Life Behind The Badge

By Bill Manning

When San Diego police captain Lesli Lord killed herself on August 25, Joanne Archambault was furious.

I went home nervously, afraid that someone might have seen this story. I printed it again and again, checking and re-checking it. The title was "Life Behind The Badge" by Bill Manning. I read the article again, and it filled me with anger.

I don't know how to express my feelings. I just know that I feel betrayed. I feel that the people in law enforcement have let me down.

I was a police officer for 25 years, and I have seen the good and the bad in law enforcement. I have seen the corruption and the abuse. But this is different. This is worse.

I can't believe that someone who was a police officer could do this. I can't believe that someone who was supposed to be a leader could do this.

I feel that the people in law enforcement have let me down. I feel that they have failed me. I feel that they have let me down.

I don't know what to do. I don't know how to move forward. I don't know how to deal with this.

I just know that I feel betrayed. I feel that the people in law enforcement have let me down.

There is a difference in eye care providers...

Unlike practices that offer only very limited services, we provide a full range of eye care options at "guaranteed" prices. We will help you select the very best option to meet your individual needs. Who offers a practice that only offers limited services?

We will beat any competitive price...
On Saturday, September 19th, Look For A Sign Of Good Health.

Scripps Community Health Fair

We're celebrating across the county. Join us Saturday, September 19th, from 9 am to noon as we celebrate our community with providing the best health care possible.

We'll be reading our new logos on our hospitals, medical offices and walkways centers. You'll know it's a sign of good health. On Saturday, you'll find free screenings for linked pressure, body fat and bone density. Enjoy free refreshments and live music as you browse our many interactive health and wellness education displays. And the kids can capture a real fire engine, police and ambulances.

For more health care information, please call 1800-Scripps (1800-729-7773) for more health care information.

Dear Matthew Silk:

What officially makes a place "safe"? When the Supreme Court granted the right to "privacy" do they mean that it's "safe"? Where it is at the end of the day? After you have a place to live? In the North Country, I don't have the same offer as in the city. It also has a sign on the road, but I've had no police offer. I've been there the past year and the play has been enjoyable, simply by the presence. I've been there two years, and what would I have to say if I got off the bus, "nice offer." -差不多呢，开到就。

Wlio's Superior Day

Who has the closest and delicious pleasure of being in a nursery? For far too many people, "being in a nursery" is a pretty good as going to jail. They have been sucked into a child protection system where it's too easy to place a child or say they're doing this or that. This nurse right up my alley. Where and at whose home should I go? I've been a nurse for 20 years, it's the same thing, even a different home. Where you cannot cover your home with a sign, you cannot cover your own home. If what is a sight, California, you're back on your own. It's a very real or more. But yes, the presence cannot be explained away by a sign, but it's great food of your money.

MAKE THAT 2 AND 0

The San Diego Chargers are in 2 and 0. Their performance so far this season shows that while they may have lost their first two games, they are not the team they are capable of being. However, their performance in the past two games shows that they are not just a one-hit wonder. In their game against the New England Patriots, they showed that they can play with some of the best in the league. They will look to continue their winning streak against the Oakland Raiders.

The game against the Patriots was a close one, but the Chargers were able to come out on top. They were able to score 27 points and hold the Patriots to 20. Their defense was able to hold the Patriots to just 10 points in the first half. The team was able to move the ball well and had a balanced offensive attack.

In their game against the Raiders, the Chargers were able to score 26 points and hold the Raiders to 20. Their defense was able to hold the Raiders to just 10 points in the first half. The team was able to move the ball well and had a balanced offensive attack.

The Chargers have shown that they are a team that is capable of playing with some of the best in the league. They will look to continue their winning streak against the Raiders and prove that they are a team to be feared.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA LIGA

Their fans are excited and they will be looking for another win this weekend.

The game against the Raiders will be a tough one, but the Chargers have shown that they are up for the challenge. They will look to continue their winning streak and prove that they are a team to be feared.

S" Strips and stories and all that, but this story— "Stick and stones and all that," it is the story of a 183-pound box with the name "Game Boy Advance" on it. A peace offering for the games community, perhaps? The story begins with a clear warning: "I don't like games. I don't like the people who make them. I don't like the people who play them. I hate video games—" and then it gets worse. "...and I hate the people who make them. I hate the people who play them. I hate video games..."

A Hospital Is a Village of Immense Suffering

On the morning of Tuesday, February 14, I awoke to a sense of unease, knowing something was about to happen. It was like the feeling one has before a storm. I was not sure what it was, but I knew it was not good.

I went to the hospital, not knowing what to expect. I had an appointment with Dr. A. He was a specialist in mental health. I had been referred to him by my family doctor. I was hoping for some relief from the anxiety I had been experiencing.

Dr. A was not reassuring. He asked me a series of questions about my past medical history and current condition. He then prescribed medication and booked me for a follow-up appointment.

The next day, I returned to the hospital. Dr. A looked at me with a serious expression. He explained that my condition was serious and that I needed to be admitted to the hospital.

I was admitted to the hospital and was placed in a ward. The room was filled with people, all of them suffering in their own ways. The noise and the smell were overwhelming.

For days, I lay in bed, unable to move. The doctors and nurses were not kind to me. They were more interested in their own work than in the patients they were supposed to care for.

I was discharged from the hospital after what felt like an eternity. I went home and tried to resume my normal life, but the memories of the hospital would not go away.

The hospital is a village of immense suffering. It is a place where people are forced to confront their own worst fears and face the reality of their own mortality. It is a place where the sick and the dying are cared for, but also where the healthy are punished.

As I reflect on my experience, I realize that the hospital is a microcosm of society. It is a place where the powerless are subjected to the power of the medical establishment. It is a place where the sick are seen as a burden and are treated with disregard.

I hope that one day the hospital will be transformed into a place of healing and compassion. Until then, I will remember the hospital as a place of pain and suffering.

Very small... Very light... Very digital

There are many reasons for buying an LG digital phone. The most important is Real Value. One of the smallest CDMA cell phones on the market at a great price. Superb audio quality, exceptionally reliable and durable. A slim, light design is fun and sporty. Liquid-chip included with the phone and a full line of accessories that won't cost you an arm and a leg.

More affordable than ever.

Visit any GTE location or their agent stores for the lowest digital rates available in San Diego.
We head west, toward a huge Mediterranean villa that is selling for $2,795,000.

"It's a little aggressively priced," Cathy says.

We raster the home and are greeted by the grandeur of the entrance: a curved, circular driveway, a vast stone-floored entryway, and a grand staircase leading to the second floor. The house is a marvel of modern design, with large windows that allow natural light to flood the interior. We walk through the main living area, which is accented with high ceilings, a fireplace, and a large sliding door that opens onto a swimming pool. The pool is surrounded by a stone patio, and there is a large outdoor dining area with a gas grill. The kitchen is spacious and well-equipped, with stainless steel appliances and a large island. The master suite is located on the second floor, with a large walk-in closet and a spa-like bathroom. The guest wing has four more bedrooms, each with its own en-suite bathroom.

"It's big," Cathy says. "And it's very well-maintained. The owner has obviously put a lot of care into this property."
INTEGRITY

When you plunge your fingers into a silky heap of flour, it feels oddly cool and softer than anything man can make. It's dense and weightless at the same time. It slips off your fingers like snow. Picked into a flame, a puff of flour explodes in a crackling shower of sparks. Flour smells dusty and raw and rich. The heat is branded into gold by the oil pressed out of the grain when it's milled. The best time makes the best bread.

The best flour, and time. The recipe should read: Mix flour, water, yeast, salt, and patience.

Among the ranks of hurry-up supermarket loaves are a few that mimic a real wheat taste. But mostly because we've come to believe that bread tastes sweet like sugar. Bread — the old-fashioned, plain, unadorned bread — is earthy-sweet, sun sweet, sweet like meat. It's a taste that can't be added. It develops in the dough while the baker isn't watching. In fact, while the cook isn't watching, loaf bread is baked itself. In early dynastic Egypt, sadbakers-fish-stirred the right spices into just the right kind of wheat dough, enough time passed, and the flatbread rose when it baked. Handmade bread has barely changed in 5000 years.

In the wheat-growing areas of the ancient world, the pasta-based breads and hard rolls introduce a whey that is reserved for the upper classes. That established white bread as the food of the elite and brown, grainy breads the food of peasants.

We hold our bread's own time until the Industrial Revolution. Now bread conforms to our clock. It's mixed, shaped, baked, wrapped, and shipped uncrushed to lands. Its aroma, once sold only to flavor the bread, not because it's needed to raise it. Conditioners, stabilizers, and other additives make the dough immune to the rigors of temperature, humidity, and the personality of the flour. Assembly lines can't accommodate nuances.

In reaction to manufactured bread, the five-year-old Bread Bakers Guild of America champions artisan bakers, producers of handmade breads who work by the old-fashioned clock. Guild member Fred Holobos owns San Diego Artisan Bakers in Escondido. His shop produces 20 types of European country breads from organic, stone-ground flours, including white, wheat, rye, and sourdough loaves, plus focaccia and specialty bread flavored with cherries, pecans, figs, olives, cheese, garlic, onions, and a variety of herbs. The shop is tucked into a niche of olive trees and flowers on South Escondido Boulevard, north of拨打. The colorfully converted bungalow is mostly a stone kitchen with a small salesroom and an office. Fred grew up in San Francisco and lived in France in the 1970s, as a hobo, he's had good bread.

"I'll have to say I've been baking for 26 years. But I started home baking seriously 5 years ago, and I'd had the bakery for 3 years. I read a book by Dan Linder, who opened the first artisanal bakery, Bread Alone, and he wrote very romantically about the life of the baker and
PUT SOME FREEDOM INTO YOUR HIV MEDICATION SCHEDULE

It takes strong medicines to fight HIV. But your medications also have to be easy to take. That's why millions of people now take ZERIT (stavudine) as part of their HIV therapy.

Many people tolerate ZERIT quite well. Because it has few side effects, you take just one capsule twice a day, with or without food. And you can combine ZERIT with most other medications you might be taking.

ZERIT is approved for the treatment of HIV-positive persons who have already received prolonged AZT therapy. However, it is not recommended for use in patients with advanced HIV infections or other conditions associated with 1%. Please read the full prescribing information. ZERIT has been shown to cause tingling or pain in the hands or feet in 13% to 24% of people.

Pain, muscle aches, and fever have also been reported in people taking ZERIT, including some that caused hospitalization. Ask your doctor about ZERIT.

After A Side-By-Side Comparison Of Digital Services, It Turns Out AirTouch Is On Top.

The numbers are in. According to a recent independent study, we outperformed all other digital services in San Diego. After comparing thousands of calls, the study found that AirTouch digital service is the most reliable.

Specifically, it shows we provide the best coverage. Our calls are more likely to get through on the first try and fewer calls are dropped. Plus, when it comes to voice quality, AirTouch digital ranked very high.

So for the best service overall, get AirTouch digital. Right now it's about a dollar a day, including 675 minutes each month. Stop by an AirTouch Store. Or call 1-800-AIRTOUCH today. We don't just claim to be the best, we've got clear proof.

Pray that Michael Douglas

In 1972, Tony Tarantino was a street evangelist. A thin, gentle kid of 20 with bushy reddish hair, he roomed with his older sister up the street from the Spring Valley church where Laura and I lived with a crowd of friends. Tony visited most every day while on his rounds to lead Bible studies at the homes of various believers and skeptics. People told us he used to play bass at Skyline Wesleyan Church, before he gave up music to concentrate on his Bible studies. For his devotion and humility, Tony was becoming a legend around San Diego amongst the converted hippies people called Jesus freaks.

The response is our ad in the Job Giant and the Reader was great. Almost overwhelming! We probably got 50 or 60 calls. At the same time, we advertised the position in the Union-Tribune and the Daily Californian. Their combined response was only six to eight calls. Next time I will use the Job Giant and the Reader exclusively.

The breakthrough! I've been waiting for is LASIK procedure to correct nearsightedness and astigmatism has finally become available.

Until now, the only option for correcting these defects was contact lenses or traditional surgery which involved cutting a flap of tissue away from the eye and then carefully trimming it. The LASIK procedure is a no-flap surgical technique that avoids the possibility of scarring and other complications.

The procedure involves the use of a laser to reshape the cornea, improving vision. The laser is directed at the eye by an optical system, which guides the operator of the machine to the exact point where the laser needs to be applied.

The results are immediate, with 90% of patients seeing 20/20 vision or better.

We are excited to offer this revolutionary procedure.

Family Matters

I suddenly realized why chamber music performances virtually never venture into wild interpretations.

A recent, handsomely mounting and -heightening concert gained the audience, although intermissions gained the heightening and stimulating, and it confirmed the high quality of performance that one must come to expect from this remarkable music institution.

The orchestra music began with Beethoven's Cello Concerto in D, No. 5, performed by the Los Angeles Philharmonic under the direction of conductor Michael Tilson Thomas, who, through his attention to detail and his use of the orchestra, managed to bring out the richness of the music and the complexity of the textures.

The second piece was Schubert's Symphony No. 9 in D minor, "The Great," which was conducted with great poise and precision by the same conductor. The performance was a testament to the orchestra's ability to deliver a complex and challenging piece with grace and precision.

The concert concluded with a encore, which was a selection from Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony. The performance was a fitting conclusion to the concert, with the orchestra delivering a powerful and moving performance.

The audience was captivated by the combination of the conductor's vision and the orchestra's technical skill. The concert was a beautiful example of why chamber music performances are rarely interpreted in wild ways.
The Last Place You’d Expect Love to Bloom
In Shakespeare, emotions are verbal.

Hermione pushes the notion that love is a simple emotion, but in Duquesne’s production of "The Taming of the Shrew," the motivations of the characters are anything but simple. The play, which is set in the 16th century, explores the relationships between Katharine and Petruchio, as well as between the other characters in the play. The relationship between Katharine and Petruchio is complex, as it is based on love, but also on the desire for power and control.

Katharine is a strong-willed woman who is determined to resist the advances of Petruchio, a man who is determined to win her over. The play explores the idea that love is not just a simple emotion, but is also a powerful force that can be used to manipulate others. In the end, Katharine is able to assert her independence and resist the attempts of Petruchio to control her.

The other relationships in the play are just as complex, as they are based on love, but also on other emotions such as jealousy, enmity, and love for the wrong person.

Overall, "The Taming of the Shrew" is a fascinating play that explores the complexities of relationships and the power of love.

The Sneeze
"Brilliant...a joyful night"
"Striking performances"
"Handsome and engaging"

During the "Sneeze," a play that is set in the 19th century, the characters are faced with a crisis. The town is suffering from a massive outbreak of fevers, and the characters are left to deal with the consequences of the disease.

The play is a masterpiece, as it is filled with humor, drama, and suspense. The characters are well-developed, and the play is a joy to watch.

Strangeness
On Line One

"I thought I broke my back in three places. When I came to, I had security throw him out."

I first heard a chanted folk song the other night in a little club called Bomb. A woman who lived in a small apartment above it was reading a story from a book she had brought with her. She was a heavy smoker, her voice was rough and her diction was excellent. She had just finished a long speech about the war, and then she began to read aloud from the book. The story was about a young girl who had been caught up in the war and had to make a difficult decision. She decided to join the Resistance, and the rest of the story was about her experiences there. The woman's voice was so clear and precise that I could hear every word she said. The other people in the room were quiet, listening intently to what she was saying. Suddenly, the woman started to sing a song about the war. It was a beautiful song, full of emotion and passion. I was moved by the beauty of the words and the way the woman was singing it. After she finished, there was applause from the audience, and the woman thanked them for their attention. The atmosphere was electric, and I knew that I had stumbled upon something special. The woman continued to read and sing, and the room was filled with the sound of her voice. It was a magical moment, and I'll never forget it. The song was called "I dream of peace."

As Pretty as a Heroine

Many diners find it difficult to cope with a Vietnamese menu.

T he pages of a French menu are carefully folded, the grapes are plump and juicy, the cheese is smooth and creamy, and the desserts are rich and flavorful. But a Vietnamese menu can be more challenging. The ingredients are unfamiliar, the presentation is different, and the flavors are bold and spicy. This can make it difficult for diners to enjoy the cuisine.

The key to enjoying a Vietnamese menu is to approach it with an open mind and an adventurous spirit. Start by exploring the menu and reading about the dishes. Ask your server or the chef for recommendations and descriptions. This will help you make informed choices and enhance your dining experience.

Additionally, consider trying a few dishes that you are familiar with in a new way. For example, if you like French cuisine, try the Vietnamese version of Co Qui, which is a dish of sautéed prawns with lemongrass and chilies. This dish is similar to the French Coquilles St. Jacques, but with a more spicy and aromatic profile.

Finally, remember that Vietnamese cuisine is all about balance and harmony. The flavors are complex and layered, and the dishes are often served with a variety of accompaniments. By understanding the ingredients and presentation, you can appreciate the depth and richness of the food.

The next time you find yourself facing a Vietnamese menu, don't be intimidated. Embrace the challenge and let your taste buds guide you on a culinary adventure.
