke, the main cook for this evening's meal, had his hands on a four-and-a-half-pound hunk of flank steak he purchased at the Regents Road Vons a few hours earlier. Stuemke planned to transform the meat into a roulade, not the plainest dish in the station's repertoire but not the most exotic either. "We have a saying here that food is love," Stuemke said. "So we spend more time preparing it."

Had the impression that Stuemke spoke for his particular station and his particular division, C. Division, which empora a regulation for cultians excellence. And both is against you of the top five cooks in the entire fire departiment, one of his cos workers boasted. In the kitchen, the roasting-beef smell seeped from the oven, it but promising. While Stuemke cleaned up, men drifted into the large adjoining room. It's an ugly space, built from cinder block and carpeted with a tired, mud-brown fabric, but it has its priorities right. Two industrial-grade dining tables occupy the center, and a half dozen overstuffed recliners line one wall, facing a big-scre n

In one of those thought-ful mental leaps that somehow seem sage, Stuemke commented that some firefighters put sugar and butter and syrup on the rice he serves them. He sees this as a clue to their past. "I know they're from the South, and roulade surprised me with its prettines. Each inch whick cross-section revealed a crisp, mahogany exterior encircling a thick coil of dusky pink meat. Inside this, the spinach leaves had flattened and turned forest green. They in turn corralled the marbled cheese and carrots. Strembe placed the plate.

Stuemke placed the plat-ter a few feet down the counter from a stack of plates, aiming for a smooth flow through the

His chief appeared and remarked that Stuemake sometimes goes as far as to make up a sample dimner plate so everyone can see what it should look like. "He has the different ool oor and the flavors. Despite its fancy jooks, the tastes were simple: meat and lightly cooked vegetables snuggled up with a bit of melted cheese. And with a bit of melted cheese. And Stuemle was right; the pack-aged gravy tasted great on the mashed potatoes. The platts-cleared fast. Once the blaze was extin guished, the firefighters could see that it had started in the see that it had started in the coom of one of the sons, a prob-lem child who'd been into drugs and other forms of trouble. This boy had appeared to be straight-ening out his life, but with the fire, the family feared that he might be acting up again. "But he wasn't," the firefighter recounted. "He worked at Jack In The Box. The maid had in The Box. The maid had washed his uniforms and folded them. He had set them on the floor next to his bed because he was in a hurry, and he didn't put them away. Well, Jack In The Box cooks in canela oil. And canola oil is immensely flammable, like linseed oil, and apparently it's hard to wash it out of clothes. They were still hot from the dryer, and they spontaneously ignited. It was bizarre. THANKSGIVING POEM

A Thanksgiving Poem

The sun hath shed its kindly light, Our harvesting is gladly o'er Our fields have felt no killing blight, Our bins are filled with goodly store

From pestilence, fire, flood, and sword We have been spared by thy decree, And now with humble hearts, O Lord, We come to pay our thanks to thee.

We erring children, born of sin, Might not now be rejoicing thu

No deed of ours hath brought us grace: When thou were nigh our sight was dull. We hid in trembling from thy face. But thou, O God, wert merciful.

Thy mighty hand o'er all the land Hath still been open to bestow Those blessings which our wants demand From heaven, whence all blessings flow

Thou hast, with ever watchful eye, Looked down on us with holy ca And from thy storehouse in the sky Hast scattered plenty everywhen

Then lift we up our songs of praise
To thee, O rather, good and kind;
To thee we consecrate our days:
Be thine the temple of each mind.

Before thy works our powers pall; Though we should strive years without end We could not thank thee for them all.
