Things we've saved and saved and SAVED For all the stupid reasons
you or for anybody else's things.
You can't take them "with you," not all,
not any, but chances are what's left is but a fraction of the total heap
or shit that in the course of a life has passed through your postmistress's paper plate.
Gone is that copy of Zap! Gonna number three, and gone is the tambourine Howdy Doody watch, and the actual pack Frank Mahowald scored good number 489 with against Toronto;
and gone gone GONE are all the silly goddam STAMPS you once fiercely "collected," only a fool would hold onto that shit, and you're no fool, neither am I.
But you've kept the tattered squirrel hanky, right?, that old souvenir your mum hand-painted for your sixth (or was it seventh?) birthday, and the yellow plastic space helmet from 1955, excelent plastic like they don't make anymore — hard, not very flexible, like
you think would be brittle,
but isn't brittle — with a brim
like on baseball caps — this is one dizzy helmet! — or if YOU haven't kept 'em, I know I have.

Back to the "Plantation" Theory

The following recent story set me off:

"Some Dreamers Are Doomed" by Louisa Mihalchevski

I'm really not sure what the relationship between the two is or even why the author would make such a statement.

I'm not sure what the author is trying to say, but I think it's really important that we take a closer look at the history of these terms.

It's important to recognize that these terms have been used for centuries to describe certain people as superior or inferior.

I believe that we should be careful about how we use these terms and try to use more accurate and respectful language.

I also think that we should do more to educate ourselves about the history of these terms and how they have been used to justify discrimination.

It's important that we recognize the power of language and the impact it can have on how we think and feel about others.

I hope that the author of this letter will consider these points and reconsider their use of these terms.

Sincerely,

Just Your Average La Jolla Murder

By Bill Tannen

Raymond Chandler never had it so good. His town, La Jolla, is becoming notorious for bizarre murders that don't prevent inhabitants from enjoying their usual lives. In this case, a well-known La Jolla resident, 13-year-old daughter of a prominent local family, was found dead in a park near the town's famous Spreckels Park. Police believe she was the victim of a random act of violence, and are currently searching for evidence that will help them identify the perpetrator.

The town of La Jolla, known for its beautiful beaches and upscale lifestyle, has been hit by a series of bloody incidents in recent months. In addition to the latest murder, there have been reports of several other violent crimes, including a break-in at a local art gallery and a shooting at a popular restaurant.

La Jolla is typically a quiet and peaceful community, but the recent spate of violent incidents has left residents feeling uneasy. Many are questioning whether the town is becoming a target for criminals, or if there is some larger issue at play.

The police are working tirelessly to solve the latest murder, and are asking for the public's help in identifying potential suspects. Anyone with information is urged to contact the local police department immediately.

La Jolla is not alone in its struggle with crime. Cities and towns across the country are facing similar challenges, and the problem of violent crime continues to be a major concern for many communities.

STRAIGHT FROM THE HIP

Dear Dr. Hanson,

I am writing to tell you about my personal experience. I have had some vivid dreams and I have even had some out-of-body experiences. I wanted to share this with you.

I have been feeling very stressed lately. I have been having difficulty sleeping and I have been feeling very anxious. I have been having a lot of stomach problems, including constipation.

I have been trying to improve my health by eating a healthy diet and exercising regularly. I have been cutting out sugar and alcohol and I have been drinking more water.

I have been practicing hypnosis for a few weeks now. I have been trying to control my anxiety and improve my sleep. I have been trying to control my appetite and improve my digestion.

I have been feeling much better since I started hypnosis. I have been sleeping much better and I have been feeling much more relaxed. I have been eating much better and I have been feeling much more satisfied.

Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,
[Patient Name]

“I have a friend who is a hypnotherapist. I had been trying to lose weight for years and I had been unsuccessful. I had been trying everything from diets to exercise and I had been unsuccessful. I had been trying to lose weight for years and I had been unsuccessful. I had been trying everything from diets to exercise and I had been unsuccessful.

I decided to try hypnosis and I was very surprised. I was able to lose 71 pounds in just a few months. I was able to lose 71 pounds in just a few months.

I was very happy with the results. I was able to feel better and I was able to feel better. I was able to feel better and I was able to feel better. I was able to feel better and I was able to feel better.

I would recommend hypnosis to anyone who is trying to lose weight. I would recommend hypnosis to anyone who is trying to lose weight. I would recommend hypnosis to anyone who is trying to lose weight. I would recommend hypnosis to anyone who is trying to lose weight.

No Green-Eyed Monsters at MoPA

As thousands of movies are made each year, there are millions of movies that are never seen. And those that are seen are never seen again. MoPA is one of the few topography museums in the entire U.S. that is not dependent on national and international film travel. No Monster has been truly successful in this fact that we film only for the Monster gallery. No Monster can be seen or be seen again.

EXTRAORDINARY MASKS FROM THE AFRICAN CONTINENT

I have had the unique experience of meeting with some of the world's finest craftsmen and seeing their wonderful work. Each mask is a work of art, telling a story of the people who created it. The masks themselves are a symbol of their culture and provide insight into the beliefs and traditions of the people who use them. It is truly an honor to be able to exhibit these extraordinary masks from the African continent.

A Disenchanted, Suspicious Younger Generation

Generation X is ready to fall in love with wine. It just doesn’t know it yet.

"We tend to the snobbish end of the scale," the说到 the young man. "The things that make us snobbish are the things that make us snobbish. But other people can’t see past that and get to the heart of who we are."

Sometimes Even the Flowers Wept
By Anne Albright

"Bye, Nikhil." Angela said with a shy smile. Nikhil stared at her as though she'd never seen her before. We worked in the same office, but we didn't talk much. It was just something about the way she looked, the way she moved, the way she smiled. "I'll see you later," Angela said, and turned to leave.

"Yeah," Nikhil replied, trying to sound cool. "I'll see you later." Angela walked out of the room, her long hair flowing behind her. Nikhil watched her go, his heart pounding in his chest.

"Nikhil," Angela said, turning around. "Can I talk to you for a minute?"

"Sure," Nikhil replied, feeling nervous. "What's up?"

"I need your help," Angela said. "I'm trying to find a way to fix this problem."

"What's the problem?" Nikhil asked, feeling even more nervous.

"I don't know," Angela said. "I just know that it's not working right."

"Let me see," Nikhil said, taking over the machine. "I'll try to fix it."

"Thank you," Angela said, smiling. "I really appreciate it."

"Of course," Nikhil said, feeling relieved. "I'm here to help."

"You're a great guy," Angela said, and walked out of the room.

Nikhil stood there, feeling proud of himself. He had just fixed a machine that Angela had been struggling to fix for weeks. He felt like he had accomplished something.

"Nikhil," Angela said, walking back into the room. "I have a question for you."

"Yes," Nikhil replied, feeling nervous again.

"Do you want to go out for dinner tonight?" Angela asked.

"Sure," Nikhil replied, feeling surprised. "That would be great."

"Great," Angela said, and walked out of the room.

Nikhil stood there, feeling happy. He had just fixed a machine, and he was going out for dinner with Angela.

The day was sunny, and the flowers were blooming outside. Nikhil and Angela walked hand in hand, talking and laughing. They had a great time together.

"Nikhil," Angela said, turning to him. "I have something to tell you.

"What?" Nikhil asked, feeling nervous.

"I love you," Angela said, and kissed him.

Nikhil was surprised, but happy. He had just fixed a machine, and he was going out for dinner with Angela. And now, he was going to be with Angela for the rest of his life.
