Candy Man

“I was crossing the street in my old hometown of Fairport, New York, to get some candy,” Stephen Traino admits, “and the next thing I knew, this car almost hit me because I wasn’t even looking where I was going. That would be the only reason I was in that part of town. Just to get candy.”

Cinnamon Confusion

Regarding your December 2 "Gifts for the Hot Kitchen" (Restaurant Review), Naomi Wise suggested to shop for Ceylonese Cassia cinnamon sticks. Good luck! Ceylon, or true cinnamon (Cinnamomum verum), and Chinese cassia (Cinnamomum cassia) are derived from two different species growing in different places. They can be quite easily distinguished: Ceylon cinnamon is thinner and rolled in from both ends; cassia is coarser and only rolled up from one end. Also, why put Saigon cinnamon into a bottle? Or was she referring to the oil? Name Withheld via e-mail

Nazbos Under The Sun

I was reading the "Sporting Box" in the December 2 issue about Pat Weber's San Diego Surfing Academy. He starts off talking about how they should call the sport "paddling" because so much time is spent doing so. Well, Pat, your decision to get into the "Surf Academy" business — thereby promoting surfing to every nazbo under the sun — is going to lead to more surfers in the water. And guess what? There won't be enough waves for everybody. Everybody will be paddling more than ever. There will be more frustration, there will be more fights, there will be no more fun. In the column, Weber himself acknowledges "surfrage," talking about avoiding Swami's, Windansea, and Sunset Cliffs because experienced surfers there get pissed when inexperienced kooks get in the way. Why this tandem-surfing champion (Pat Weber) chose to go into promoting surfing is beyond me. Didn't he even think about these adverse effects? It's true, surfing's reputation as a solo, soulful sport is already in peril. Still, Weber's choice of business is only accelerating its demise. I try not to get mad at people who turn a buck off the surf industry (two words that should never be paired), but the ruination of the sport/pastime/lifestyle by people who claim to love it the most stinks to high heaven of irony. Why don't they smell it too?! Then, at the end of the column, I read that the guy is from Florida (go home!) and runs surf camps in Baja and Costa Rica. The guy is ruining surf spots that surfers go to to get away from surfers! I'm not going to call Weber any names or anything, but let me just say that he's ahead of his time...he's so far ahead of his time that he will undoubtedly see the end of surfing as he knew it.

Nutjob Ravings

With so much information about immigration available in print and on the Internet from think tanks and government agencies like the Census Bureau and the Southern California Association of Governments, why would anyone believe the ravings of a nutjob like Raoul Lowery Contreras (Events Highlight, November 24)? The problems of immigration are basically the problems of poverty: higher crime, illiteracy, teenage pregnancy, and high school dropout rates; crumbling schools and neighborhoods; and overwhelmed social services. Mexican poverty is a double whammy because its cause, social and economic injustice in Mexico, is beyond our control or influence.

Contreras denies all this and calls immigration critics dishonest. In the 1960s, the U.S. government declared a war on poverty. Today the government promotes poverty through failed immigration laws and corrupt immigration policy and insists it's vital to our economy. What could be more dishonest than that?

An archive of City Lights stories can be searched on the Internet at SanDiegoReader.com

Media hogs The county's coffeehouses and convenience stores, already awash with just-started free newspapers that come and go each month, can count on one more newbie: The South Bay Review, operated by Mike Inzunza, brother of the clan that includes Democratic San Diego city councilman

Ralph and National City mayor Nick. And — surprise — the cover hypes a famous Inzunza family mentor, GOP county supervisor Greg Cox, who once employed Nick and still sits on the board of Chula Vista-based Seacoast Commerce Bank with him.

Cox, says the story, has “an all-encompassing ability to bring communities and people together with something called character.” Chula Vista planning chairman and ex-Cox staffer Marco Polo Cortes, another member of the Inzunzas’ extended political family who golfs regularly with Ralph, hails Cox as “a true statesman.” Readers also learn that the supervisor wakes every morning at 5:30 to feed five pet cats and take a shower. “He leads a consistent and stable life,” the story says. “He takes comfort in getting his monthly haircut from the same family of barbers for the last 30 years.” Wife Cheryl’s lobbying and political-consulting business, which has been raising South Bay eyebrows for years, is nowhere mentioned, but both she and Greg are touted for higher office. “Political insiders are rumoring a push for Cheryl to run for mayor of Chula Vista, while others see Greg Cox as a favorable candidate for Congress.” The paper’s advertisers include real estate woman Pepper Coffey, who was Ralph’s appointment to the board reviewing taxpayer financing for a new Chargers stadium ... It’s been another string of bad news for the Union-Tribune: hot on the heels of the walkout of anti-George W. Bush columnist James O. Goldsborough, the paper reported last Thursday that the Los Angeles Times (and not the U-T) had been the first to ask for a recount in the dizzying Frye-versus-Murphy San Diego mayoral race, quoting editor Karin Winner as saying the paper was consulting its lawyers about what to do. The next day the U-T reported it had finally gone ahead and submitted a request. But all is not lost. Local readers of Newsweek were recently treated to a full-page ad for the U-T’s Sunday “Currents” section, which Winner used to edit, featuring a black-and-white portrait of an elderly black man looking skyward, accompanied by haiku-like copy: “Sunday morning/ A story of a hero’s life/ That you tape to your child’s mirror/ To remind her of who she can be/ Sunday lasts forever.” The ad goes on to urge readers to “Pick yours up Sunday. From sections A to J, what you read, see and learn on Sunday will last forever.”

Pickled Herring It’s been revealed that he’s gotten personal legal advice courtesy of city taxpayers. Now it’s also come to light that deputy San Diego city manager Bruce Herring, who has for years served as a loyal soldier, stonewalling those who dared inquire about the financial foibles of mayors from Maureen O’Connor (Russian Arts Festival) to Susan Golding (1996 GOP convention, Chargers’ Qualcomm-stadium expansion) to Dick Murphy (Padres ballpark, new Chargers stadium, pension debacle), is looking for an exit strategy. According to a letter sent to him two weeks ago by the city’s ethics commission, Herring has been seeking “advice concerning the application of post-employment restrictions to ‘terminal’ employees.” The rule against employees taking jobs with private companies doing business with the city for 12 months after they leave city hall are, according to the letter, “designed to prevent former City Officials from ‘switching sides’ after they leave the City and working against the City’s interests for a private company concerning a pending municipal decision.” Thus, Herring has to wait on any city-related private gigs, the letter said, even if he uses some of his “terminal leave” or unused vacation time to bug out of his city job before he actually leaves the payroll. “Because employees who take terminal annual leave are entitled to accept new employment while they are on terminal leave, it follows that the post-employment restrictions must apply.” But if Herring gets a job with another public agency, the letter said, he won’t have to worry about those conflict-of-interest rules.

Inside of inside Look out, Union-Tribune, here comes Neil Morgan, who was fired by the paper this spring, and his old sidekick Bob Witty, who used to help Morgan run the Copley-owned, now-defunct San Diego Tribune. The pair, along with Barbara Bry, an ex-L.A. Times reporter and Harvard business school grad who married and later divorced millionaire Democratic La

Neil Morgan

Jolla developer Pat Kruer, are part of the nonprofit “Voice of San Diego,” a new website that sources say intends to take direct aim at the U-T’s SignOn-SanDiego.com Internet operation. Bankrolling the venture is said to be a foundation run by La Jolla fatcat venture-capital investor Ralph B. “Buzz” Woolley, owner of Coronado’s Glorietta Bay Inn, among other concerns. Woolley last popped onto the public stage in March, when he was identified in a San Francisco Chronicle article along with Wal-Mart heir John Walton as financial backers of Bay Area Democrat Ted Lempert’s 11th district state senate primary campaign. Both Woolley and Walton were reported by the paper to be big fans of using taxpayer-funded vouchers to pay for private-school tuition. Lempert lost his legislative bid badly. Key participants in the new website have close ties to UCSD, including Morgan, whose wife Judith, a freelance travel writer, is a longtime member of the institution’s PR advisory board; Woolley, whose wife, lawyer Ann Parode, is university counsel; and Bry, who once worked for Connect, UCSD’s so-called tech transfer arm founded by the late Bill Otterson and overseen by UCSD extension dean Mary Walshok.

World-Class Liars

By Don Bauder

The moniker “America’s Finest City” is tarnished. Don’t be surprised if city spinmeisters turn up the hyperbole volume, christening San Diego as a “World-Class City.” Keep in mind that the “America’s Finest City” honorific was pushed by then-mayor Pete

On November 25, “Enron-by-the-Sea” was in the headline of a damning story in The Economist. (A Reader headline writer should take

San Diego now ‘Enron by the Sea’

By John Ritter, USA TODAY

SAN DIEGO — This laid-back city seems to have it all — stunning beaches, best weather this side of Honolulu, a national image as a vacation playground and top convention destination.

Wilson after the city got national headlines for business and government corruption and lost the 1972 Republican Convention in a scandal. Rather than air the dirty linen and clean it up, the city chose to cover it up with a promotional campaign.

Now the corruption is deeper and the national press more biting. On September 7, a headline in the New York Times correctly labeled San Diego “Enron-by-the-Sea.” On October 24, the same words were in the headline of a scathing story about the city’s finances in USA Today.

a bow. Way back on February 5, we used the head “Our Enron-Style Scandal.”

My first hint of what may be afoot came last month, when San Diego’s Competitive Edge Research released the findings of a local “self-perception poll.” Four hundred county residents were asked their impression of San Diego. A full 88 percent had a favorable opinion — 68 percent very favorable. Only 7 percent had a negative impression.

People were asked if Wilson’s “America’s Finest City” appellation was still an apt description. Some 57.1 percent said the label still fits, and 20.9 percent said the city was only a bit short of qualifying. So even though the city is on the financial brink, its citizenry thinks it’s the best place in the country. The sunshine does it. Seventy percent cited the climate and beaches as San Diego’s best attributes. Other qualities, such as tourism and culture, were cited by a mere 5 or 6 percent. Sometimes I think San

What Happens in The Next Big Storm?

By Joe Deegan

Scott Tulloch, director of San Diego's Metropolitan Wastewater Department, believes that the 2.66 inches of rain on October 27 showed how effective improvements to the city's sewer system have been over the past three years. In a November 3 report to the California Regional Water Quality Control Board's executive officer, John Robertus, Tulloch wrote: "I am pleased to inform you that other than an issue with the influent screens, the system functioned as designed through a period of unprecedented high rains and flows." But the claim appears in the middle of the second page of the three-page letter, whose main purpose is to describe a 2.26-million-gallon raw sewage spill.

Before the workday of October 27 was over, deputy city manager Richard Mendes had written to Mayor Murphy and the San Diego City Council describing what happened. "The most serious event occurred at the Point Loma Wastewater Treatment Plant around noon today when increased flows resulted in a shutdown of screens used to remove material from the incoming sewage." Mendes went on to note that 175 million gallons per day is the normal flow at the plant, and 432 million gallons is its capacity. "Flows had reached 428 MGD," he writes, "when the screens shut down.... (For reference, the previous historic peak flow at the plant was 413 MGD).

"Sewage overflowed into the ocean for approximately 21 minutes while emergency bypass gates were being opened.... In addition, an overflow structure in the San Diego River released an estimated 1200 gallons of sewage into the river adjacent to the Pacific Coast Highway bridge....

"Another incident," Mendes continues, "occurred in a canyon downstream from Marine Corps Air Station Miramar due to inflow from sewer and storm drain systems located on the base.... Crews responded to alarms early this morning, but while preparing the pumps, storm flows washed away a pump inlet hose, and an estimated spill of 10,000 gallons occurred while crews were restoring the bypass operation."

At the end of his letter, Mendes speculates that people opening manhole covers to relieve flooding in their neighborhoods might have caused the "enormous surge in flow" that caused all the problems. He finishes by telling councilmembers that the San Diego County Health Department was already posting signs alerting citizens to stay away from the spills. The rains on October 27 started at 1:00 in the morning. Documents on file at the wastewater department show that at Lindbergh Field they increased to their highest point of the day, a little over .7 of an inch per hour, between 4:00 and 5:00 a.m. After that the rains fell off rapidly but continued at a rate of approximately .2 of an inch per hour until close to 9:00 a.m.

In its November 6 edition, the San Diego Union-Tribune's Terry Rodgers quotes Dave Hanson, a sewer-spill investigator for the Regional Water Quality Control Board, as saying, "Any spill that goes to surface water [sic] and results in contamination postings would automatically get a notice of violation." And that means that the incident at the Point Loma treatment facility will cost San Diego's wastewater department a fine. The amount of the fine has yet to be determined.

In the opening paragraph of his report to the water-quality board on the October 27 sewage spill, the wastewater department's Tulloch says that he was taking the opportunity to "cover corrupt leaders picking their pockets.

Then the respondents were asked whether San Diego was — or could be — a world-class city. An astonishing 30.6 percent said San Diego is already world-class. Another 42.3 percent said it has the potential to become world-class. Only 22.7 percent said San Diego was not world-class — and that was okay with them.

KPBS radio had a show on the question of whether San Diego could be called world-class. I was the only panelist expressing strong skepticism. Frankly, I think the notion is preposterous — certainly for now and coming decades. But I would hardly be surprised if our local pols and publicists start pushing the idea. After all, among the cities that consider themselves world-class are Detroit, St. Louis, Miami, Indianapolis, Colorado Springs, Charlotte, and Columbus, Ohio. Ugh.

What cities are considered truly world-class? According to the Globalization and

— Suzanne W.

Suzanne recently had the Custom "Wavefront" LASIK procedure at West Coast Eyecare.

"Everything is clear and sharp now. I can see colors and details now that I couldn't see before. I can read street signs from further away. My vision is far better than it was with my glasses or contacts. It was so easy, I only wish I'd done it sooner."

$400 Off LASIK*

There Is a Difference in Surgeons

West Coast Eyecare has helped San Diego see clearly for over 20 years.

- Board of Ophthalmology-certified doctors with over 15 years' refractive surgery experience
- State-of-the-art Visx Star S4 technology providing the highest level of safety and accuracy
- Custom "Wavefront" LASIK available
- Personalized care – we are not a surgery mill.

World Cities Study Group & Network, the first tier consists of London, New York, Paris, and Tokyo. In the second tier are Chicago, Frankfurt, Hong Kong, Los Angeles, Milan, and Singapore. Next come San Francisco, Sydney, Toronto, and Zurich.

What are the characteristics of a world-class city? International familiarity tops the list; people talk of Paris without mentioning that it is in France. Some other characteristics: an advanced transportation system, including a mass-transit network; international financial institutions, corporations, and stock exchanges; world-renowned cultural institutions and universities; internationally known nonchain restaurants, retailers, and hotels; science and technological excellence; an international airport; respected architecture and urban planning; tourist attractions; spectacular natural surroundings and government financial stability.

San Diego might qualify in science and technology — Scripps, Salk, and the University of California-San Diego are recognized for research. San Diego is becoming better known as a tourist destination, thanks greatly to the ocean and weather, but if weather were a criterion, Tijuana would be world-class. San Diego's cultural life is improving, but the area has neither the population nor the wealth to be anywhere near the upper tiers. The city's natural beauty spots, such as canyons and hills, are being chewed up by developers.

The city's financial instability is now known around the world. But most articles err by saying that up until recently, San Diego was a model of fiscal rectitude. Not so. The city's pension deficit dates back at least to the late 1980s, and phony pension accounting became the norm in the early 1990s, according to Diann Shipione, the pension-board whistleblower who has incurred the wrath of her colleagues for informing the city and national media of the truth.

During the late 1990s,

when ballpark boosters proclaimed that a brilliantly managed city was flush with cash, only a few people dared point out that it wasn't so. The "America's Finest City" sobriquet helped feed local euphoria.

With its public-relations campaigns going full blast, city government developed a culture of secrecy. It's legal for politicians and bureaucrats to lie to voters, but it's not legal to lie to potential bond investors. Government criminal and civil investigators are probing inaccuracies about pension deficits in bond prospectuses dating back to 1996. Audits for 2003 and 2004 have not been completed. As a result, the city cannot get financing. So capital improvements — the ones neglected during the faux fat years — must be delayed, if not cancelled, putting the city in violation of state and federal mandates. Meanwhile, the overlords have been trying to grab the mayoral election from the only candidate, Donna Frye, who preached infrastructure investment and opposed pension underfunding and the culture of secrecy.

Next big storm

actions initiated to determine the cause(s) of the incident and to prevent further problems in the future." He starts by mentioning how rains earlier in the month had "already saturated the ground and established conditions that would magnify the effects of any additional rain." Indeed, at 4.98 inches, the month had the heaviest rainfall ever in San Diego history.

Tulloch then acknowledged the work of his staff on the day of the spill at such pump stations upstream from Point Loma as those in Sorrento Valley, on South Harbor Drive, and on Harbor Drive near Lindbergh Field. The references make the point that employees did all the right things. Tulloch finally gets around to the spill site. "At 0930 hours, Point Loma staff prepared for high flows by making both influent channels available to take flow. They also put all five of their influent screens on manual mode to insure constant cycling of the raking mechanism....

"Because of the very high flow level, debris started accumulating on the screens, slowing down the flow going through them," writes Tulloch. "When this happened, the control system to the plant went into a high-level alarm at the screens and shut them down to protect the motors. Within one minute, the screens had built up enough debris to limit the flow going through them, forcing flows to escape rapidly at the screen structure. Point Loma Operations personnel responded and manually released the bypass gates so that flows could go over the screen structure, thereby bypassing the influent screens.... Within 20 minutes, they had all five bypass gates open, and the spill ceased."

In other words, we should be grateful that the spill was not a lot worse. But what happens in the next big storm? At the time of this writing, no one at Metropolitan Wastewater was available to answer my question. But Tulloch's report does contain a hazy indication of the department's thinking. "[The Point Loma] staff," he says, "is assessing potential changes to the operation of the screens and/or bypass channel in extremely high-flow situations. Distributed Control System monitoring systems are also being evaluated for additions or operational changes that could reduce the possibility of overflows by additional alarms or modified operational protocols."

And what about the two other incidents that city manager office's Mendes called to the attention of the city council? Tulloch mentions the San Diego River spill in his report to the Water Quality Board but calls it "a small spill...as the system became surcharged." He fails to mention the 10,000-gallon canyon spill that resulted from storm drains and sewers emptying out of the Marine Corps Air Station Miramar. Perhaps that's because the spill didn't go into the ocean, and his department can't be fined for it. ■

STRAIGHT FROM THE HIP

BY MATTHEW ALICE

Illustration by Rick Gary

Hey Matt:

If I were to go to all the laundromats in San Diego County and collect all of the lint from the dryers, would I be able to make it into articles of clothing or does the material physically change property?

— Fashion Conscious in Clairemont

Hankering for a hand-loomed lint sweater? Cool. In that universal vacuum-cleaner-bag-dirt gray color, right? Oh, actually, I hope you weren't planning on knitting some for Christmas gifts. A little late for '04. But for '05, you're all set. So gather up your lint-picking equipment while we explain the situation. We dialed up spinmaster Lorraine Powell of Back Country Spinners in Ramona. Lorraine suggests that pretty much anything stringy can be spun into a yarn, and that would include dryer lint, the little cotton wads in the tops of aspirin bottles, and pet hair. Lint is just free-range fuzz scraped off our clothes, so why couldn't we recycle it into new duds?

The easiest fiber to spin, apparently, is wool, because each strand is a column of overlapping scales, like a human hair, that lock into one another as they are twisted and spun into a thread. That makes a nice strong yarn that's easy to handle. Something like polyester has no scale surface, so it's trickier to work with, and you generally need to twist it very tightly as you spin it, then make a two- or three-ply thread out of it to have enough bulk and strength in the finished product. Dryer lint is a jumble of the scaly and the slick, so other than being made up of tiny bits that would be hard to work with, it would make a so-so yarn. Lorraine suggests carding the lint before you spin, maybe, to get all the random bits going in the same direction and to clean out paper shreds and other pocket junk that ends up in lint traps. And I gather she speaks from experience when she says you can spin golden retriever yarn from your sweet, dopey-faced pet; and you can knit a golden retriever sweater from that yarn; but it will probably always smell like golden retriever — so spin it, knit it, put it back on dog.

Like, there's this place in, um, up north — what's it? — Kern. Kern County, man. Waaaaay up there. No beach. No.... Hey, got some Doritos, man? Goldfish crackers, maybe. Oh, uh — yeah. This place. Reefer City. On a map I saw someplace. Check the laundry basket. The Doritos were in there. So, Reefer City, man. Is it, like, a real reefer city? Can I maybe get up there? Probably have to take the bus, huh? I can sleep real good on the bus. Oh, yeah, Reefer. Is it a real place? Uh, could you give me a ride, man? Can we stop at McDonald's first? That's pretty funny, man.

— Uh, like...

Okay, I say I never make up these questions. And I didn't make up this question; I just kinda rewrote it. Every once in a while Grandma Alice has a clean-out of the work area. One year, all the elves had to go back to the DMV to have their drivers licenses replaced. What a nightmare. This week all we lost was our Reefer City question, e-mailed from, um, Oceanside, as I recall. Sorry. If we don't have the original question, we definitely do have the original answer.

So was there ever reefer in Reefer City? Probably lots. According to a 30-year-old article from the Los Angeles Times, Reefer City was founded in 1933. It was never incorporated, but R.C. was an official mailing address for decades. What kicked things off was the discovery of gold along a slope of Soledad Mountain, about six miles south of Mojave. A South African mining company swooped down on it and started hauling out metal, hand over fist.

Rather than build accommodations for several hundred miners, to supplement their dormitories the company went to the Southern Pacific railroad and said, "We'll buy as many old refrigerated rail cars as you can find." The SoPac found 50. They were wood, sturdy, 43 feet long, maybe 10 feet wide, and very well insulated against the heat. The mining company gathered all the reefers (as they're known in the train trade) and pulled them out into the sand. Miners moved in, built porches and extra rooms, wallpapered, laid carpet, put up fences, planted gardens. It was an all-reefer community with (eventually) electricity, piped-in water, school buses...a real Wally and the Beave sorta town.

The mine played out by 1942, but in its place we had a big war. Much better, economically. Marines and later Air Force personnel from Edwards AFB rented the reefers from the new owners until the early '60s, when enough housing was available in the town of Mojave. For a decade Reefer City was home to hippies, runaways, and desert rats. In 1971 the place was leveled by a private salvage company, which really just wanted exclusive rights to the fortune rumored to have been buried on the site by a legendary 90-year-old recluse miner. So Reefer City had reefer plus the obligatory mysterious hermit with a secret fortune. Classic Americana.

400 Arrows Per Day

'As it is, probably about $1700," says Norman Aguon.

"It" is a Martin Cougar III Magnum archery bow, which, according to the manufacturer, comes with "14-inch straight glass composite limbs... measures 42 inches between the axles, has a 6 1/4-inch brace height, and is rated at 308 fps...and draw-length modules that can be adjusted over the entire range of lengths without affecting the draw weight...75 percent letoff. Mass weight 3 lb., 15 oz."

There is more — a Ph.D. more — but you get the idea: bows are as complicated as anything else. Think video games, think Robin Hood mutated into a Conan the Barbarian flexing his steroid-saturated biceps and shooting arrows at 3000 mph through the bloodless heart of a 12-foot-tall titanium-plated, hammer-headed, drooling alien/bug thing.

That's the Martin Cougar III Magnum archery bow! Ta-dah!

Martin Cougar Magnum, Aguon, and a half-dozen other archers are recreating at an off-road, mountainside archery course. The course is set at the bottom of a wide gully that has a steep rise on its north side. Bales of hay are stacked 20, 30, 50, 60, and 100 yards away from the shooting line. Each bale is home to a set of four blue-and-white target bullseyes.

Participants have requested anonymity; some have snuck off from work. All have no desire to advertise their underused, well-equipped, and beautiful archery playground. Mr. Aguon has been coming here for 17 years.

Studying Aguon's bow and busting myself as an idiot rookie, I ask, "What is the purpose of different draw strings?" I have no idea what "different draw strings" means, of course; to me, the bow's cabling looks similar to the inner workings of a garage door. I am merely making noise, hoping that Norman will answer me with something that makes sense.

He does. "Well, this is a bow string," Aguon says, gently pointing out that what I saw as "strings" is actually one length. "These are the cables, and this is called the split cable. Some only have one side. Then, there's a rod that moves it up, out of the way, but it's just to maintain tension."

I nod my head as if his words perfectly explain where babies come from. There is silence. More silence. More silence.

"This is a compound bow," Aguon says. "And a compound bow has wheels on it called cams. So when you draw back, when the string rolls over the cam, you're actually holding only 20 percent of the full draw weight of the bow, and therefore you can aim longer."

I understand none of this. "And this is a level of some kind?" I'm referring to a thingy attached to the little ledge where, presumably, the arrow's shaft rests.

"No," Aguon says. "It's an adjustable sight and a scope. The sight is calibrated. All the information is in my home computer and my Palm Pilot."

Aguon pulls out a Palm Pilot from his back pocket and beams. "The aerodynamics of the arrow are the shaft diameter, and the fletching, which is kind of the wind resistance, and the weight, which includes the tip weight and the weight of the shaft. So, this arrow weighs about 271.4 grains, and my computer knows that. At full draw you measure the distance between the peep sight and the scope and the peep sight and the arrow. Once the computer knows the triangulation, knows the weight and the aerodynamics of the arrow and the speed of the arrow coming out of the bow, it can calculate how much the arrow is going to drop over distance."

Can I get a beer?

"All that information is in the computer. And, by a method of experimentation, I've been able to come up with this sight table. The speed of my bow is 237.1 feet per second; that's the exit speed. The sight table tells me what the elevation is; that's how high I have to raise the bow according to the distance to the target."

I've got to make this stop. "How accurate are your tables?"

"At 30 yards, the group is within an inch all the way around. I can shoot accurately anywhere from 7 feet all the way out to 120 yards."

I offer a long grunt, indicating agreement and belief. "How many hours a week do top archers practice?"

"Very, very good archers practice three or four hours a day," Aguon says. "They like to talk about how many arrows they shoot. The best archers shoot between 300 and 400 arrows a day. For practice. They spend a lot of time shooting into a blank bale, just to perfect their release. With archery, it's developing the right technique and then developing the right muscle memory."

I close my eyes and imagine shooting 300 arrows. Silence. More silence. "What's the fun part?"

"I like the feel of pulling a bow and shooting an arrow. And I enjoy being out here," Aguon smiles. "The outdoors and shooting."

The sound of rock music filled the night air as I approached the Mission Gathering service. Outside, two young adults standing under heat lamps greeted me at the entry. The evening was cool for those of us spoiled by warm San Diego weather. After exchanging pleasantries, the greeters handed me an informational brochure about the church, and I entered the dark chapel.

Mission Gathering's evening service meets in an Italian Renaissance-style chapel at Torrey Pines Christian Church. The exterior brick façade is decorated with a rose-stained glass window. A cross stands on the roof. Upon entering through solid wood doors, a long narrow nave is revealed, lined with dark wood pews. Romanesque arches run along either side of the chapel, leading up to gabled timber beams on the ceiling high above.

Inside the room, votive candles flickered red, yellow, and green. A projection screen showed a video of a candle floating in the air. The self-described "coffee-house band" played "God of Wonders."

A vocalist, two guitarists, and a drummer played the music loud for the crowd. Looking around the dark room, I made out 70 or so worshippers; most appeared to be teenagers or people in their 20s. During the last song, a young, tank-topped girl holding a candle lighter walked down the aisle and lit the advent candles.

After the worship music stopped, a young man walked forward to pray for the offering. As offering plates were passed around the room, signs were placed where there was empty pew space. The signs encouraged people to invite guests. The sign next to me read, "This seat was intended for your friends. Will you bring them?"

Ryan Petty walked forward to preach, filling the pulpit for Pastor Rich McCullen for the evening's sermon. Petty's sermon focused on rebuilding for the Christmas season. He said, "We should rebuild our faith, relationships, hope, and love." Petty used Extreme House Makeover as an illustration of the hope these families receive when their home is rebuilt. Petty reminded the congregants that hope and rebuilding are what the Christmas season prepares us for.

"One of Mission Gathering's values is to be a multisensory experience," remarked Petty as he put on a tool belt. To help illustrate his point, Petty began to nail together wooden 2-by-4s. Each board had something written on it that symbolized an area in which people could rebuild their faith. Petty's suggestions included: coming on Sunday, inviting a friend, forgiving ourselves, or apologizing to someone. At the end of the sermon, Petty constructed a wooden manger, which, unfortunately, fell apart. The sermon was allegedly based on an earlier reading of Acts chapter 15:15-18. However, during Petty's 45-minute sermon no time was spent examining the scripture.

Pastor McCullen came forward after the sermon to pray for communion. McCullen encouraged people to "light a candle and connect to God." The congregants formed lines as they broke off a piece of bread from a loaf and sipped their choice of wine or juice. People dispersed throughout the room to light a candle, find a quiet place to pray or sit quietly. After communion, the band walked forward to close the evening service with several songs.

After service people gathered to talk while enjoying coffee, tea, donuts, and cookies. As we huddled around the food table, I asked Oggy, who recently began attending, why he chose this church. Oggy said, "I like it here. Everyone speaks from their heart." Larry also began attending recently. When asked why he attended, he told me, "A girl invited me. I thought it would be cool to come check the place out. I like the feel here."

Ben Donaghy, the lead singer and worship leader, told me about their music style. "We have an unplugged, acoustic-based sound. Mission Gathering plays a lot of songs other churches wouldn't touch with a ten-foot pole." I asked Donaghy what he meant. "Well, we've performed a lot of secular music. Artists like Sarah McLachlin and Dave Matthews Band. Our goal is to create a comfortable place for both believers and non-Christians."

spoke to me about the vision of their church. McCullen's desire is to build a church that is a doorway for people to find spirituality, to allow people to be spiritual seekers, without giving them the answers. All of this involves the senses. These senses, as McCullen puts it, are "the taste of communion, sight of the candles, touch of someone's hand, smell of incense, and the sixth sense of spirituality."

Each week, I ask the pastor what he or she believes happens after someone dies. Pastor McCullen shared his views, saying, "After death, people have an encounter with God. As to what happens, I don't know. I can't judge anyone. I believe in Heaven."

I asked Pastor McCullen what he believed about Hell. McCullen thought for a moment, "Do I believe in Hell? These are hard questions. I don't know. I used to think so. I just don't want to give you the evangelical answer." McCullen paused for a moment longer. You could sense his struggle in taking a stance on this position. He replied, "Yes. I believe in Hell. But only for Hitler."

Dear Saffron,

My laptop computer, whose name is Spike, and I are best friends. We go everywhere together. Over Thanksgiving a friend I was traveling with asked if she could borrow Spike to check her e-mail, as if we were at some public terminal. Like, "Move over, boy." I said no and she got all weird, like I was the most selfish person in the world. I said Spike doesn't want anyone else touching him except me, and my friend said, "You're crazy, also irritating," and I said, "Look, do you see his blinking red icon? That's him saying, 'No one but you, Luke.'" The subject's kind of over, and my friend thinks I'm kidding, but I'm not. I don't want anyone else using Spike, and Spike appreciates my protecting him from nosey fingers. My question is: What do I do about my friend and her violation of my privacy? I should say this is not the first time this has happened. Most people I travel with don't bring their computers on the road and think it's perfectly natural to invade my private world. Am I a freak?

LUKE OF LA JOLLA

Dear Luke,

Some of us never learned to share toys when we were tots. Are you one of those MINE, MINE, MINE, guys? Or merely a full-on computer nerd who views his laptop as a sacrosanct region of his brain where no trespassing is tolerated? If you're unbendable about nobody else touching your machine, then maybe friends who travel with you should be forewarned. That way, instead of assuming you'll be cool with them checking e-mail on your handy laptop, they can locate cyber-café or libraries at your destination ahead of time, so there isn't a wrestling match when they want to commune with their contacts while on the road. And if I locate a sharing-skills clinic for adults, I'll print the info in this column so you can think about signing up.

Dear Saffron,

We got called in for a conference at my daughter's junior high. The word is that the principal and several of her teachers think "Jen" is depressed and want my wife and I to send her to a therapist. If we don't do this, they would like our permission to have Jen talk to the school psychologist once a week and want us to sign something saying this is all right. Jen's grades are decent (they used to be better, but she's still passing everything and getting some Bs). She's not using drugs — I keep a real close watch on her. When I got home and tried to talk to her about this stuff, she said little. Her hair is in her eyes all the time and it's hard to see what kind of a look is on her face. I asked if she was depressed. She said,

"I'm fine." She's quiet and shy. When I asked if she wanted to see a therapist, she shrugged. Being a teenager can be rocky, but I trust she'll tough it out and outgrow it like everybody else. No one in my or my wife's family has ever seen a therapist. My instinct is to say no — we're not rolling in cash and I'm not spending my hard-earned money so Jen can lie on a couch and talk to some stuffy guy with a bunch of degrees. We have three other kids who have needs. I also feel she doesn't need to see the school counselor. She can talk to us. I think the principal is making a big thing out of nothing. Am I missing something?

IMPERIAL BEACH DAD

Dear Dad,

You might be. Consider giving the principal's suggestion a chance. The school is making it super easy for you. Money is tight, and you don't have to hire a private shrink. Meet the school psychologist. If you think that person is competent and smart, let Jen have a few sessions. Where's the harm? It sounds like because you're unfamiliar with psychotherapy, you automatically assume it's bogus. If the principal and several teachers are concerned about your kid, I bet they have sound reason. Sometimes it's more comfortable for an adolescent to talk to a stranger, much as they may love their parents. Shy and quiet people can have difficulty expressing themselves, and in some cases it takes someone who's experienced and specially trained to draw them out. Depression in adolescents can be tricky, hard to recognize, and quite dangerous. I don't think you have anything to fear from letting Jen chat with the school counselor a few times. Be open-minded. You might be surprised to find there's a lot to be gained by allowing your daughter to have a few conversations with an empathetic professional.

— EVE KELLY

I'm a lefty. Among other things, that means I'm not too deft with a standard pair of scissors. In grammar school, I was never the one picked to help the teacher cut stuff out for the bulletin board. And while Mom taught me a lot of things, she soon gave up trying to impart her mastery of gift-wrapping. She just couldn't translate her genius to fit my left-handed-ness. As a result, I give an awful lot of gift bags at Christmas. This year, I decided to face my fears and present personal, elegantly wrapped presents to at least a few lucky loved ones. And, I reasoned, just as a successful meal depends first and foremost on good ingredients, a perfect wrap job needs exactly the right materials. After figuring out who was getting what, I set out in search of primo paper and ribbons.

I grinned as I strolled into India Ink Papers in Little Italy (619-233-4203). Stacy, one of the owners, showed me the gift papers, starting with oversized wallpaper-style prints in either red or black on a white background ($4 for a 24x18-inch sheet). The colors were so bright they barely stayed on the paper. "These are hand-screened," said Stacy. "It's like a fine paint on the paper, so the color is really vivid. You can feel the raised ink." From there, my eye darted to a pea-green cotton paper covered with rose-pink calligraphy detailing the goodies given during the 12 days of Christmas ($4.50 for a 21x28-inch sheet). I could have gotten it in steel blue with gold lettering, but I'm a sucker for pea-green.

"Here is crepe paper [$9.50 for a 20x96-inch sheet, lime, hot pink, or magenta] imported from Germany," said Stacy, warming up to her task. "It's right from our youth. It's fun to wrap with, even if it doesn't tape well — you need glue. But with the right item, you can just tie ribbons at the ends of the gift, and it'll stay. Over here is bingo paper [$1 for a 24x24.5-inch sheet]. It's just newsprint with multiple bingo cards printed on it."

The ribbons were even more varied than the papers, with prices ranging from $.50-$3 a yard. "We've got lots of ready-to-buy styles: silk with wire, plaid, cut velvet, pom-poms or butterflies on wires, double-sided satin, candy stripe in a bunch of different color combos." (Also available for custom order: hand-dyed silk ribbons for $1.65-$6 a yard.) Fun Fringe ($5 for 25 feet), a multi-colored paper ribbon, made for a change of pace, as did the clip-on glitter buckle on a band of black or bright red velvet ribbon ($7.50). "You could put it around one large gift or a stack of smaller gifts," suggested Stacy. Another employee, Heidi, pointed out a collection of paper boxes in the form of oval river rocks ($7-$11, depending on size). "The little one could pose as a lump of coal in someone's stocking, but have a piece of jewelry inside." I was charmed — naughty and nice at the same time.

Several of the gifts at India Ink had been wrapped by visual merchandiser Alice Sharp (the5sharps@cox.net). I was impressed enough to give her a call. "For me, the gift inside indicates what I use on the outside," she explained. "If I was giving someone a game, I might use the bingo paper and some old Scrabble tiles to make the person's name on the present. I collect a lot of things — vintage things, new things, things like yarn and laces. Old buckles from belts are great — just pin them on the ribbon. I've glued on zippers before — say, on a gift of clothing. One thing I was going to do was open a zipper, stitch it onto the paper in the open position, then add an insert of another color of paper in the open part."

and some old Scrabble tiles."

I started running down my own list. A pipe lighter? "Start with a smoke theme. I have matchbook wrapping paper. Or you could go to a cigar place and get a cigar box. They have stacks of them, wooden ones or bright paper ones. If it's a good-looking box, you can just add a ribbon." A book? "It would be fun to enlarge one of the pages on a Xerox machine — say, the table of contents — and wrap it in that." A fishing rod? "The simplest thing would be to get an enormous tube from The Container Store and a rubber stamp of a fish, then kind of decoupage it." Girls' dress-up clothes?

"Do them in a hat box." Kids' skate shoes? "They could be wrapped in a sports poster. And I once bought a bag of old shoelaces; it would be fun to use them as ribbon. Tie all kinds and colors of laces together, or tie them in layers."

Sharp left me with a general design suggestion and a practical tip. "Sometimes, I use a really wide ribbon on a really small box, so that I'm almost covering the box. Or I'll use a narrow ribbon on a really big box. And double-stick tape is a good tip. You're trying to get a clean edge on the box."

Besides India Ink, I paid a visit to the Paperie in the Gaslamp (619-234-5457). Creative designer Patima squirmed me through the shop's astonishing array of wood block press papers ($4-$4.75 for a 24x36-inch sheet), marble papers ($4.50 for 25x37- or 24x36-inch sheets), handmade papers with leaves and flowers pressed into them ($3.50 for 22x30-inch sheets or $4.50 for 23x35-inch sheets), and on and on. Patima loved the plant-a-note paper ($6.50 for a 13x19-inch sheet). "There are wildflower seeds in the paper. After someone is done with it, they can plant it and get a little set of wildflowers." But I fell for the embroidered paper with metallic chain-link stitching ($12 for a 19x27-inch sheet). Perfect for my husband Patrick.

Not everything was so luxury-priced. "These lace papers from Japan [$2.75 for a 31x22-inch sheet] are amazing for wrapping. The laces have a certain translucence and texture; you can go get a plain roll of red or green paper, then use the lace as an overlay. It adds flair to the wrapping without breaking the bank. And you can use the laces to replace tissue paper around the gift itself. They're soft and silky instead of crunchy, and have a nice, welcoming feel." The Paperie also carried numerous ribbons, $.50-$3.85 a yard. "I like to overlay organdy ribbons with satin," suggested Patima. "If you don't want to spend too much, just wrap the ribbon around one way."

Thirty Years Ago

I am the Santa Claus in the Mission Valley Shopping Center. I get paid three dollars an hour and work a 40-hour week. I'm an actor and a mime, so it's just another job to get money to live. I hold kids on my lap and ask them what they want for Christmas. A pretty simple way to make money.

Twenty Years Ago

One Sunday afternoon a couple of weeks ago, Patty M. stopped by the Four Corners Tavern on the northwest corner of 30th and Upas streets in North Park for a few drinks.

So that Sunday, Patty thought nothing of it when two officers showed up at the bar's entrance and began walking down the center aisle past where she was sitting. Then she recognized one of the officers, Jim Stewart, as a long-time friend whom she hadn't seen in more than a year. Initial pleasantries soon turned sour, however, "when he asked me what I was doing in a 'sleazebag' place like this," Patty recalls. "That made me mad, and after we exchanged words he stormed out, telling me he's made it his new project to close the place down because he didn't like 'biker scum.'"

Fifteen Years Ago

Great Moments in Public Relations,
Vol. MCXVIII

When Kandu the killer whale was slain in a whale fight, Sea World PR people rushed to protect the image of the surviving whale, Corky, one of two adult corporate logos alive at the park. Officials defended Corky by insisting that the easygoing Kandu had started the rumble, a fish tale served up by the local press. Left unreported was the theory that she was trying to protect her newborn calf from Corky, who in 1982 roughed up her own offspring a few days before the calf died.

San Diego Reader, December 15, 1994

Rock Around the Couch

At a hearing on noise violations at the Belly Up Tavern, the nightclub's supporters testified that much of the racket was caused by patients undergoing primal scream therapy at a nearby psychologist's office. "They were undergoing aggression-release therapy, and it was intense and loud," one of the witnesses testified.

Ten Years Ago

Beat seems much more like, has much more at heart to do with, Punk (hey, it wasn't hedonism; it wasn't flowers, it was more, y'know, beat). It's arguable that those Beats who played a participatory role in early Hippie (with the exception of Neal Cassady, who was just digging it — while fucking and chauffeuring it — and Sanders, who was young enough to have his own band), e.g., Allen Ginsberg, Gary Snyder, Michael McClure, were simply SEDUCED by its paradise-now easy ride (not to mention the elder statesman preeminence it for ten minutes afforded them — before casting them in the over-30 geezer slag heap with everybody else), but this seduction had no more basis in Universal Oompah than kids voting for McGovern over Nixon (f'rinstance), like why the hell not?

— "BEAT LIT WRIT LARGE," Richard Meltzer,

Five Years Ago

Spare me the glib poverty tourism of John Brizzolara ("The Zen of Flop," December 9). He hasn't been there; he hasn't been trapped in it; and he hasn't lived what he prattles about, except when he goes to TJ to get laid. In a word, he's slumming. Brizzolara is a white hunter in a pith helmet traipsing through the forests of the damned and sneering at the wogs without a clue of what really goes on in their minds or lives.

FESTIVAL OF LIGHT...BEER

by Josh Board

my grandmother thought I was the worst Jew. I didn't know a word of Yiddish. I didn't go to synagogue or wear a Star of David, and I didn't care about the religion of the women I dated. Other non-Jewish things I do would include: picking up the check when I'm out with friends, thinking the cross should stay on Mount Soledad, and not even knowing how to spell Hanukkah (my editor fixed it when I turned in the story). I love Christmas decorations and lights and think it's ridiculous that Balboa Park now calls their Christmas event "December Nights" so they don't offend any other religions.

The night December Nights started, I was going to go with my friend Anne. But I was invited to a Hanukkah party. I figured, if my grandmother is looking down on me, this would be the one decision I've made that will make her proud. I headed up to Encinitas to party with some Jews.

The party was in a gated community and it took me ten minutes to figure out how to get buzzed in. Actually, I never did figure it out. The guy in the car behind me got out and was surprisingly nice as he said, "Here, I'll do it."

As I pulled in looking for a parking space, I got a kick out of watching an SUV-style limo trying to get out. It took the driver about ten minutes also.

I walked into this gorgeous house and talked with Kori Clark, who was throwing the party with her husband Steve. She was eight and a half months pregnant. I told her I'd never had anyone go into labor at a party I was writing about, and it would make for an interesting story. She didn't go into labor, but several other women at the party were also pregnant.

Hannukah party

"Kori, can you make more of those McHash Browns?"

There was lots of food. I wanted to head to the dessert table right away. It had cookies, brownies, German chocolate cake, and ingredients to make s'mores at the fire pit outside. Then I saw the table with all the Jewish food. Like a typical Jewish mother, Kori's mom immediately put a bowl of matzo ball soup in my hands. It was good, but just like when my grandmother made it, I couldn't figure out why anyone bothered with these big balls that have no flavor at all. It would be so much easier just to fix noodles and chicken and call it chicken soup. (Wait a second, did I write "big balls" a few sentences ago?)

I asked Kori about the food and she said, "We have brisket, gefilte fish, salad, cheeses, and potato latkes." I thought that was an Andy Kaufman character. But those sounded like the safest bet. I tried a few and they were delicious. A woman named Lynn said, "Those are delicious. They taste like the hash browns at McDonald's." Kori said, "They taste better than those!" I don't think she realized it was a compliment. They tasted just like McDonald's, and I ate a bunch. I laughed when, near the end of the party, Lynn asked "Kori, can you make more of those McHash Browns?" Kori rolled her eyes and put another batch in the oven.

I left the matzo ball in my bowl of soup, wondering how many carbs it had. It's not that I'm concerned about my weight. But I would feel less guilty when I attacked the dessert table.

This was the most Jewish food I had ever eaten. My previous Jewish meal consisted of a corned beef on rye at D.Z. Akin's a year ago.

As I walked around, I saw a kids' book called Sammy Spider's First Hanukkah. The Clarks have a son who looked to be about four, the perfect age for such a book.

I noticed a lot of the presents for the gift exchange had Star of David wrapping paper. I didn't know there were so many different styles. For Christmas, you can have trees, Santa Claus, snow, stockings, and so many other things. The Hanukkah wrapping paper either has a star or a menorah. But there were lots of different colors of paper.

I asked Steve Clark, who resembled Rick Moranis, about the gift exchange. He said, "When we started this nine years ago, nobody had money. The gifts weren't as nice, and sometimes people would bring the gifts back the following year. We had a brain once. Someone called it Spock's brain, because of an episode of Star Trek. It was tradition for that to come back each year. We also got a James Brown that sang and danced. That made a few return visits." I thought that if I got the James Brown, I'd keep it. Maybe a singing fish I'd throw back, but never the hardest working man in show business. He'd always be welcome on my desk.

Lynn's husband Tim was talking about Sony PlayStation with some people. He works for Sony, and she told me people are always asking him questions. He doesn't like to talk about it all the time. That reminded me of my friend Dan Roos, who's a sheriff in Vista. When we see him at parties, we complain about the tickets cops have given us. And we gripe about traffic laws that should be changed.

Lynn said, "But with him working at PlayStation, sometimes we can get video games for a gift. People usually like those, and it's inexpensive for us."

When Lynn invited me to this party, she told me she'd bring an extra gift for me so I could participate in the gift exchange. It was two DVDs: the Adam Sandler movie Eight Crazy Nights, which is about a Jewish boy, and a documentary on Jesus. We both thought that would be good for a few laughs.

One guy had lost his voice, but he told a lot of funny stories about the previous parties. Half the time I had to say "Excuse me?" and lean in close to him.

He was carrying around his baby, and his wife had another one on the way. A few times he has built things for the gift exchange. I was told by others that he's great at making crafts. He told me about building a five-foot-high Jenga game. As I was taking his picture, he said,

"Don't get my bald spot." I told him I didn't notice a bald spot. But later, during the gift exchange, I told him I noticed it when he grabbed a gift. I said, "In a few more years, it will look like you're wearing a yarmulke."

I talked to Steve's mom a lot about games. She mentioned knowing somebody who plays backgammon professionally. I didn't know there was such a thing. I mentioned meeting Richard Lederer at a party in Scripps Ranch, and she knew his two kids. They are always on ESPN in professional poker tournaments. His daughter Annie Duke recently won two million dollars in the World Series of Poker and appeared the next day on Letterman. We ended up discussing various poker and blackjack strategies.

A little after 9:00 p.m. Steve made everyone go into the room with the presents. Everyone was given a number and that was the order for picking presents. I was surprised at all the strategies. I overheard one couple going into great detail about how to get the best present. They were saying, "Grab the biggest one — it will always have good stuff." Another woman said she always gets the ones with Jewish wrapping paper, because those gifts always seem to be the best. I said, "If this was a real Jewish party, the receipt would be given along with the gift."

Steve explained the rules. Basically, when it was your turn to pick a gift, you could do that, or you could steal a previous gift someone had opened. He said, "One year we had a bunch of lottery tickets, and everyone kept stealing those." I said, "If someone tried to steal those from me, I'd scratch them off first." He replied, "You wouldn't be invited back."

The gifts started off slow. There was a stuffed Elmo from Sesame Street. There was a Sewing Genie.

A few people laughed, because that was a gift from the previous year. There was a Darth Vader mask that said different things when you pressed different buttons. Steve reminded everyone, "If you bring a gift that requires batteries, have batteries in it, so we can see exactly what it does." There was a box with lingerie, and one of the pregnant women at the party got this gift. Early on, there was a boom box. That gift ended up being stolen at least 18 times. Another popular gift was a big red bowl that had silver around the edges. An older guy brought that and said, "I didn't know it would be so popular. I saw it when I was walking down the aisle at Costco." One box contained a tequila-making kit. That made the rounds a few times.

There was an anatomically correct torso that looked like something you would see at a Jeffrey Dahmer party. I jokingly said, "Can I borrow that for the weekend?" Nobody laughed. I later heard a woman say to her husband, "Get your hands off my torso." That got a laugh.

In the middle of the gift exchange, Tim and I went into the kitchen to get some chocolate chip cookies. We both agreed the dessert table was a better place to be than the crowded living room.

Of course, we made it back in time to pick our gifts. He got a giant stuffed Shrek with a Shrek 2 DVD.

When it was my turn to pick, I stole the stereo. It was pointless, because I knew it would soon be taken from me. I said, "Look, I am going to donate this stereo to the Toys for Tots program. So if any of you steal this gift from me, you're really stealing it from a child." Nobody bought it. I was hit in the head with wrapping paper thrown by at least five different people.

The next person took my stereo. I picked another gift and got a crème brûlée set. Lynn wanted that, so we made a trade. I got her husband's stuffed Shrek with the DVD.

Didi was a cute Asian girl who showed up late. She had a big bag that contained different lotions. That gift was stolen a few times. When she stole the stereo, one woman came up to her next and said, "Didi, it's so great to see you!" Didi was saying, "Thanks, great to see you too." The woman continued, with her arms out, "It's so nice to see you." Didi looked at her, confused. The gal said, "I'm taking your stereo." Everyone laughed.

With all the numbers involved, it reminded me of my fantasy-football draft. But with a good pick there, you only get a Marshall Faulk. You don't get a stereo!

One of the gifts was a remote-control truck. The guy who got that seemed stoked. There was also a volcano kit. It looked like fun. One guy said, "Part of me thinks this will be educational for my kids. Another part of me wonders if my garage will blow up." I looked on the box to see if it came with lava. As people walked around looking at gifts to steal, this guy would say, "You can take this and make volcanoes in your living room." Nobody stole it.

The last gift chosen was the funniest. The person who picked it was the person who'd brought it. It was a Bar Master. I'm not sure what that even is.

After the gifts were given out, people vigorously made trades with each other. It was fun listening to the negotiations.

Steve and Kori gave out prizes to the people who brought the top three presents. One of the things they gave was a case of Jewish beer. It was called He Brew. The guy who won that said, "I'm not even a drinker." Someone else said, "It's time to start. Or you can break those out now and we can try some." People were starting to leave. I heard one guy say, "Shalom, dude." I heard another say he was so happy to get the remote-control truck.

I found out it was Steve and Kori who provided the stereo. I thought that was nice, considering they probably spent so much on the party to begin with.

One guy asked me if I knew any good Jewish jokes. I told him the first two that popped into my mind. "A Jew walks into a bar. And buys it." The other one was "Why do Jews get circumcised? They like 30 percent off everything." He laughed. And as I walked to my car, with the rain soaking my Shrek doll, I wondered how many complaints I'd get if I ended this column with those jokes. ■

Fly Right

The man who goes alone can start today, but he who travels with another must wait till that other is ready.

— Henry David Thoreau

I'm what you might call a "jet-setter." According to dictionary.com, a jet-setter is one who travels internationally, "from one fashionable place to another," in the pursuit of pleasure. Though I received my first passport last week, I still think I qualify.

David has told me I'm more of a "flower," quick to wilt at the slightest change in the weather, altitude, or time.

For example, an invitation to an exclusive party or an urge to see a particular piece of art are each compelling enough reasons to justify a quick trip to New York, just as my desire to see snow on New Year's Eve is excuse aplenty to send me and my man to Vermont the week after Christmas. We haven't begun to party internationally yet, but we hop all over the country, either for David's gallery openings or simply because we feel like it.

Why am I telling you this? Well, many of you will be traveling for the holidays, and as a frequent flyer (that's more than 25,000 miles a year, baby), I can offer you occasional-event flyers some tips on how this diva does it.

Flying over 50,000 miles a year worldwide, my father is a natural. Far from being the prima donna his daughter is, Dad's rules are simple — if it's a long flight, upgrade to first class with the many miles under your belt, drink a handful of free alcoholic beverages, and sleep the whole way, which will have you arriving sprightly at your destination. He tells me — through chortles and grins, similar to how he might communicate a racquetball victory — how his younger fellow sojourners are consistently dragged down by jet lag and travel exhaustion. Dad has never experienced jet lag because his circadian rhythms are not bothered by something as inconsequential as the local time.

David has told me I'm more of a "flower," quick to wilt at the slightest change in weather, altitude, or time. Like a good boy, he's always striving to make my journey more comfortable. Last year, he surprised me with a new experience, flying in first class, thereby forever ruining me for coach (or as David would say, "steerage").

It took me years to learn the secret to being handled with kid gloves in the air, but I'll share it with you now because I like you: become a loyal customer. Pick one airline and stick with it, even if a few of the flights end up costing more than other airlines. After you choose your company, become a member of whatever frequent-flyer program it offers. Dad, David, and I all fly United. And because of our loyalty and accrued miles, we are treated like royalty. We are allowed to check in and board first and can trade in our collected miles to upgrade our asses to first-class seats for long hauls, which is what I now do when flying back East. Once a flight is booked, I like to ruminate on what to pack. I don't know why I bother doing this, because the night before a flight, I stuff everything into any portable container in sight. My father has the same problem; maybe it's genetic. Our bags are so overstuffed that David and I have to weigh our luggage before leaving for the airport — 50 pounds is the max a bag can weigh before they charge you extra. I try, I really do, but inevitably, after I have smartly sorted my necessities, this voice hisses from the back of my mind, "What if you want to wear those cute, dangly earrings?" You're right, I think, but then, after every piece of jewelry I own is packed away, the voice desperately moans, "Shouldn't you have more shoe options?"

It's not worth arguing with the voice inside my head for two reasons: For one, I'd hate to freak out David with a verbal solo squabble...again. But more importantly, that voice is ultimately me, and if I don't bring what I think I might need, I will be a no-fun neurotic mess for the duration of the trip, eventually forcing myself into a position in which I do need said object left behind so that I can experience my expected horror for having failed to bring it.

David never forgets his own pillowcase and a couple of tiny toys. The pillowcase, lightweight and compact, offers a scent of home, not to mention the comforting softness of high thread counts. The toys are not for David, but for screaming, seemingly inconsolable children. It is my firm belief that airlines should offer (if they are ever able to pull their heads out from under this perpetual almost-out-of-business state) separate flights for children and their parents. Think about it — Mom and Dad don't have to feel embarrassed because their whiny kid is ruining several hours for 150 people, and traveling childless adults don't have to suffer for long periods of time while projecting negative energy onto the world as they secretly hope, "Maybe it will die, and we'll finally have some fucking peace and quiet."

But until separate flights are possible, David will continue to arm himself with toys — his silver bullet for dealing with the little howlers. He allows the child to scream for 10 minutes, hoping the parents will quiet the kid with whatever parental voodoo they normally use in such situations. However, after 15 minutes, intervention is called for. This is when David pulls a small toy suitable for sucking upon from his bag, and without a word, walks down the aisle and presents it to the crying culprit. Thus ending the reign of irritation. Once, after applying his superherolike power, grateful passengers shook his hand, thanked him profusely, and offered to buy him drinks. If you're feeling less altruistic and seeking only personal relief, an MP3 player and inner-ear canal headphones (such as those from Shure or Etymotic) will banish the offending sounds.

Seating is important, and when booking, you must consult with seatguru.com, a website that color codes every seat for every plane, complete with measurements, so you can be assured you're getting the best. Sitting closer to the front is a smoother ride (and if you're lucky enough to get a meal on the flight, they won't run out of options before they get to you); exit rows have more legroom, but the seats don't recline. More such facts are available on the website.

When we travel together, David and I book a window and middle seat, hoping until the doors are locked that the remaining seat stays vacant.

When we're not so lucky, I make David sit in the middle, and I stay in the window seat. Like a true gentleman, he refuses my empty offer to switch seats (though he still huffs and puffs for the first 30 seconds). When no one shows up, we use the middle tray to hold our ongoing Scrabble games. Delays are to be celebrated when you have with you one Travel Scrabble and one other person willing to play. We have marathons, playing three games in a row, surprised when the pilot announces an impending landing ("What, already?"). The fabulous word game is the closest thing to a time machine I've found. But I've saved the most important tip for last.

Despite bad weather, regardless of how many assholes surround you, no matter the length of time you must wait, or what evil hardships have befallen you, when you get in front of an airline representative, remain calm, smile, and be nice. Shit happens that even they can't control, and if you are the relief from the stress, if you are the fresh air in a room full of irate gas, everything that can be done will be done. Being a Mister Cranky Pants gets you nowhere, whereas being sympathetic, understanding, and going with the flow have gotten us upgrades, improved seats, and three times the effort given to the dickhead who was in front of us. In the very least, it has spared a handful of people from having to feel bad, including us. This tip, of course, goes for any type of business you deal with. If you want to be treated like a princess, you need to treat the woman in front of you like a queen. ■

Candy Man

We're talking at a fold-up card table in the impromptu conference room of a warehouse in National City. Every month, several thousand pounds of sweets pass through here, the hub of Traino's Internet business venture, Candy Direct. Traino has been regaling me for over an hour about his two great loves: business and candy.

"The guy in the car swerved, and he stopped and got mad at me, and he yelled." Traino speaks fast, as if in hot pursuit of his own thoughts. He sports a five o'clock shadow, though it's only 11 a.m. His eyes are wide and roundly brown. "You know, I'm glad the guy got mad at me. I thought he was a jerk at the time, and I was just a little kid." Traino's arms jump and wave in counterpoint to his words, and I can't help but get spurred by his enthusiasm. "You look both ways before you cross the street. I learned that lesson because of candy."

Stephen Traino runs a candy business, yes, but calling him a businessman doesn't seem right: he's a Candy Man, a modern day Willie Wonka. Candy Direct's website gives the impression of offering most every confection ever made (which is almost true). Traino takes a rainbow, wraps it in a sigh, soaks it in the sun and makes a groovy lemon pie. While he's at it, he looks both ways and runs a fine business.

"I love candy," Traino explains, savoring the "o" in "love" as if it were one of his sugary confections. "When I was a kid, we'd ride our bikes for no other reason: just to look for candy. One store we went to was called Clausen's. We'd go through this thing called The Trolley Bed, where the old trolleys used to go through. It was just this big, dirt path, you know, but we'd call it The Trolley Bed. We'd go down on our bikes, going over the rocks.”

His voice trails off, he seems far away for a moment, wistfully pedaling into his candied past. Then he starts up again in a friendly upstate-New York accent, his excitement building, the arms waving like a conductor’s.

“We’d take a left at this road, and go on a few more miles to the store. And when we got there we’d spend probably fifteen or twenty minutes looking at candies, maybe more. I remember they used to make this big long candy bar called the Marathon Bar — they don’t make it anymore, discontinued in 1983 — and it had a little ruler on it, so you could see how long it was in inches, and it was twirly, and I remember going to this store just to get that candy bar.” Traino is so unguarded as he tells me about these candies past, so ingenuous with his details, that I find it difficult to believe this childlike fellow sitting before me cuts shrewd business deals.

“Another time, my brother told me, ‘stop by Northside,’ because that was a store where they had this thing called Bottle Caps. They still make these, but they used to be in these big packages. Now they come in kind of small packages.”

Traino is sweetest on nostalgic candies. The Candy Direct website revisits such venerable bonbons as Bit-O-Honey, Abba-Zaba, Nut Goodie, Look! Bar, and Charleston Chew. Traino’s got the Golden Ticket to most every new and old confection imaginable. He’s on a roll now, and I’m starting to get hungry.

Let me confess, before this goes any further, that when it comes to sugar, I am a regular user. I lose control when faced with the temptations of Sweet. Candy comforts, at least until conscience kicks in. Many sorrows have I buried beneath ice cream, chocolate, and sugary treats of all sorts. At times I believe that glutting my body can lighten my soul. At least — or so I tell myself — the demons of candy aren't too destructive.

What is it about sweetness? What does it do in mind and mouth that we love it so? Is this a foolish question? One may as well ask why harmonious sounds soothe while dissonant ones grate. Why do some colors pacify, while others incite? When we say someone is sweet, we mean they are kind; we mean they exercise compassion. Does sugar somehow care for our well-being? And if so, then how can it possibly be bad for us? (Ah, so much like love.) I taste irony in the fact that sweet flavors are picked up by buds on the front of the tongue, yet when I can't think of a word, when the word is right there, right on this tongue tip of mine, then that frustrated feeling doesn't register as very sweet.

The history of candy dates back thousands of years — at least as far back as the Egyptians, who gorged themselves on treats made from fruit and nuts in honey. Making candy is pretty simple: you dissolve sugar in water. The amount of heat applied to the mixture determines the type of candy produced: hot temperatures make hard candy, moderate heat makes soft candy, and cool temperatures make chewy candy. According to one source, the average American consumes more than 25 pounds of confectionery per year. And Stephen Traino is responsible for moving literally tons of the stuff. What kind of man gets to do this for a living?

Traino, now 35, is a born entrepreneur. He has sold frozen yogurt, bathtubs, Xeroxes, and even, as a youngster, junk from out of his own garage.

"Ever since I was a kid, I've been really good at creating new business ideas," he says. "It's like second nature for me. I just always think of business ideas. And I'm always scatterbrained, trying all these different ideas." But he knows a good thing when he sees it, and when the Internet came along he was inspired to twin his two loves, candy and e-business, into one strong braid.

"I came up with Candy Direct just by looking around," he declares. "I was wondering, you know, what has no one else done? Well, books is being done, CDs and music's being done, travel's being done."

Traino grew up near Lake Ontario and attended college in Plattsburg, New York, just south of Montreal. He studied business, but not the way most people study business. He found accounting impossibly dull, and was frustrated when he realized that they don't teach numbers in marketing class. So he got permission from his professors to create his own major and design a unique course of study.

After graduating, Traino stayed in Plattsburg and worked for a company that imported bathtubs from a franchise up in Canada. The bathtub business wasn't so great, though, because Traino wanted to be a franchisee himself. He started interning for a consulting company at the same time, helping Canadian executives earn green cards so they could start businesses in the United States.

Eventually, Traino tried his hand at running a frozen-yogurt company. When that business failed, he moved back in with his parents for six or seven months. He was 23, and like any driven, young entrepreneur, he was looking to start his own enterprise. The only problem was that he didn't have much money. "I decided to move out to California," he states. "You know, 'Go west, young man.'"

He landed in Santa Ana, in Orange County, and worked for Xerox for about a year and a half but he hated it. "Good people, and they really wanted to improve the company, but it was just too rigid, too rigorous, and you know, too much politics and all that crap." The next company he worked for, Realm Internet Systems, also went belly-up, but while there he gained a fluency with the Internet that would serve him well down the road.

"That was a good job, but the boss just really didn't get along with people very well. I understood him, but a lot of people didn't. He did give me latitude, and I liked that, and I was learning from entrepreneurs who were smarter than I am."

Traino is grateful to have had mentors, but he now knows that he can only work for himself. "It's the old cliché: you work for yourself, you make your own hours, and it's true to an extent. I don't have to take orders from anyone. I can't take orders."

Independence aside, why do people start their own businesses?

"So you can make money, and support your family, and pursue the dream of getting rich, which is very rare, very rare in small business."

For all his apparent ambition, Traino is partial to underdogs.

"You know, you read a hundred articles of successful people, and there are probably a thousand more people who weren't successful. Whenever I read an article about a small business owner, I want to know about the first million. How did they make their first million? Who cares about Lee Iacocca, and what's-his-name from General Electric? They always want to interview these guys when they're already successful. But the question is, how do you get that first million? That is the hardest thing."

Traino breaks down the numbers and makes being a millionaire sound like a burden.

"Even if you make a million dollars in your company, or two million dollars in your company, you get taxed. You get taxed like 40 or 50 percent. You know, you have 35 or 40 percent federal, and then 9 percent state. You know, and I'm not going to get into politics or anything like that, I'm just saying you get taxed. So how do you become a millionaire? It's very hard to do. You need a really good idea. So I take an interest in how the successful people made their first million, and how the unsuccessful ones failed, and I try to learn from their risks and their mistakes."

Candy Direct was a really good idea, and it started small in 1996. "Out of my apartment, actually." Traino smiles sheepishly. Trucks would back up to his apartment to make deliveries and pickups before he had saved enough to move into a small office. Later, he opened a store in the Mission Gorge area, where he refined his concept before he finally settled here in National City about a year and a half ago. "And that's where we're at."

Traino is humble when he describes how he negotiated those first deals with the giant candy companies. "We had an arrangement with several suppliers in Southern California who would supply us."

We? Wasn't he the only employee?

"Oh," he says. "You know, we, yeah, that's a good question. You know, why do you say 'we'? I always talk that way. I like talking in 'we's' because, you know, it's our company, it's a business. But I guess you're right, it wasn't 'we,' it was me." He laughs, and then continues.

"I think my first employee was hired in '99, so it was about a year and a half, two years, where it was just me, and I'd take all the pictures, I'd do all the customer service, I'd do all the accounting.

"We started buying from all these distributors," (that odd royal we was back, but I let him be) "and then what you start doing is you start buying direct, because then you've got more clout and money. So we started buying direct, from Nestlé, from Hershey's, from Necco.

"We started with $500, maybe. It was nothing. But there was no one doing it at the time. I mean, there were a few small candy stores, but they weren't doing it seriously. But you have to build slowly. You always hear about the dot-com entrepreneurs, but you never hear about the little guys starting out. You have to stick with it. And it's depressing, for the first couple of years."

This year, the gross sales at Candy Direct have topped $2 million. He calls himself "an employee of the business," but he's also the chief operating officer, so he makes all the decisions, including the matter of his own salary. "But I pretty much reinvest all my money back into the business," he says, "because I want to grow. I want to keep building this thing into a bigger business. I want to have multiple locations; I want to maybe start stores, or start franchise stores. I've got all kinds of ideas."

Candy Direct is a success, but I wonder whether a man with such a restless temperament can be satisfied. "At first I said I wanted to be a millionaire at 30. And then I said I wanted to be a millionaire at 35. Well, now I'm 35, and I'm not a millionaire. So my goal now is to be healthy and happy, and money is just a tool to be happy. But, you know, we're all going to die. We're all going to become dust. Seriously. We're just here for a short time, not to get into religion or anything, but we're all the same, and we're all going to die and become dust. But in the meantime, I enjoy creating new things. I enjoy creating businesses. I'd do it just for fun. I guess it's always just still my goal: to be an entrepreneur. You know, you read where people retire and they go away to the islands for six months, and then they come back, and they start another business. That's just it. That's what we are. That's what I am. I am an entrepreneur. Other people are writers. Other people are actors. But that's

water River, Candy Direct operates out of a nondescript storefront. Through the narrow entryway where I've been interviewing Traino, the candy-crammed fan-cooled warehouse opens out in back. The storage space is small, perhaps 1,000 square feet. Upstairs is an office stuffed with computers and telephones and snaking wires.

A portable stereo softly plays 91X while I watch a driver in a white Jelly Belly truck pull up and unload Dragon Fire, Money Licorice, Pop Shot Baseball Bats, and Candy Love Beads Jewelry Kits. Three members of Traino's staff pack PayDays, Jolly Ranchers, Super Starlites and Wack-o-Wax into boxes. Monique Tatino selects candy from the shelves and carries it to Che Jones, who stuffs it into foam. Then Kinner Horn seals the boxes and affixes mailing labels. A few hundred thousand pieces of candy away, Rita Sanchez arranges artful, mood-brightening everyone work, Traino is off being industrious at his own computer, letting everybody do his or her thing.

And my thing, at that moment, is to marvel at the countless permutations of sugar. It's amazing the amount of creativity human beings have lavished on sweets. In Traino's warehouse I spy Tart N Tinys, Fluffy Stuff, Panic Buttons, Long Boys, CoffeeGo, Rain-Blo, Rip Rolls, Pixy Stix, Nik-L-Nip, Runts, Nerds, Razzles, Spree, Spooky Eyes, Crazy Dips, and Chick-O-Stick. Then there are the old standbys: Hershey's Bars, Tootsie Rolls, Baby Ruths, and so on. A veritable candy kingdom. And the king himself has granted me the freedom to wander in the treasure trove just as I please, a fantasy browse.

I stand there for some time, watching people work, imagining the contents of various wrappers. Eventually Traino pops his head around the corner, probably to make sure that I

"No I don't," Traino aw-shuckses, "I don't get you pizza enough."

How did Traino manage to preserve such humility as he gnawed his way through the vicious world of business? He haven't contracted a case of contact-diabetes. When I remark on the relaxed, comfortable atmosphere Traino seems to foster, Monique Tatino glances up from a pile of Oh Henry! bars. "He gets us pizza for lunch ... sometimes."

whips up a tale of long hours and hard work, of slow successes earned through taking on arduous tasks on his own.

"I have this red Sentra," Traino explains, "it's still parked out there in the street, my old car.

I'd throw all my boxes in there, and I'd drive it to the post office, and I literally couldn't see out of my window. And I'd go to the stupid post office, and stand in line, and during tax season especially people hated me. It would take forever, and there were other sellers there from places like eBay, doing the same thing I was. It wasn't fun."

If Traino has found his calling, he concedes that it has left him little time for a personal life. But he's newly married, and ready to embark on yet one more chapter of his life. I ask him if he enjoys himself, if he devotes time to other interests. "I'm pretty narrow-minded in that way. I'm trying to expand my horizons."

At times he sounds a refrain familiar to many life. Being a millionaire is not all it's cracked up to be. And I'm not a millionaire, but what if you don't have your health? What about the rest of life? Is it really worth it to work so hard to be a millionaire? I don't know. But now, Candy Direct is starting to run itself, and I can enjoy life, so I really need to start taking advantage of that."

But then, with scarcely a pause, Traino's distinguishing plumage begins to ruffle once again. "I do get restless. Very restless," he says. "I'm always coming up with ideas. I'll have a great idea, but I'm always trying to tie stuff into candy. And I do have another great idea for candy, but I can't talk about it yet. It's not in the candy business, but it's related to candy, and I think it's a very, very good idea."

Traino grows reflective, and a sage look stirs in his dark eyes. "You know, being a millionaire shouldn't be everybody's goal. There's all kinds of goals in Traino doesn't eat nearly as much candy as he used to — the allure went bland once he could get it any time, all of the time (in this I sensed a certain wisdom) — but he does admit to one addiction among his vices. The man is a compulsive domain name registerer.

"Boy, back in the day you could really register domain names," he says. "I mean, AltaVista.com, Loans.com. Loans.com sold for $3,000,000. All someone did was register a little domain name. That's it. They're rich." There go the hands again, the arms.

"Candy Direct was a good name back then. I mean, it still is. Most of the candy businesses are called CandyExpressToYou.com or something. I have like 75 different domain names that I've registered over the years. You can sell domain names, or rent them out, but I register them just for me. Just because I think it's important to have all kind of addicted."

But I don't get it. Registering domains? What for? Why pay

"I heard about a woman who's suing some candy company for rotting her kids' teeth," Traino says matter-of-factly.

those domain names for different businesses that are related to candy. I guess I'm $8.95 to register a name, and $800 per year to maintain one's claim on it?

"My domain names could be worth money some day, or they can be used for different businesses related to candy. CandyDirect.com is a valuable piece of real estate," he says. "People can remember how to get to me easier. I have CandyStore.com, which is a very, very valuable domain name."

Traino then explains something that makes sense to anyone who's ever conducted a Google search.

"It's all about type-in traffic. If you're ever sitting there, and you get desperate on the Internet and you're looking for something, and you're just like, 'I can't find this on a search engine,' and you type in 'Books.com,' or something like that, well, there you go. People type in, maybe not 'Candy Direct,' but they type in 'CandyStore.com,' and they find me, and I can make money doing nothing, just by type-in traffic. Why do I need CandyGalore.com? Why do I need CandyVillage.com? Partially addiction, and partially because I can create several different stores."

Traino and candy are a good fit, and not just because he is himself sweet. "Candy is always changing, always changing, constantly," Traino says, though it seems to me he might just as well be talking about himself. "It's kind of the most innovative industry. It's colorful, it's fun. I mean, just look at the packaging. It's neat. The graphics ... people are always creating these new ideas. But the life span of ideas in the candy industry is very short."

Traino's voice takes on a prophetic air. "But there are some candies that will last forever, of course: there's the Hershey's Bar, the Gobstopper. But then other things like the Rip Rolls? They'll be here for a couple more years and then they'll go away."

I ask Traino whether he ever feels troubled about selling a product that could prove addictive, and that in any case isn't particularly good for people.

"I heard about a woman who's suing some candy company for rotting her kids' teeth," Traino says matter-of-factly. "And I guess if you eat too much candy then that's not a good thing. But too much of anything can be bad. And besides, what about all those memories we associate with candy? What about all the fun it gave us when we were kids? I guess I hope that the good of candy sort of outweighs that bad."

I confess that I like this justification. I hope Traino's right. But before I've had a chance to reflect on his words, I thank him and reluctantly prepare to wrap up our interview.

"Oh my gosh!" Traino gasps. "I haven't given you any candy!" And then, anticipating my (feigned) protests, he assures me, "It's not just because you're writing about me. I give lots of candy to the mailman too, and the UPS guy, everybody."

And then I live a little dream. The King of Candy, Willie Wonka in the flesh, Stephen Traino, the entrepreneur, The Candy Man, grabs two shoebox-sized boxes and starts filling them with exotic treats.

"Have you ever tried these?" he asks, seizing a handful of his favorite bonbon, chocolate-covered Gummi Bears. "How about this stuff? You like Necco wafers?" He inches me through his colorful cache of spoils, candy by candy, stuffing the boxes. I'm giddy. By the time I leave, hauling great plenty, I'm a big, dumb, smiling kid again, dizzy with expectation. Weeks and weeks of sweets!

For a moment I feel like I did before I ever worried much, when it took only a few sugary delights to transport me, back when I was young and successful and in the business of being happy. ■

Unlike, say, rock-and-roll bands, classical musicians in a quartet are not required to exhibit personalities as they perform. A tuxedoed homogeneity and a serious sameness of expression will do nicely, thank you. If the performers feel passionately or not about the music, have aches and pains of a physical or existential nature, harbor resentments toward each other, or guesstimate tax returns while sleepwalking through the Kochel Concerto No. 525 or “Memories” from Cats — we couldn’t care less. As we brunch in a North County bistro or fork wedding cake onto our plates at the reception, the music might be wallpaper, the musicians, potted ferns. If it’s a rock group, we think we want a little flamboyance and character with our 4/4 time, but aren’t Keith Richards, Ron Wood, and Charlie Watts really the same person when you get right down to it?

Well up the winding reaches of Soledad Mountain Road, four very different people have come together on a sultry August night to share wine, lasagne, the sunset, and their skills as musicians. Forty-one-year-old Ken Jerahian plays first violin; 42-year-old Sarah Agler provides vocals and second violin; Gordon Grubbs, 35, contributes cello, while Karen Childress-Evans, 45, provides viola and musical direction for Pacifica Strings, one of San Diego’s few long-lived string quartets.

Grubbs, a lean, bespectacled black man, wears shorts, a dark polo shirt, socks, and dress shoes. He seems to be the comedian of the group, yet the most elusive and private. As the musicians tune (that four-note sawing and occasional skirling associated with clearing one’s throat and fanning oneself with the program before the houselights dim), Grubbs, originally from Wichita, Kansas, is rattling off personal and musical jokes in a shorthand recognizable only to his fellow quartet members. Childress-Evans is the quickest to laugh, while Agler chuckles silently and Jerahian beams with pleasure. Grubbs is speaking so quickly, those outside the musical circle are at a loss as to what’s so funny.

Grubbs teaches music for a living and performs professionally whenever possible, often without the other quartet members and frequently in Mexico — La Paz, Mazatlán, and Ensenada, for example.

Jerahian is dressed in a white, button-down collared shirt, Levi’s, and sneakers. His two leg braces (a legacy from childhood polio) rest against a wall near his chair. The first violinist, with his thick, black hair streaked with traces of gray; deep-set, smiling dark eyes; and shoe-brush Armenian mustache has the appearance of a benevolent Uncle Joe Stalin. An electronics technician during the day, repairing such devices as TVs, stereos, VCRs, and video game players, Jerahian has been playing violin since he was seven years old. He holds a B.A. in music from University of San Diego.

Jerahian has played "in most of the local orchestras — uh, La Jolla Civic, USD orchestra. From the age of 13 to 25, I played with the San Diego Youth Symphony."

Grubbs and Childress-Evans are searching for misplaced sheet music to a Bach piece they'll perform at an upcoming wedding. The violist is a petite, attractive blonde wearing a red blouse, a gray-and-red checked skirt, and red shoes. She finds the piece and sets it on her stand: "Air" by J.S. Bach. Childress-Evans plays a few tentative notes. She is accompanied immediately by four-year-old Sean Agler, who contributes a wheezing musical non sequitur on his child-size starter violin. His brother, two-year-old Nicky Agler, is offstage (that is, in his bedroom, not in the living room where the action is), crying operatically. Evidently, he has inherited his mother's lung capacity, diaphragm control, and tonal dexterity.

Discussion of which Mozart pieces to perform ("Eine Kleine Nachtmusik"), whether or not to include the Pachelbel Canon ("yeah, we have to"), Handel's "Water Music," the "Quartet versions of 2, 3, and 6," "Hawaiian Wedding Song," "Wind Beneath My Wings," "The Vivaldi" (Four Seasons), "Trumpet Voluntary" (the Clarke), and/or "that wedding thing by the guy from Peter, Paul, and Mary" ("There Is Love") resolves with a tentative list and the decision to run through Bach's "Air."

The piece is processional. The words "stately" or "courtly" are hard to avoid. Grubbs's cello marks time with a descending scale of slow octaves beginning in the key of C. Jerahian and Agler sustain a middle C in unison and then part ways in a harmonic pavane away from the tonic note that grows increasingly complex and flows into A-major and then D-major scales — a pattern thoroughly familiar to audiences of a thousand popular love songs. Pacifica Strings render the piece with a grace and soulfulness I don't usually associate with Bach, thinking of his music more in terms of prancing, mathematical, clockwork patterns than a slow ballet of emotion.

Agler, Jerahian, Grubbs, and Childress-Evans indeed seem to be sculpting "air."

and a smile behind large-framed glasses. She wears a blue floral print dress to her ankles. When she stands to sing, one might envision her in a horned Viking helmet and armor breastplate; when she opens her mouth, she can break your heart. As a violinist she is superb, which raises the question: Why second violin? The answer is that everyone in the quartet is very, very good and someone has to play the second violin parts. The term "second fiddle" is clearly a misnomer here since what Agler plays is hardly less accomplished than the first violin parts — merely different, harmonic, contrapuntal, and without which the center would not hold.

Agler has been playing since the age of eight and received a bachelor's degree in violin from the University of Nevada in Reno, followed by a master's in voice performance from Indiana University.

"I didn't tell anybody I was a violinist for eight years," the musician-singer and mother of two says. "I was only singing. But there was more of a need for violinists than sopranos. I did a lot of moving around, performing in operas." Agler moved to San Diego in 1984 and won first place in the Met (San Diego Metropolitan Opera) auditions in 1986. Agler met Childress-Evans while playing with the Grossmont Symphony.

Karen Childress-Evans started playing violin in the fourth grade in Yakima, Washington. "I had a wonderful teacher there," she says. "This woman started off a whole bunch of violinists, and I realized right off I wasn't going to be able to sit first chair so I decided

I would start off with viola." She laughs; the quartet members find this funny as well. "No," she says, protesting the unlikeliness of the situation. "It's true. I decided to play the viola because I wanted to go to All Northwest and All State and All City. And if you're just one of several violins..." she trails off. "And I wanted to go to all of them and I did. It was a wonderful experience."

The 45-year-old Pacifica Strings director also plays with the La Jolla Symphony. She got her undergraduate degree in music at Washington State University and her graduate work at Western Washington State University in music education. "It was a double major," she explains, "a music degree and an education degree. Up until this year I taught strings for 24 years. I teach in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District, and I teach at Parkway Middle School. Several years ago, I went back and got my degree in social science so I can teach other subjects. They decided to take me out of strings and put me in social science for this year, and that broke my heart. So I decided to go back and proceed with my doctorate in educational leadership. I decided that since I can't do what I love the most, and that's teach strings, I'm gonna go be a principal and I'm gonna hire Gordon and Sarah and Ken." This concept is met with much laughter and approval from her prospective employees.

"Fabulous!" Grubbs chuckles.

"I'm serious," says Childress-Evans. "I wouldn't have anybody else teaching my cellos. It will be the School of the New Century."

"We go back," she continues, "maybe ten years — well, a good seven or eight, but not in this incarnation. I found Sarah through an ad. We got Ken involved. We had another cellist at that time, and Ken brought Gordon into it. As Sarah says, this is our best group. Do we like each other? I like each other," chuckling at her grammatical negligence. "Gordon is kind of a pain in the butt, you know, but..." She trails off, joined by four-

The rehearsal resumes.

"You're gonna do the four," Childress-Evans says to Jerahian about the "Ave Maria."

"Actually, they should both do it," says Grubbs. "You should both play in D."

The violin and viola carve a five-note figure, which climbs half a step in key every time the phrase is completed. Beneath them, the cello sustains single-root notes anchoring the violin's counterpoint to Agler's slow, true soprano. "Ave Maree-eeeyaaahhhh." The five-note figure falters as Childress-Evans and Jerahian tumble their notes onto each other in slightly separate tempos. The effect is supposed to be a flowing one but instead is that of a lurching vehicle with mismatched tires.

"It sounds as if this is a difficult piece to pull off," I suggest.

"It is, but we have the skills," laughs Childress-Evans. "Believe it or not."

"We may have left them someplace," says Grubbs, "but we have the skills."

"Isn't there something like three or four verses to this thing?" asks Jerahian.

"Yeah, but we're not gonna do 'em," announces the violist, and the others laugh with relief.

"Yeah, let's not," says Agler.

"I went to a wedding," Jerahian recalls, "and a band was singing this, and in the second verse the guy's voice broke, started cracking. I felt terrible for the guy." He looks through his sheet music. "This says, 'From Walter Scott's 'Lady in the Lake.' Which one is this?" asks the teacher/violist.

"This is the Schubert," Agler explains. "I sang them both for her [their employer for the upcoming wedding], and she liked this one better. And this is easier for us to play."

"Should we do this smoother? More legato?" asks Grubb. "Or maybe even, well, some kind of a brush-stroke? Somewhere in between? As long as we stay together..."

"Let's just do it smooth," Childress-Evans suggests, and that seems to be the final word on the matter.

Another run-through and someone is striking sharp notes, though it is not apparent, at least to me, who it is.

"Sorry," says the squint-violinist, "I can't read this."

Her sheet music is a Xerox copy; the musical text has shrunk and blurred.

Later, one member of the quartet will express dissatisfaction with Childress-Evans's organization and handling of the sheet music.

"In terms of what music means to me in my life, that has changed over the years," says Jerahian, the first violinist and former technician with Maxwell Laboratories. "When you do things for a living, sometimes it gets to be a grind, and you don't enjoy it. Music now for me is just relaxation and enjoyment. I don't use it to make a full-time living.

"I don't know if anybody's flat-out put it in an article, but the arts have never really been supported in San Diego," Jerahian says. "The plays, the Old Globe, are too expensive, and there's a lack of support for the San Diego Symphony. It's not a poor town either; they can afford it, but their priorities go into other areas. We [the quartet] all have other jobs and don't have time to get together as often as we'd like."

When asked, Jerahian says his mother most influenced the violinist's nascent career.

"She used to play the piano, nothing amazing, but she had an incredible love of music, especially the violin. I had three sisters who were all trained on the piano, so I was the one who got the violin. To be honest with you, I don't really think I had a desire at first to play the violin. I was inspired by my mother. At one point it was a toss-up between electrical engineering and music, and I just so happened to go into music, not only because of my love of music, but I also received a music scholarship to the University of San Diego, where I went to school. It was a good opportunity to get an education and 99 percent of it was paid for, so I went that route. USD isn't really a top-notch school for majoring in music; it's good for minor-ing in music; it's good for teachers, and throughout it's a very good education, but nothing like a music conservatory."

Was childhood polio a factor in learning the violin, the hours of being forced to be sedentary?

"I was in second grade," Jerahian remembers. "It was just before my first music lesson. I was one of those rare cases that contracted it from the vaccine. So, yeah, music was a good thing for me to pursue full-time because you're sitting and all that, but believe it or not, I actually feel better mobile — sitting is what really kills me. People see me on crutches and right away they say, 'Hey, do you want a chair?' while my back is screaming, 'No!'

"Actually, string players develop all these ailments, so even if you're okay when you start out...." Jerahian laughs. "They develop all kinds of problems with their shoulders. It's very taxing on your body. Especially violin or viola because of the awkward position you hold your instrument. I don't think cellists are as affected. One woman I know of in the San Diego Symphony had to give up playing after years because of all kinds of major problems. It affected her arms especially."

Has Pacifica Strings ever toured?

"No. We really haven't outside of San Diego. What's popular right now is your coffee shops. That seems to be the big thing, where a lot of San Diego's music is happening. I'm trying to break into those coffee shops —" Jerahian laughs, realizing that what he said sounds illegal, "— with classical music, I mean, which doesn't seem to be that prevalent in these coffee shops."

Jerahian and Grubbs will perform as a duet at A Better World this fall, and he hopes to appear there eventually with the entire quartet. "I don't think there's that much money in it, but it's good for the publicity end of it — to play and advertise what you do, get the word out."

Does Jerahian remember the first piece of music he heard as a kid that turned him on and set him on his course?

"Yeah, probably a lot of people's favorite and that's the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto in D or D minor, I forgot which."

What kind of music does Pacifica Strings perform best?

"In my opinion [the wedding pieces] are the most rotten stuff. That doesn't comprise any of what we really do except maybe during the ceremony. Those are little pieces that are stuck in for a candlelighting, or we'll do the Pachelbel Canon during a processional, and maybe we'll do some upbeat light classical for the recession. A lot of people want the traditional, so we let them have it. I would say our best stuff is light clas-est we'll get is Beethoven, and we tend not to do too much Beethoven."

Does Jerahian find that the audience as a rule will ignore the quartet? Comment on the music? Look over the musicians' shoulders? Could he characterize a general reaction to the music of Pacifica Strings?

"Maybe you can throw this into words and make it somehow that nobody's offended," Jerahian laughs; his mustache widens, his eyes narrow. "I would say that in general, the people that can least afford us are definitely the most appreciative. They're the ones that struggle to get the money to have our group, and they are the ones who are the sical in the vein of 'Eine Kleine Nachtmusik' or Haydn. When you get into some of your Beethoven or Brahms, that's more like 'sit and listen' — it's real deep. That's not the kind of thing we usually play at a wedding reception. Schubert is kind of on the lighter side, and Schumann. We don't do a lot of baroque-type stuff. As you heard, we occasionally do Bach; we'll do the Brandenburg No. 3. We also do things like Scott Joplin rags."

Also in the Pacifica Strings repertoire are such unlikely numbers as "Unchained Melody" by the Righteous Brothers, "Wind Beneath My Wings" (if you insist), and the Andrews Sisters' "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy."

"We do those things very well," Jerahian says.

"We'll maybe do some of them at A Better World. But I'm not really super fond of contemporary music; that's just always the way I've been.

"Most of the people we play for are sipping on champagne, getting ready for dinner after the wedding, so the light classical is fine. It's usually pretty understandable to people. The heavi-

most complimentary and supportive and come up and say, 'You guys sound great' or give us requests.

"To be honest with you, I can think of at least two or three instances playing in La Jolla and here around Soledad Mountain Road where we've been stuck in a corner and nobody even said a word to us. We were there for the scenery; it was the elite thing to do. That was fine; we got paid very well. At one job, even though there was a large buffet and tons of food, we were not invited to eat. I've learned to make sure you get something to eat during the breaks." Jerahian laughs again, but at himself, not his thoughtless employers. "A job is a job, and I don't stipulate in the contract that we have to be fed, but sometimes we have a three-and-a-half- or four-hour job and we don't get a chance to duck out and get something to eat. About 80 percent of the time we are invited to eat. We never push ourselves on anyone, though."

How affordable is the quartet?

"For a basic wedding we charge $300, and that involves music while people are arriving, say 15, 20 minutes. We play the whole ceremony, which is about 20 minutes to a half-hour. We'll play as people are walking out of the church. Then we'll play as they head for the champagne and hors d'oeu-vres, which is another 15 minutes. So they get roughly an hour or hour and 15 minutes' worth of music for $300. We add on for every additional hour, so it comes out to between $300 and $500. For a full, blowout wedding where we play a three-hour reception, it's $500."

How is Jerahian's relationship with the other musicians? His response is primarily about Gordon Grubbs. "He also plays harp, you know? He went to a music conservatory and he's a very..." Jerahian pauses, "...talented cellist. It's kind of a bummer he doesn't have a driver's license, so somebody has to pick him up, and that kind of makes it hard. His cello playing makes up for the inconvenience, and he's a good friend, a good guy."

"We had another cellist, but you've got to really want to do it. You've got to have four people that really want to play who don't bitch and complain. Whiners, you know? People to whom you have to say, 'I'll pay you extra if you play 15 minutes more,' and they say, 'No, I've got to leave.' It's not like they're really committed to it. It's like, bam, and they're out of there — give-me-the-money-and-run kind of thing. Everybody wants to be paid and everything, but at the same time, you've got to be diplomatic about it."

The sun is setting out to sea through a shredded marine layer and shadows spread through the Aglers' wooded back yard. Lights are turned on in the living room as the members of the quartet take their seats. The smell of lasagne and tobacco (from Agler's husband's pipe) fills the house, along with the famous 18 opening notes of Mozart's "A Little Night Music." Pacifica Strings begin the piece spontaneously; smiling and nodding at each other with satisfaction and amusement that the same selection was on everyone's mind as darkness fell.

The centuries are erased and Mozart's music feels as relevant as it was 200 years ago, as relevant as the moment, the summer night. ■

REALITY CHECK

BUT I
LIKE IT."

Sally Reda, an 18-year-old at Helix High Charter High School, likes to dance and write in her spare time. She intends to have a career in law.

What are you doing to "save the planet"? "I'm not doing anything to save the planet, unfortunately. I don't litter. I could probably do with wasting less water."

What do you think is the biggest waste of resources in the nation? "I think water is the biggest waste of resources. We use water for everything. We take so many showers, we leave it on when we brush our teeth — we use way, way, too much."

What is the biggest waste of resources in San Diego? "I don't know. I don't think about it.... It hasn't affected me yet, so it's hard for me to really imagine what the biggest waste of resources is. I know that bad things are happening to the environment, but I guess I won't notice or budge from my bubble until the consequences slap me in the face."

When do you believe solar-powered cars will become more prominent? "Probably a long time. I haven't heard of any real progress. As of now, nothing has hit us hard. We haven't run out of oil, so we still use it. If it was a total emergency I think there would be a greater demand for these kinds of cars."

Do you believe eight-cylinder vehicles are practical? "If a car is for transportation, a smaller car can take you to the same place.

Sally Reda

People who have these kinds of cars just for show or just for the sake of having a 'big car' are really just living in excess and need a reality check."

Can the American people trust the government with the protection of our environment? "I don't think people can really trust the environment in the hands of politicians. [The environment] would be in ruin before the government takes action, without the force of the American people."

What has the government done to protect the environment? "All I know is what I learned in my U.S. history class; I know there was an environmental movement, but as far as our modern government, I don't know how they are reacting to environmental groups. The Bush administration does not scream 'environmentally friendly' to me. I would never count on them."

Do you think it's worthwhile to drill for oil in nature preserves? "I don't think it's worthwhile. When do we stop? There has to be an end, and we need to start preparing for that rather than sucking more oil out of the earth."

Have you ever volunteered your time toward an environmental cause? "No, I have not. I don't know what kind of groups are out there and the environment is not a major issue for me. I do sort of perceive environmental groups as being rather extremist; they have a just cause but they may be unrealistic. I think I might volunteer my time."

Robert Vadiyants, 18, likes to spend time with his girlfriend. He'd like to have a career as a stock broker.

What are you doing to "save the planet"? "I could start some sort of group [like] save the whales...but I don't feel like it."

What do you believe is the biggest waste of resources in the United States? "We waste everything; take your pick."

What do you believe is the biggest waste of resources in San Diego? "Our oceans are a trash can. There are signs everywhere warning people; it's just disgusting. We can't even swim at the beach."

Do you hang dry your laundry? "I don't; it takes too much time."

How many years do you think it will take before solar-powered cars become more popular? "Once we realize how crazy the pollution and oil problems are in this country, we might take heed. But until then, people are going to be using gas. Solar-powered, hybrid, etcetera, just seems like too big of a jump for people."

Do you think eight-cylinder SUVs are practical? "These cars are nice, but they don't have a practical purpose. They are a total waste of money and resources."

Can citizens trust the government to protect the environment? "The government will screw you over. They lie, they steal; it's about money. Why would they help save the environment?"

How has the government protected the environment? "I don't know of anything. To be honest, I would attribute any sort of advances in environmental protection to the people pressuring the government. It's about getting votes, not protecting the planet. They have money for war, all these things, but not the environment. It's a cold shoulder to something that is definitely important."

Would you allow oil-drilling in a wildlife preserve? "Absolutely not. If we are trying to make the environment better, why would we take a step back? If oil is running out, that's a sign that we need to head in a new direction."

Do you think it's worthwhile to allow oil-drilling in wildlife preserves? "No; it can be dangerous for animals in the area to breathe fumes from the drilling."

Have you ever volunteered your time toward an environmental cause? "No. Like I said, I educate myself on the issues, but I don't dedicate myself to the actual issues...at least to a degree that would qualify me as an 'activist.'"

What is the biggest waste of resources in the U.S.? "Paper, I suppose; so much is produced and so much is wasted. The rainforests are disappearing like crazy and the earth is going to become one large monstrous corporate building project!"

What is the biggest waste of resources in San Diego? "Not sure... Probably oil because of all the SUVs driven."

Do you know of any families that hang laundry on a clothesline? "Nope."

RESEARCH STUDIES

Ladies:

Are you experiencing itching, burning, irritation commonly associated with a yeast infection? If so, you may qualify to participate in a clinical research study. Study participants will receive at no cost: a physical exam, study-related laboratory tests including a Pap smear, and investigational medication.

Chronic Schizophrenia Research Study

If you or someone you know is currently receiving an antipsychotic medication for the treatment of chronic Schizophrenia, you may want to learn more about a clinical research study. This study is testing a new investigational form of Abilify® (aripiprazole) in patients receiving antipsychotic medication for the treatment of Schizophrenia.

Participants must be 18 years of age or older. Qualified volunteers for this study will receive the following at no cost:

- Study-related medical evaluations
- Laboratory tests
- Study-related clinical evaluations
- Study medication

In how many years will there be solar-powered cars? "I would hope some-time in my lifetime...maybe 20 years or so."

Why do you think we don't yet have solar-powered cars? "This question stumps me a bit. We have solar-powered microwaves and calculators...but something as necessary as a car can't be solar-powered? Maybe science has yet to create such a car. On the other hand, the oil companies thrive on the money spent on our gas guzzlers and I'm sure a lot of corporate funding and profit is made from cars that are especially not solar-powered."

Do either one of your parents drive an eight-cylinder SUV? "Nope; they're not practical, either. Did you know that driving a 13-mile-per-gallon SUV for a year will waste more energy than if you left your fridge door open for six years, left your TV turned on for 28 years, left your bathroom light to burn for 30 years? That's from earthonempty.com."

Can citizens trust the U.S. government to take care of the environment? "I don't believe so. The government is controlled by corporations; corporations use any means necessary to profit. If killing the environment is in their favor, then they'll do it."

How has the government taken steps to preserve precious environments throughout the country? "National parks, wildlife preserves, etcetera."

How has the government neglected the environment? "They expand money-wise with their housing projects, by stripping the rainforest."

Do you think it's worthwhile to allow oil-drilling in wildlife preserves? "Not worth it — causing more pollutants into the atmosphere and onto the earth. Maybe it's beneficial in the present, but it will be most detrimental in the future."

Have you ever volunteered your time toward an environmental cause? "I participated in a trash-picking a few years ago."

Helix Charter High senior Nikoli Kerr, 17, says kickboxing is her favorite pastime. For a career, she'd like to be a designer of movies and video games.

San Diego, there is a lot of dumping in the water. I hear about a lot of people getting sick from just swimming in the water. The ocean is a natural resource, and if we are destroying it, then it's definitely a waste."

Do you know anyone who hangs their laundry to dry? "No. I don't know anyone who hangs laundry. I think a lot of people have just grown accustomed to washer/dryer, and some people don't have space for it."

How long do you believe it will take until solar-powered cars are more popular? "Twenty to 25 years. Companies that produce cars don't want to make gas cars obsolete. Oil companies also have a strong influence on these issues. Until people are just totally fed up with paying so much for gas, I think there will always be gas cars."

Do you think SUVs are practical? "I think you don't need eight-cylinder SUVs to drive around the city, but if it's used for working, I guess they are practical. But these cars are too luxurious for working."

Can the citizens of this country trust the government to protect the environment? "People need to place checks on the government, not leave it alone. The government is driven by money, and that's not good for the environment."

In what ways do you know the government has protected the environment? "I guess they protect our national parks, but that's all that I am aware of."

How has government neglected the environment?

"There seems to be an endless supply of wood. Where does it all come from? It must be from forests, and it's hard to believe they are replenishing at a fast-enough rate."

Do you believe that it is worthwhile to drill for oil in nature preserves? "Drilling on land is terrible for the environment.... But if it was a small station and a small road, I suppose it would be okay if it's absolutely necessary, but I don't really think it would ever be."

Have you volunteered your time toward an environmental cause? "No, I haven't. I don't have a lot of information about environmental issues. I just don't know that these kinds of things are going on." ■

MODEL FOR DISAPPOINTMENT

I should have realized answering a “roommate wanted” ad to share an apartment in the Haight/Ashbury district of San Francisco with two other women would amount to more than I’d bargained for. We were all students at San Francisco State University, and they’d rented a spacious, three-bedroom flat that I instantly fell in love with. I still remember how it smelled when we moved in — fresh air with a lemon twist — nothing like the moldy cat-pee hell den it would become.

That place had a revolving door. After two years of sifting through roommates (and their respective felines), my head ached when Janice, roommate No. 6, told me she was moving out — and moving in with her boyfriend. I wanted to cry. She was cool, and her cat was the only one that hadn’t felt the desire to mark its territory all over the flat. Luckily, however, somewhere down the line my brother had moved in, so I gave him the oh-so-much-fun task of finding a new person to live with us. Big mistake.

Anjeanette (phonetically pronounced Ahn-jah-net; said only with a breathy, 1-900-HOT-TALK voice) showed up shortly thereafter. She was a 23-year-old transplanted model from New York, or so she said, and the first time I saw her I knew she was trouble. She was about six feet tall and probably weighed 120 pounds. She had dark hair with perfectly spiraled curls and those abnormally full “model lips.” She was also wearing skintight suede pants with a halter top, cowboy boots, and a leather jacket that had a few too many spikes. Her skin was pale, and her huge brown eyes looked sunken into her face. She looked hungry. I almost felt like I was supposed to feed her, like she was a lost puppy or something.

Since my brother had already told her she could move in, I decided to give it a shot and welcomed her into our home. She and I actually talked a few times, when she wasn’t locked in her room or the bathroom we shared.

After approximately a week, the “men” started showing up. The first one, I thought, was for sure her dad. He looked to be at least in his 50s, and he was very polite. He came to pick up Ahn-jah-net for dinner and brought her home at a decent hour. That’s when she told me he was her “friend.” She had a lot of other “friends,” too. They came in all shapes and sizes, but most were at least ten years her senior.

and profanities that shocked even my not-so-virgin ears. This is normal behavior for a 54-year-old man, right? He lived in Southern California, and I never thought he’d actually come visit.

This man was scary. He had bushy, white hair and a fake tan and looked like a leaner version of my mean history teacher from high school. He stayed for a weekend, and Ahn-jah-net didn’t warn us he was coming. I didn’t even know he was there until I went to walk past her room toward the kitchen one morning and heard his voice inside as I approached. The door was open, so I glanced in. That’s when I saw him. He was standing there drunk

SHE WAS USING MY TOOTHPASTE. THEN I FOUND

BLACK CURLY HAIRS IN MY DEODORANT. (EEEW!)

Her “ex-husband” was the most memorable, though. He’d call and leave messages on her constantly too-loud answering machine at 3:00 a.m. When he’d find she wasn’t home, he would always go into a drunken bantering of curses and staggering, babbling on about some indescribable nonsense, wearing nothing but leopard-print bikini briefs. I never saw him again, thank God. I even stopped paying attention to her vast array of admirers. That’s probably about the time I had Personally, I have always believed common areas should be kept clean by all parties concerned. I also think the cost of "supplies" for such areas should be shared equally. Apparently Ahn-jah-net did not share my reasoning. At first it was

Then she was using my toothpaste. Then I found

Or how about, "Can you tell me where to find some feminine protection around here? Mine seems to have disappeared." I could actually feel my nerves grinding against each other. It wasn't pretty.

I felt personally invaded in a way I'd never imagined, but it didn't even come close to my next discovery — my wet toothbrush. Who in their right mind would use somebody else's toothbrush? Especially someone you don't know all that well? That is SO GROSS.

At that moment, my heart surged up into my throat, but rather than gag and possibly choke to death from the sheer nausea of knowing MY toothbrush had been in Ahn-jah-net's mouth (or worse, one of her "friends'" mouths), I went to the opposite extreme. I took everything out of there. I took my shower gel, my shampoo and conditioner in one, my deodorant, toothpaste, and everything in the bathroom, including toilet paper, and hid it in my room (which I locked). The only thing I left was the garbage can with the empty tampon box and defaced toothbrush in it and my towel and facecloth.

I figured she'd be forced into buying her own stuff. But for the last month I lived there, as I carried my toilet paper or toothbrush with me each time I needed to use that dreadful room, I found nothing. I had no idea what she'd been using for toilet paper. After a week I feared my towel or facecloth may have been elected and replaced them. What was she using to brush her teeth? WAS she brushing her teeth? Did she buy new bathroom stuff and keep it in her room, too? I didn't know. I never would have even looked in her room again for fear of what else I might see besides the hideous "ex" until... the kitten.

Ahn-jah-net brought home this little gray kitten that was way too young to be taken from its mother. She said she got it from her "friend" who lived up the coast. The little thing could fit in my hand, and I am a petite person. It couldn't even lift its own head up by itself for longer than a few seconds. So it would be logical to lock it in one's room with nothing but Purina Cat Chow and a newspaper with dirt on it, right? Ahn-jah-net thought so and left it home that weekend while she traveled back up the coast or wherever the hell she went.

The second she left, I opened the door to this sweet little meowing thing to let it out and spoon-feed it some milk (as I'd been doing for the past few days when Ahn-jah-net wasn't around). It was so tiny, though, I didn't think it was going to live. It slept with me that whole weekend, on my pillow.

During that final month I let Ahn-jah-net go ahead and think the kitten was here, that it was actually eating Cat Chow — but it was mine. Then she announced she would be moving out at the same time I did, back to her "ex-husband," as charming as he was. That was when I informed her that I was taking the kitten with me. She predictably didn't object. That was also when my brother's typewriter and binoculars "disappeared," and we never heard from Ahn-jah-net again. ■

Meat in the Belly; Meat on the Mind; Meat in the Cages

THE BIG STORM OF THE DAY BEFORE (30 NOVEMBER) marked the first time in its 66-year history bad weather closed the San Diego Zoo. Fifteen large trees blew down. Several animals panicked, crashed into concrete walls and wire fences. The Arabian oryx “yesterday had a shade tree, and today, a log,” the tour bus driver told passengers. “The oryx are delighted. They’ve been chewing eucalyptus leaves all day.”

No zebras came out. Big cats, including the Himalayan snow leopard, were shut away. Except for a lone polar bear, all bears were shut in. The tree kangaroos’ tree snapped. They stayed in. Giraffes were locked in the giraffe barn. “If a tree goes down when the giraffes are out front, they’ll go bananas and bolt...over, or into a wall. A lot of characteristics, like the ability to move instantly,” the driver told riders, among whom were soldiers from the Taiwanese Army, “don’t do animals in the zoo a whole lot of good.”

During midmorning of 1 December, weather came on like a jungle fever. In fits of shivering, recurring waves of storm continued to trouble the zoo. Shakes of racking, chilly wind carried rain, a rain that popped out like cold sweats. Between shudders and shivers that shook eucalyptus leaves off branches, that skittered leaves down sidewalks, a smooth sheet of flat calm (that offered, each time, to last forever) gave off odors: leaf and flower petal, mulch, popcorn, wet beast. This calm stretched tight as a drumhead between wind and rain squalls, and sounds bounced off its halcyon membrane, phosphoresced against cars like champagne bubbles, popping, will fizzle on noses, surprising and startling: quacking, clicking, hissing from ducks, guinea hens, peacocks that, in a rotogravure of bright feathers, shifted along the spongy earth, taking worms.

“Man is the animal,” German philosopher Martin Heidegger wrote, “who knows he must die.” On the night of 1 December, in Salt Lake City, Barney Clark, a 61-year-old dentist from Seattle, had been rushed into surgery. The Jarvik Model-7 aluminum-and-plastic heart, powered by pulses of compressed air, was implanted in Clark’s chest.

Clark’s heart transplant flung a landscape-chilling shadow, a black scarf, backward over the stormy day of 1 December. The TV newscast from Salt Lake City hummed basso continuo through the memories of the day. This deep thrumming resonated through the whole body. It vibrated cilia, burned and buzzed like dentist Clark’s drill. The cells shook like leaves. Above the rapidly throbbing bass, suspended in the day's memories like a hummingbird treading air at the lip of hibiscus, was this further item from the broadcaster's script: "The Marquis de Sade died on this day in 1814 in an asylum." In memory, this shadow, this heart news, stuck with de Sade's squill from history, mixes with storm, fallen leaves, and is stammered out in hideous leitmotifs, rapid-repeating attacks of god-awful weltschmerz. This Bad News, coming up from behind and reiterated, with wind and rain, after each slough of calm met,

All this became compounded from a day at the zoo. The compound was a mix of frustration with zoo, with self, and intensified as the day went on. The cage of the self would not open. The zoo...although barless...stayed behind bars; and self-imprisoned, increasingly tense, the longing to be at one with beast increased, a longing to get loose, for a six-pack of Budweiser and kick-ass rock and roll.

But the heart news was still twelve hours away; and the wind blew. Clark was not scheduled for surgery until the next day, and only because his blood pressure dropped perilously low and his own once-for-a-lifetime, disease-scarred heart developed a rapid irregular ventricular tachycardia that turned his skin sky-blue cyanotic, did the surgical team (that played Ravel's monomelodic, repetitive "Bolero" on a tape recorder during the eight-hour operation) take Clark in early, on Wednesday night.

Khaki-uniformed and civilian-dressed zoo employees hurried out of rain and cold wind into the warm, ivory-painted, brick-walled staff dining room. They ate 11 o'clock lunches of roast beef slices and brown gravy (meat in the belly; meat on the mind; meat in the cages). "Have you done your Christmas shopping yet?" asked the gray-suited man across the wood-laminate table. White, sectioned paper plates became ashtrays, gravy sopping cigarette butts, soaking down tobacco embers. The lavender-suited woman laughed, said, "Hey, is it Christmas Eve yet?"

You tell me why, what, keeps my stub-toed Frye boot from kicking, jabbing the open-toed lavender sandals, nylon-encased toes; what stays the hand from grabbing the gray-suit lapels, from turning that wood-laminate table over; what keeps the mouth, tongue from yowling, screaming, howling; what holds a person back from breaking out, breaking up, breaking loose. Those paper cups of coffee with Cremora stirred lazily in; those paper plates holding blobs of beefed-up broths of beast, gelatinizing and spiked with Viceroy butts, looking like a half-crown of thorns; they would have slipped, slid right onto the endlessly same vinyl-tiled floor. The khaki-dressed guard, hips rolling lasciviously in tight trousers and belly girdled, girded by the three-inch wide belt, would grab my arms at the wrist, grip the delicate bones, crunch them up behind the small of the back, growl, "What in hell are you doing, lady? Huh? HUH?" Don't tell me, "Fear of incarceration"; or that "good manners," consideration, Valium, or eons of civilization keep that set of nyloned-in toes unkicked. Don't. "Philosophy," Wittgenstein wrote, "unties knots in our thinking; hence its results must be simple; but philosophizing has to be as complicated as the knots it unties."

As long as two million years ago the hunt already offered more to hunters than food and skins. Hairy, shaggy votives, oblations, thank-offerings, Eucharists, expiations, scapegoats were slaughtered, flayed, burned, lifted up, adored. Hearts and livers and chitterlings were ritually shared, chewed, and swallowed. Animals mediated between sublunary and superlunary worlds, praising and evoking, thanking, glad-handing, subduing in every savannah, torn forest, woodland, grassland, rain forest, ocean beach, mountain range, mountaintop, lakefront, and chaparral.

Nine-month-old goat writhes, mews, bleats. Stretched across steaming altar stones, flesh heaves under the priest's blessing. The acolyte has scrubbed the dainty, pointed black hooves with pads of fruiting grass and water, from the river gurgling, foaming below the tree-canopied hill. The hooves glimmer. In the gray half-dark of early dawn, the flame crackles on fiery knots gripped by 12 adolescent catechumens. Light shine outlines the goat's gaze. His neck, no thicker than a wrist, arches back. His shuddering snakes in, around, the boys' higher-pitched bird-like aiieees. Then, the first breeze of dawn and voices rise, leaves shatter, and the little spine shakes as the priest severs the carotid. The reflected eyes roll. Bowels go. The penis stiffens. The acolyte, goat smell on his palms and bare, fuzz-haired chest, shivers in the knee-deep grass, dew stinging his bug bites.

Animals make intercession between man and his origin. The tree kangaroos' tree would still have fallen had you not been there. But that white goat, had you not been there, would not have lain across granite, nor the boy — his testicles drawn up in the early dawn cold — have scrubbed black hooves. Nor would you be at the zoo.

Diogenes of Sinope walked one morning in the Fourth Century B.C. through the calamitously noisy agora in Athens (to which he had been exiled). Hawkers competed, and shoppers wedged, elbowed up to stalls of heaped cloth, garlicks, amphoras of oil, ready-to-kill tethered lambs. Dins of commerce stung Diogenes like black flies, produced a cacophonous lick of pinpoint agonies along the harp of his inner ear. Standing in the mid-morning sunshine, his very being seemed to drain from head to heart to sandaled feet, like warm bath water.

How many moments passed in this ontologic eclipse, Diogenes would say later, "I never knew." The ammoniac scent of lamb piss, like a smelling salt, brought back his name, his purpose, to his flesh. "That lamb," he pointed to a hobbled beast, "is closer to reality than this." A sweep of hand indicated sellers and shoppers.

"But how else could we live, except according to the custom of our times?" Diogenes's protégé asked.

"By the laws of nature. Go back to them," Diogenes said, lamb piss smell detonating like a broken-open popper, vibrating hairs in his flaring nostrils. "Abandon all that man added to nature, everything man invented or discovered. Live like the dogs live."

Diogenes undressed, strode out into the Athenian countryside, dug a shallow hole and let his bowels luxuriously, inch-by-inch, move out a fecal coil, and near where whorls of cypress hung off lichenous hillsides, Diogenes found a discarded wine bottle the size of a modern-day packing box, and took up house-keeping within the green glass. He lapped water from ditches, as cattle do, took his foods raw, and women where he found them, and from behind.

Diogenes-the-Dog, he came to be called. From the Greek, for dog ... kunos ... came his appellation, and that of his followers: Cynics. Diogenes is one of the first men listed by the scholar George Boas among those from whom Boas in 1933 coined the term "theriophilic," meaning, Boas says, "those who admire animals, and their ways."

Gregory of Nyssa, born 650 years after Diogenes, and the first person to use the simile of the fishhook by which the Devil was baited, reflects the change, on an officially codified level in the years after Christ, of man's view of animals. "The animals' state of nature," Gregory wrote, "is indeed pathetic. What is more pitiful than to be deprived of reason? And yet they have no awareness of their misery, and they pass their lives in a sort of pleasure. The horses prance, the bull raises the dust, the boar's back bristles, puppies play and calves frolic. We can see each species of animal expressing their pleasure in different ways. Yet if they had any inkling of the gift of reason, they would not pass their dumb and miserable lives in pleasure."

Gregory's gold-and-cobalt-blue, illuminated notes mark the effort, underway on an official level, to quash man's fleshly instincts in order that his ethereal qualities might be forced heavenward, ahead of schedule, precisely as florists force lilies to bloom in time for Easter. The church doctors encouraged a rapid rise from Adam to angel by giving their blessing to an anorexia of the instincts while at the same time spoon-feeding hormones to the spindly soul. The Dark Ages was thus lit by a greenhouse effect. On the books, at least, it was a bad time for animals...for the animal within.

It got worse almost a thousand years later and a thousand miles away in the village of Montailou, a Pyrenees town between France and Spain. Jacques Fournier, Bishop of Palmiers (1318-1325), became determined to burn the last of the Albigensian heretics. To this end he launched a rigorous inquisition, taking depositions which still survive.

Bernard Benet informed the inquisitor, "Guillaume Bélot brought Guillaume Authé the heretic to the place where my father, Guillaume Benet, lay ill. It was in the part of the house where cattle slept." Montailouans did not shave, bathe, or swim. Delousing was an ingredient of intimacy. The heretical woman, Guillemette Benet, who shut her oxen up in the living room after they came home from plowing, was sitting on the flat roof being deloused by her daughter when Vuissane Tesaniere passed by and reported this conversation to the inquisitor: "Guillemette was asking, 'How can people manage to bear the pain when they are burning at the stake?' To which her daughter replied, 'Ignorant creature! God takes the pain upon himself, of course!'"

Descartes, in the 1600s, sat before his wood stove and came out with, Cogito, ergo sum. "I think, therefore I am." "Descartes," art critic John Berger writes, "internalized, within man, the dualism implied in the human relation to animals. In dividing absolutely body from soul, he bequeathed the body to the laws of physics and mechanics, and, since animals were soulless, the animal was reduced to the model of a machine."

A century later, in 1781, the composer Mozart is faced with his father's disapproval of his choice of brides. Ingenuously, young Mozart uses the Cartesian argument as a mode for frightening his father, telling Papa Mozart that it's better to marry a woman disliked by the family than to burn.

tones, derby curling upward around the brim, wrinkles cutting his cheeks. Imagine his beard, white, a snow-frosted spade covering all but the tips of his cloak's velvet collar. The cloak is buttoned and his hands rest inside its warmth, laying across his belly, comforting the writhing intestines with rhythmic pats, mothering his pain.

He is being photographed. He arranges himself to be seen. He imagines himself, in the portrait, not as he believes he is but as he wishes to be remembered.

He paces the figured carpet in his study late at night. Upstairs, his family sleeps. He hears the finches. We call them, now, "Darwin's finches." Imagine them in sepia tones, on the islands of Galapagos Archipelago, stippled with olives, grays, blacks. The beaks are in sizes from small to large and of varying shapes.

Home again in England, considering those finches, Darwin added this sentence to his journal: "Seeing this gradation and diversity of structure in one small, intimately related groups of birds, one might really fancy that from an original paucity of birds in this archipelago one species had taken and modified for different ends." To his friend, the botanist J.D. Hooker, Darwin said, when On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection was finally published in 1859: "I am almost convinced (quite contrary to the opinion I started with) that species are not (it is like confessing to murder) immutable." Since that date, the horizon against which men lived would continue to look, apparently, just the same. But for an increasing number of persons who considered Darwin's reflections, the flesh of man, the meat itself, had suddenly become tainted. The lump of clay that God had fashioned into his own image had blown his breath into, was, after all, only a hairy, foul-smelling, knuckle-dragging, lusty, inchoate ape.

On that intermittently stormy late morning at the zoo, wind blowing cold, carrying birds' chirps, twitters, and phew-ees; and mulch, dank, rain-soaked, wet leaf-rot odors thick as fudge and calling, drawing your senses forward, you know there surely is a reason you find yourself in front of those peccaries, who are rooting and snorting in the dark mud. Barney Clark's heartlessness still in the future; the lavender-suited woman's Christmas shopping still to be done; and all here and all there: behind glass, behind moats, behind fences...the fur, the fins, thick hair, and scales, feet, hands, noses, eyes, stomachs, lungs, hearts, breasts, sexual organs, kidneys, knees transmogrified (across eons of beasts adapting and modifying, species you will never see) into your own modified meatiness (meat stacked, century after century, atop meat), hauling, carrying upright, on two legs! Your past.

You cherish your fleshy heritage. You don't find it difficult to agree with old man Huxley that ape is often preferable to a bishop, and doesn't all that meat feel good, as you think of yourself with roots, embedded in five million years of steaks-and-ribs?

You're hardly able, though, to look. Since Descartes, since Galileo, since Newton's mechanics, into the increasingly noisy and speeded-up years of the Industrial Revolution, animals begin more and more to be observed...wistfully, nostalgically. The rub is, there's no rub. Detached from interiors of homes, from nearby barns and courtyards, from ethical and theological preoccupations, the animal becomes a distant object (within yourself, still—as Mozart's father had once suggested to young Amadeus—to be subdued, tamped down, strangled), even exotic and now endangered...and, becomes too only another dry taxonomical stored fact; or, inherited jitters, expressed along the autonomic nervous system, about mice, snakes, rats, loons, spiders, hyenas, wolves. Animals decreased in numbers, and kind, on the everyday landscape, moving out of fields and off roads, onto factory-farms that clack with the speed and efficiency of assembly lines, into houses as pets (in the 16th Century, the word pet still referred to a "lamb, raised by hand"),

Lipo-Dissolve

New nonsurgical treatment to eliminate unwanted fat

- Safe and effective alternative to liposuction
- Lose inches and gain tone in 5 treatments or less
- Highly effective spot reduction treatment for these areas:
  - hips, thighs, saddlebags, abdomen
  - neck and throat area (meso-lift) and those under-eye fat pads
  - excessive male breast tissue
- All with safe, low-pain injection system that melts away fat and takes only 20-30 minutes per treatment

Ron Rothenberg, M.D., was the first doctor in San Diego County to be certified in Mesotherapy (since 2003) and is now offering the new, revolutionary treatment:

Lipo-Dissolve. Because of his cutting-edge medical knowledge and experience, Dr. Rothenberg has been named Director of Medical Education for the American Board of Mesotherapy.

into zoos and menageries as exhibits... "mementoes," John Berger calls them, "of the outside world."

In the official canons of cultural life, the anthropomorphic string between man and beast strains and weakens. The beast as "messenger and promise" gives way to methods of phenomenological observation that, by eliminating the human equation, create precise, accurate descriptions of natural, animal, meat-and-biology events. The mythic beast of the mind — unicorn, gargoyle, dragon — nixed... falls off churches and takes up homes in cartoons and comic books. The miraculous deific interventions — zilched, Xed out of mind, and limited by the new rules of experimentation and inference — become sleek, uncluttered, objective, factual descriptions of the beast.

You're hardly able to look. A ripping-open of clouds lets slits of light through the overcast. Staring into the bison's big brown Bette Davis eyes, you think you should feel passionately with, about, for animals; and are surging with sugary sentiment at gilt-edged memories of nativity-painting bovines and belching at the hot dog breaking down in your stomach acids. You are past Darwin, post-Darwin, fallen king of the evolutionary heap.

Pick yourself up, look backward a moment to de Sade's calculus of ritual cruelties, flipping through his journal ecrits, each amorous experiment with biologically induced anguish as neatly chronicled as in any laboratory, you see de Sade's need to rouse himself... and you... with pain, with punishment, comes logically from Descartes' unsettling woodstove pronouncement, Gregory of Nyssa's pre-emptory mortal's grab for the immortal soul. De Sade's albeit extreme response to these pairings of body from soul, from mind — flesh and five senses as numbed as if Barney Clark had injected Procaine from head to heart to toe — make sense. De Sade's need to see your blood run, apertures pried open, turning your body's secrets inside-out, is only simpleminded roguishness then. This roguishness is an anguish born of philosophy and applied to harnessed buttocks with an aristocratic whiplash. De Sade's nipple-pinchers are just random pieces in a parlor game for rainy afternoons compared to the carnival of tortured meat coming up: a Mardi Gras clatter of agonized amino-acid strings of DNA pulled tight to breaking and sounding out screams higher even than a dog's whistle, above Buchenwald, Ravensbruck, Babi Yar, Dachau, that cataclysm as a race became beasts, soulless flesh, its skins stretched for lampshades, and the light, twinkling through pores, now picks out once-distant figures on the far walls of dark rooms, and we enjoy evenings, by lamplight.

"Everyone's got a mean streak," the cracker-barrel pragmatist suggests. After World War II we are no longer so sure where we stand in relation to animals. The war opens up geographies, like veins, alters European imperialisms and white-is-right dogmatisms all through Asia and Africa and leaves us reeling, dizzy. The Einsteinian version of relativity, as much as Darwin's finches (or more?? ...tell me), knock the back wall of our minds away. With his new dethronement from our seat on the human/historical meridian, our fall from polar-north absolutism, our orthodoxies built on an assured space-and-time-for-sureness, a dizziness, vertigo, syncope, and then nausea takes over. The body, then, is only habits, lumps, bunions, ingrown toenails, objectless libidinal longings, obsessions that center down in mouths and sexual organs and hands and play like a struck record, cancers and precancers: a scaffolding...stinking of chemically deodorized fear-sweats built up in poreless dacrons, orions, miracle fabrics that cover the vaguely guilty conscience. Contingency-freaked, gun-shy wanderers, whom Sartre catches in moments of observing one another drowning in shame, the bond between us an honor among thieves, you tell me why, at the zoo, it is almost impossible to look, to let the outside in. You tell me what keeps that Frye boot on its own side of the table, that stays the hand, that keeps the exhausted, habituated, always liminally provoked flesh from splitting its seams and yowling.

Americans keep 40 million dogs, 40 million cats, 15 million cage birds, 10 million other pets. The household pet continues to multiply rather than dissipate. In the pet's overbred crookedness and increasingly eccentric exterior anatomy, it is withdrawn with us into our urban and suburban cages. The pet is isolated from others of its species, fed with canned foods, as bound from natural movements as T'ang dynasty maidens, and conditioned through its dependence on an owner to jitter right along with him or her as habitually, as slavishly as a Pavlov-trained junkie subliminally echoes the moves of his or her connection. The reciprocity between owner and pet is only a series of behaviors, "tricks" the pet learns for a bowl of water and chow. It's one of those relationships about which we say, when it exists between would-be lovers, "It can't possibly go anywhere."

Zoos are nothing new. The Chou dynasty in 100 B.C. kept a zoo, called "Intelligence Park." Ancient Greeks and Romans caged lions, tigers, leopards, bears, elephants, giraffes, camels, rhinos, hippos, ostriches, crocodiles for slaughter in gladiatorial contests, a practice that was halted during the late-300 A.D. reign of Emperor Theodosius, in the time of that theriophobic Gregory of Nyssa. Renaissance explorers brought back a bounty of animals and "wild men" as trophies, souvenirs from still uncharted lands. In 1100 Henry I established a menagerie in Oxfordshire; Henry III moved the menagerie to the London Tower, where it remained until 1828. Montezuma established zoological gardens at Tezuc in the middle of the 15th Century. Cortez came upon aviaries and fishponds at Itzta-palapan. The French, helped by Cairo, maintained animal collections over four centuries, only to come close to losing them to the fury of the hungry 19th-century revolutionary mob.

The San Diego Zoological Garden exhibits a wild animal collection of more than 5000 individual animals representing more than 1300 species. Founded in 1916 in Balboa Park by Dr. Harry Wegeforth, with "a half-dozen moth-eaten monkeys, coyotes, and bears left over from the Panama-California International Exposition," the design of the San Diego Zoo emphasizes natural settings and eschews cages, taking advantage of topography, using deep canyons and isolated mesas to make caging of even large cats and bears unnecessary.

But for all that, you can still hardly bear to look. You walk the glassed-in rows of lemurs, toward the gorilla canyon, back toward the arcaded walkway of the reptile house. Like the museum wanderer, you stride past icons in whom the perceived is presented for worship and the act of perception stays numb. Your eyes glaze over. You can't get out. God knows, you can't adore. The zoo, even this zoo, conjures up memory...flickering on the back wall of the mind, of something that is absent, that once was and is now, no more. The lemur, prowling behind the glass, swinging, shaking small ticks...the serpents coiled in sands, look like framed pictures, like prize collections of found objects. You see only memorializations. Like the photo of the beloved, faded; or the lock of hair shut into a locket; the lemur or the serpent is a remembrance of things past, of better days...tragically, carelessly ended. You simply can't make yourself, you won't look. You want out.

Clark in Salt Lake turning more sky blue and more breathless, his heart and lungs drowning in his own fluids, and the wind blowing cold across a fretful, tropically effulgent landscape in San Diego, this desire to get out, to break through the distance between you and the beast — beast in the cage and beast in yourself — increases the uneasy pitch of your gait. The too-tight Frye boot pinches. You wince. Pain erases, for the few blocks' walk down through zoo paths toward Goat Canyon, your sense of physical fragility and mortality, your bloodlust, blood guilt, and the meat dissolving in your gut. But that pinch, that indigestion, raises the pressure, provoking your interiorized violence. The instinct that fear and fury rouses in you never fleshes out in large gestures; it simmers, keeps your teeth grinding — not grinding the gristle of the kill, but the worry in your mind. You are locked behind your own doors, and ready to kill.

The "old" zoo of cages and bars, even this zoo of moats, glass, precipitous canyons, reminds you of prisons' symbiosis between guard and guarded. It reminds you that ferality, and ferality's inherently uncontrollable chanciness, has moved into the man-made: into the fissionable materials of mass weaponry; into cars and trucks; onto the TV screen, where wild animal shows and massacres spill out moving pictures of beasts and wars onto the family room's figured carpet, domesticating beasts and taming battles in the cat piss-stinking suburban house or urban apartment. The zoo, even this zoo, reminds you that you have become as accustomed, and as fearless and disinterested, toward black bears as to massacres.

No wonder. The classic mono-animal exhibit, portraiture, is presented as an iconic beastly prima donna. Its paradigm is the individual of the Roman era — an enthroned stage-front quiddity of its species, the quintessential and representative lion, leopard, or lemur. The mono-animal exhibition also cuts the animal out of its specific environment, its normal impression of who, of what, the viewed animal is — both for itself and for the world at large.

Walking through a traditionally planned zoo, your confusion about who you are, what nature is, what/who beast is, begins, not surprisingly, to become the one thing that does come into clear focus. Not only all that, and past and present, but there is this problem of looking. Everything about the mono-animal travels toward the eye (in proper perspective) arranged, John Berger writes, "for the spectator as the universe was once thought to be arranged for God," which is not, any longer your stance in, on, the world.

Add to this that your eyes are not much good any longer, either physically or morally. Capacity to concentrate on any object that does not, rather immediately, speak up to tell a story or to hand out a reward — that's shot. We focus on thirty-, sixty-, ninety-minute-long stories suspended in a jelly of microdots, trapped within a console frame from which every motion, color, and image converges pleasingly, processing into the eye, as if into the vanishing point of infinity.

Go look at King Tut, the San Diego Zoo's white salmon-crested cockatoo that is brought out each morning sitting on a keeper's finger and set on a perch at the zoo's front gate. Look hard. Look for all you are worth. Then, close your eyes. Try to see him. What you remember is not what you see, but the names of the things you see, helped along by stories and prizes. You carry only the memory of yourself, looking at King Tut...you sitting on the inside, looking out.

Part of looking is longing. Part of looking is trying to bridge gaps, to overcome distances between looker and looked-at, between lookers, and looking-at. You look, and longing washes over you. You have seen nothing yet, at the zoo. You know it. You no longer, by midafternoon, have any heart for the shaggy brown animals; and the snakes, curled in front of their painted backdrops, frighten you, not because of who they are fabulized to be, but because of who you are; and the birds seem to hop incessantly, to make long piercing scratches behind your temples. The zebras are put away; and the giraffes are locked in the giraffe barn; and the wind is cold. You want to look at elephants, and have twice now, walked past the yard, and can hardly bear to look their way.

By December the light begins to go by four in the afternoon. On the first of December, with clouds thick along the Pacific coast, the degrees of fade were few, and subtle, along the spectrum between light and darkness. Except for the violet light, you would hardly know twilight had taken midday's space. The wind came up again. The two days' fallen leaves scudded along the tiles set by hand into the walkway of the reptile house arcade. Peacocks swept across the leaves, tall feathers ground level, swishing sibilantly across the stems, the leaf edges. The walkway, by then, no longer echoed with visitors' footsteps, conversation, giggling. Even the Taiwanese

Far back in the violet-hued distance, a chainsaw whined; and below the violet, the freeway filled with the beginnings of workday traffic, going home. A zoo employee walked by, whistling.

The light from exhibition boxes glimmered. You do not want to get up from the red granite bench, walk to the wall, lean against the tiles, look; and even less so after you read the sign. "Venomous serpents are indicated by a red dot."

The fear that you will bite is as fear-provoking as your fear of being bitten. You edge to the lit window of Crotalus ruber ruber. The eye does not "glitter malev-olently." How increasingly, this day at the zoo, what you see is what you are.

"Ruber, ruber," you love to say it. "Rue-burr, roooberr..." and with the arcade cleared of the day's visitors, and the whistling now far off in the violet, purpling distance, you say, sing, "Ruber ruber ruber crotalus ruber ruber." How though, to get past the name of the thing, as past the joyousness of saying it, to the thing itself.

Because you are disappointed. You are dismayed by your pathetic need for speech. Earlier that afternoon, during a break in the clouds, you ran toward the macaw, hearing its "Hello, hello, hello," to a sailor and his girl.

Perhaps nothing shows the shattered instinct, the historic and personal damage in human persons, as much as our inability to see beyond the animal in the mind to the beast in the cage, to see past the name of the thing itself being there to look...to see the mountain, a poet suggested, for what it is. Not as a reflection of oneself.

Walking through the zoo all that late morning, all afternoon, walking and watching your fellow watchers, all going in pairs and groups of four, five, your heart falls. One visitor read the sign that identifies the animal. The other, or others, cursorily examine the enclosure, then shuffle on to the next beast, as if drawn ahead by an invisible square-dance caller. "To see," the poet Valery wrote, "is to forget the name of the thing one sees."

Overnight, in Salt Lake City, Barney Clark's heart came out, and by morning, he was sipping water. His blood pressure was "that of a seventeen-year-old," and you suppose that the surgical team has turned off "Bolero" and, at least in shifts, are sleeping. The sun came up in San Diego, into cloudless skies. Eucalyptus leaves lay still; the giraffes were let out of the giraffe barn; tree kangaroos were out, and the big cats, the bears, the gorillas. Out in the renovated 14,000-square-foot rain forest aviary, a keeper was washing down the concrete with ammonia-and-water solution.

This aviary, part of the new, "Heart of the Zoo," is "more than a facelift," zoo public relations writer Jeff Jouett wrote in the October, 1982 ZooNoz. It is, he asserted, "a subliminal lesson in geography — and a peek at the San Diego Zoo of the 21st Century. At work here are the concepts of visitor and animal interaction that will make a big difference in what you see at the zoo of the future and how you will see it."

Under a 45-foot-high vault of almost invisible wire, sunlight shining down through the trees that form a rain forest canopy, bird-songs pop out from among the clusters of leaves, from along the edge of the steadily pouring waterfall, and set down, twitch tail feathers, fly.

A red wattlebird sits on your shoulder, pecks at your pearl earring. You can look up, down, right, left, forward, and behind. There is no "special" spot at which to stand, no "viewing," no "lookout," no center that will or will not hold. You are not the center toward which anything converges. You are also there. Your shoulders slacken, relax.

This rain forest aviary, and the more recently built Whittier Southeast Asia exhibits, immerse zoo visitors in landscaping and sounds, smells, colors, shapes of beast and bird, invite the upright human figure to inhabit equally the zoo's newest re-creation. The conviviality, restored between man and beast in this human inclusive new Heart of the Zoo, expands into gregariousness thirty miles north in the hills of the eleven-year-old Wild Animal Park. More than

When the 948-foot-high Eiffel Tower was completed in 1889 for the Paris Exposition, most of the persons who climbed to its top had never before seen the world from such a vantage. Standing on the hiking trail above the two-acre Wild Animal Park Asian elephant yard, a visitor may, for the first time, not look at an elephant across a horizontally lined distance. Gazing down at the roaming herd of eight female elephants, the bottom begins to drop out of the bad times gathered up like fur balls caught in the throat. It's a two-Buds hit, there, a two-beat twitch that starts up the legs and travels, tickles, taps out its code on the glands, hits the arteries with honey, and pumps out one slowly swelling you-just-can't-help-but-do-it moment (born, not made!) that wise men bring gifts to. The switch goes off in the big head that's been minding matter, that's been trying to kick-start the numb heart into life. The beast is back.

The long, stout columnar front limbs and sloping hindquarters shift, shuffling. The chair-cushion-size feet pad softly across dust and wood shavings, the soles of the feet expanding beneath five-ton body weights. The elephants walk with a light step, scarcely leaving any tracks. The eight-foot-long trunks toss dirt and shavings up, over and across the powerful heads onto massive, sparsely haired backs. Sunlight picks up the minute dust-and-wood particulates that barb the bristle ends. Sunlight halos the elephants with auburn, russet aureoles.

"It ain't the meat, it's the motion that makes your mamma wanna rock." Sitting astride 17-year-old, 10,000-pound Mary, safely steady, straddled across her broad back, rocked gently by her measured padding up the trail, slowly, then down through archways of laced treetops, the distance is crossed, the longing met.

The meat is hot.

The sun is up to high noon in a pure-blue sky. Radiance lights up handwriting on the horizon...written in rub, in fleshy, hairy Braille, and reads to all five senses.

This is the sweet butter sunlight after the storm that melts in the mouth and slides down, that soothes the history-frayed nerve smooth and makes me forget yesterday's chill, yesterday's news, yesterday's wind and rain squalls. If you will stand on the hiking trail above the elephant yard and look down at the halos shimmering above those beasts, if you will believe only for a moment that all this happened, if you will reflect on the fact that up in Salt Lake City Barney Clark has a brand-new heart, you could know that right now, to be on this elephant, I've got honey in the mouth, and can only offer, "Life is as good as it ever has to be. For now." ■

Bay Parade of Lights

At the start of each February, organizers for San Diego's Parade of Lights put the event's theme for the coming year on their website. "That's when we start to make drawings of our 41-foot Hatteras," says Dick Wold, who is president of the Chula Vista Yacht Club and has participated in the parade for the past eight years. "We do that off and on until summer, when I start building things at home. During Thanksgiving weekend, I take the parts to the boat and assemble them there. If the display is too big — we've done a volcano and a 24-foot Eiffel Tower — then I construct everything on the boat."

After all that work several years ago, says Wold, "our 5.5-kilowatt generator died five minutes before the parade started, and we couldn't go. It was very disappointing." But Wold scrambled, ordering a starter motor that was overnight-freighted from Chicago in the nick of time, and his team made the second sailing a week later.

"Aloha Holiday" is the theme for this year's Parade of Lights, which had its first sailing on Sunday. People can catch the second this Sunday, December 19. The parade is staged by the Port of San Diego. It starts at the west end of Shelter Island and ends in front of the Coronado public docks at Peohe's Restaurant. The best places to watch the parade are at the north and south ends of the Embarcadero, the park behind Seaport Village, and the bayfront walkway on Coronado.

Organizing committee chairman David Bond says that a group of boaters casually initiated the parade 33 years ago with 10 to 20 boats. In 2001, "with the economic impact of September 11," he says, "our sponsorship dried up and, five days before the event, we started planning to cancel it. We're on a shoestring budget. But the Port and the Science Applications International Corporation gave us the money we needed with one day to go."

"So we've never had to cancel," adds Bond, who cites heavy fog and light rain as the main obstacles to parades past. "Of course, we would cancel for safety reasons," he says. "But there have been no accidents, although 60 to 100 boats milling about to line up for the start is quite an adventure." One glitch Bond remembers is when a competitor's lighting went out as his boat approached a judging station.

Do boaters from other California communities enter San Diego's parade? "No," Bond tells me, "these events have become popular in harbors up and down California. So only local boaters participate in ours. What people do is take PVC pipe and bendable material to create a framework they like. They attach that to the boat and put the lighting on the frame. But there are more than lights. When we used the theme of 'Christmas Around the World' one year, a boat had a big globe on it."

"I've decorated things all my life," says Dick Wold, who won first place several years ago. "When we had a theme of 'Christmas Under the Sea,' our lighting created the effect of a carousel turning and figures going up and down on it. We always try to have animated elements on the boat. They either move physically or the lights make it appear that they do."

Two parade entrants at opposite ends of the spectrum have fascinated Wold in recent years. The first is the Eagle II, a huge yacht "that has a helicopter sitting on the roof of its aft deck. The guy decorates the helicopter, too," says Wold, "and he does a nice job."

The second was the kayak club that towed a sailboat. "Three or four guys paddled their kayaks in front of a 16-foot Hobie Cat. It was a kind of an ecological statement. But at the end of the parade, they were exhausted. I don't think they'll do it again," says Wold.

I ask Wold about differences between the Parade of Lights and Pasadena's Rose Parade. "It's less that ours is on the water than that it's at nighttime," he says. "Rose Parade floats have all those pretty flowers. In darkness you don't see any of our superstructure, and we paint our wires black. Seeing my boat in the daytime is not a pretty sight."

OUTDOORS

Winter Solstice, the moment when the sun reaches its southernmost point on the celestial sphere, occurs this year at 4:42 a.m., Tuesday, December 21. The event signals the beginning of winter in the Northern Hemisphere and the beginning of summer in the Southern Hemisphere. With only about 10 hours of daylight, San Diego must endure its darkest and gloomiest nights this week and next. During the day, the sun struggles to an altitude of only 34 degrees (as seen from San Diego), then relatively quickly sinks toward the horizon.

Poinsettias, a favorite of backyard gardeners, are now exhibiting their scarlet, petal-like bracts, just in time for the holidays. The onset of 14-hour-long nights triggers their behavior: In San Diego this condition is met just before the date of winter solstice — Tuesday, December 21.

Toyon, or "Christmas berry," one of the more distinctive shrubs of southern California's native chaparral plant community, has begun to flaunt clusters of red berries. Hollywood (California) derives its name from the holly-like appearance of this plant. Here in coastal San Diego, toyon can usually be found wherever large patches of native vegetation survive, but especially in the thick chaparral covering some north-facing slopes. Toyon branches may look inviting to cut as a Christmas wreath — but they're protected by California state law.

The Elusive Planet Mercury begins an excellent stint as a "morning star" next week. Look for it low over the east-southeast horizon between 5:30 and 5:45 a.m. Don't confuse Mercury with nearby Venus, which is about 40 times brighter than Mercury. At dawn on Monday, December 27, the two planets will lie quite close to each other, with Mercury 1.5 degrees to the left of Venus.

"Rains Aftermath" is theme for talk and hike led by Dave Dyer exploring effects of winter rains on plant recovery and soil erosion on Saturday, December 18, 9 a.m., at Batiquitos Lagoon Nature Center (7380 Gabbiano Lane). Free. 760-931-0800. (CARLSBAD)

Help Remove Exotic Weeds and plant native vegetation during the Black Mountain trail restoration work party, Saturday, December 18, 8 a.m. to noon. Wear work clothes, hiking boots. Bring water. Directions: 858-538-8082. Free. (RANCHO PENASQUITOS)

Hike Through a Variety of Terrains and past a waterfall when Canyoneers take easy hike around Lake Hodges and Piedras Pintadas on Saturday, December 18, 1 p.m. Take West Bernardo Drive/Pomerado Road exit off I-15, head south on West Bernardo Drive. Turn off to right at signed Bernardo Bay Natural Area (park in lot). Free. 619-232-3821 x203. (RANCHO BERNARDO)

Rocks, Quakes, Common Plants provide theme for moderately strenuous five-mile hike led by naturalist Jack Pomeroy on Saturday, December 18, in Daley Ranch. Adventure begins at 8:30 a.m. at main entrance on La Honda Drive. Bring water, wear hiking boots. Reservations: 760-839-4680. Free. (ESCONDIDO)

In Search of Migrating Shorebirds and Ducks, Friends of Famosa Slough lead an outing on Saturday, December 18. Easy walk with variety of birds and views of salt marsh habitat. Meet at 1 p.m.

Roam-O-Rama

A Guide to Unexpected San Diego and Beyond • By Jerry Schad

Crouching in the rain shadow of the slightly higher Cuyamaca range, the Laguna Mountains still manage to collect a respectable share of precipitation. Some 30 inches of rain (and melted snow) might arrive here over the length of the present rainfall season. This is barely enough precipitation to support a fairly uniform cover of Jeffrey pines and black oaks at the higher elevations. In at least one area, Agua Dulce Creek, these two types of trees are joined by a third: incense cedar.

By following the directions given here, you can piece together a rewarding spring, summer, or fall loop hike down along Agua

Dulce Creek and across Laguna Meadow. When snow falls at 5000 feet elevation or lower — as it may two or three times over the next two months — the same looping route becomes excellent for cross-country skiing.

Start hiking or skiing near the Meadows Information Station, mile 19.1 along Sunrise Highway (about 5.5 miles up from Interstate 8), where plenty of parking space is available on the wide road shoulder. Be sure to display a National Forest Adventure Pass on your parked car.

Proceed 0.2 mile uphill, off the road but parallel to it, to the second gated road intersecting Sunrise Highway on the north. That road is a segment of the “Old County Road” which was replaced by the wider, straighter Sunrise Highway several decades ago. Follow the crumbling macadam (or smooth snow-covered) surface gradually uphill through serene oak and pine forest.

After 1.5 miles, where the old road reaches a crest and begins a slight descent, look for a gap in the barbed-wire fence on the left. Follow the dirt road going through that gap and veer right soon afterward to stay on the main road. A short, somewhat steep descent then takes you to the Agua Dulce Creek ravine bottom. Press on for another 1.5 miles, paralleling the creek heading north, until you reach a disused pump-house, part of the infrastructure for the former Mount Laguna Air Force radar station.

Push on ahead through a small meadow and bear left into Boiling Spring Ravine. Hook up with the well-worn Big Laguna Trail on the ravine’s far side and follow it westward toward the broad south arm of Laguna Meadow, which lies a short distance away. After passing through a gate at the edge of the meadow, leave the main trail and stay to the left side of the meadow. Work your way generally south or southwest, bypassing a cluster of buildings and corrals at the Laguna Ranch. Ahead and farther south lies Sunrise Highway and your starting point.

Crossing the meadow on skis is straightforward, as long as there are several inches of snow on the ground. By late winter or early spring, though, you’ll encounter soggy or muddy ground. During the warmer months, the meadow is dry and firm. Several dozen head of cattle graze here in summer, but they seldom take much heed of passing hikers.

DANCE

King Biscuit Revue performs for holiday swing dance party on Friday, December 17, at Encinitas Elks Lodge (1393 Windsor Road). Dancing: 7:30 to 11 p.m.; dinner 7 to 9 p.m. Singles, couples. $10 (pasta dinner: $5). 760-753-2243. (CARDIFF)

Contradance to tunes by Lime in the Harp, calling by Martha Wild on Friday, December 17, at Trinity United Methodist Church (3030 Thorn Street). Dancing begins at 8 p.m., following beginners’ instruction at 7:45 p.m. Admission: $8. Wear soft-soled shoes. 619-283-8550. (NORTH PARK)

A Plethora of Nutcrackers! San Diego Ballet presents “fast-paced production” of the classic ballet December 17-19 in UCSD’s

Mandeville Auditorium. Enjoy The Nutcracker at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday; at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday; and again at 5:30 p.m. on Sunday. $27 general. 619-294-7311. (LA JOLLA)

The Ballet Conservatory presents The Nutcracker, December 17-19 at Ruth French Chapman Performing Arts Center (at Eastlake High School, 1120 Eastlake Parkway). Shows featuring casts of children at 6 p.m. on Friday, 2 p.m. on Sunday; company shows offered at 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. $12 general, $10 children 12 and under. 619-737-9890. (CHULA VISTA)

A “seasoned cast of 160 including three guest artists” is promised when California Ballet Company performs Nutcrackers December 18-22 at San Diego Civic Theatre (1100 Third Avenue). Performances begin at 2:30 and 8 p.m. on Saturday; 1 and 5:30 p.m. on Sunday; 2:30 and 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 21 and 22. Adults: $35-$75; children: $20. 858-560-6741. (DOWNTOWN)

“Professional costumes from the Oakland Ballet” grace dancers in The Nutcracker presented by San Elijo Dance and Music Academy, December 20 and 21, at Poway Center for Performing Arts (15498 Espola Road). Curtain rises at 7 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, with 2 p.m. matinee on Tuesday. $12-$24. 858-748-0505. (POWAY)

CHRISTMAS POEMS

The Oxen

Christmas Eve, and twelve of the clock.
“Now they are all on their knees,”
An elder said as we sat in a flock
By the embers in hearthside ease.

We pictured the meek mild creatures where They dwelt in their strawy pen,
Nor did it occur to one of us there
To doubt they were kneeling then.

So fair a fancy few would weave
In these years! Yet, I feel,
If someone said on Christmas Eve,
“Come; see the oxen kneel,

“In the lonely barton by yonder coomb

Our childhood used to know,”
I should go with him in the gloom,
Hoping it might be so.

— Thomas Hardy

Skating in Harlem, Christmas Day

To Mary Jo Salter

Beyond the ice-bound stones and bucking trees, past bewildered Mary, the Meer in snow, two skating rinks and two black crooked paths are a battered pair of reading glasses scratched by the skater's multiplying math.

Beset, I play this game of tic-tac-toe.

Divide, subtract. Who can tell if love surpasses?
Two naughts we've learned make one astonished —
a hectic night of goats and compasses.

Folly tells the truth by what it's not — one X equals a fall I'd not forgo.
Are ice and fire the integers we've got?

Skating backwards tells another story —
the risky star above the freezing town, a way to walk on water and not drown.

— by Cynthia Zarin

Heritage of the Americas Museum, more than 100 Chinese jades of the Late Neolithic (4300-2500 B.C.) through the Ming periods (1368-1644 A.D.) are included in “The Stone of Heaven: The Enduring Art of Jade Age China.” From ancient times, jades in China were treasured as talismans, worn on the body either as final adornments in death or as ornaments in life. See a rare and valuable jade burial suit of the Han dynasty (206 B.C. to 221 A.D.), one of only about two dozen that have been excavated in China. The suits were made of more than 2000 square and rectangular plates of jade sewn together with threads of gold, silver, or bronze (depending upon the status of the wearer). Ongoing.

The museum features art and artifacts from South and North America, concentrating on the utilitarian and decorative artistry of crafts workers from ancient cultures. The museum also features wings dedicated to natural history, archaeology, education, anthropology, and fine art. ## Christmas Letters

Christmas letters. I don't know their history, who first wrote one, or where and why. I suspect they began to be written in the I Love Lucy Eisenhower years when all Americans, even though in fact they didn't, seemed to be living in suburbia and eating tuna-fish casserole made with cream of mushroom soup. And I suspect, too, that no matter how much fun some of us may make of these letters, we love to receive them. I do.

Whatever. Every year about this time, when the postman unburdens himself of mail at my door, I find myself fretting to get at the fir-tree green and holly-berry red square envelopes, addressed in everybody's best by-hand writing. I hope to find folded into Christmas cards' snowmen and gilded Virgins, pop-eyed reindeer and jelly-belly endomorph Santas, one of these homey homely letters with paragraphs about halfback sons who rushed 2000 yards for the season, promoted husbands, genius babies, and grandfathers who blessedly, after a year's suffering (he never complained), died. I read breathless. I am fond of accounts of monstrous watermelons and new shingles, mortgages paid off, and chocolate standard poodles nicknamed Fudge who win best-in-show. The more workaday detail, the happier I am.

My guess is that these letters proliferated in the post-World War II decade when families found themselves moving farther and farther from home. Summarizing a year's events, the letters seemed an effort to close that distance and keep ties bound. They were mailed to family members and neighbors left behind, to friends from school and military service, and once on a mailing list, you were rarely scratched off.

Now computer-generated or Xeroxed, they used to be mimeographed and before that, hectographed. For family members and close friends, children's drawings and photographs might be enclosed. Everyone in the family signed, and I've even received letters on which some much-loved Bowser, his paw pressed against an ink pad, left his print.

The letters observed certain conventions. They seemed always to have been written by wives and mothers. (Although in many instances the lady of the house composed opening and closing passages and then coerced each family member to contribute at least one paragraph toward the letter's body.) Careful writers managed to mention each immediate family member, including pets, at least once and to mention that member or pet in connection with some triumph. While illness and even death made acceptable content, bad behavior didn't. You wouldn't read about Johnny's doing time in juvenile hall or Papa's adultery. And when particularly bad things happened, you sometimes never heard from that family again.

Among our friends is a large family, six children. Bud is dean at a private college and Marie, his wife, spent the first 25 years of marriage cooking, cleaning, and mothering, and the last seven as a hospital dietitian. Bud and Marie's four boys and two girls were healthy, bright, freckle-faced, button-cute creatures. Bud and Marie were good parents, attentive and loving. But for all their love and attention, for the piano and dance lessons and family vacations and Mass every Sunday, for all that, when five of these six children entered adolescence, bad things happened. So bad that two boys ended up in state prison, and one girl in quick succession twice married men who beat her, returning home after the second marriage failed as mother to a shriveled, underweight baby with big sad eyes.

Marie wrote Christmas letters. The letters sent during her children's early years offered tales of Bud's rise through academia, each new pregnancy, larger home, additions to those homes, children's grade-school successes, vacations. When the boys began to get in jams, Marie's letters didn't even hint at their trouble, and as scrapes turned into felonies, she still didn't reveal

Indian artifacts from the Kingery family on exhibit. The museum is located at 2116 Tavern Road; 619-659-8740. (ALPINE)

La Mesa Depot Museum, located in a restored 1894 wooden train station, exhibits include original telegraph and telephone equipment, pot-bellied coal stove, period furniture. The adjacent freight train display features 1923 steam locomotive, 1957 refrigerator car, restored 1941 caboose. Find the museum at La Mesa Boulevard and Spring Street. 619-465-7776. (LA MESA)

Magee House Museum, built in 1887 and surrounded by rose gardens, the site includes "one of the last barns still standing in Carlsbad." Docent and self-guided tours of historic house and gardens. Find Magee House at 258 Beech Street; 760-434-9189. (CARLSBAD)

Museum of History and Art, ongoing exhibits explore the overall history of Coronado, Navy and Army, Tent City, and the Hotel del Coronado. Find the museum at 1100 Orange Avenue. Call 619-435-7242 for further information. (CORONADO)

Museum of Making Music, the past 100 years of American music and music making are highlighted at the museum, with over 450 vintage instruments, hundreds of audio and video clips, and an interactive stage. Find the museum at 5790 Armada Drive; 760-438-5996. (CARLSBAD)

Ramona Pioneer Historical Society and Guy B. Woodward Museum is a complex of historical buildings, including the Verlaque House (the only Western adobe home of French provincial design still in existence), wagons, antique exhibits, and artifacts. There is a cowboy bunk house, women's clothing and accessories from 1700 to 1800, a ranch blacksmith shop and tack room. The Casey Tibbs Memorial Exhibit is dedicated to Tibbs, a local resident who was a world-champion rodeo rider. The Bancroft Memorial Rose Garden is on the grounds. Rare documents, historical exhibits, books, photographs, and a research library are also part of the complex.

made in aircraft propulsion over the last century are showcased in "100 Years of Aircraft Engines," including a functional reproduction of the 1903 Wright Flyer Engine; a Rolls-Royce liquid-cooled Merlin V-12 that powered the Spitfire and P-51 Mustang fighters; and a rare German Junkers Jumo 004, one of the world's first operational jet engines.

Concurrently, see "The History of Commercial Aviation in America." A new section of the exhibit celebrates the 40-year history of PSA, with original graphics, a re-creation of the airline's first ticket booth at Lindbergh Field, and uniforms and memorabilia donated by former employees. Ongoing.

"P-51 Mustang," celebrates the legendary Air Force fighter used during both World War II and Korea. The museum's Mustang is painted in the red-tail livery of the Tuskegee Airmen, who distinguished themselves flying bomber escort and ground attack missions during World War II.

The museum offers exhibits of over 65 aircraft — including a replica of Spirit of St. Louis, a Fokker Scourge (or Fokker Eindecker E-III), a World War I Spad

VII, flight deck of the USS Yorktown, and a Lockheed Blackbird spy plane — 1400 scale models, 10,000 aviation-related items, and memorabilia from Montgolfier hot-air-balloon era to Space Age, along with an International Aerospace Hall of Fame.

The museum is located in the Ford Building in the Palisades area. 619-234-8291. (BALBOA PARK)

The San Diego Aircraft Carrier Museum onboard the decommissioned USS Midway is open for tours, now berthed at 910 North Harbor Drive. Exhibits include Navy jet simulators, carrier and flight deck touring, captain's sea cabin, pilot house, navigation bridge. Admission fee includes audio guide. 619-702-7700. (DOWNTOWN)

San Diego County Sheriff's Museum, the 150-year history of the sheriff's department is highlighted at the museum, which is located "just feet away" from the original cobblestone jail site, built in 1850. The museum boasts artifacts, photographs, equipment, uniforms, and vehicles, along with exhibits from each of the departments making up the organization such as crime scene, K-9, court service, detentions, crime lab, bomb squad, and many others. Find the museum at 2384 San Diego Avenue; 619-260-1850. (OLD TOWN)

San Diego Electric Railway Association, located in historic National City Santa Fe Depot (922 West 23rd Street), offers exhibits, video displays, trolley equipment, restored passenger car from National City and Otay Railroad. 619-474-4400. (NATIONAL CITY)

San Diego Model Railroad Museum, the museum celebrates American railroads with "the largest permanent operating model railroad and toy train exhibit" in North America. The "Lego City" Lego train exhibit continues through Saturday, January 8, 2005. Exhibit includes full city scene with skyscrapers, bridges, hotels with working elevators, six operating model trains.

"Rail Town," an "O" gauge operating model train exhibit, is on display through December. Four scale-model railroads of the Southwest, the "San Diego County Relief Map" exhibit, and an interactive toy train. There is a multimedia presentation on railroading, an operating railroad semaphore signal, and interpretive displays on railroads and model railroading.

The museum is downstairs in the Casa de Balboa building. 619-696-0199. (BALBOA PARK)

San Dieguito Heritage Museum, the museum offers informative displays on the North County coastal history including Native Americans, early homesteaders, and recent times, as well as photographic collections and archives. Find the museum 561 South Vulcan Avenue; 760-632-9711. (ENCINITAS)

Wells Fargo History Museum, the museum features a working agents' office staffed by guides in period costumes and contains a working telegraph for visitors to send and receive messages. Short films on California and Wells Fargo history; a gold display, part of the collection assembled by Wells Fargo agent Samuel Dorsey at the end of the 1800s; an exhibit of Concord Coach #251, a restored stagecoach built in 1867; and the Davies watch. The museum is located in the reconstructed Colorado House, at 2733 San Diego Avenue. (OLD TOWN)

Chula Vista Abortionist Suspended

Dr. Phillip Rand Had Butchered Another Woman

On September 15, 2004 the California Office of Administrative Hearings issued an order suspending the license of Dr. Phillip Rand. Rand worked for a chain of abortion clinics, Chula Vista para La Mujer de Hoy, that spanned from San Diego to the Los Angeles area. All of the clinics were located in working class Latino neighborhoods.

READING

anything had gone wrong. The elder felon was a "whiz at math," the younger lifted weights and had glorious muscles, bigger than those Charles Atlas built. Their daughter had given them a beautiful grandchild, and she and Bud were blessed to have that grandchild living with them, at home.

The letters Marie wrote, as year followed year, continued to portray her family life in the rosiest light possible. Her letters broke my heart but also left me feeling foolishly humbled. Because I knew Marie, and I knew that from her perspective what she wrote wasn't untruth or distortion, nor was she trying to hide from her readers the grief she and Bud suffered over their offspring's crimes and bad choices. If I talked with her over coffee, she faced those facts. Yet when she sat down to write her Christmas letter, she wrote what I believe once was the classic Christmas letter: she wrote the life that she had hoped against hope, when she and Bud exchanged vows, their lives would become.

When the boys began

letters didn't even hint

scrapes turned into

felonies, she still didn't

gone wrong.

I used to get many more Christmas letters, and you probably did too. I miss them. So here's what I hope. I hope that this year, everyone will write a letter.

You don't have to celebrate Christmas to write a Christmas letter. Call your letter an end-of-year or New Year's letter. Call it summing-up. Call it your OpEd letter on the year. But write a letter. Write if only to find out what you have to say.

You have nothing to say? Tut. Having something to say is overrated. You hate to write? Don't write writing. Talk to the page. Your mouth will fill up with so many words you'll be hungry to get them onto paper.

Maybe you don't want to read about promotions or remodeled kitchens or a kitten's exploits with catnip mice or your child sitting on the floor scooping up jacks. Write what you would want to read.

If you need help getting started, start with you. Get out a mirror. Get close. Lean into your reflection. Look into your own eyes. Write what you see. Then, lean out your window. Get on your paper late-afternoon light's powdery, hazy quality. Get that corny religious effect of light slanting down through dust motes.

Go deep. Make believe you're writing to someone you love who has only six months, or three, to live. Risk sentiment. Offer hope. Go down deeper. Make believe you have only six months, or three, to live. Write what you wish someone would say to you.

But no matter what you write or how, don't skip on the ordinary. Don't be afraid to get mired in minutiae. The more spelling-bee victories, baby's first steps, office promotions, new cars, refinished woodwork, legs broken skiing and kitchen fires miraculously quelled, the more pounds lost and pound cakes baked, the better. In these letters, as in life, the epiphany's in the ordinary humdrum details that make music of our years.

And after you've signed it, send a copy to me. ■

— Judith Moore

"The Miracle of the Escape Artist: Meditations on Systemic Limitations and the Exploration of Resistant Agency" by Robert Moses is featured through Sunday, January 9, 2005, at San Diego Art Institute, Museum of the Living Artist (1439 El Prado). Also featured: Jeffrey Brosbe's "Urban-scapes." Juror was Raul Trejo. Youth art by students at Viejas Native American School showcased. Reception for all the artists: Friday, December 17, 6 p.m. 619-236-0011. (BALBOA PARK)

Artists Maic and Noisette have works in a variety of media on exhibit through December in Gallery 23 in Spanish Village. Opening reception is Sunday, December 19, 3 p.m. 619-232-3522. (BALBOA PARK)

ART MUSEUMS

Mingei International Museum, "Navajo Weaves" includes 33 Navajo objects such as chief's robes, other blankets and rugs woven in the late 19th Century and in 20th Century. Pieces of Navajo silver and turquoise jewelry dating from same era as weavings (from a private collection) also on view. "Elemental Art of the Indonesian Archipelago" includes more than 100 objects such as textiles, jewelry, puppets, baskets, beaded objects, ritual dance masks, architectural ornaments, household objects, ancestor figures, and shrines. Ongoing.

The Mingei is located on the square with the San Diego Museum of Art and the Timken Museum of Art. 619-239-0003. (BALBOA PARK)

Mingei International Museum, North County Satellite, "The Beaded Universe — Strands of Culture" includes beads from 40 cultures, inspired by and based on The History of Beads by Lois Sherr Dubin. Exhibit includes beaded globe four feet in diameter created by Huichol Indians, a Yoruba chief's robe, garments by New York artist Sandra Rubel.

Concurrently, see "JoAnn Tanzer — Architectural Enamels." Works were created by painting with vitreous glass on steel. Both exhibits continue through February, 2005.

Ongoing: "Horses — Circling the Globe" includes animals from India, China, Japan, Indonesia, Sweden, England, Guatemala, Mexico, and the U.S. Some have religious connections, some were made as toys. A selection of Navajo blankets is also on display. Find the museum at 155 West Grand Avenue. 760-735-3355. (ESCONDIDO)

Museum of Contemporary Art San Diego, Downtown,

"Cerca Series: Melanie Smith" features recent video and the photography installation Six Steps to Reality, made in collaboration with Rafael Ortega. The piece "compares the purely aesthetic object with the process of its making." Installation is accompanied by series of photographs that "further deconstruct as well as intensify our understanding of the process of art." Continues through Sunday, January 9, 2005.

Find the museum at 1001 Kettner Boulevard (at Broadway), directly across from the Santa Fe Railroad Depot. 619-234-1001. (DOWNTOWN)

Museum of Contemporary Art San Diego, La Jolla, ideas and influence of minimalist art explored in "Specific Objects: The Minimalist Influence," closing Sunday, January 30, 2005. The exhibit showcases works from museum's permanent collection, as well as newly commissioned pieces. Artists represented include Robert Mangold, Sol LeWitt, Dan Flavin, Agnes Martin, Robert Irwin, others.

Find the museum at 700 Prospect Street. 858-454-3541. (LA JOLLA)

Museum of Photographic Arts, "Jeff Bridges — Pictures" represents 30 years of photographic practice by the compelling actor. The included photographs "act as Bridges' personal and professional diary, with actors, directors, and crew appearing as equal participants in the task of making movies." Enjoy these images of "people at work" through Sunday, March 13, 2005.

Andreas Feininger photographed every form, shape, and structure that enthralled him. "Andreas Feininger: Man on the Street" celebrates his "peripatetic love of New York City in the 1940s with 35 photographs," on view through Sunday, March 6, 2005.

Concurrently, take in "Mariana Yampolsky's Mexico," also on exhibit through Sunday, March 6, 2005. Yampolsky began her career as a printer and engraver in Mexico's Popular Graphic Arts Workshop. Her art is said to blend graphic arts with documentary photography, "revealing what is unique or heartfelt in each" of her subjects.

Find the museum in the Casa de Balboa building, at 1649 El Prado; 619-238-7559. (BALBOA PARK)

Oceanside Museum of Art, 45 contemporary quilts selected from over 600 entries are included in "Quilt Visions 2004," a biennial juried international exhibition. Jurors were Lix Axford, Michael W. Monroe, Jane Sauer. Find the museum at 704 Pier View Way; 760-721-2787. Continues through Sunday, January 16, 2005. (OCEANSIDE)

San Diego Museum of Art, "Past in Reverse: Contemporary Art of East Asia," showcases "cutting-edge artists working in a diversity of media...who use contemporary approaches to reflect their respective cultural and artistic backgrounds." Each artist's work is featured in a separate section while accompanying wall texts articulate how the artist is responding to historical precedents. Continues through Sunday, March 6, 2005.

"Tastes in Asian Art" includes "some of the most significant works" in the museum's collection. Exhibit features new and rarely exhibited works, along with well-known pieces. Closes Sunday, May 1, 2005.

"Human Presence: Works from the Museum's Collection," two-part exhibit focuses on the human body. "Part I: The Singular Body" incorporates gallery sculptures of people and animals with those in the garden and court. "Part II" brings attention to "physiological reactions to pure form and color" via the "Through the Geometry of Color" exhibit. Experience through Sunday, July 24, 2005.

"Visions of the Great Goddess: The Divine Female in South Asian Art," focuses on cultural and artistic significance of goddess imagery in South Asia in paintings from Edwin Binney 3rd Collection. Works feature Devi, the "Great Goddess" or the "First Cause of Things" in four aspects — as a great power, a bestower of fortune, a beloved, and a human saint. Continues through Sunday, March 13, 2005. Concurrently, there's a small display of related sculptures from South India, including a newly acquired Chola-period bronze of Goddess Devi.

Explore aspects of "the Golden Age of Dutch culture" through "rarely exhibited and relatively unknown medium of domestic tiles" in "Seventeenth-Century Dutch Tiles from the Museum's Collection," on view through Sunday, January 9, 2005. Show focuses on history of tile making, its use, pictorial sources.

For further information, call 619-232-7931. (BALBOA PARK)

Timken Museum of Art, "Benjamin West: Allegory and Allegiance," on exhibit through Sunday, February 27, 2005, showcases the artist's three major paintings based on Edmund Spenser's 16th-century epic poem "The Faerie Queen." The exhibition includes preparatory drawings for the paintings, related engravings, and graphic works. West (1738-1820) occupies a significant place in both American and British art histories.

Permanent collection includes European masters, 19th-century American paintings, and Russian icons. 619-239-5548. (BALBOA PARK)

God Comedy

The sinner wraps the wad in a Kleenex, Sister mumbles, "Chew gum...burn in hell."

In most interactive theater the audience needs time to warm up, get into the spirit of performing. Not Vicki Quade and Maripat Donovan's Late Nite Catechism. It takes about two seconds. Sister — a nun substitute-teaching St. Bruno's adult catechism class — walks in, beams a pleasant smile, then orders late-comers to take their seats now.

The show starts, but the house lights never dim. Sister probes the class for lapses of discipline (with Big Brother intonations, she says she can "give everyone in the room undivided attention...if need be"). A man puts his arm around a woman. Sister has a fit. "Make room for the Holy Spirit," she barks, fish-tailing her hand at them to separate. Then her radar eyes lock on to a gum-chewer, and everyone in class that night probably still pities the poor soul. "Chewing gum, are we? Throat dry? Think of Jesus on the cross. Think how dry his throat was. Did he cry out for Spearmint?" The sinner wraps the wad in a Kleenex. Sister mumbles, "chew gum...burn in hell."

She's teaching the class because it's Father Murphy's poker night. He's the regular teacher and is spare-the-rod, post-Vatican II. Sister's from another era. She began in the days of 52 student classes and rule by ruler. She's taught for 30 years ("that's three Popes!"), and isn't about to change tactics. Hulking around in heavy black gabardine, a python-sized rosary coiled at her waist, she's as kindly as a cherub and absolute as a drill sergeant, but for a much higher authority.

She answers questions about doctrine and even some of the church's loopholes — like why St. Simon Stylites shouldn't be a saint; all he did was pole-sit for three decades. She delights in stray enigmas (St. Patrick was actually Scottish; St. Veronica had an eating disorder), but always has the ultimate solution. One shudders to think how she'd react if asked about Holy Blood, Holy Grail or, its paltry second cousin, The Da Vinci Code.

Late Nite Catechism has become a phenomenon. It began in Chicago. As Quade and Donovan compared incidents from their Catholic school education, they decided to jot them down. Soon they realized they had something. That was 1993. LNC has since become a cult classic. It's been performed around the world and, so sayeth the press release, over 100,000 times. It's The Rocky Horror Picture Show for anyone who had an old-school, parochial education. And everyone else.

LNC opened at the North Coast Rep last week. Since it's interactive, every night will be different, depending on audience participation. I've seen three versions, however, and am convinced that worries about people not jumping in last two seconds max. Once Sister grabs control, they laugh and squirm, by turns; some even regress, clearly against their wishes, back to a strict grade-school classroom.

A curious feature: LNC thrives on audience interaction, but many look away when Sister asks for participants. They'd rather inspect the set — wooden desk and chalk-scarred blackboard; Virgin Marys and other icons peering from nooks and crannies, and strange little chairs (one made from broken rulers): anything but meet Sister's gaze.

"Speak in full sentences!" she shouts during one of the evening's most confessional bits, a Q&A session in which many recall instances of grade-school authoritarianism, while others rub knuckles from suddenly unrepressed memories.

At NCRT, Kathryn Gallagher and Murphy O'Malley will alternate in the role. I saw Gallagher and, though she had fewer edges than other Sisters I've seen, she had the part down. She's at once a stand-up comic (relishing ad-libbed byplay with the audience; but heckle and you risk eternal damnation), an encyclopedia of saints and the Baltimore Catechism; and a teacher with a subject that — laughter aside, and it's almost nonstop — she takes with the utmost seriousness.

The Pastorela tradition began in Spain a few years after Columbus sailed west. The story follows a group of shepherds, on their way to Bethlehem, hounded by demons and doubts. San Diego's Pastorela tradition began in

Willie Green (who hails from another great local tradition: San Diego Junior Theatre) plays the archangel Michael, and Bob Marley singing "Get Up, Stand Up," and Sponge-Bob, and a floating, stinging Muhammad Ali. Von Schauer plays horned Satan (who enters singing Credence's "Bad Moon Rising"), and George W. Bush ("el rancho sin juevos"), and Donald Trump. In their various guises, Green and Schauer battle for the souls of humanity. The deck is stacked for goodness, on stage at least, but both are worthy adversaries and exude talent.

Another talent, one of my favorite local writers: Max Branscomb wrote one of the early Pastorelas. Now he revises it every year in Spanish and English and rhyming verse. Barbed, topical references are up to the minute. This year's brims with witty asides like "talk is cheap, unless it's on Verizon," and begins with a woman wanting to count all of Donna Frye's write-in votes — gad, what does she think we have here, a democracy?

Over the years, director Bill Virchis has steered the show toward the flow and jubilation of a musical. Thanks to a tight three-person band (Don Higginbotham, Michael Campos, Patrick Noyes) 2004's Pastorela breaks into song at every turn. Many numbers stop the show, in part because of the stirring performances, but also because the audience, which has risen to its feet and clapped and danced and sung along, must sit back down so the shepherds can continue on to Bethlehem. ■

An American Christmas

Lamb's Players and the Hotel del Coronado (one of San Diego theater's finest sets!) present their "interactive feast and celebration" that takes place one hundred years ago. GRAND BALLROOM, HOTEL DEL CORONADO, 1500 ORANGE AVENUE, CORONADO, THROUGH DECEMBER 29; NIGHTLY (EXCEPT FOR CHRISTMAS) AT 6:30 P.M. ("THE ATTIRE IS FESTIVE, WITH JACKETS SUGGESTED FOR MEN.") 619-437-0600.

The Book of Liz

No it's not a Hollywood dish-all, or a lost book of the Bible. It's David and Amy Sedaris's tale of Sister Elizabeth Dunderstock, her famous cheeseballs, her exile from a strict religious sect, the Squeamish, and — like Alice through the Looking Glass — absurdist experiences in the "real" world. In the show, which unfolds like an extended skit, four actors play 13 characters. On opening night, some roles could have been sharper, more differentiated, and more Sedaris (i.e., above over-the-top). The performances that worked best ventured into this artistically verboten terrain: especially David McBean. Whether he's the unctuous Brightbee or a très disgruntled waiter, McBean makes bold, consistently hilarious choices. Annie Hinton takes the other side as Liz. She's a soft-spoken innocent. Hinton's so good at subtlety that at times she seems out of place in the comedy's cartoon style. Sean Murray's direction favors un-cartooning characters and finding their humanity. But the Sedarises stereotype. They relish offending (and send up the act of offending as well). The Cygnet production is definitely worth seeing, but could improve if it went more on the offensive.

Worth a try.

CYGNET THEATRE COMPANY, 6663 EL CAJON BOULEVARD, COLLEGE AREA, THROUGH DECEMBER 23; THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8:00 P.M. SUNDAY AT 7:00 P.M. MATINEE SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M. 619-337-1525.

A Christmas Carol

The San Diego Rep's 29th annual holiday production has a new twist: Douglas Jacobs has trimmed his original script to 90 minutes with no intermission. All the familiar scenes remain — the Fezziwig Ball's still a ball; the ghosts come, haunt, and go; Scrooge's frigid heart thaws — but the compression makes everything feel more immediate, more urgent. Director Todd Salovey clearly relishes this up-tempo version, as do the cast, many of them veterans of Carols past (Jonathan McMurtry, Linda Libby, Paul James Kruse, Douglas Roberts, Shana Wride, Robert Townsend). The versatility of the cast, in fact, amazes: they can act, dance, and sing — even the kids! Peter Van Norden's crusty Scrooge has grown from last year. Now he's a three-ring circus in a one-ring tent, both funnier and deeper than before. Javier Velasco's choreography brims with grace and life, and the design elements evoke London on a snowy Christmas Eve, 1842.

Worth a try.

SAN DIEGO REPERTORY THEATRE, 79 HORTON PLAZA, DOWNTOWN, THROUGH DECEMBER 26; SUNDAY AND TUESDAY AT 7:00 P.M. WEDNESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 7:30 P.M. MATINEE SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M. 619-544-1000.

A Christmas Carol

Kinney Productions presents Charles Dickens's tale of a hard-hearted old coot who changes his ways in the nick of time. Don Winslow adapted and directed. JULIAN TOWN HALL, 2129 MAIN STREET, JULIAN, THROUGH DECEMBER 19; FRIDAY AND SATURDAY AT 7:30 P.M. MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M.

A Christmas Carol

The La Jolla Stage Company presents the Dickens classic about the transformation of Ebenezer Scrooge, curmudgeon extraordinaire. LA JOLLA STAGE COMPANY AT THE FIREHOUSE, 7877 HERSCHEL AVENUE, LA JOLLA, THROUGH DECEMBER 19; THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8:00 P.M. MATINEE SATURDAY AT 4:30 P.M. SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M. 858-459-7773.

Dysfunctional Family Theater

Misfit Productions and Korbett Kompany Productions stage "the ultimate fruitcake in holiday programming": one-acts by Christopher Durang (including "For Whom the Southern Belle Tolls") and Charles Dizenzo. Fred Tracey and Bob Korbett directed. ADAMS AVENUE STUDIO OF THE ARTS, 2804 ADAMS AVENUE, NORMAL HEIGHTS, THROUGH DECEMBER 18; THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8:00 P.M. 619-584-3593.

The Engagement of Marjorie

Centre Circle Theatre Productions offers a "slice of life comedy" by Thomas M. Walker III. This Christmas in the Friskle household will be unlike any other. CENTRE CIRCLE THEATRE PRODUCTIONS, LAMPLIGHTERS COMMUNITY THEATRE, 8053 UNIVERSITY AVENUE, LA MESA, THROUGH DECEMBER 19; THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8:00 P.M. MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M. 619-462-2131.

Grassroots Greeks: Ajax

The extremely popular series of Greek play readings now has a new location: El Centro Cultural de la Raza. To reacquaint local audiences with the masterworks of ancient Greek drama, Linda Castro and David Cohen offer staged readings. The approach is refreshing. There's no attempt at polished work or choices set in granite. Instead, the actors treat the text as if this were the first day of rehearsal, the threshold of exploration. There's some movement, a suggestion of costumes, and (re)acting, but the emphasis is on the word and, as in all Greek drama, on an unfolding story at once hair-on-fire irrational and as logical as a courtroom debate. It doesn't take long to see how pertinent and compelling these plays are. An informal discussion follows the reading, and admission is free, though donations are appreciated. Next reading: Hecuba. Worth a try.

Hecuba

When is a war over? Presidents and generals declare victory, but battles and "mop-ups" continue. When, if ever, is closure final? Euripides' tragedy begins after the Greeks have routed Troy. Hecuba, its queen, and the women of Troy wait on a Thracian shore, to become Greek slaves. Hecuba has lost everything — husband, children, home, crown — yet her anguish has just begun. The murder of a son and sacrifice of a daughter prompt a controversial revenge against her host. Is she justified, or merely perpetuating war by other means? Marianne McDonald's fierce new translation brims with contemporary relevance and complicates easy side-taking; each makes persuasive points. Though the male actors could be more martial (they just whipped the "barbaric" Trojans, after all), the 6th@Penn production ranks among its finest. Director Esther Emery has a keen ear and a poetic eye — and merits more assignments soon. Along with an appealing all-white set (Nick Fouch), the production boasts an ethereal performance by Charlene Penner as the ghost of Hecuba's son, Polydorus. Her expressive eyes and lithe, Butoh-inspired movements tell the saddest of tales. Robin Christ's excellent Hecuba becomes so torn you'll fear for the actor's health when Hecuba, who outlives all her children, cracks into shards of pain. Then must crack again. Critic's pick.

6TH@PENN THEATRE, 3704 SIXTH AVENUE, HILLCREST, THROUGH DECEMBER 19; THURSDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8:00 P.M. MATINEE SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M. 619-688-9210.

How the Grinch Stole Christmas

The Old Globe Theatre stages its popular holiday production of the Dr. Seuss classic. Jack O'Brien directed.

OLD GLOBE THEATRE, SIMON EDISON CENTRE FOR THE PERFORMING ARTS, BALBOA PARK, THROUGH DECEMBER 31; TUESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8:00 P.M. SUNDAY AT 7:00 P.M. MATINEE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AT 2:00 P.M. 619-239-2255.

I Love You, You're Perfect, Now Change

covers the zodiac of relationships, starting with a first date ("Will I be a date from hell?"), through the singles scene ("Single Man Drought"), to marriage, children, even a funeral. Along the way a San Quentin con scares a timid couple into taking the Big Step ("You gotta compromise a little, you dickheads!"), and Rose Ritz tells the truth for her dating service videotape. Theatre in Old Town's engaging production features a four-person cast. They have the smarts not to push for comedy or drama, letting the audience choose its reaction (romantics can sigh, scoffers can, well, scoff). Andrea Chamberlain, Mylinda Hull, David Engle, and especially Stan Chandler, who must be one of the most versatile performers around, enhance every scene with strong voices and precise character details. Credit as well to the costume designer, unnamed in the program, who provided everything from tuxes to Chargers T-shirts — and enough Velcro to permit what must be, in many instances, split-second changes. Worth a try.

Jersey Boys

This wonderful new musical isn't just a nostalgic greatest hits of Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons event. It tells the stories behind the songs, many of which the group would rather forget. In the process, it explores parallel dreams: the mythical "American" one; and the nightmare that comes with an overnight fame only Dr. Faustus could conjure. Under Des McAnuff's superb direction, Jersey Boys unfolds cinematically, with nary a wasted frame. Almost always there's at least one live musician on the minimalist stage, making the piece a moveable concert where music's made in every conceivable mode. And most astonishing of all, the four performers cast as the singers are so talented they could hit the road, right now, and land high-paying gigs. They could, but they're headed to Broadway instead. If each were a separate "season," Christian Hoff's tough-talking Tommy DiVito would be winter. Daniel Reichard's gentle Bob Gaudio would be summer (especially when we learn that "Oh What a Night" commemorates his first sex). J. Robert Spencer's Nick Massi would be autumn, and Frankie Valli would be spring, since his voice explodes with the freshness of something brand new. David Norona plays Valli so well that on opening night, when he sang "My Eyes Adored You," in the audience the real Valli sprang to his feet, pounding his hands and, so it seemed to the crowd who soon stood with him, passing the torch. (Note: The La Jolla Playhouse has extended the run of this production three times.) Critic's pick.

Joey and Maria's Comedy Italian Wedding

The Culy Theater hosts "not-so-ordinary interactive dinner theater," as Joey and Maria tie the knot. DAVE AND BUSTER'S, 2931 CAMINO DEL RIO NORTH, MISSION VALLEY, AND 1355 NORTH HARBOR DRIVE, DOWNTOWN, OPEN-ENDED RUN. FOR DAYS AND TIMES CALL 800-944-5639.

Kimberly Akimbo

One of 2004's best productions is back! Delicia Turner Sonnenberg's Moxie Theatre is restaging a show that could have run for months. Kimberly's "akimbo" because she's aging 4 1/2 times faster than "normal." She's 16 going on 78. People with her progeria-like condition die around 16. But then again, David Lindsey-Abair's crazy-wise comedy asks, what is normal? Is it merely an antiquated concept? In Sonnenberg's treatment, the characters drive the play, propelled by rampant denial (what goes unsaid about Kimberly's condition lurks beneath every line). The director lets the jokes, and they are legion, fall wherever. She emphasizes an akimbo family that, the playwright would argue, is the family of man. Everyone in the terrific cast combines the human with the gonzo: Matt Scott's juiced Buddy; Liv Kellgren's tough Debra (who steals a mailbox); Jason Connors's poor, bedraggled Jeff — is his life an internship to become the next Job? Linda Castro gives an honest, moving performance as Kimberly. Living on fast forward, she's both younger and older than the rest. As Kim's narcissistic mother, Patie, Jo Anne Glover's a "Jersey Girl" writ large, especially when shouting "Come back! I'll be normal now. I'll show you I can do it!"

The Last Five Years

Take I Do! I Do!. Add a smidgen of Harold Pinter's Betrayal. Blend them into a commercial "I can relate" mix, and you have composer Jason Robert Brown's "relationship" musical, based on his own experiences. Actually, it's got moments that spark. When they meet, Jamie's an aspiring novelist; Cathy's an aspiring actor. They fall in love (she's his "Shiksa Goddess"), marry, and break up.

The musical’s twist, which at times works against itself: Jamie’s story goes from past to present; Cathy’s moves backwards from now to then — he darkens, in other words, as she brightens. At the North Coast Rep, director Peter Ellenstein has cast two talented, engaging performers, Jeremiah Lorenz and Erin Cronican, but I don’t think I caught them on their best night. Both sang a bit strained, as if they had just done a matinee (this show’s killer vocal demands, just about every song a high-wire act, rival those of I Do; also, though solid, the back-up band almost drowned them out). Lorenz makes the most of Jamie, by far the hipper of the two (in fact, Cathy’s so bland and whiny, you wish Brown’s ex-wife had written her part). Cronican has a show-stopper, though. In “Climbing Uphill,” Cathy does an audition and tells what it feels like as well; the combination feels like a divorce inside a marriage.

Juvenile not showing up to the $33-a-ticket (plus $10 Ticketmaster fee) Z90 "Jingle Jam" concert December 2 at the San Diego Sports Arena. "They gave a big 'F-U' to San Diego."

Z-90 program director Diana Laird had no comment.

However, a radio exec from a competing station (who wanted to remain anonymous) had this insight: "I heard that Mase was not 100 percent confirmed." Pitbull and John Legend did Mase is represented by Multi Entertainment, Inc., of Lake Mary, Florida. Tashea Ferguson of Multi Entertainment said, "I don't know what you're talking about," when asked about the December 2 Mase booking. "Mase was never booked for that show."

Leketa Lambert is the publicist for Juvenile. When asked about the December 2 no-show, she responded, "I have no idea about none of that. I haven't the slightest clue."

WAS MASE A BAD BOY OR JUST UNCOMMITTED?

Calls to managers and record labels for answers were not returned.

Z-90, a Clear Channel station, announced for weeks that Juvenile (Atlantic Records) and Mase (Universal/Bad Boy Records) would be part of the show. It would seem, if you were operating on only a promise of an appearance, you would pick an artist who isn't with Bad Boy Records.

Locals 3Against1 emerged as one of eight finalists in Zippo lighter's "Hottest Unsigned Rock Band in America" competition. Zippo's "Hot Tour," which hosted 62 unsigned bands, had 1200 entries, all vying for a showcase with Island Records in New York City, as well as equipment: Randall amps, Washburn guitars, and Tama drums (all tour sponsors). Song samples from the eight bands are posted on www.ZippoHotTour.com, where visitors can vote for their favorites over the four weeks of finals (wrapping up December 31).

As to why Zippo is getting into the rock biz, Mark Paup, director of global marketing,

The other finalists come from cities like Austin (Element), Denver (Ben Park Drive), Detroit (Last), Minneapolis (Murge), Raleigh-Durham (Downfall), West Palm Beach (Trendkill), and Pittsburgh (Adam Evil & the Outside Royalty).

Formed in 2001, 3Against1 was named "Best Rock Band" at the 2004 San Diego Music Awards. Last year, the quartet's single, "It's

At www.garageband.com, 3Against1's song "My Life" (highest ranking 2072 out of 6292 in the alternative category) has drawn mixed criticism from site visitors. The Goobos from Stockholm, Sweden, writes, "Great vocals! Great refrain too!" SlubGlub in San Francisco counters, "It's best when it's not rocking," while Jettisonred from Eastpointe, Michigan, thinks, "[The] vocals are too Creed for me."

"Last year we booked Taking Back Sunday and Yellowcard [at Soma].

They were in the $10,000 range. Now both bands are asking $50,000 [per date]," says Len Paul, owner of Soma, pointing out that the stakes are growing in San Diego's rock concert arena. He has booked the San Diego Sports Arena for April 1 of next year in order to present the "Taste of Chaos" tour organized by Warped Tour founder Kevin Lyman.

Paul says he won the rights to present the Chaos tour over House of Blues Concerts, which also bid on it. "They [House of Blues] wanted to do it at [UCSD's] RIMAC," says Paul. According to Paul, he is personally bankrolling the April 1 show. "There are no other partners."

For the past two years Soma has presented its multiband New Year's Eve shows at the Sports Arena. After major losses both years, Paul says he is using Soma for this year's New Year's show.

"Last year was a $6000 loss. The year before was $25,000. It would have been $40,000, but [headliner] Pennywise gave me a break."

"What people don't understand is that in the case of concert promotion, more competition means higher ticket prices."

A promoter, who did not want to be identified, explained the reverse economics of the concert promotion business. He said that when a concert tour announces it is heading out on the road, the agent takes bids from concert promoters around the country. The more promoters per city, the hotter the bidding process becomes, resulting in a higher guarantee for the artist. That higher talent fee is passed on to the consumer in the form of higher ticket prices.

That economic law may have become a reality in San Diego with the higher profile of local concert promoters. Last month Viejas Entertainment hired away House of Blues talent buyer John Wojas, who is now bidding against his former employer to bring concerts to the Sports Arena and other local venues. Soma's Len Paul has also started booking the Sports Arena for next year's "Taste of Chaos" tour.

Meanwhile, Sports Arena general manager Ernie Hahn said the new agreement involving Viejas Entertainment and the Sports Arena will bring more live concerts to the Sports Arena. He said Duran Duran was going to go to SDSU's Cox Arena but will now play the Sports Arena in February.

Taste of Chaos, featuring the Used, Kill Switch Engage, My Chemical Romance, Senses Fail, and Under Oath, appears April 1 at the San Diego Sports Arena. Tickets are $25.

Using the F-word between records may cost you your DJ job, but apparently it doesn't mean you have to quit radio altogether.

Former KGB disc jockey Diane Ray is back on the air playing classic rock hits on "The Planet" (103.7 FM) on the weekends. Last month she was also hired as a part-time announcer on KPBS-FM.

Ray earned notoriety for a traffic report she filed July 5 of this year. No longer with KGB, she was working for Metro Networks at the time, which provides traffic reports to stations that subscribe to the service. One of the reports she inexplicably filed revealed her in a moment of frustration using two forbidden words: one that begins with an F and one that begins with a C. The saucy report aired on classical music station KFSD (AM 1450), which runs on automation. KFSD got listener complaints and forwarded them to Metro Networks. Ray left the employ of Metro Networks the following week.

One local DJ, who didn't want to be identified, said that because it was an "honest mistake," Ray should be given some slack.

DIANE RAY PROVES THAT RADIO IS FORGIVING

Having used an automated system like that before, I can see how an accident like that can occur."

Doug Myrland, general manager of KPBS-FM, said he knew about the incident but did not want to comment on it specifically.

"I don't want to comment about an experience with a previous employer," Myrland said KPBS gave Ray "a full assessment, and we were very satisfied about her potential to be a good employee here.... All of us who have worked on the air have made mistakes. We have also had nightmares about making mistakes we didn't even make."

Ray could not be reached for comment.

"We opened for Pantera and White Zombie at [former MTV personality] Rikki Rachtman's birthday party in 1993. It was at the Palladium in Hollywood."

Norm Leggio recalls when his local band Psychotic Waltz played on the same stage with guitarist "Dimebag" Darrell Abbott, who was then with Pantera.

"It was '92 and Pantera was blowing up. Their album Cowboys from Hell made them the band of the day."

Abbott was murdered onstage last week while playing with his new band Damageplan at a small venue in Columbus, Ohio. His murderer killed him and three others before getting killed himself by a policeman.

"He [Abbott] was always a real down-to-earth dude. Whatever was in his hand at the time he would share, whether it was a drink or a joint or whatever. He was always very cordial and polite."

Leggio, who now plays in Broken Foundation, also owns Blue Meannie, a CD/record store in El Cajon, and is cohost of Another State of Mind, the all-metal Sunday night show that has aired on Rock 105.3 for five years. He said he interviewed Dimebag on the air two years ago. "It was just as Pantera was breaking up," Leggio divulges that Abbott used to have a different nickname than Dimebag. "He went by Diamond Darrell back in the early days of glam rock. Lately his close friends just knew him as Dime."

Amy O'Mally of Leave Home Booking was not happy that three of the bands she represents (Death by Stereo, TSOL, and the Swinging Utters) were alleged to be playing the same New Year's Eve show. O'Mally and Haber both said that no one had called them to see if their respective bands would even be available to play in San Diego on December 31.

"TSOL is playing Mammoth Mountain on New Year's Eve. And so is Death by Stereo. I have no idea why that happened," said O'Mally.

Ground Zero is a 600-person music venue operated by Skyline Wesleyan Church on Campo Road. Some 40 live music events have been held at Ground Zero since it opened four months ago, drawing fans who have paid between $5 and $12 admission.

Ryan Brinson is a youth pastor at Skyline. He oversees the Ground Zero activities.

He said nothing was booked at Ground Zero for December 31.

"Ground Zero is designed to provide a safe environment, a positive place for teens to hang out in East County." He said there was no way the bogus concert announcement would have come from anyone at Ground Zero.

"It was just a human error," said Kevin Hellman, CityBeat's director of marketing and sales for San Diego. "We will print a retraction." He said he did not know who provided the false information.

MTV's "Meet the Barkers"

is hyped as "putting the 'nuclear' in nuclear family." I asked

DO YOU REALLY WANT TO MEET THE BARKERS?

PHOTOGRAPH BY FLAVIY.COM

his wife, their one-year-old son, and her five-year-old daughter, and filmed at their Beverly Hills mansion, isn't just The Osbournes meets Newlyweds.

Aissa disagreed. "Shanna [Moakler, a former Miss USA whom Barker married on Halloween] isn't Jessica Simpson; nobody will ever call her a bimbo, nor is she anything like Sharon [Osbourne]. She's a modern young mom in all ways, and I think girls will be fascinated by her, make her a role model of sorts. The biggest hook is the surprise at how Travis goes about his life.... Everyone he meets [in the show] has these, I guess you'd say, expectations, of what a tattooed and Mohawked young punk rocker is supposed to be like. But here's a guy going to a PTA meeting, shopping at Toys 'R Us, even while he's doing quote-unquote rock star things like launching a new record label and solo career."

I ask, "So will blink-182 be appearing on the show?"

"Well, he's in the band, so obviously there'll be some cross-pollination. As to the extent they'll be involved, that's still undecided." Pressed for details, Aissa would only say, "We're still working that out with them." He was also unsure if Barker's side band the Transplants (recording a new CD and already booked for the summer 2005 Vans Warped Tour) would be featured. "Let's just say I haven't personally seen the signed release forms yet."

Meet the Barkers debuts in the spring.

In other Travis news, Wahoos Fish Tacos opened April 18 in Norco, CA; Famous Stars and Straps, which produces belt buckles, hats, beanies, girls' clothing, socks, T-shirts, key chains, and stickers, has its own website and is featured on many others; and there's also the record label Barker started, La Salle Records.

This week, however, the drummer is auctioning off the hand-decorated crutches he used after breaking his right ankle and foot walking from the tour bus in Australia. His cast is on display at Las Vegas's Hard Rock Café, but the crutches are currently on eBay. Aside from Barker's artwork, stickers, and signature, the crutches contain artwork by tattoo artist Mister Cartoon (who's inked Barker as well as Eminem, Slash, Dr. Dre, and Method Man). Proceeds will be donated to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. At this writing, five days into a ten-day auction, 45 bids have been placed with the highest at $1250.

"The teens must help themselves by agreeing to go back to school or get a job...they don't just hand the kids a toothbrush."

Singer/songwriter/guitarist Carol Ames says "I guess I'd describe my music as Americana music, with a lot of varied influences. Pretty much whatever I decide to write, that's what goes in there. You know, old-fashioned singer-songwriter storytelling, down-home music. It's about songs being real." Ames will be performing with her band tonight at Humphrey's at a benefit she helped organize for Photocharity, which raises money solely for a homeless teen shelter in San Diego called the Storefront (in operation since 1970).

Over the past three years, the Storefront has raised over $400,000, enabling them to maintain a 20-bed, 24-hour emergency shelter for homeless and runaway youths age 12 to 17, including a medical clinic and on-site tutoring. "Their goal is to return these young people to their families or to find them safe, independent living arrangements and prevent their sexual or other physical abuse. They have a 75-percent success rate for placing teens in safe, long-term housing options. In order to stay in the shelter, the teens must help themselves by agreeing to go back to school or get a job...they don't just hand the kids a toothbrush." Also performing at the benefit are Cathryn Beeks, Blue, HM75, Tapwater, 21 Grams, the Fryday Band, Christopher Dale, and Annie Bethancourt.

Early in the evening, five youths who stay at the shelter and have formed a band (three boys, two girls) will perform two original songs. They haven't decided on a band name yet (though they're thinking about TNT) or on song titles, but Vernon (12), Venisha (13), Emmanuel (14), Andy (13), and Amanda (16) promise they will by this evening.

NOTE

BY DAVE GOOD

Lucky Peterson is either one of the best blues guitarists you've never heard of or he is one of the best blues organists you've never heard of. "I like him better on guitar because that's my favorite instrument," says a musician friend. "But personally, I haven't seen anyone play Hammond B3 organ in a blues context better than Lucky."

Lucky's real name is Judge. He started on drums at the age of three. He could play the organ competently before you and I could ride a bike, even though keyboard ergonomics make that seem impossible. When the little boy performed, people thought the organ was gimmicked. Were Lucky's hands unnaturally big for a child? "No," he laughs, "and my hands are still small." Lucky's father sang blues and owned a Buffalo juke joint called the Governor's Inn. Lucky's family lived upstairs. He grew up watching Buddy Guy, Muddy Waters, and Jimmy Smith, who showed him organ technique. At the age of five, Lucky cut a side with Willie Dixon; both Johnny Carson and Ed Sullivan featured the child prodigy on their shows.

"I picked up guitar in Japan when I was there with Little Milton," says Lucky. By 18, he was a road veteran. "I was tired of seeing everyone else out front," Lucky recalls. "I'd been drinking sake when I picked up the guitar. Milton was in the audience and he looked at me while I was playing and his look said, 'Alright, you can play guitar.'" Years later, after a long stint with Bobby "Blue" Bland, Lucky went solo, released funky soul-blues albums, and taught himself to play keys and guitar simultaneously. He credits his faith for his musical gifts, and says performing is a family thing. "My daughter's learning right now. I'm showing her how to play organ," he says. "She's five. And her name is Lucky. Got to carry on the tradition."

BY WILLIAM CRAIN
I just came up with an idea for a thriller novel. It's called "The Morrissey Code" and it's about a professor of pop culture studies, a police cryptographer, and an assortment of obsessed fans racing across Malibu and Manchester in a life-or-death quest to uncover secret documents that will reunite the Smiths and restore balance in the world through the power of the Sacred Androgyne.
Oh, come on. It's not all that far-fetched. Earlier this year, a guy named Mark Simpson published a psychological profile titled Saint Morrissey. Last year, a guy named Marc Spitz published a novel about two teenagers on a mission to get the Smiths to reunite. There's even a website committed to the idea that Morrissey encoded a prophecy about the death of Princess Di in the Smiths album The Queen Is Dead. All I need to do is combine these ideas with Dan Brown's ubiquitous The Da Vinci Code and I've got a bestseller.

Or maybe not. But I have fun imagining it. Surely, the Sweet and Tender Hooligans would play a big part in my novel. The Los Angeles tribute band has been around for 12 years, which is more than twice as long as the Smiths lasted. Singer Jose Maldonado is one of the leading figures in Morrissey's surprising turn-of-the-millennium rebirth as a Latino idol. (He even appeared in Moz's "Irish Blood, English Heart" video.) Morrissey himself had a big comeback this year, but that didn't slow Maldonado a bit. Like the secret societies in The Da Vinci Code, the Hooligans are dedicated keepers of a mysterious faith that's bigger than them — bigger even than the figure that inspired them.

Devoid opens.

SWEET AND TENDER HOOLIGANS, The Casbah, Friday, December 17, 8:30 p.m. 619-220-8497 or 619-232-4355. $15.

Website: www.TruckeeBrothers.com

Recorded in just three days, the six-song EP is rocka-billy punk that has been scribbled on, crumpled up, and turned inside out by its pointed, indie core.

The first cut, "Death Vulcan Grip," will attract interest, but it's the persistent funk riffs in "Road Kill Constant" that will suck you in.

There are different styles on the EP; falling somewhere between one you can scream along to and one you can chill out with is the addictive "Hookah Afternoon." The textures of the song range from a boredom-induced dirge to the glory of hard rocking.

"Well, I'm not myself when I can find my apothecary, mind if I take a seat right next to you?" The bros go on to seductively coo, "Are you willin' to take a hookah afternoon?" until the track's end.

The high-energy duo put their thoughts on display with the contemplative ballad "Ashes and Stashes," where Peat's melancholy softens the sentiment in the words "She's an angel, but like a fly, I have an urge to pull off her wings." Listeners might have to shrug off some of the kooky eccentricities (like those in "Ooh, Ooh, Ooh, Chicken Pot Pie") in order to uncover a sound that is impossible to tack a genre to but worth a listen for that fact alone.

(To hear a sample of Wall to Wall, call 619-233-9797, wait for the prompt, then punch in ext. 4541.)

HOT JAVA CAFE

11738 Carmel Mountain Road

www.hotjavacafe.net

FOOD > fresh salads and sandwiches average $6.25, bagels, and four kinds of gelato; no food after 8:00 p.m., but there's an In-and-Out Burger, Boston Market, and Jamba Juice all within walking distance

ACCESS > I-15, east on Carmel Mountain Road half a mile (next to Barnes & Noble)

DRESS > one girl was dressed all in black, but everyone else was in jeans and T-shirts ("Broncos Softball," "Play Girlz," "Volcom")

DANCE FLOOR > none, but very small area in front of stage if you had to dance (approximately 10' by 20')

FIRE EXITS > two — the main entrance and one from the back kitchen

BATHROOMS > one for both men and women; you need to get a key from the counter; clean

CAPACITY > 85 inside; maybe 100 outside (there's a long patio that continues in front of Jamba Juice)

SPECIAL AREAS > the outdoor patio (where you can smoke) has a big water fountain

FURNISHINGS > lots of artwork on one wall; kid area with toys

DECIBEL LEVEL > 109 when Earon Rein did a cover of Cecilia;

WEIRDEST BAND NAME IN

LAST MONTH > take your pick:

Schmooze or Student Driver

QUOTABLE > "It's too cold to sit outside. It's not supposed to be like this in San Diego."

If you are going to be located next to a bookstore, this is the perfect one. The Barnes & Noble next door doesn't serve coffee, so there's no competition, but everyone wants something to drink after they buy reading material.

I was there on a Friday night and was surprised by the large crowd. There were a few teenagers running around the fountain.

Others were smoking and watching the singer through the windows. (Since the walls are all glass, you can see the inside clearly from the outside.) And with the stage being right by the front door, you can hear the performers as well.

I ran into a guy named Hotrod Harris, who hosts the open-mike night on Thursdays. He said, "Singers or bands can sign up at 5:00 p.m. They are allowed to do four songs. Usually we get a lot of people out for that."

Earon Rein is a Navy guy who performs here when he's not out to sea. He did a mix of covers and originals. At one point he said, "My guitar is out of tune, and I'm not sure how to tune a guitar." A girl from the crowd said, "I can." She tuned it for him. He was sure lucky she was there. Otherwise we would have all suffered.

Caviar with a Conscience

I've always preferred to spend New Year's Eve at home with my partner and perhaps a few close friends, enjoying a celebratory supper with sevruga caviar as the star ingredient. But during the fifteen-odd years I've enjoyed this tradition, the price of the Caspian caviars has shot up while the quality has declined. This inspired me to look a little lower on the food chain for replacements for roes from that region.

Numerous types of fish roe can be called caviar. I didn't test any of the tiny-egged, crackly caviars (e.g., cod tarama, tobiko from flying fish, masago from smelt, or American golden whitefish). They're fun in their place — on top of a sushi roll, say — but their mouth-feel doesn't compare to the juicy roes of sturgeons. And I'm not about to consider the pasteurized, shelf-stable salmon roe and inky-dinky dyed-black lumpfish caviars shelved above canned tuna in the supermarket. I sometimes use them to decorate a once-trendy "caviar pie" (from a recipe developed by Romanoff, the lumpfish company), but they just don't have the glam it takes for New Year's Eve.

Instead, I looked at fresh salmon caviar (which isn't sturgeon-like but has its own merits) and American caviars from paddlefish and hackleback, the Mississippi River's po' white trash sturgeon-kinfolk. Finally, I compared farm-raised sevruga against Iranian sevruga.

When I began this project, a few days before Thanksgiving, the caviar selection at local groceries was highly limited, and not even the specialty grocers had on hand all the types of roe that I wanted to try. I had no choice but to head for the Web. Ordering caviar on the Internet entails overnight air shipment, starting at about $25 per package, so even if you're not doing a caviar-tasting, you want to get as many goodies as you can from a single vendor. If you order from Monday through Wednesday, you should receive your package in two days. If you order on a Thursday or later, your package will usually ship the following Monday.

I began with Amazon.com, that vast clearinghouse of anything and everything. The Amazon "Gourmet Foods" section is still in beta, so vendors come and go. Trying it was a good move, because it allowed price comparisons and also brought me the best salmon caviar I've ever tasted, from an obscure Alaskan processor. But it was also a bad move, because I ran into a snafu attempting to order from a company that was no longer operating under the Amazon umbrella, necessitating a last-minute scramble to get reasonable substitutes. Because of this, I was frustrated in my hope to sample some of the sturgeon caviars currently farmed in the Sacramento area and the Pacific Northwest.

Salmon Caviars

You have to like the taste of salmon to enjoy salmon caviar. The eggs are larger than most sturgeon eggs and pop nicely under the teeth, releasing a burst of juices. In years when I haven't found any Caspian-type caviar at a price I could consider, I've substituted fresh (unpasteurized) salmon roe, which goes splendidly with lox (cold-smoked salmon, normally sliced paper-thin) and potato pancakes.

The Amazon vendor with "the mostest" in the caviar department is GourmetFoodstore.com. This company has arguably the widest selection of caviars at, generally, the most reasonable prices.

They even carry vacuum-packed "mini Russian blini" (buckwheat crepes) for traditional Russian-style caviar service. Their salmon caviars are inexpensive. Unfortunately, both their Canadian Malossol ("little salt") salmon caviar and their Russian Keta salmon caviar are mushy and glutinous, with a bitter undertone — better than pasteurized, but not thrilling. The Canadian is less salty, while the Keta eggs are larger. Both "burst" nicely in the mouth. The Keta proved agreeable topping a Breton cracker, but neither caviar was exciting served solo, nor pleasurable enough to top a restaurant-style "parfait." If you're going to that much trouble, you want caviar with sufficient panache to carry the leading role.

Wild Alaska Smoked Salmon and Seafood (accessible through Amazon — search for "Alaskan salmon caviar") furnished two fabulous choices, although their prices were close to those for "real" caviar. Wild salmon eggs are firmer and larger than most, so they really burst with liquid when you bite into them. They're salty, but with oceanic flavors and minimal bitterness. The same company offers alderwood-smoked wild salmon caviar. These eggs are salty, distinctively smoky, with little mucal goopiness, and were thrilling flung straight-up on a Breton cracker. No need for cream cheese to mediate. The same company offers other smoked fish, including the succulent smoked black cod (a.k.a. "sable") so beloved of Japanese chefs and Jewish grandmas.

Sturgeon Roes and their Wannabes

Among the wannabes, let's start with Avruga. Its name sounds like a Klaxon horn on a 1920s sports car, a flask of bootleg rum stashed in the glove compartment. The roe tastes about as racy, but it's no more a real caviar than it is a roadster. This is a roe spread from Spain that looks like sevruga but is made from herring eggs, lemon juice, squid ink, thickeners, et al. It has a smoky undertone that resembles anchovies (it's Spanish, isn't it?), and falls into a category I'd call "fun-fish" (as opposed to fin-fish). The soft, tiny eggs have a touch of tartness. The price is so low, Avruga is just right for that silly "caviar pie," and for garnishing deviled eggs or seafood pasta. I found it on Amazon, from GourmetFoodstore.

Paddlefish is a Mississippi River relative of the sturgeon. Last year, I tried a version from Trader Joe's and hated it. This time, I picked up an inexpensive ounce from GourmetFoodstore. It was still disappointing. The small soft eggs are salty and mushy, with a sharp citric edge, and they have neither crackle nor "burst." You can also order paddlefish from Tsar Nicolai. The Tsar's product may be better, but its price — nearly double that of GourmetFoodstore's — bars me from establishing whether it's twice as good.

Hackleback roe (at GourmetFoodstore, also available from Tsar Nicolai) is firmer and blacker, and shares the paddlefish's eccentric tanginess, but its subtler taste hints at sevruga — third-rate sevruga. Not awful, not great.

Farm-raised sturgeon caviar is the best hope for the future. Many top chefs already swear by it. After my snafus with Amazon, it was too late to order American-farmed sturgeon roe, but by then I'd ordered two near-bargain sturgeon caviars at CaviarStar.com. Their French farm-raised caviar has the "melting" texture of true sevruga. The soft, delicious eggs were the least salty of any of the caviars I tasted, and strongly resembled the sevruga I bought years ago, when I began this “tasting” process. It’s the most immediately likable of the crew. This site also offers mother-of-pearl caviar spoons and other delights.

Gray Iranian sevruga (the basic version, not one of the premium spreads) was the “control” for all these placebos. It, too, came from CaviarStar, and like the French caviar, it had a “melting” mouth-feel. I thought its texture was like edible velvet, but my partner found it mushy (it does cling to the roof of your mouth). Initially salty and a little tangy, when savored it developed complex maritime flavors that vaguely resembled sea urchin roe (uni at your local sushi bar).

The roads not taken: Sterling caviar comes from white sturgeon farmed near Sacramento. It’s the choice of many chefs who’ve abandoned Caspian caviars, and is typically described as “buttery” or “creamy.” It’s available in various grades from Stolt Sea Farm, which also offers Scottish, Norwegian, and Brooklyn-style lox at decent prices. From the other end of the world, Uruguayan osetra is developing a fine reputation. Brought from Siberia to Uruguay as fingerlings, the sturgeon have been farm-raised ever since. It’s available from Paramount Caviar (www.paramountcaviar.com), which also sells mother-of-pearl caviar spoons and all manner of gourmet delights.

Tsar Nicoulai Caviar offers California farm-raised osetra, along with Siberian, Iranian, paddlefish, and salmon caviars, all at relatively steep prices. (You can also order the Tsar’s Cal osetra from Williams-Sonoma, where it’s more than double the Tsar’s price.)

Serving Caviar

Unopened caviar lasts two to three weeks if kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator, i.e., the meat bin. Once opened, use it or lose it within a few days. Don’t use metal spoons (not even sterling silver) to serve or eat with — they impart metallic off-tastes. If you don’t have mother-of-pearl or bone caviar spoons on hand, use plastic spoons. (If you’re serving caviar on top of pancakes or blini, regular tableware is acceptable, since there’s no such thing as a “caviar fork.”) Caviar is best served between 50 and 60 degrees, to bring out the most flavor.

The classic Russian service for caviar is to place it in a glass or crystal bowl set inside a larger bowl filled with ice. (This keeps the caviar a bit too cold, but it’s traditional.) Surround the outer bowl with assemble-it-yourself sides of buckwheat blini, plain whole-grain crackers such as melba toast, minced hard-boiled eggs, fine-minced red onions, chopped chives, chopped dill, crème fraîche or sour cream. To drink: iced vodka.

French service typically complements the caviar with a “parfait” of potato-based pancakes (made with egg whites for buoyancy), iced or sieved hard-cooked egg, lox, crème fraîche seasoned with snipped chives, dillweed, and a touch of horseradish and lemon rind. A generous dollop of caviar goes on top. To drink: very cold dry champagne.

Regular-people service: Make German/Jewish latkes or Swiss rôti from whatever recipe you like. Top with chopped lox, crème fraîche, or sour cream (seasoned as in the French service above, if desired), with caviar on top. Scatter chopped chives and dill, if you haven’t mixed them into the cream. To drink: a dry Chardonnay. (For salmon or Avruga caviars, dry Sauvignon Blanc, such as those from the Marlborough area of New Zealand, is an option.)

Other ideas: Hollowed-out cooked new potatoes topped with sour cream and caviar. Deviled eggs topped with caviar. A fried whole-wheat tortilla smeared with sour cream and caviar. Pasta with clarified butter, crème fraîche, grated Parmesan, and caviar (lox optional). Or you can dig out your ancient recipe for “caviar pie” (a chilled version of the French parfait, minus the potatoes) and surprise your friends by substituting a good caviar for the lumpfish roe.

What’s Wrong with Caspian Roers?

If you read my review of Osetra Restaurant a couple of months ago, then you have permission to skip the following two paragraphs. The problems with Caspian caviars (the “big three” of beluga, sevruga, and osetra) began with the breakup of the Soviet Union. It turns out that the “Evil Empire” (as our president at the time called it) was better at protecting the species of the Caspian Sea than are the impoverished “Stans” (Kazakhstan, Turkmenistan, etc.) that now govern those shores.

The Russian Mafia leaped at the opportunity to poach sturgeon from unpoliced waters, even as big industry (gasoline companies, hydroelectric generators, etc.) built plants near the coast and started spewing pollutants into the sea. The beluga sturgeon, a species that takes years to mature and even then produces little roe, is now so close to extinction that many of the world’s top chefs refuse to serve it as a matter of conscience. The osetra and smaller sevruga sturgeons are also severely threatened. As fewer fish are left to reach maturity, more roe is harvested from barely pubescent fish. This (along with pollution) affects the quality and flavor of the caviar. It also removes young breeders from the population, which bodes ill for future supplies. The only Caspian state that still maintains strict water standards and catch-limits is Iran, which our current Fearless Leader cites as a member of the “Axis of Evil.” By next New Year’s, I wouldn’t be surprised if Iranian products are once again embargoed from the U.S.

Where to Buy Caviar

Whole Foods has the widest caviar selection that I could find locally. At this writing, they were offering hackleback, bowfin (a smaller, saltier Mississippi River species from Louisiana), and whitefish roe, along with more expensive Caspian caviars (osetra, sevruga) packed under the reputable Petrossian label. They expect to have American-farmed sturgeon from the Pacific Northwest on hand from December 15 until New Year’s. Harvest Ranch (Del Mar) and Jonathan’s (La Jolla) had only Caspian caviars (osetra, sevruga) available on December 1, but Jonathan’s may bring in some American farm-raised caviar before Christmas. Seaside Market in Cardiff will have Caspian caviars from just before Christmas until New Year’s, or will special-order caviar upon request. (Phone 760-753-5445 and ask for the Fish Department.)

The Russian deli at Lake Murray Square (6060 Lake Murray Blvd., corner of El Paso, La Mesa) has a wide array of caviars at every price range all year long, but unless you can speak a Slavic language to discuss their characteristics with the staff, you may be taking a risk on quality or authenticity. By the time you read this, you may also be able to find Caspian and, possibly, salmon caviars at the delis or fish counters of supermarket branches in upscale areas (in the past I’ve seen it at the Albertson’s near the Coronado Ferry Landing).

Trader Joe’s usually stocks some affordable caviars (e.g., paddlefish, hackleback) from mid-December until New Year’s Eve, but its days of bargain-priced sevruga are long gone. If you’re relying on TJ’s, head there as soon as you can, because in my experience, the supply is often exhausted after Christmas.

Hidden Jewel

"We speak Spanish like machine guns. They are more musical."

Willy's gone walkabout. Curses. Me and my folk-singing friend were going to chow down together. But with no phone, it's always a gamble. Now it's getting dark, cold. Hawkers' cries echo up Tijuana's jostling, crowded Avenida Constitución. I duck into a passage so I won't get carried along in the flow.

I find myself standing opposite this attractive gal who works behind a tiny counter. There are three stools. "Rincón Potosino Café" the sign says. Hmm. Wonder what potosino means? "It means we are from San Luis Potosí," says the girl when I ask. "We have just arrived recently. Thirty-six hours in the bus. We have been able to open this place, thanks to God."

It's not long before I'm wrapping my legs around one of the stools. Lucero — that's her name — says she and Alina, her prima — cousin — really don't know anyone in Tijuana yet. "And I've only met one other potosina, in the optician's shop further up the passage."

This place is literally a hole in the wall. Maybe 12, 15 feet long, five feet wide, a little wider where Alina does the cooking. The only thing smaller is the dulcería — traditional Mexican candy stall — at the passage's entrance. Lucero and her cousin have just enough room to wash, cook, and serve customers. The seating — half a dozen stools divided between two counters, and a single table — takes up one side of the pasaje. I love it. No "Please Wait To be Seated" signs. Just plonk down in the swirl of humanity.

I scan the wall menu. Tortas, quesadillas, huevos. Hmm. Not really in a quesadilla mood.

Then I see the item I didn't even know I wanted. Hamburguesas. Man. There's that perverse pleasure in indulging in burgers away from home. Guess it's like reading the New York Times in Paris. So let's see: hamburger with cheese, 20 pesos — maybe $1.80 — a chicken hamburger (same price) or hamburguesa especial, which is chicken or beef, and includes fries (28 pesos, say $2.50). A woman I noticed giving away free-offer cards on the street comes and collects three platefuls of food for her helpers. Guy from curio stall #32, Javier, comes and asks for a coffee (7 pesos, maybe 60 cents). "Guess I'll have a beef hamburger," I say. "With everything?" "Everything." "Papas?" "Papas."

Two minutes later I'm getting my mouth around a truly oozy experience. The sesame bun's not big, but it's packed. Asada meat with a deliciously crunchy exterior, wicked bacon (tocino), avocado (aguacate), melted cheese, onion, lettuce, tomato: as I try to hippo-jaw it down, it's falling apart in the best possible way. Lucero brings a bottle of Chef's Review Catsup de Tomate, along with red salsas and green peppers to add kick. "Try them," says Javier. "I eat hot." But I don't put in too much. Don't want to burn out these flavors I love.

The papas are stick-size, French pommes frites style.

"I come here all the time," says Javier. "The owners are from San Luis Potosí. They speak more elegantly than us tijuanenses. We speak Spanish like machine guns. They are more musical."

Lucero admits San Luis Potosí is different. "We are very colonial, tranquil, lots of arched arcades, lots of plazas. Tradición and family are everything."

So what brought her up to brash TJ? "My brother Carlos has been here a year and a half. He works in San Diego. He told us about this opportunity. I have a five-year-old son, Casiel, and I thought the schooling would be good. So we came. I have never run a restaurant before. Down in Potosí I was a secretary."

"And I was at culinary school," says Alina. "I have almost completed my diploma. But Lucero suggested coming here to do this, and learning a lot more than theory here."

It turns out she is cooking some interesting stuff. Every day they have a platillo del día — a kind of prix fixe menu, a full meal with soup, salad, main dish, and agua fresca, sweetened fruit juice mixed with water for — erk! — 34 pesos.

Three bucks! Alina's already writing down tomorrow's menu: Vegetable soup, cordon bleu chicken with ham, melted yellow cheese, bacon and salsa blanca. That or bistec tropical. "I'll make that with pine nuts, onions, and chile dulce. It's a sweet pepper," says Alina, "pimiento morrón. And always with rice and beans or salad, tortilla, and a fruit drink, of course."

Man alive. This is something else. It's dawning on me. Alina is applying all her sophisticated colegio gastronómico learning to this little place! A hidden jewel. I'm too full to try these dishes now. But I'll be back, for sure.

A final bonus: I wander to the dulcería next door, and Orfelía, who looks like her name sounds, sells me a dulce de calabaza — basically one of those huge sugary gelatinized chunks of calabasa squash — for 70 cents. I'm getting it for Carla. I can't resist asking for a bar of jamoncillo, 80 cents. It turns out to be what I hoped: the nearest thing to Russian fudge you could ask for. Golden brown, crumbly, with pecans on top. I take it back all five yards to the Rincón Potosino and chow down on it with my coffee. What a combo! Purr-fect. And hey hey! All for less than four bucks.

Stand aside, Mr. A's. ■

Thirst Resort

"It's not like he's a control freak or anything, it's just that he likes growing grapes."

It takes big strides to change the perception of a region, says John McPherson, winemaker at South Coast Winery Resort & Spa in Temecula. "Robert Hall made a huge statement up in Paso Robles when he built his winery. It's a huge facility; it makes a statement, and a certain commitment — that Paso Robles is going to be growing grapes and making wine for a long time to come. That's hopefully what this sort of says."

"This" is a sprawling collection of buildings large and small: clusters of freestanding residential suites leading away from the huge central complex, future home to the resort's winery, gift shop, spa, restaurant, tasting room, wine cellars, and private tasting rooms and banquet facilities. McPherson hopes it will all be finished by summer of '05; for now, he has to contend with a tasting room and gift shop where his bottling line should be. "They keep sharp objects away from me," he deadpans.

When it's finished, the resort should go beyond making a statement and actually help to create a market. "With this resort here, we're going to be able to market ourselves nationally. People want to come to Southern California as a destination. They want to come to San Diego and lie on the beach. After they've done that for a few days, maybe they'll come up here," bringing their thirst and their curiosity with them.

South Coast owner Jim Carter is not seeking that national image simply to stroke his ego; he needs the customers. When Carter started planting, he intended to sell the fruit to Callaway. When Callaway shifted away from Temecula-grown grapes, Carter built a winery so that he could do something with 220 acres' worth of production. To move enough inventory, says McPherson, "marketing and selling is something that we're going to have to do."

"The focus will be on what we have coming off the mountain," he says, referring to the 160 acres of vineyards South Coast has in the Agua Tibia mountains around Wild Horse Peak. "There's Cabernet, Sangiovese, and Syrah." It's the mountain fruit and its potential to make great red wine that lured McPherson away from his previous employer, Thornton. But South Coast owns plenty of valley vineyards as well. "We planted Cabernet Franc and Petite Sirah down here. We've got Muscat here on-site and also Petite Verdot." He'll also get Syrah, Cab, and Merlot from the valley, along with Port varieties, Sauvignon Blanc, Gewurztraminer, and Riesling. Chardonnay is on its way. "Jim looks at the tasting room as a place where you're going to sell a lot of wine. In this valley, tasting-room wines tend to be sweeter — rosés and Muscats and Rieslings. Out in the general market, it's Cabernet, Chardonnay, and Merlot."

"Every wine we make will be estate-grown and -produced," something of a rarity for larger Temecula operations. "For Jim, it's all about control of the grape, being able to take care of it from the day you plant it to the day you wind up having it in the glass. It's not like he's a control freak or anything, it's just that he likes growing grapes. That's really where his heart is. He's not really much of a drinker; he doesn't drink wine much at all. It's just one big exciting time for him. It's just very nice to have an owner who gets all revved up every time you start talking. He's one of those guys who's always noodling. He comes up with ideas — 'Hey, I saw something on TV the other night, what do you think about it?' He's been wanting me to make a sweet Merlot."

If Carter is a noodler, he's also "very conscientious about the brand and the winery — the name and the label. He hates the idea of wines that we sell at $16.99 or whatever here at the winery, when you can go down to Longs and buy them for $9.99." It's common enough to pay full retail — or even a little more — for wine at a winery, even when you can get it for less elsewhere. Compare Opus One at the winery and at Costco. But Opus One is Opus One — Napa wine, born from a celebrity partnership between the storied Mondavi and the legendary Rothschild. People are willing to pay for the exaltation of buying the wine at the source. The brand is impervious to discounts. A startup winery from Temecula, no matter how good the wine, is not so inured.

Rendering of completed South Coast Winery Resort & Spa

McPherson told Carter that he had two options. One, "You maintain price points wholesale to keep that type of pricing" — that is, you keep wholesale prices high enough that Longs has to charge something close to your winery retail price to turn a profit. The trouble is, "that may make it tough to sell." Wholesalers might well be tempted to take their business elsewhere and work with someone who's willing to drop prices and move inventory. And moving inventory is crucial. "Jim optimistically thinks that we could sell 20,000 cases here at the winery," says McPherson. "But even if we could, we would have almost that much more in excess. We have to push it out into the wholesale market. So, we have to have some different branding, different labels, to create a market."

So far, "We have our South Coast label, and we have our Wild Horse Peak label for the wines that come from the vineyards up in Agua Tibia. Those will be all reds. The South Coast wines will run $10-$20; the Wild Horse Peak $20-$30. Then we will have a Carter Estate Selection that will probably be in the high $40s. Those will be wines from any of the estate vineyards that we deem to be of exceptional character and quality. We'll use a different barrel program for them — higher-end barrels. The Rolling Hills Merlot (a South Coast wine) is 12 bucks. It's very nice Merlot, but when you compare it to our '02 Merlot off of Wild Horse Peak, it's night and day."

The push for effective branding has led to more adventurous, even hip, packaging. "We're doing a label called Elevation Peaks & Valleys. The Elevation goes who knows where — Vons, Costco. It's a screwcap wine with a topographic map silk-screened onto the bottle showing where the majority of grapes came from for the wine. The Merlot has a map of Wild Horse Peak, while the Sauvignon Blanc has got Temecula Valley." "Elevation" runs up the side of the bottle in all caps; together with the topo map, it makes for a standout design, great for stopping the eye as it scans a supermarket shelf.

"I've got about 1400 gallons of this Syrah in oak," says McPherson as he pours me a taste from a stainless steel tank. "We're going to keep part of it for South Coast and blend the rest of it into our Elevation Peaks & Valleys. They're nice wines," he says of the latter. "They're not going to bastardize the name of South Coast." ■

NORTH COASTAL

Bistro Soleil 641 South Coast Highway 101, Encinitas, 760-942-9549. The fare here is French but not too "Frenchy," in the sunny Provençal style that seems closer to Italy than Paris, with more olive oil than butter, more tomatoes than truffles. Owned by Claude Barre, a surfing fanatic transplanted from the Atlantic beach town of Biarritz, the bistro recreates the laid-back atmosphere of its cousins overseas. Naturally, the Gallic comfort food here is more free-form and California-fied than you'd find in southern France. Highlights of the seasonally changing menu include classic poached foie gras, an unconventional but tasty bouillabaisse, and, when available, a luscious mushroom cream soup. Save room for the ethereal fruit desserts. Dinner, Mondays through Saturdays; reserve on summer weekends. Upper moderate. — N.W. (8/03)

Bubby's Gelato 937 South Coast Highway 101, Lumberyard Shopping Center, Encinitas, 760-436-3563. This tiny storefront does only a few things (sandwiches, gelati, and sorbet), but does them exceedingly well. The "gourmet sandwiches" really do live up to their designation, with intriguing Mediterranean combinations (artichoke hearts, black olives, grilled eggplant, gorgonzola are among the choice of ingredients) on soft, round Italian bread. (Or you can just get a tuna melt if that's your flavor.) Gelati are about twice as rich as Häagen-Dazs, and feature an ever-changing array of bold flavors, e.g., vanilla rosewater and chocolate cinnamon. Open daily, lunch to early dinner. Inexpensive. — N.W. (10/01)

Fidel's Carlsbad 3003 Carlsbad Boulevard (at Carlsbad Village Drive), Carlsbad, 760-729-0903. It's not upscale modern Mex — no cumin-infused, mango-corn salsa on Fidel's menu — but who gives a flyin' fajita when you can order just about any traditional SoCal-Mexican dish and know it's gonna be good? Whether you try the chicken-and-rice soup with fresh cilantro and avocado chunks, fluffy chile rellenos, a crab enchilada, carne asada with all the trimmings, or a lonely à la carte chicken burrito, you're going to be a happy camper. Add a reliable margarita or a beer and you're set at this popular North County mainstay. Open seven days a week for lunch and dinner. Inexpensive. — S.M. (12/03)

Firenze 162 South Rancho Santa Fe Road (at Manchester), West Village Center, Encinitas, 760-944-9000. This big, beautiful, gracious restaurant (located in the same mall as Harvest Ranch Market, just north of Rancho Santa Fe) offers both a handsome interior and a romantic fire-lit patio. The well-spaced tables are laden with huge portions of accomplished, multiregional Italian cuisine and reasonably priced Italian and California wines (with bargain wine prices Monday nights). Vegetarians will rejoice in the two dozen meatless selections. Lunch and dinner Monday through Saturday, dinner-only on Sundays. High moderate. — N.W. (11/01)

Hill Street Coffee House 524 South Coast Highway 101, Oceanside, 760-966-0985. Organic in Oceanside? Really! Look for the sign: "Organic Restaurant and Espresso Bar" in front of a restored yellow-and-white Victorian house from O'side's past. All their meats, poultry, fish, and veggies are organic and the menu is full of healthy dishes: tofu/spinach breakfast scramble, frittata espinaca ("Greek eggs"), and pain perdu (for us peasants that's French toast) with fresh fruit and syrups. Some vegan items. After 11 a.m., try their Cajun chicken. Open daily, breakfast to dinner. Inexpensive. — E.B. (11/00)

Johnny Manana's 308 Mission Avenue, Oceanside, 760-721-9999. Local teachers hang out at this green-, white-, and red-tiled place because it's such good value. Most dishes are either Mexican or Costa Rican. There's a Caribbean chocolatey, black bean, paprika, curry-in-the-rice thing going on. Pescado Veracruz (fish marinated in lime juice and garlic with rice, beans, and green salad) is good. The roasted chicken is delicious. The Big Breakfast Burrito Special (eggs, onions, beans, cheese, and potatoes, wrapped in a large flour tortilla) is muy popular, but then so is J.M.'s Great All-American Cheeseburger. Open daily. Inexpensive. — E.B. (12/01)

Tomiko 87 Encinitas Boulevard (at Best Western, just west of I-5), Encinitas, 760-633-3587. In a lovely setting overlooking Moonlight Bay you can enjoy Japanese and Pacific Rim fusion cooking and sushi in a serene but lively dining room. When the sushi bar is free from the weekend rush, the quality can be amazing: stunningly fresh uni, world-beating silky toro. The sushi-master also keeps an eye on the restaurant's seafood purchases, so they meet exacting standards. Appetizers such as "salmon tower tartare" and "drunken black cod" are rewarding, as are the simple, excellent fusion-tinged seafood entrées. Reserve for weekends, especially for sushi bar. Lunch weekdays only, dinner nightly. Moderate. — N.W. (3/02)

Tuscan Sun Italian Deli 1070 North El Camino Real, Encinitas, 760-633-4546. A town abounding in Italian restaurants ought to have a great Italian deli, and it does. You'll find domestic and imported deli meats and cheeses, fresh-baked breads and focaccia, marinated veggies, and a wealth of gourmet products from Italy. The specialty is the "Caprese" (tomatoes-plus) sandwich on focaccia bread with a variety of fillings, best served grilled and dressed with pesto. For breakfast, they carry sfogliatelle, light, moist, faintly lemony multilayered breakfast pastries. The eat-in/take-out menu includes pizza, pasta, salads, and a host of sandwiches. Open daily. — N.W. (8/03)

NORTH INLAND

Abbey's Real Texas BBQ 6904 Miramar Road (at Commerce Street, behind Denny's), Miramar, 858-566-5235. Newer, smaller branch at 9353 Clairemont Mesa Boulevard (at Ruffin Road), Kearny Mesa, 858-279-7427. Texas barbecue consists of meat, chicken, turkey, and links that are repeatedly mopped with a marinade and cooked in a big cast-iron smoker (rather than grilled over a fire). Here they use mesquite to barbecue the poultry quickly and the brisket ve-r-r-ry slowly. In addition to the usual BBQ sides (potato salad, coleslaw, beans, etc.), they offer a Caesar salad. At the Miramar branch the room is large and unadorned but very clean. Wheelchair accessible. Same menu lunch and dinner. Open daily; continuous service for lunch and early dinner weekdays; normal dinner hours weekends. Inexpensive to low moderate. — E.W.

The same Greek recipes that you know and love at Athens Market downtown are even more carefully prepared here. All entrées with soup or salad. Excellent moussaka, baked chicken, lamb kebabs. Excellent value for tasty product. Open daily. Inexpensive. — E.W.

La Tapatia 340 West Grand Avenue, Escondido, 760-747-8282. Take a walk on the mild side at this family-owned favorite, in business since the 1930s. You'll find standard Mexican fare in a comfortable dining room or, in good weather, a lovely, arbor-like stone-walled patio. The most celebrated dish is the "cheese crisp," a large tostada covered one-third in ground beef, one-third in beef chunks, and one-third in beans, with cheese, avocado puree, and sour cream over all. Many preparations (grilled seafoods, etc.) are healthy, and veggies taste fresh. Seasonings are rather detuned, but there's a saltshaker and a lively salsa on the table. Moderate. — N.W. (5/01)

style" cocktails are served in young hollowed-out coconuts, the soft meat spooned out along with the briny shellfish. (Fresh coconut water, agua de coco, is available as a drink.) The range of dishes is relatively ambitious with plenty of authentic entrée choices (not just stuffed tortillas), and the seafood is sweet and fresh from Baja waters. Best of all, the tall straw palapas shading the outdoor tables create their own mini climate, as breezy as some faraway beach. Tacos and burritos are bargain-priced, seafood cocktails and entrées are moderate. — N.W. (12/69)

it all just feels small-town America. The place used to be Mahrs' Service Station. You can even sit in the old Lube Bay to eat. Count on generous servings, especially the mountain-piles of red-skinned home-fries as a side at breakfast. Open for breakfast and lunch six days a week; closed Mondays. Inexpensive. — E.B. (12/01)

GOLD COAST

Arterra Marriott Del Mar Hotel, 11966 El Camino Real (off Carmel Mountain Road), Torrey Pines/Del Mar, 858-369-6032 or 858-523-1700. Bradley

Ogden and his minions — including Arterra's Carl Shroeder — do the perfect cuisine for executive-oriented hotels like this Marriott, which is situated in an inhumanly corporate neighborhood. The fare is fine, classy, but not excessively demanding of attention. Ingredients are seasonal and top-quality, creations are pleasing but not radical. It's a great place to take your boss to dinner. Breakfasts, though, are spectacular, e.g., the airy, bittersweet tangerine soufflé pancakes may just be the ideal way to jump-start the morning. Open daily, three meals. Expensive. — N.W. (4/02)

ness finessed to near perfection. The taste of his gnocchi or his tortellini al gorgonzola is worth ditching your diet for. Outdoor dining offers daytime ocean viewing, while indoor guests enjoy soft-hued decor with linens and fresh flowers. The welcoming staff allow the customer space and linger-time while remaining available. Nino prepares everything in-house: the crusty Italian bread, the pastas and their companion sauces, the veal, seafood, and chicken dishes, and the irresistible cannoli. The wine list is generous yet modestly priced and, surprise, it's purely Italian. This off-the-beaten-track Italian restaurant may be one of the most delectable secrets in North County and it won't put a crunch on your entertainment budget. Lunch is a real deal, with soup or salad and dessert included in the price. Open nightly for dinner; call for lunch schedule. Moderate. — S.M. (4/04)

Besta Wan Pizza House 148 Aberdeen Drive (off the 101), Cardiff-by-the-Sea, 760-753-6707. This ever-popular North County restaurant which opened back in 1965 is a family operation all the way. Their thin-crust East Coast-style pizzas are famous locally. Also check for the big-pile spaghetti or lasagna specials if you just want to fill up. Open seven days, lunch and dinner. Inexpensive. — E.B. (1/01)

Red Tracton's 550 Via de la Valle, Del Mar, 858-755-6600. Even though you know you're a half mile from the Pacific Ocean and across the street from the Del Mar Racetrack, one step inside Red Tracton's dining room sends you reeling back in time to an upscale, dimly lit, maroon-and-gilt restaurant of 1960s Chicago. The only thing missing is the scent of cigars. Food portions are enormous: The lobster sandwich (a touch heavy on the mayo) easily packs a half pound of lobster. The selection is generous: steaks, prime rib, seafood, chicken, and pork—all expertly prepared and served in record time. On days when you don't give a rip about the Surgeon General's latest warnings, run to Red Tracton's and indulge your All-American appetite. Lunch Monday through Saturday, dinner nightly; 11 p.m. closing Friday and Saturday. Expensive. — S.M. (3/04)

Spices Thai Cafe 3810 Valley Centre Drive, Piazza Carmel Shopping Center, Del Mar (east of Carmel Valley turn-off), 858-259-0889. Superb Thai restaurant that's not only elegant but whose food contains no MSG and very little fat. The seafood dishes rate highly. Among other delicacies are duck and frog legs. Put Spices Thai Café at the top of your list. Also in La Jolla. Open daily for lunch and dinner. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.W.

LA JOLLA

Barbarella 2171 Avenida de la Playa, La Jolla Shores, 858-454-7373. This popular restaurant sits nestled in an English garden just blocks from the beach. You can dine amidst the flora at street-side tables, in the enclosed patio, or in the small dining room. Once you're seated, the friendly staff provides fresh-out-of-the-oven sourdough wheat bread to nibble on. The menu changes daily, offering fresh fish, steak, chicken, pastas, soups, and pizzas, all cooked with a twist of imagination that delivers on the flavor. For instance: pizza topped with smoked salmon, crème friche, chives, and fried capers. Or delicate Alaskan halibut served over creamed spring onions with a watercress salad. If a fresh fruit crêpe happens to be on the dessert menu, leap on it! Open for lunch and dinner daily. — S.M. (4/04)

Beach House Brewery 7536 Fay Avenue, La Jolla, 858-456-6279. Don't expect to see the beach. Do expect to taste some good beers made right here and good solid food, such as the prime rib sandwich (which goes great with their Irish Stout) or the roasted potato and Gorgonzola pizza with bacon. (Potato with pizza? It works.) Or maybe best of all, the buffalo burger—big, hefty, and low on cholesterol. You'd call this a family, multi-generational sports bar eatery. Nice mix. It's La Jolla, so it's not dirt cheap, but the guys here seem really interested in making interesting brews and good food to accompany them. Open for dinner seven days; lunch and dinner Saturday, three meals Sunday. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.B. (1/04)

RESTAURANTS

Cafe Japengo 8960 University Center Lane, Aventura complex, La Jolla, 858-450-3355. This hopping "meet market" literally overflows with the area's beautiful go-getters on Thursday and Friday nights, and is almost as busy the rest of the week, too. What draws the crowd, besides the crowd itself, is the smashing decor, breezy patio, and beautiful-looking plates of Pacific Rim food — with influences from Japan, China, Hawaii, Thailand, and California. Outstanding appetizers. For entrées, try roasted duck with crispy vegetables or shrimp and scallops with spicy peanut sauce. The sushi bar is one of the city's best (if you can get to it through the mob). Keep an eye on the prices — if you get carried away you may be in for a large bill. Valet parking (or free validated parking in lower-level garage). Open daily. Expensive. — E.W.

La Jolla Cantina 2161 Avenida de la Playa (at La Jolla Shores Drive), La Jolla, 858-459-5282. The surprise here is that this is one of those casual coast cantinas where you can relax, get a good meal, and not get gouged with La Jolla prices. Huevos rancheros (three eggs, corn tortillas, beans and rice) and machaca (carne asada, eggs, bell peppers, onions, rice, beans, tortillas) are great, but you can't beat their eggs Benedict (Black Forest ham and two poached eggs smothered in hollandaise sauce). The short-stack pancakes or French toast (made with egg bread, dipped in cinnamon-vanilla batter and dusted with powdered sugar) should give you your sugar fix too. Lunch is great out on the sidewalk (car-nitats lunch torta, seared ahi with greens, or lamb in chili sauce are good bets), but the really cool time to come is early evening, when all La Jolla Shores is out on the prowl. Breakfast through dinner daily. Inexpensive. — E.B. (5/02)

The Marine Room 2000 Spindrift Drive (off Torrey Pines Road), La Jolla, 858-459-7222. High cuisine, high adventure, high seas — at only moderately high prices. With chef Bernard Guillas as top toque, the Marine Room has become the quintessential great San Diego restaurant. The exhilarating coastal view meets Cal-French-Pacific Rim cuisine that's as exuberantly out-front as the waves whacking the windows. Guillas's oceanic culinary inventiveness with ultra-fresh, exotic ingredients makes every visit a voyage of discovery, and preparations are so elaborate that each listing on his precise menu reads like a whole tasting dinner. And the tasting dinners themselves (Monday through Wednesday evenings) are something of a bargain — a royal feast for the price of, say, a fill-up for your SUV. Reservations required; slightly dressy but not stuffy. Easiest route: Make a right from westbound Torrey Pines onto Roseland or Viking and go left on St. Louis, which runs into Spindrift. Wheelchair ramp to the left of front door. Noisy when crowded. Lunch Tuesday through Saturday, Sunday brunch, dinner nightly. Expensive. — N.W. (9/02)

P.F. Chang's China Bistro 4540 La Jolla Village Drive, La Jolla, 858-458-9007. The decor and ambiance carry the weight here. Chinese food is only average. This is a place to see and be seen. Open daily, lunch and dinner. Dinner menu available from opening to closing. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.W.

Sushi On The Rock 7734 Girard Avenue, La Jolla, 858-456-1138. This noisy, high-energy spot — a boxy, saloon-like space with a sushi bar in back — draws a lively twenty-something crowd (although older folks will have plenty of company, too). Unlike more traditional sushi bars, there's a vast selection of "rock and rolls" — huge, creative futo-maki party sushi. And they're fabulous, with sparkling fresh seafood and immensely clever combinations. Try, for instance, the shrimp tempura roll, which wraps fried shrimp, crab shreds, daikon sprouts and Japanese mayo in deep-fried salmon skin — the combo would be just as impressive as an appetizer at a top Cal-French restaurant. The Orange Crush is another sublime invention, fresh and crunchy with veggies and tobiko wrapped in suave salmon. Even simple rolls are so well conceived, and the rice so nicely seasoned, you won't need soy-wasabi dip. No reservations, long waits (in cramped entryway) on weekends. Full bar, good sake list. Lunch weekdays, dinner nightly, with deep discounts for happy hour specials. Moderate. Second (quieter) location at 1923 Calle Barcelona, Carlsbad, 858-456-1138. — N.W. (11/04)

MISSION VALLEY & THE MESAS

King's Fish House 825 Camino de la Reina (west of Mission Center Drive), Mission Valley, 619-574-1230. To find King's in the megamall, go slightly west of Koo Koo Roo and follow the line of cars to the free valet parking. It's a chain, but it's a classy chain, offering fish and seafoods of a quality that's well above average, including crustaceans from a live-tank and a half-dozen varieties of pristine oysters. Generously-sized entrées come with soup or salad (including a Caesar that's above suspicion) and two hefty side dishes. The vast menu of American-style preparations changes daily to reflect the fresh catch, and includes some rotating regional specialties (e.g., New Orleans, Hawaii, New England). Don't miss the prawn potsticker appetizer, if available, and for dessert, the miraculously light bread pudding. The atmosphere is good-timey (with two patios and a barroom as well as a dining room), the service is enthusiastic, and the management will accommodate special requests if you call ahead. Kiddie menu available. Open daily, lunch and dinner. Moderate. — N.W. (5/02)

Pho Tau Bay Restaurant 7604 Linda Vista Road (near Mesa College), Linda Vista, 858-268-3161. Full name: La Cai Mi Gia, va Pho Tau Bay. The building looks like a converted McDonald's, but the interior is oriental and swanky with large fish tanks, blue carpet, gold metallic wainscoting, silk roses, a golden three-foot-tall laughing Buddha, and a red altar with three black-bearded gods. For lunch and dinner you can choose such exotics as quail, boar, alligator, and "Spicy Chop Frog in Coconut Milk and Curry." Breakfast is cheap, filling, and very Vietnamese. Try mi ga, a gentle rice noodle soup with shredded chicken, or order banh mi thit, eight inches of French bread with traditional South Vietnamese beef stew. Puzzled? Ask for Mr. Le. Three meals, daily. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.B. (11/00)

San Tong Palace 4690 Convoy Street (between Engineer and Balboa), Kearny Mesa, 858-571-6837. This unassuming, strip-mall restaurant is easy to overlook, but once found, impossible to resist. San Tong's hybrid Korean-Chinese menu draws from these regions' tastiest styles. The Rainbow Salad demonstrates this combination deliciously, and San Tong's dumplings are outstanding. The seafood dumplings are especially remarkable. For the adventurous, I recommend the jellyfish salad, a novel treat for westerners. At San Tong Palace, curious appetites are rewarded well. Inexpensive. — M.N. (4/99)

Todai 2828 Camino Del Rio South, Mission Valley, 619-299-8996. You'll find no dish "to die" for at this So-Cal-based chain restaurant. It calls itself "The Mother of All Seafood Buffets" and has spawned branches in suburban malls all over the country. Our branch looks like a seafood Disneyland — multicolor floors and pastel neon lights in fanciful shapes (moon, stars, fish) adorn three separate buffets. There's a huge array of seafood, sushi, teppanyaki, and assorted Asian nibbles — some pretty good, some pretty awful (e.g., "Dungeon" crab cooked to mush). They do rotate the dishes regularly until a half hour before closing, keeping most items reasonably fresh. Two vast, drab dining rooms (seating 500) feature strong, dingy lighting and utilitarian tables and chairs closely spaced to seat the crowded masses. Japanese beers, California jug wines, generic hot and cold sake available. Reservations for large groups only. Family atmosphere, very noisy. Arrive early to cover the territory. Lunch and dinner daily. Moderate, with kiddie and senior discounts. — N.W. (10/02)

Tofu House 4646 Convoy Street, Kearny Mesa, 858-576-6433. This stylish little eatery is proof positive that our city has matured for its specialty ethnic foods. Tofu House is a Korean restaurant serving up specialty tofu dishes. Flavorful, healthy foods. I highly recommend the soontofu soups (beef, pork, seafood, or mushroom) with raw egg drop you drop yourself and a side of tasty fresh kimchee. Deliver yourself from sorrowfully generic foreign food — Tofu House serves vivid ethnic food. Open daily. Inexpensive. — M.N. (2/99)

THE BEACHES

Cafe Athena Pacific Mall, 1846 Garnet Avenue (at Lamont), Pacific Beach, 858-274-1140. With a more upscale, eye-catching decor and a longer and more serious menu than most Greek cafés, this is a popular destination, so be sure to reserve for dinner or you'll risk a long wait. The choices include good soups and appetizers (except for a sub-par taramasalata), outstanding moussaka, above-average gyros, and interesting, unusual desserts. There's plenty for vegetarians. Rather noisy when crowded. Open daily, lunch and dinner. Inexpensive to low moderate. — N.W. (3/02)

Costa Brava 1653 Garnet Avenue (at Jewel), Pacific Beach, 858-273-1218. Cordial owner-host Javier Gonzalez opened this charming restaurant so that local Spaniards would have a place to gather with an authentic atmosphere of home, and indeed, the "Euro" atmosphere and late hours give a truly Iberian feel. The lively garlic-rich dishes here include a wide array of tasty tapas and, among the entrées, a paella that's made to order (sized to serve two or four; call ahead for larger groups). Patio seating in good weather. Parking lot and wheelchair access via the alley behind the restaurant. Open daily 11 a.m. to midnight, with bargain prices at Sunday brunch. Reservations advised for week-end evenings. Moderate. — N.W. (2/02)

Go Greek Cafe and Grill 4501 Mission Bay Drive (mall with 7-Eleven and Sushi Ota), Pacific Beach, 858-270-4487. Located in the same easy-to-miss mini-mall as Sushi Ota,

Brockton Villa Restaurant

1235 Coast Blvd., La Jolla
(Overlooking La Jolla Cove)

across the street from Rubio's (look for the 7-Eleven sign), this informal Greek café is better than it looks. The taramasalata (codfish roe salad) may not be house-made, but the delicious spread is straight from Greece. Excellent house salad, stuffed grape leaves, lentil soup, saganaki for additional starters; fine homey moussaka and grilled fish are among the entrées (but gyros are ordinary), and the exotic rice pudding makes a light dessert. Vegetarian-friendly menu. Belly dancing Friday nights. Open Monday through Saturday, lunch and dinner; sporadically on Sunday. Low moderate. — N.W. (3/02)

Kabuki Sushi Restaurant 4475 Mission Boulevard (entrance on Garnet), Pacific Beach, 858-270-1986. This place has a unique system of delivering tempting dishes to you via boats floating along a mini-canal that surrounds the sushi bar. You take food off and pay according to the plate size. The sushi chefs — they can be a show in themselves — have the usual panoply of sushi, sashimi, nigiri. The dragon rolls (crab, shrimp tempura, eel, avocado) and spider roll (soft-shelled crab) are tasty too. It's young and crowded here — is that because you don't have to sweat the menu, just grab what you like off the boat and chew? Open for lunch and dinner Tuesday to Saturday; dinner only Sunday; closed Monday. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.B. (1/04)

Kaiserhof 2253 Sunset Cliffs Boulevard, Ocean Beach, 619-224-0606. Even on weeknights, crowds fill this restaurant and biergarten, chowing down on hefty, hearty German cooking in a festive atmosphere. Flavors are authentic, but can be monotonous due to kitchen's reliance on commercial products (especially a heavy-flavored beef base that makes all the sauces taste alike). Good schnitzels, potato pancakes. The excellent apple strudel is the only dessert made in-house. Reservations advised, especially for patio seating. Full bar. Lunch Friday through Sunday, dinner Tuesday through Sunday. Moderate. — N.W. (6/02)

Thee Bungalow 4996 West Point Loma Boulevard, Ocean Beach, 619-224-2884. The very soul of Ocean Beach resides in Ed Moore's charming, comfortable historic "cottage," where the menu covers classic French bistro fare from pâté to soufflé, including comfort-food entrées like grandmaman used to make. And like manh're's, the cooking is a little inconsistent. Skip the over-rated duck and head for the seasonal specials, the rich stews, and — of course — the pâtés and soufflés. When the peppery corn soup is on the menu, leap for it. A huge wine list at very low markups is a special blessing. Slightly dressy; reservations strongly advised. Expensive, but with affordable early-bird weeknight dinners. — N.W. (11/00)

CENTRAL SAN DIEGO

El Morelense 317 Dewey Street, Logan Heights, 619-234-2750. Morelense-style cooking: more pungent than Cal-Mex or Tex-Mex. The Cecina (a kind of carne asada), served with rice, beans, and tortillas, is richly marinated and filling, as is the carne de adobada (pork dish), caldo de res (beef soup), huevos rancheros, and menudo or pozole soup (weekends only) are worth trying. Owner Santos, a true Morelense, makes all dishes from scratch, including salsas and tortillas. This used to be a tough area, but the new central police station next door has helped change all that. Open daily. Inexpensive. — E.B. (12/01)

Island Spice 2820 Market Street (at 28th Street), Grant Hill, 619-702-9309. Interesting Jamaican specialties are served indoors or on a sunny patio. Breakfast can include run dung (sauteed salt mackerel) and ackee with salt cod. At lunch and dinner there's fine jerk chicken (ask for dark meat, it's moister), but don't overlook lesser-known delicacies such as savory oxtail stew, escovitch (pickled) fish, curry goat, and fish or chicken in a tangy brown stew. Dinner hours and offerings vary, and many patrons get takeout. Call just before you go to learn what's available and place your order. Inexpensive. — N.W. (2/01)

Calendar RESTAURANTS

Mailo's Cafe 4095 30th Street, North Park, 619-528-1602. OK, so Mailo's is a Greek café and Mailo and Blanca aren't Greek, they're Mexican-American. On the other hand, Mailo cooked in an OB Greek restaurant for 14 years before he opened here. Plus, the two have made Greek extremely affordable. Prices are definitely down there for their breakfast gyros, with eggs, lamb, tomatoes, and onion wrapped in a hot pita. And they have this great street-corner outside deck to eat on. There's also plenty of American standard fare. Mailo's cheeseburger, with avocado and bacon, is the most popular, with the half-pound steak

burger close behind. American breakfasts are the old fashioned kind with three eggs any style, hash browns, and toast, plus ham or bacon or sausage or even chicken fried steak, at bargain prices. Same for their roast beef dinner, or the quarter chicken, Greek style, served with rice, salad, and pita bread. Open Tuesday through Saturday breakfast through dinner, Sunday and Monday till 4 p.m. Inexpensive. — E.B. (5/02)

Phuong Trang Vietnamese Seafood Restaurant 5296 University Avenue, City Heights, 619-582-0603. Original branch at 4170 Convoy Street, Kearny Mesa, 858-565-6750. Tired of putting up with the crowds at the popular Convoy Street restaurant? Go east, where you'll find the same menu without the hassles. The fare centers on Vietnamese "people's food" emphasizing numerous genres of noodle soups, but there are a handful of more elegant house specialties — including the extraordinary "Special Sauce" Dungeness crab from the live tank. (The sauce is tangy tamarind.) Call ahead to order steamed or grilled live-tank catfish. Reservations and credit cards accepted, both branches. Vietnamese beers including "33"; just two generic wines, but you can bring your own. Also bring a pad and write down the numbers of your orders to give the waiter, as staffers speak little English. Open daily. Inexpensive to moderate (higher for live-tank seafood). — N.W. (3/04)

Sister Pee Wee's Soul Food 2971-1/2 Imperial Avenue, Grant Hill, 619-236-0470. One of the oldest, best soul food cafés in the county, but get there early (it closes at 8 p.m.). Sister Pee Wee says her daily lunch and dinner menu depends on what she feels like cooking that day — you might find big pork ribs with mashed red-skin potatoes, black-eyed peas, collard greens and two-inch-thick corn bread, or Southern-fried chicken, or seafood gumbo, or catfish fillet with all the trimmings. Sister's special is chitlins and catfish. Breakfast includes eggs, bacon, ham, sausages, and hominy grits. Inexpensive. — E.B. (10/01)

South Park Bar and Grill 1946 Fern Street, South Park/Golden Hill, 619-696-0096. A genuine American bistro. This loud, lively, very local watering hole started out serving savory comfort-food to an appreciative neighborhood patronage; now the whole city's flocking in. Chef Eric Wilburn learned his chops at Bradley Ogden's Lark Creek Inn; if he cooks "mom food," it's more than a cut above mom's. Appetizer/bar menu runs to ordinary pub-grub (but crab cakes or red pepper hummus stand out); entrées get interesting, including indulgent "Stuffed Shrimp and Scallops Florentine," a juicy rib-eye steak, and a light-textured meat loaf. Nightly specials are always worth a try. Considerate service. Full bar, including international wines at easy prices. Park at edge of Gala lot. Reservations only for parties of five or more, so expect a wait most nights. Dinner Tuesday through Saturday; bar menu weekends until midnight; weekend brunches and weeknight reduced-price "early bird specials." Upper moderate to expensive. — N.W. (7/03)

EAST COUNTY & STATE COLLEGE

Greek Town 345 West Main Street, El Cajon, 619-441-9708. Just another Greek buffet? Well, yes. Your choices are standard: gyros meat, spanakopita, moussaka, dolmades. And the décor is the usual blue and white with Greek island posters. But it's the customers who give it an exotic feel, speaking languages from Russian to Greek to Somali. And if you're hungry, this all-you-can-eat deal is great. Have gyros meat, but also try the chicken souvlaki (grilled lemon chicken), or start with the excellent dolmades (grape leaves wrapped around beef and rice). The leaves' tangy taste and the lemony sauce inside get your juices running. Don't forget salad... or the dessert table (how could you leave without baklava?). Open for lunch and dinner, seven days. Inexpensive. — E.B. (1/04)

Izzy's Cafe 1252 Broadway, El Cajon, 619-447-5067. Good-ol'-boy eatery in the middle of Box Town. You're looking for quantity? You've come to the right spot. Izzy's — named after co-owner Lorrie Sellers's middle name, Isabel — is all cream walls, country-scene pictures, little wooden hanging milk bottles. They have great breakfasts, two guaranteed to test your belt buckle: chicken-fried chicken in country gravy, with two eggs, potatoes, and bread; or "Izzy's Frittata Bar," an open-faced omelet with spuds and biscuits and gravy. You can add anything from sausage to zucchini — up to four ingredients — without paying extra. Or, oatmeal or a short stack will fill you just fine and leave you with more walking-about money. Breakfast and lunch till 2 p.m. Inexpensive. — E.B. (4/03)

Orchid Thai and Vegetarian Cuisine 762 North Johnson Avenue #106, El Cajon, 619-447-2819. There's nothing fancy or pretentious about this Thai restaurant, but their food is really, really good. Menu is a mixture of Thai, Lao, and Chinese. Best deal: the fifteen permanent lunch specials, from pepper steak (given a Thai twist) to chicken yellow curry to Orchid Noodle ("Thai egg noodle, chicken, broccoli celery, carrot, egg and scallions"). Larb, the Laotian ground chicken salad, is delicious and filling, as is the masaman, curry with potatoes, onion, carrots, and roasted peanuts mixed in sweet coconut milk. Other tasty dishes include prik pow beef, som tum (papaya salad), panang curry, and mee ped (roast duck) noodle soup. Because he replaced a Chinese eatery, the owner, Montry Sengsouriya, keeps dishes like chicken chow mein and a Japanese-style beef teriyaki bowl on the menu. Finish up with a tiny bottle of Kratin Daeng, Red Bull. It's a vitamin elixir the Thais and Lao love to plug for energy. Open for lunch and dinner; closed Sunday. Inexpensive. — E.B. (6/02)

Sala Thai 6161 El Cajon Boulevard (College Plaza), College Area, 619-229-9050. With purple cloth napkins, white tablecloths, green banquettes, butter-colored walls, and a portrait of King Chulalongkorn, Sala Thai has all the trappings of a class joint — except you're only paying six or eight bucks for main dishes. The food? A bit gentle on the spice front. Tom yum kung, the famous shrimp soup, should make your neck hairs stick straight out, but if that's what you want you'll have to ask the cooks to make it spicier. Chicken musaman, labeled "medium spicy," is pretty tame but still delicious with its authentic taste-boosters like kaffir lime leaves. Hottest curry: "chicken green." Health treat: Som tum, the famous papaya salad. Lunch, dinner daily; dinner only on Sundays. Inexpensive. — E.B. (4/04)

Shmoozers Kosher Dairy Restaurant 6366 El Cajon Boulevard (at 63rd Street), College Area, 619-583-1636. Great for vegans! This Kosher eatery promises "all-rennetless cheese, vegetarian food, no meat, no animal fat, certified Kosher, 100% fresh ingredients." Everything is prepared under the supervision of the "Va'ad Harabbonim of San Diego" — meaning, the restaurant is inspected every few days by an Orthodox rabbi to make sure the food is prepared properly. The milk is also checked — Chalav Yisroel — from milking to bottling. Good eats include "Felaful, California Style," balls of seasoned ground chickpeas, tahini (sesame paste), and salad rolled in a flour tortilla; the 16-inch vegan pizza; and breaded whiting fillets with chips or salad. Closed Fridays. Open Saturdays from one hour after sunset until 11 p.m.; Sunday to Thursday, noon to 8:30 p.m.; Tuesday and Wednesdays are a take-out-only buffet after 5:30 p.m. Inexpensive. — E.B. (8/01)

FAR EAST

The Hideout Steakhouse and Saloon 27413 Highway 76, Santa Ysabel, 760-782-3656. If you're a Harley-Davidson weekend warrior, this is for you: an old dark timbered roadhouse peeking out of the trees, with its own spring-fed water wheel, 3000 feet up the mountains. Back in the thirties, Hollywood celebs (Roy Rogers, Alfalfa, et al.) used to hang out here on huntin' and fishin' trips. Now, bike enthusiasts make it their weekend day-trip destination. It still has a 1920s fireplace roaring at one end, a big pot-belly stove at the other, a honky-tonk upright piano, and a forty-foot-long oakwood bar. Prime rib dinners are the default dish, smoked in hickory and oak, and served with a "Texas-sized baked potato," vegetables, salad, and squaw bread. Other great eats include a delicious prime rib chili (chunks of smoked prime rib, red beans, cheese, onions) and a half-pound "Posse Burger" (with baked beans). Open Saturday and Sunday only. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.B. (5/02)

Calendar RESTAURANTS

The Mount Signal Cafe 1201 West Highway 98, Calexico, 760-357-1379. Out in Yuha desert, west of Calexico, this 40-year-old restaurant remains in the era when Mexicali and Tijuana were rivals for the best bullfighters and bulls north of Mexico City. The owner's mom, Maria de Jesus, was a banderillera, known to fans as "Manolita," a member of perhaps the only female bullfighting team ever. Surrounded by hundreds of bull-fighting photos, you'll find traditional casera (homestyle) Mexican dishes. Keep an eye out for old matadors as you dig in. Open Wednesday through Sunday, lunch and early dinner. Inexpensive. — E.B. (11/00)

Owl Cafe 674 Main Street (between 6th and 7th), El Centro, 760-336-0298. This classic American café is over 50 years old and still serves good rib-sticking food morning, noon, or night. Try breakfast special #1: pancakes, two eggs, and two bacon strips. For lunch, the French dip sandwich. Full-plate dinners — and they are full — include roast beef, liver and onions, and chicken-fried steak. Open 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday (bar open until 2 a.m.), 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays. Inexpensive. — E.B. (8/01)

UPTOWN & OLD TOWN

The Abbey Cafe 127 University Avenue, Hillcrest, 619-692-0311. Based on the chi-chi West Hollywood original. Look for the wooden cross tied to the giant cactus. By all means go during the day and sit out on the patio. But the must-visit time is after sunset, when they light the patio wall with thousands of candles (okay, 250 of them). Inside the 1910 house you eat in dark-wood rooms with (working) fireplace, church pews, metal chalices, black iron sconces, and stone cherubim. Pick from the all-day breakfasts (try the chicken breast, eggs, and fruit dish) or sandwiches if you're feeling cheap — or the Ahi Tuna (half a pound of fish) if you're more loaded. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.B. (12/01)

Alex's Brown Bag 2550 Fifth Avenue (at Laurel), Suite 171, uptown, 619-231-2912. The reborn Alex's (now in the Mr. A's building) is rightly famous for its "Original Philadelphia cheese steak sandwich" (with fried bell peppers, onions, mushrooms, and mozzarella). Benito Guidagni says what makes his sandwiches so special is that he has the meat trucked in from cheese steak central, South Philly itself. Other Italian-American goodies include the Italian Stallion (Genoa salami, capocollo prosciutto, and mortadella sausage meat), egg plant parmigiana with hot garlic bread, grilled pastrami, and cheese on rye. Partly, of course, you come to see Benny and his family at work. It's, well, very Italian. Open for breakfast, lunch, and just-after-work dinner weekdays; closes 4 p.m. on Saturday. — E.B. (9/01)

Busalacchi's Ristorante 3683 Fifth Avenue (at Pennsylvania), 619-298-0119. Remember Olympia Dukakis in Moonstruck retreating for comfort to her local trattoria? Busalacchi's has that settled, warm feel, but it's more interesting. Multi-levels create nooks and crannies for liaisons dangereuses, or there's the street-side casual level. Niche fountains and faux marble columns make it feel old-fashioned. Being Sicilian, they have plenty of the tomato-sauce-dominated dishes (like torta di melanzana, eggplant layered with mozzarella). But also try the excellent calamari piccata, a calamari "steak" bathed in butter, mushrooms, lemon, capers, and white wine. Simple but delish. Or salads like insalata di fileto with filet mignon, goat cheese, walnuts, eggs, and arugula. And hey, if you want to keep the budget intact, nothing wrong with spaghetti della casa. Lunches Tuesday through Friday; dinners nightly. Moderate to expensive. — E.B. (2/04)

nonstop tacos and margaritas. You can also get sashimi, Japanese appetizers, and a few mixed-ethnicity entrées (noodles, pasta, teriyaki, tempura) made with seafood or chicken breast. No red meat is served, and numerous dishes are vegetarian. Good sake list. Sound system runs loud inside; patio dining available in warm weather. Reservations for sushi bar accepted but not necessarily honored. Open weekdays for lunch, dinner nightly until midnight, with a DJ on Friday and Saturday. Sushi prices lower than most, entrées inexpensive to moderate. — N.W. (4/03)

Prado House of Hospitality, Balboa Park, 619-557-9441. In a magical space at the heart of Balboa Park, Prado features cute neo-Nouveau decor and a something-for-everyone menu of American-Mexican-Italian-with-Asian-touches cuisine. The food brings few surprises, but is flavorful and served in huge portions. Top choices include meaty crab cakes, a refreshing eggplant "napoleon," and an astonishingly tender, slow-roasted pork loin. A meringue-based banana tres leches cake is everyone's favorite dessert. The bar makes a nice stop during a museum-crawl and offers ethereal fried oysters and a range of gussied-up margaritas. Keep an eye out for special prix fixe dinners that include tickets to museum exhibitions. Dinner reservations vital. Vast interior can be noisy, but heated, umbrella-topped terrace tables are quiet and scenic. Moderate to a little expensive, with reasonable wine list. — N.W. (12/00)

Saffron Noodles And Sate 3737 India Street, South Mission Hills, 619-574-7737. It's the smell of the spicy chicken grilling that will get you every time. Whatever the recipe is — and Su-Mei Yu, the owner and celebrated cookbook author, says it's from the Isaan, Thailand's ethnic Lao Northeast — it catches your nose. We're talking "boxing arena grilled chicken," after the place where she smelled its spicy cooking aromas while growing up in Bangkok. You have a choice of five sauces to go with the chicken, from peanut to sweet pepper. Also try the noodle soups, like Tomm Yam with shrimp; sinus-clearing, delicious, and surprisingly filling. The food here is real, fresh, genuine Thai cuisine with Chinese echoes — like Su-Mei Yu herself. Middle-class San Diego seems to have adopted her eatery, despite the fact you're in a pretty stark gray-and-white room with views of I-5. Open for lunch and dinner daily. Inexpensive. — E.B. (3/04)

Taste Of Szechuan 670 University Avenue, Hillcrest, 619-291-1668. The Mandarin Szechuan menu offers standards with few surprises. But the three best features are the lovely room, the astonishing friendliness of the management, and the late hours. The Peking duck is excellent and so is the chopped chicken in lettuce cups. If you have favorite dishes, they will be prepared upon request in advance. Open daily. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.W.

Zocalo Grill 2444 San Diego Avenue (a block north of Old Town Cemetery), Old Town. 619-298-9840. This casual, festive spinoff of the Brigantine chain features "Pacific coastal cuisine," an eclectic international hodgepodge with a faint Mexican accent and "something for everyone." And some of those some-things are delicious — a stacked salad of shrimp and avocados, or coconut-shrimp kebabs emerging from a pineapple, or a huge, beautifully grilled spiny lobster with avocado salsa. Appetizers are half price at happy hour, and you can make a whole dinner out of substantial "tapas" sized for sharing. The heated, semi-roofed outdoor terrace encourages al fresco dining year-round. Full bar with creative margaritas, eight draft beers, and California wines including Brigantine's own custom blends at good prices. Wheelchair lift in back, ramp at south side of terrace. Reservations strongly advised for weekends. Open daily, lunch through dinner. Moderate. — N.W. (10/02)

DOWNTOWN

A La Carte On Sixth Avenue 921 Sixth Avenue, downtown, 619-544-1661. This take-out emporium serves delicious sandwiches, soups, and small entrées for amazingly low prices.

Best bets are sandwiches: roast beef, meat loaf, egg salad, and salmon. The soup plus half-sandwich makes a fine light meal. Open weekdays 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.W.

Broadway Pizza 1008 Broadway (at Tenth Street), downtown, 619-232-6264. This restaurant, near the downtown Senior Center and City College, offers non-nonsense Italian-American food. And they're not skimping: from a pizza slice to barbecue beef sandwiches to a Louisiana-style sausage link sub, portions are generous. If you want a hearty dinner, try the whole slab of beef ribs, with veggies, garlic bread, and salad. Unfortunately, the quality has dropped; the formerly fine pizza, for instance, is now marred by oily, low-grade mozzarella and not-so-great optional deli-meat toppings. But the main thing is, while the rest of downtown snores, they're still open, from 10 a.m. to 3 a.m., seven days. And they'll even deliver to nearby neighborhoods. Inexpensive. — N.W. (9/03)

China Too 916 Fifth Avenue (at E Street), downtown, 619-239-4283 or 619-239-1456. The menu claims "New York Style Fine Chinese Cuisine." Would you settle for decent Brooklyn- or Bronx-style take-out? Way better than at the 99-cent joints, soups are based on sturdy peasant stock (Chinese mother style) and the sound sauces are made with no MSG and minimal cornstarch. But don't look for fresh-picked veggies, too — it's Brooklyn, Jake. Chef Chen's menu includes Mandarin, Szechuan and Cantonese favorites, with a page of multi-regional "Chef's Specialties (#90-#107). But what really makes this a "New York-ish" spot will bring joy to hungry mouths all over the restaurant-starved stretch east and south of Balboa Park: free delivery from I-8 to Harbor Drive, from Pacific Highway to 805. Open for lunch and dinner daily (except Saturdays) until 10 p.m. Entrées mostly $7 to $10. Inexpensive. — N.W. (7/04)

Chowtown Chinese Buffet 1041 Fourth Avenue, downtown, 619-233-3389. Looking for Gaslamp swank? You're on the wrong side of the tracks here — meaning you're north, not south, of Broadway. On the other hand, you won't leave hungry. Tai Thanh Le Le has been into All-U-Can-Eats since 1982 and runs a tight ship. He and his wife Lien Hong are Chinese-Vietnamese and escaped Saigon in 1975. Mr. Le usually has around 30 items on display including BBQ pork in black bean sauce, vegetable chop suey, curried chicken, garlic fried shrimp, egg fried rice, salad, fruit, and ice cream. Lunch and dinner prices include soda or tea. Take the endless pots of Chinese tea. Open lunch through dinner daily. Inexpensive. — E.B. (1/04)

Downtown Johnny Brown's 1220 Third Avenue (in the Community Concourse at Third and B), downtown, 619-232-8414. Walk up through the Community Concourse past the ship fountain and bingo! — downtown's answer to a European sidewalk café. Place has a generous patio of chairs and umbrellas. All green and white. You get two types here: sport-minded types (a dozen TV screens, Chargers, Padres, Aztecs banners inside), and city government workers. Burgers are good, but try the breast of chicken burger with soup of the day. Chicken's grilled, edge-burnt, spicy. Soup's bobbing with fresh-cut vegetables. Also, salads: taco or Southwest Chicken. What's best: sitting outside and watching people — not traffic — bustle by. — E.B. (4/03)

Fleming's Steak House & Wine Bar 380 K Street (at Fourth), Gaslamp, 619-237-1155. Original branch at 8970 University Center Lane, University City/Golden Triangle, 858-535-0078. A steakhouse for ladies who power lunch, an "old girl's" club, or just a happy place where the term "a nice piece of meat" isn't a bad thing? The mahogany of the "old boys" steakhouse genre gives way here to cheery cherry wood. When you get the fried cheese, it's brie, rolled in panko bread crumbs and slivered almonds. And the wine list boasts far more than just burly Cabernets and Bordeaux — over 100 of the far-flung offerings are available by the glass and you can assemble your own three-glass tasting flights. Prime steaks are the main event, perfectly cooked and well-seasoned. Try the Key Lime pie for dessert — custardy and full of limey bite. Valet parking. Dinner nightly. Very expensive. — A.M. (3/04)

EXPIRES 12-30-04

Italian steakhouse fare here centers on dry-aged prime beef, game meats (including exceptionally tender bison), lobster, and pastas as the main draws, with indifferent starters and desserts. An impressive wine list offers rewarding California and Italian bottlings at $35 to $50, but roars up to the stratosphere of first-growth Bordeaux, super-Tuscans and scandalously overpriced Napa reds. Bossy, sometimes-abrasive waiters push higher-priced choices. Patrons are mainly "suits" with deep expense-account pockets, loudly talking business or enjoying raucous office parties in a testosterone-high atmosphere. Wheelchair access to the street patio and bar area only (dining rooms are up or downstairs). Reservations urged, but may not be honored promptly. Dinner nightly. Extremely expensive. — N.W. (12/01)

Old World Restaurant 452 Eighth Avenue (at J Street), downtown, 619-238-0568. This is a delight for anyone who loves Northern European food. Their "Great Grilled Gruben" — home-made corned beef on rye with Swiss cheese, sauerkraut, Thousand Island dressing, and mustard is, as they say, "gemütlich." Also, try the sausage platter: grilled bratwurst, kielbasa, sauerkraut, potato salad, spicy mustard, and rye bread. Open for breakfast and lunch weekdays, brunch and lunch on Saturdays. Inexpensive. — E.B. (8/01)

Osetra 409 Fifth Avenue (at E Street), downtown, 619-239-1800. This new, already-jumping fish house features glam lucite-and-chrome decor and thumping percussive music. There's food, too. Along with Caspian caviars you'll find fusion seafood dishes plus a handful of land creatures. Soups and appetizers offer bold-flavored, edgy fun. Entrées are bold, too, but also a bit savage, with exciting ideas frequently flawed in concept or execution (e.g., venous foie gras garnishes sliced too thin and overcooked to chopped liver). Service is seriously discombobulated when busy, e.g., most evenings. Main dining room reached by long, steep stairway; disabled access to ground-floor bar area tables. Full bar, awesome and pricey wine list, bottles retrieved by bungee-jumping "Wine Angels." Valet parking at Dakota across the street. Reservations strongly advised.

Dinner nightly, to 11 p.m. weeknights, midnight weekends. Very expensive. — N.W. (7/04)

Ruth's Chris Steak House 1355 North Harbor Drive, downtown, 619-233-1422. Six cuts of steak are available, all cooked in a special broiler at 1800 degrees. The U.S. prime steaks are aged and hand cut daily. They're fabulous, but nothing is on the plate except the piece of meat. Vegetables and eight styles of potatoes are à la carte. Lobster tail, fresh fish, chicken, and chops also available. Gorgeous view and service. Open nightly for dinner. Reservations recommended three to five days in advance on weekdays. Call a week in advance for weekends. Expensive. — E.W.

Shortstop's Grille at Tivoli Bar 505 Sixth Avenue (at Island), Gaslamp, 619-232-6754. Ever heard of the Stingaree, downtown's old red light district? The 1885 Tivoli is one of its last survivors, the oldest bar in the Gaslamp, and Wyatt Earp was its most famous customer. The only thing new is Shortstop's Grille, but "Shortstop" Paulie is an old hand at feeding roaring appetites. He's an ex-Alaska fishing boat cook. Best deal:

RESTAURANTS

Tamale Cart Outside Rancho Fresco, 1852 National Avenue, Barrio Logan, 619-338-9140. If you've ever wondered what it would be like to eat as the Aztecs ate, come here and try some of the tamales — classic Aztec food — in all their flavors. Tamales are sort of steamed cornmeal dumplings wrapped in corn husks, served with sauce. The choice of goodies stuffed in the middle can include strips of pork, beef, chicken, or cheese, as well as pineapple, strawberries, or coconut. While you're at it, try the traditional accompaniment, the champurrado drink: milk mixed with masa — ground corn meal — chocolate, and cinnamon. In this mainly Spanish-speaking market you can sit, watch, and pick up a few bargains too. Tamales make a great breakfast. Three should do you. These are made by the Restaurant Chiapaneco up at 25th and Market. Open breakfast through late lunch, seven days. Inexpensive. — E.B. (10/02)

Top of the Market 750 North Harbor Drive, downtown, 619-234-4867. The upper-crust upper floor of the downtown Fish Market (see Multiple Locations listing) has largely the same food as the downstairs, plus a few luxury items (e.g., abalone) and occasionally some creative appetizer specials. Prices are about 25% higher for identical items, in exchange for a slightly elevated view and a dressier, white-tablecloth setting that's almost "formal" by San Diego standards — flip-flops and tank tops (on men) aren't allowed, and collared shirts (e.g., polos) are suggested at dinner. That doesn't mean that the atmosphere is quietly gracious — the room's just as huge, packed, and raucous as the lower realms, even on the terrace. Reserve, and expect a short wait anyway. Elevator provides wheelchair access. Open daily. Expensive. — N.W. (9/01)

SOUTH BAY & CORONADO

Clayton's Mexican Take-Out 979 Orange Avenue (round corner at 1107 Tenth, at the back of Clayton's Coffee Shop), Coronado, 619-437-8811. It's a hole-in-the-wall, it's where Coronado High School and the military come for their Mexican fix, and it might just have one of the best carne asada burritos north of the line. Especially when Manuel's on. He gives you lots of meat. There are other good things, like rolled tacos, chicken tostadas, cheese enchiladas, and combination plates, but nearly everyone asks for the burrito. It has to weigh over a pound. Inexpensive. — E.B. (4/03)

Flamingo Cafe 396 Broadway (at G Street), Chula Vista. 619-691-1076. Generations have been coming to the Flamingo ever since its grand opening in July, 1925, when it was a lone building amidst the vegetable fields. Regulars on fixed incomes form the backbone of this institution, so the meal deals are real: hearty portions of chipped beef on toast, meatloaf sandwiches with fries, or lunch specials like half a sandwich and a cup of soup. One favorite: the beef stew special in a bread bowl. Evenings, there's always a "Sundowner" special. Open 24 hours, 7 days. Inexpensive. — E.B. (5/02)

Karihan Restaurant 2220 East Plaza Boulevard, Suite B, Grove Plaza Center, National City, 619-470-7491. It looks like a grass hut and features about 16 different dishes at remarkably low prices. Hamonado, binagoongan, and sinampalokan turn out to be sweet-and-sour pork in pineapple sauce, pork with salted shrimp, and chicken in tamarind soup. Filipinos like to mix sweet and savory flavors, like kare kare, beef tripe and oxtail cooked in peanut butter sauce. And everybody loves pancit, Filipino chow mein. Open 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., seven days. Inexpensive. — E.B. (11/00)

La Bella Pizza Garden 373 Third Avenue (at F Street), Chula Vista, 619-426-8820. From the outside, La Bella looks like an Italian farmhouse, with geraniums, bright green shutters, and maroon canopies. A real extended family runs this business. Their secrets are: long hours (from breakfast until after midnight daily), big meals, and small prices. The menu includes standards like spaghetti with meatballs or lasagna, including sides of garlic bread, soup, or salad. The hit with kids is "Papa's Favorite," an 8-inch pizza with mushrooms, pepperoni, and sausage. Open daily, three meals. Inexpensive. — E.B. (3/01)

Mary J's Cafe 1930 Cleveland Avenue, National City, 619-477-6645 or 619-477-5306. Mary J and her café have been around for 40 years and about the only thing to change is the prices. This is the real National City. The regulars start piling in at 5 a.m. Mary always has specials going, but check the big board menu above the stove too. One of their most popular items is the Trucker's Breakfast (three eggs, ham, bacon or sausage, home fries, and toast), or steak and eggs with hash browns and toast. Mary's son Vic, the morning cook, always gives you more than enough. For lunch or early dinner, try the meat loaf with mixed veggies, boiled potatoes covered with gravy, toast, and soup or salad. Or chicken-fried steak with all the fixings. Also hefty: cheeseburgers or tuna melts (with fries plus soda included in the price) and that old American favorite, a fried egg sandwich with chips. Open 5 a.m. to 6 p.m., weekdays only. Inexpensive. — E.B. (6/02)

Miguel's Cocina 1351 Orange Avenue, Coronado, 619-437-4237. Also 2912 Shelter Island Drive, Shelter Island, 619-224-2401 and 970 Eastlake Parkway, Chula Vista, 619-656-2822. Cached inside the courtyard of a "Spanish Colonial" mini-mall, Miguel's breezy trellised patio draws a dense dinner crowd from the nearby Del. The prime-time wait for a table may be worth it if you're in a gringo-Mex mood, especially if you've got kids in tow. Although the cooking is blandly pleasant (even the guacamole is underseasoned), it's surprisingly painstaking. Soups are built on fine stocks, salads can be vibrant, and seafood is treated so tenderly that the numerous shellfish-stuffed tortilla concoctions (shrimp enchiladas, lobster burritos) are positively luscious. Lunch and dinner daily. Moderate. — N.W. (9/00)

Tin Fish Imperial Beach Pier, 910 Seacoast Drive, Imperial Beach, 619-628-8414. At a table by this fish shack at the far end of the pier, you can watch people and pigeons (and people feeding pigeons) as you dig into huge portions of simple seafood, appetized by the sea air. The bill of fare features fish — fried, grilled, chowdered, or wrapped into burritos, tacos, or sandwiches. The big fried combos are about what you'd expect, but more piquant pleasures come in smaller packages. (Portions are generous, whatever you order.) The oyster shooters, for instance, boast a sauce made from fresh diced tomatoes topped with horseradish. The spicy fish tacos are really spicy, while the fried onion rings are of surpassing delicacy. Best of all, the crab cakes are huge and seriously crabby, with plenty of meat and very little filler. Live music on weekends, good vibes all the time. "Tin Fish Shuttle" (50 cents) runs from parking lot to the restaurant. Open daily, breakfast (to 10:30 a.m.) through early dinner. A second branch at 170 Sixth Avenue, Gaslamp, 619-238-8100, open daily lunch and early dinner, offers patio dining across from the Convention Center. Inexpensive to low moderate. — N.W. (7/01)

BAJA

From the United States use the prefix 011-52-664 when calling Tijuana; when calling in Tijuana use only the restaurant's seven-digit number.

Chiki Jai Avenida Revolución #1388 (at 8th), Zona Centro, Tijuana, 685-4955. Eat here and you're surrounded by ghosts: Errol Flynn, John Huston, Rita Hayworth, Anthony Quinn, Ava Gardner, and, they say, Ernest Hemingway, who all ate — and drank vino tinto — here. Plus the great stars of boxing and bullfighting. But mainly it was a haven for Spanish jai alai players desperate for Old Country food. This is one of Tijuana's great historic eateries, its tale written on the walls. Old border photos, Don Quixote art, fighting bull ranchos' brands, and a mator's framed green cape with his blood still on it. The food's all Spanish, so paella is big (with soup, salad, French bread, and bleu cheese), but also try the baby eel appetizers, chorizo (pork sausages), bacalao (cod fish) a la Vizcaina, trout with olive oil and garlic, and Gallican octopus. Open daily. Inexpensive to moderate. — E.B. (5/02)

El Nido Boulevard Benito Juárez #67 (1-1/2 blocks north of Hotel Festival Plaza), Rosarito Beach, Baja, 661-612-1430. Head south if you're looking for a great dry-aged, mesquite-broiled steak at a bargain price — but don't stop there. Try the house specialty, quail with garlic sauce (codorniz al mojo de ajo), or venison, especially the savory machaca de venado (strips of meat with peppers, onions, and tomatoes). Both are locally raised on the restaurant's own ranches, and may be united in a brilliant breakfast of quail eggs with deer machaca. Seafood and surf-and-turf variations are tasty, too. The restaurant's name means "the nest" and the amusing indoor-outdoor decor is a sort of multiroom aviary with birds singing, chirping, and fluttering all over. Full bar. If sensitive to smoke, don't sit next to the mesquite-burning hearth on the roofed patio. Dressy-casual. Bilingual staff and menu. Open daily, early morning to late evening. Mostly moderate; cash only. — N.W. (4/03)

La Diferencia Avenida Sánchez Taboada 10611-A, Zona Río, Tijuana, 634-3346 or 634-7078. Mexican haute cuisine, with inventive combinations of traditional flavors. The creative menu reframes the old dishes and devises new ones. Wine list centers on Baja wineries (Monte Xanic and Cetto) at reasonable prices. Secure, free valet parking next to exterior courtyard. Menu is in Spanish (in a hard-to-read font), but some staffers speak some English. The restaurant is often noisy, even louder when mariachis play. Smoking permitted. Wheelchair access marginal. Open daily, lunch and dinner. Inexpensive. — N.W. (1/02)

La Escondida Santa Monica #1 (in Fraccionamiento Las Palmas), Tijuana, 681-4458. "The Hidden One," located in a converted mansion, boasts two gardens and patio dining, and is especially beautiful at night. The roasted baby goat, roasted quail, and the Châteaubriand (for two) are all worthwhile. Very civilized experience, complete with live music on Fridays and Saturdays. Take Revolución until it bends to the left to become Agua Caliente. Proceed on Agua Caliente past the racetrack, approximately one-half mile. Turn right at Las Palmas. Two short blocks up, turn left at the "Pescaderia Playas" sign. The entryway to La Escondida is straight ahead. Open Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 1:30 a.m.; Sunday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Moderate. — E.W.

La Espadana Avenida Sánchez Taboada #10813, Zona Río, Tijuana, 634-1488 or 634-1489. If you learn only one word of Spanish, learn this one: Borrego. Because this place does the greatest oven-cooked leg of lamb ever. The meat tastes as if it was cooked in wine, garlic, and herbs, but the owners insist it's just Tecate lamb baked slowly in its own juices with a bit of oregano. But most folks come here for beef — steaks and the popular beef fillet, sizzled at a big flame-and-smoke display counter BBQ grill. All terra-cotta and timber, this is where the local middle classes come for their cross-border food fix. Think Tijuana's version of Mission Valley. Still, it's charming, and you can have fun. For instance, don't forget to ask them to ring the bells set in their espadanas (holes cut in the Mission frontage) above the great arched wooden entrance door; they clank tunelessly, but they're great for celebrating your 21st birthday, mom getting her degree — whatever. Open for breakfast, lunch, dinner, seven days. Moderate. — E.B. (11/04)

Los Pelicanos Calle de Cedro 115 #45 (west of Juárez), Rosarito Beach, Baja, 661-612-0445 or 661-612-1737. This hotel dining room is El Nido's little (and less gifted) sister, with a much shorter menu (no venison) and perhaps less careful cooking. It serves good steaks and

MULTIPLE LOCATIONS

Fish House Vera Cruz 360 Via Vera Cruz (in back of "Restaurant Row"), San Marcos, 760-744-7346. Additional locations in Carlsbad and Temecula. This affordable seafood eatery packs in diners like sardines. Fresh fish and lots of it is the happenin' thing. On a recent day, 23 different fresh fish selections were available as daily specials, on top of the regular menu of crab, lobster, oysters, shrimp, catfish, etc. All fish is mesquite-broiled with no sauces and no special preparations but a dab of tartar sauce. The seafood is so fresh you don't really mind. Each entrée includes a choice of two side dishes. The Manhattan chowder is especially tasty, as is their "krab" salad. This is an ideal place for families, but don't even think of it for a romantic meal out. Open daily for lunch and dinner. Moderate. — S.M. (3/04)

The Fish Market 750 North Harbor Drive, downtown, 619-232-3474. There's something fishy about these crowded, noisy, ever-multiplying restaurants — namely, mesquite-grilled, skewered, steamed, or panko-fried seafood, plus piscine chowders, pastas, and salads. Preparations are generally simple and consistent among locations. All the raw seafood is processed at the chain's Northern California facilities, so when the menu refers to a "local" species it merely means it's from somewhere in the Pacific. Small retail fish market in the downtown branch offers slightly fresher products than most supermar-

What the Chef Eats

JAMBALAYA
BY JUAN GARCIA
Chef/Manager, Jamroc Caribbean Café, Encinitas

I chose to share this recipe because it's a good meal for winter weather, and it's simple. It's a quick meal. You can make it in between Christmas shopping. Jambalaya can be served as soup or as an entire meal by adding chicken or shrimp.

There was a contest in Oceanside a couple of years ago and this jambalaya recipe won first prize.

This is not a secret, but a suggestion: Cook this the day before you're going to serve it, and when you reheat it the next day it will have better flavors. Also, the sausage must be smoked and made from pork (not chicken, turkey, etc.).

I like a soda with this. My favorite soda is Bigga Jamaica Kola, which you can purchase at our restaurant.

HOW TO DO IT
Put all ingredients in a large pot and cook over medium heat for 30 to 45 minutes. Serve over white rice. Precooked chicken or shrimp may be added to make this a complete meal. This recipe makes 12 to 16 medium-sized bowls of soup or 8 to 10 as a main course.

INGREDIENTS
2 pounds smoked pork sausage links, casing removed and crumbled
2 green peppers, chopped
1 yellow onion, chopped

5 cups ketchup
30 ounces stewed tomatoes, canned
20 ounces tomato puree
4 bay leaves
2 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon black pepper
Optional: cooked chicken or shrimp

ing regional menus from different provinces of Italy pop up during the first two weeks of each month. Most staffers seem mind-blowingly knowledgeable. Moderate. — E.B. (1/02)

Oggi's At least ten branches all over the suburbs; see phone book for the nearest one. Is it the pizzas or is it the housemade brewskis (six ales, one lager, one stout) that make Oggi's so popular? Is it the sports-bar ambiance (with multiple video screens) or just the near-ubiquity of branches that has won this chain numerous "best pizza" citations? The pizzas are American-style, with thick, slightly sweet crusts, many with elaborate toppings that sound more adventurous than they taste. (All the cheese alternatives are equally mild.) The menu also offers pub snacks, decent soups and salads, hearty sandwiches, and American-Italian entrées so mall-adapted that no mamma mia in Bensonhurst or North Beach would even recognize them. Full bar, lunch and dinner daily at most branches; free local delivery with minimum order. Inexpensive. — N.W. (7/04)

Uno Chicago Bar and Grill The 1943-born Uno chain made its mark by transforming the flat Italian pizza into something a little more upstanding. Deep-dish pizzas have become one of Chicago's better-known exports. Now Uno does serious steak too, with variously sized Angus top sirloins. They come pretty much as is, but the meat itself is plenty flavorful and tender. Another find from its expanded menu (which includes fajitas, ribs, shrimp scampi, steak'n cheese burgers) is the wicked "grilled honey-mustard salmon." Still, most lunchtime customers we saw seemed to stick to the staple: deep-dish pizzas and salads. Open daily, continuous service, lunch and dinner. Inexpensive to moderate. 4465 Mission Boulevard, Pacific Beach, 858-483-4143; Fashion Valley Center, 619-298-1866; 5th and H, Chula Vista, 619-420-8660. — E.B. (8/01)

MOVIES

MOVIE LISTINGS

All reviews are by Duncan Shepherd. Priorities are indicated by one to five stars and antipathies by the black spot. Unrated movies are for now unreviewed. Thousands of past reviews sorted alphabetically, by year of release and by rating, are available online at SanDiegoReader.com.

After the Sunset — Rhinestone heist thriller (a brandished DVD of To Catch a Thief establishes a standard of comparison) about a couple of high-tech jewel thieves in smug retirement in the Islands: "Now the challenge is to find joy in simple things." But then the third of the priceless Napoleon Diamonds, of which our couple have already stolen the other two, sails into port, preceded by an obsessed FBI man. Pierce Brosnan flirts with homophobic jokes, and Salma Hayek models several acres of copper skin along with several square inches of skimpies. Woody Harrelson, Don Cheadle, Naomie Harris; directed by Brett Ratner. 2004.

● (FASHION VALLEY 18; HORTON PLAZA 14; SANTEE DRIVE IN; VOGUE)

Alexander — The Great, that is. Not great movie, mind you, just great Alexander. The movie, on the other hand, is a lumbering three-hour uncinematic spectacle that traces the Macedonian conqueror (or uniter, depending upon your politics) from his days as a young lad to the end of his days as a young man — or more concretely, from a child actor who's a pretty fair look-alike, and even Irish-accented sound-alike, for the star of the show, a bleached-blond Colin Farrell — while his mother, Angelina Jolie, rolling her r's in some vague Mediterranean tongue, doesn't age a day. Oliver Stone, in quest of another exposé, exposes himself as pretty much a fraud of a filmmaker. Oh, he may shower the hero with rose petals upon his triumphant entry into a computer-generated Babylon, and he may scare up a harem of wriggling and shimmying concubines, and he may marshal some trick photography for the battle scenes: time-tested slow-motion, of course, but also the more modish (post-Private Ryan) sorts of jerky and jumpy motion, and a totally bloodshot screen when the hero takes a spear in the chest. Most of the movie, though, is rudimentary face shots, in talky, speechy, shouty, bellowy scenes that are virtually unstaged, and are not more powerful for the rising volume of the voices. To a human battering ram such as Stone, the liberty to depict the switch-hitting sexual mores of the Ancient Greeks (Jared Leto in eyeliner) might have seemed a worthwhile advance over the mid-Fifties handling of the material (Richard Burton in the hero's sandals), but this smidge of historical pedantry, no less than the general tedium, seems unlikely to rally the moviegoing troops. Only the background music of Vangelis, for an authentic Greek flavor, gives the viewer the intermittent illusion that he is watching an epic: clearly the better option than Yanni. With Val Kilmer, Rosario Dawson, Anthony Hopkins, Christopher Plummer. 2004.

L'Auberge Espagnole — A French economics student goes to study for a year in Barcelona, shares an apartment with six other nationalities (a "Euro Pudding"), has plenty of spare time for tourism and amour. Cedric Klapisch communicates something of the richness of the experience, no thanks to the manic gimmickry of his direction. Romain Duris, Judith Godrèche, Audrey Tatou, Cecile De France, Kelly Reilly, Kevin Bishop. 2002.

★ (SAN DIEGO PUBLIC LIBRARY, 12/19, 2 P.M.)

Being Julia — Annette Bening takes to the role of an aging diva of the London stage, ca. 1938, like a starving lioness to a raw steak. Her range of expression is most impressive (whether suffering the attentions of a young admirer in an elevator or rising to the challenge of an ingenue on the stage), and the role by its very nature will excuse any excess. The backstage antics of amorous alliances and betrayals do not amount to much: a platform, merely. Based on the Somerset Maugham novella, Theatre. With Jeremy Irons, Shaun Evans, Lucy Punch, Bruce Greenwood, Juliet Stevenson, Maury Chaykin, Michael Gambon; written by Ronald Harwood; directed by Istvan Szabo. 2004.

★★ (LA JOLLA VILLAGE)

Blade Trinity — Third installment in the god-awful series about the preening and posturing vampire-hunter out of Marvel Comics. The previous installment at least had the curiosity of a slumming Guillermo del Toro at the helm. He, in the meantime, took his slumming elsewhere (Hellboy), leaving the scriptwriter of the first two installments, David S. Goyer, to assume command. If so gifted a filmmaker and so strong a personality as del Toro could make no (or little) difference, a novice will have no (or little) chance. Especially if the novice has been the man writing these god-awful scripts. The present one literally digs up the original Dracula (in Iraq, to be exact, “about six months ago”), now going by the name of Drake and looking rather like a skinhead soccer hooligan (Dominic Purcell), when he isn’t shape-shifting into a gargoyle Lucifer. The lone-wolf hero, Blade, is joined for the occasion by an independent team of swaggering, swashbuckling vampire-hunters, calling themselves the Night Stalkers (“We were going to go with the Care Bears, but that was taken”), under the leadership of an au courant Kick-Ass Chick (Jessica Biel). This turns out to be the daughter of Blade’s personal weapons manufacturer, wheezily played by Kris Kristofferson, who gets killed for the second time in three movies. (As that character was called Whistler, the new character would be Whistler’s Daughter.) Right-hand man of the Kick-Ass Chick is a traditional Smart-Ass Sidekick (Ryan Reynolds), who lowers the tone another couple of octaves: “Unlike typical vampires,” he says of the Parker Posey vampire, “her fangs are located in her vagina.” 2004.

Bridget Jones: The Edge of Reason — A case of ill-advised expansionism, not so much (or not just) in the sense of Renée Zellweger packing the pounds back on (without polishing up her English accent), but in the sense of a modestly profitable corner cookie store envisioning itself as the next Mrs. Fields. Granted, it’s well within the realm of reason that life, for Helen Fielding’s self-deprecating heroine, does not run smoothly into the sunset: “Another year, a brand-new diary.” It runs instead in circles — she keeps on being an insanely possessive idiot, and her prize catch of a boyfriend keeps on being big about it — till she spirals off on a tangent that takes her over the edge and into a Thai prison for drug smuggling. A tacit admission, that, of the depletion of the material. Though it’s too late by then to return to reason, it’s never too late to return to convention: a climactic crosstown dash (staple of romantic comedies) in three distinct stages, to four different pop songs. The new director, Beeban Kidron, is a more experienced hand than Sharon Maguire on the first film, but the experiences have tended to be sullyng ones: Used People and To Wong Foo, Thanks for Everything, Julie Newmar. Like her predecessor, she provides a feminine touch only to the extent that the proverbial bull in the china shop might well be a cow. Some of the uniformly anemic images are strangely grainy into the bargain,

Christmas with the Kranks — Holiday comedy, adapted from an anomalous novel by John Grisham (The Firm, The Client, The Chamber, The Rainmaker, The this, The that), about a suburban couple who opt, after their only offspring has flown the coop into the Peace Corps, to buck the Christmas tradition and resist the social pressures of their neighbors. A promising premise, unfulfilled in the early stages and broken to bits once the offspring announces her return to the coop with a Peruvian fiancé. One tradition upheld from the start, ripe to be bucked, is that of the annual Tim Allen Christmas film. He has one scene, at least, that Chaplin could have been proud of, had Chaplin lived in the age of Botox: trying to eat fruit cocktail with immobilized mandibles. And the sight of the middle-aged Jamie Lee Curtis in an itsy-bitsy bikini arouses admiration for her courage, if it arouses nothing else. With Dan Aykroyd, M. Emmet Walsh, Julie Gonzalo; directed by Joe Roth. 2004.

as if sections of long shots or medium shots had been marked off and blown up into closer shots. Colin Firth and Hugh Grant — the rock and the hard-on — have come back to do their respective things, with half a heart each. Jacinda Barrett, Jim Broadbent, Gemma Jones. 2004.

and a portrait photographer, and two British males, an obituarist and a dermatologist — align and realign over an extended period of time. (The title is presumably to be pronounced with a soft s, synonym of “nearer,” not a hard s, synonym of Mariano Rivera.) A lot of important events transpire off-screen — in between scenes, in the blink of an eye — and it would not be amiss to say that the most interesting parts of the film are the skips. Nor would it be amiss to point out that these are common devices in theater, where indeed the film originated. While the action has, as they say, been “opened up,” the brittle dialogue still echoes of the stage. (Patrick Marber adapted his own play.) Clive Owen, normally a bit of a Gloomy Gus, is surprisingly the liveliest member of the ensemble; and Julia Roberts, hardly less surprisingly, is the most restrained, the most recessed. (She nevertheless remains the gracious recipient of the contractually required line: “You’re beautiful.”) Natalie Portman and Jude Law occupy the middle ground, fighting uphill battles to humanize their porcelain perfection. 2004.

Finding Neverland — Academic exercise, adapted from an unrenowned theater piece entitled The Man Who Was Peter Pan, that purports to show how the playwright J.M. Barrie sculpted the glazed statue of Peter Pan from the soft clay of his real-life relationship with a widow and her four boys. (Albeit a platonic relationship, both with the widow and — titillating though it may be to believe otherwise — with the boys: “There have also been questions of how you spend time with those boys, and why!”) The usefulness of this exercise is rather diminished by the insistence, for Dramatic Purposes, that Barrie’s stroke of inspiration was somehow a bolt from the blue: thus the concealment of the playwright’s prior successes on the stage, the indifference to such outside literary influences as R.L. Stevenson (Treasure Island) and W.S. Gilbert (The Pirates of Penzance), the obliviousness to the prevailing child-worship afoot in England at the time, the denial of the pandering, undaring fashionability of the theme, and the preposterous pretense that it would constitute some sort of insight or revelation, as opposed to self-evident truism, that the play’s subtitle, “The Boy Who Would Not Grow Up,” applies equally to its author as to its hero. (In real life, what’s more, the widow was not even a widow.) Johnny Depp summons up a decent Scottish accent to accompany an indecent smirk. And Kate Winslet is her usual tower of strength and intelligence in spite of a role so narrow in conception that she’s not going to be allowed to cough unless she’s going to die of it. With Julie Christie, Radha Mitchell, Dustin Hoffman; directed by Marc Forster. 2004.

The Grudge — A remake of a Japanese film, Ju-On: The Grudge, which was not much good to begin with. Perhaps, there, a better-than-usual rationale for a remake, especially because the same man occupies the director’s chair, Takashi Shimizu: a second chance to get it right. No change, either, in the Tokyo locale, albeit repopulated with such Western invaders as Sarah Michelle Gellar (boning up on a Japanese phrase book), Clea DuVall, KaDee Strickland, and Bill Pullman. The rudimentary haunted-house premise (a curse on all ye who enter here) permits little development — a fact underscored by the backward jumps in time — but permits nonstop games of hide-and-seek and peekaboo with a tag team of malevolent spirits. If the game-playing is slicker the second time around, that’s precisely what’s wanted when you’re pulling a series of fast ones. The means are still modest, and the frights honest. Best of them: the police detective, alone in his office, watching a surveillance tape of an inky shadow that pools in an empty hallway, solidifies into a female form, and advances straight toward the camera — or is it toward the TV screen? 2004.

★★ (VOGUE)

House of Flying Daggers — Director Zhang Yimou follows up Hero with more martial-arts action, starring Zhang Ziyi, Andy Lau, Takeshi Kaneshiro. (FLOWER HILL 4; LA JOLLA VILLAGE; MIRA MESA 18; MISSION VALLEY 20; PALM PROMENADE 24; FROM 12/17)

The Incredibles — A Pixar computer cartoon about a married-with-children team of superheroes in enforced retirement under the Superhero Relocation Program. The tweaking of superheroes has long since progressed beyond a mere trend into a full-blown state of cultural decadence, but there’s no particular reason to hold it against this little tag-along. The topography of the volcanic island that serves as the archvillain’s lair is well rendered, and the imitation-007 musical score hits a high number of right notes. With the voices of Craig T. Nelson, Holly Hunter, Samuel L. Jackson, and Jason Lee; written and

Kinsey — Heavy-footed biopic on the controversial American sexologist Alfred Kinsey (Liam Neeson, suppressing his Irish accent into something not quite American and not quite British, but adrift somewhere in the ocean between). Writer-director Bill Condon apparently felt it was vital to establish his subject's upbringing under a puritanical father ("Electricity has made possible the degrading picture show"), yet it's unapparent why he needed four actors — three younger incarnations who are poor matches for the mature adult — to establish it: the father (a typecast John Lithgow) doesn't change his tune with any of them. The storyline eventually catches up to the lead actors, or vice versa, in middle age, but not before Neeson and Laura Linney have had to play at being virgins on their wedding night: it would be hard to sort out the strands of embarrassment in that scene. There's an efficient framing device — right at the outset and at intervals throughout — of Kinsey submitting to the same sexual-history interview he administered to thousands of others, but even with that, it takes a long time to get him from the study of gall wasps to the study of human sexuality. (The lesson learned from the insects — the individuality dotting the U.S. map.) A great deal of chronological ground is gone over, in mostly cursory fashion, and without many signposts as to where exactly we are and what's going on in the world at large. It's clear enough, all the same, that we're in a sexual Dark Age and that Kinsey, notwithstanding his unprepossessing bow tie and crew cut, is our Prometheus. His experimentation on himself ("I punctured my foreskin.... It didn't give me any pleasure"), including a go at homosexuality with one of his assistants (Peter Sarsgaard, dropping his drawers for art), takes him near to mad-scientist territory; and even Kinsey squirms a bit in his interview of a sexual omnivore to whom age presents no barrier. Might he be, after all, more a Pandora than a Prometheus? But the balance of the evidence, most tellingly a momentary crack in the façade of the flinty father and a final testimonial from Lynn Redgrave (a holdover from Condon's Gods and Monsters), amounts to a clarion endorsement. 2004.

Napoleon Dynamite — A catchy name for a movie, but not a name that fits its owner: the nerd of nerds at Preston High in podunk Idaho, a misfit for much more than just his name. Sporting a tumbleweed of kinky blond hair atop his gangly slope-shouldered frame, breathing through a troutlike open mouth, speaking in a monotone by turns belligerent and resentful, peering out at the world through half-closed eyes and an oversized pair of aviator glasses, he is almost an Expressionistic caricature of adolescent discomfort. And the unknown actor, Jon Heder, gives not so much a performance as a mere presentation: here I am, like it or lump it. His unfamiliarity (is he really like that?) harmonizes beautifully with his many discomforts: his clumsiness with the opposite sex (“I see you’re drinking one-percent. Is that ‘cause you think you’re fat?”), his mortification over his closest relatives (an older brother involved in an Internet courtship, an uncle pathologically nostalgic for his footballing heyday in the Eighties: “It’s a time machine, Napoleon. We bought it on-line”), his bond of alienation with the only Latino in his class, his favorite pastime of solo tetherball. The clever credits sequence, composed of unappetizing plates of food and assorted other mundanities (a Chapstick, a library check-out card, and so on), correctly forecasts the relentless quirkiness of the film, a feel-odd comedy that takes a hard turn at the end toward a feel-good comedy (not without adequate preparation: a closed-door practice session in which the hero “gets his groove on” with a dance-instruction video found at a thrift shop). The equally unknown director, Jared Hess, whom we might like to imagine got to know his star by way of alphabetical seating in Study Hall, would appear to have undergone some sort of artistic epiphany while watching a Wes Anderson film: flat, squared-up images, dealt out in a kind of hammer-and-anvil rhythm. The consistency of it all, not just the rhythm but the tone, is ultimately persuasive. The viewer is given plenty of time to attune, to adjust, to acclimate. He is given no special inducement. Jon Gries, Aaron Ruell, Efrén Ramirez, Tina Majorino. 2004.

National Treasure — Juvenile adventure yarn about a treasure hunt for the legendary booty of the Knights Templar, handed down to their natural successors, the Masons, and squirreled away by the American Founding Fathers, with clues to its whereabouts written in invisible ink on the back of the Declaration of Independence. The Jerry Bruckheimer treatment (Jon Turteltaub the appearance of the choo-choo out of a clearing cloud of steam and swirling snow; the wind-borne ticket that returns to its holder via a relay network of a pack of wolves, an eagle, a rolling snowball, etc.; the perilous slog over the top of the railcars against a relentless salvo of blinding snowflakes; the train snaking across an ice-covered track; the red-brick Victorian architecture of the Pole — but these, without exception, are significantly liberated from the live actors. They are free-hand animation. The recognizable face of Tom Hanks, behind a walrus mustache and half-moon glasses, in the part of the train conductor and chief proselytizer for childlike credulity, is something of a distraction — a disruption in the cartoon universe — in the same way that an overly recognizable voice can be a distraction (Robin Williams in Aladdin, Eddie Murphy in Shrek, Albert Brooks and Ellen DeGeneres in Finding Nemo — name your own). But Hanks’s voice, in a handful of other roles besides that of the conductor, almost as though he alone were reading the Van Allsburg text for audiotape, has been sufficiently disguised or electronically altered to be no more than a minimal distraction. 2004.

Ray — Truncated and time-scrambled biography of singer Ray Charles, with a lot of back and forth between his childhood in rural Florida and his manhood circa 1948-65, to ensure that Jamie Foxx will never be absent from the screen for too long at a stretch. There’s a nice scene of the newly blind boy at age seven or eight, getting his bearings from the aural co-ordinates around the wood shanty he calls home, while his mother stands by in silence and lets him figure it out for himself. There could have been more of that sort of thing. At two and a half hours, the movie taxes our fondness for this lugubrious wailer (otherwise known as the Genius of Soul); and the fact that he passed away in the same year in which the movie was released only tightens the emotional screws. The routine re-enactments of financial exploitation, marital infidelities, drug abuse, backstage discord among band members, etc., hope to be ennobled by the brand name of Ray Charles — or more broadly, by the customary blackmail of True Story. Foxx does a commendable job of mimicking the trademark mannerisms — the rocking motion whether walking or singing, the self-hug, the twenty-four-tooth grin — but it’s a performance condemned to stay on the surface, like a leaf on a pond. With Kerry Washington, Regina King, Clifton Powell; directed by Taylor Hackford. 2004.

Saw — Short for Jigsaw, nickname of a serial killer who “technically” has killed no one, but rather has contrived elaborate traps to compel his victims to do the killing. Cheap, crude, ugly, hokey chiller which you’re likely to be sorry you saw. With Cary Elwes, Leigh Whannell, Danny Glover, and Monica Potter; directed by James Wan.

● (HORTON PLAZA 14)

Seed of Chucky — Jennifer Tilly, playing herself, namely a chocolate-munching has-been (“How come I don’t get any good roles anymore?”), gets impregnated by turkey-baster with the ejaculate of a demonic doll: “No wonder her career is in trouble.” Her trust has been sorely misplaced, her good nature brutally abused. With Hannah Spearritt, Redman, John Waters, and the voice of Brad Dourif; written and directed by Don Mancini. 2004.

Treasure. Not only is the plasticky animation done by computer, but also the plotting, scripting, casting, everything. We have here, plugged in as variables in the formula, hip-hop fish (voice, and lips, of Will Smith), Mafia sharks (voice and facial mole of Robert De Niro), a temperamental blowfish (voice and eyebrows of Martin Scorsese), Rastafarian jellyfish (Ziggy Marley, Doug E. Doug), and so on. One of the younger sharks (Jack Black) is “different,” specifically vegetarian (read “effeminate”), symbolically whatever you please. Pop-culture references are rife: the sharks hum to themselves the theme from Jaws, etc. Wordplay is compulsory and compulsive: shell phones, prawn shop, Coral-Cola. As long as the box-office stampede persists, there is no reason for the manufacture of these things to slow down or aim higher. With the voices, also, of Renée Zellweger and Angelina Jolie; directed by Bibi Bergeron, Vicky Jenson, and Rob Letterman. 2004.

● (VOGUE)

Sideways — The bare outline would look like a hundred other buddy comedies: two old friends from college, an ex-soap opera actor and a would-be novelist, take off for an ostensible round of golfing and wine-tasting a week before the former’s wedding. They present a classic study in contrasts: the slob and the snob; the free-wheeler and the fuddy-duddy; the fun-seeker and the aesthete; the hack and the artiste. The film itself not only illustrates the split; it incarnates it. Events unfold straight down the middle of the commercial road: the bridegroom, determined to sow as many wild oats as possible, has his amorous entanglements and his torturous extrications, while his divorced and depressed pal warms up slowly to a potential soul mate. It would not be difficult to picture, let’s say, Owen Wilson and Ben Stiller in the parts. Nor would it be difficult to imagine the film as yet another Hollywood remake of a French farce (pick your winemaking region), originally starring Gerard Depardieu and Michel Blanc. But director and co-writer Alexander Payne, apparently drifting contentedly into the mainstream with his Election and About

Schmidt, has clearly chosen now to paddle against the current. The choice — to do what’s best for the film rather than best for the box-office — is clear enough in the casting: Thomas Haden Church and Paul Giamatti as the buddies, Sandra Oh (the filmmaker’s wife) and Virginia Madsen as their respective romantic interests. In other areas, too, the film asserts its (in all senses) independence. Not, however, in every area: not in its whip-crackingly chipper music or its negligently washed-out color. But within the commonplace plot outline, the details are vibrant and venturesome, not flyblown and formulaic: Giamatti filling in the New York Times crossword puzzle atop his steering wheel to pass the time on the freeway, or hastily signing his mother’s birthday card as he walks from his car to her front door. (And no mainstream movie would allow an aspiring novelist to cite, as an influence, Robbe-Grillet, much less allow his listener to know what he means.) And the depiction of masculine deceit — self-deception, congenital mendacity — extends as far and as wide as a whole way of life, a fundamental condition of existence, a subject for a film of substance. 2004.

The Spongebob Squarepants Movie — Big-screen blowup of the Nickelodeon TV cartoon show, brain-child of writer-director Stephen Hillenburg. After a campy musical prologue with some live-action pirates, we are introduced to the ocean-floor community of Bikini Bottom; to the title character who looks as much like a block of Swiss cheese as like an O-Cel-O sponge (the rectangular pants, something like a step-in flower box, do not identify him either way); to his starfish pal, Patrick; to his boss, Eugene Krabs, owner of the Krusty Krab eatery, home of the Krabby Patty; and to the latter’s envious business rival, a specimen of plankton who runs the unsuccessful Chum Bucket and steals the secret recipe of the Krabby Patty, along with the crown of King Neptune (exposing his bald spot and fragile ego), and frames the crab for the crime. It’s up to Spongebob, the Krusty Krab’s fry-cook who covets the position of manager in the newly opened Krusty Krab 2, to set things right. Is he man enough for the job, or is he just a kid who likes to blow bubbles and eat ice cream? A live-action David Hasselhoff comes to the rescue in a campy climax that balances the campy prologue. All of this is apt to sound viable enough in summary. The actual artwork, on the other hand, is willfully primitive, knowingly naive, or, without the equivocation, just plain lousy, and the voices are almost unanimously annoying. A newcomer to the terrain might be struck by the number of phallic shapes on parade. Phallic heads, phallic snouts, phallic appendages. The phallic eyes of the crab are even covered, on and off, with roll-down condom-like eyelids (if that’s the proper crustacean word). Such a newcomer may, even so, have a hard time convincing himself that this constitutes an appeal to the adult. The same may be said of the self-conscious mythicizing: the quest motif, the growth motif, the deliverance motif. Even that, in the aftermath of Star Wars, has become kids’ stuff. No doubt there’s a creative touch or two, possibly three: the sandwich car, one or two of the sea monsters. The rest is not quite all the way to appalling, but it’s nearer that than amusing. 2004.

A Tale of Two Sisters — Supernatural thriller from South Korea, directed by Kim Ji-woon. (KEN, 12/17 THROUGH 23)

A Very Long Engagement — First World War romantic drama starring Audrey Tautou and Gaspard Ulliel, directed by Jean-Pierre Jeunet. (HILLCREST CINEMAS, FROM 12/17)

Waking Life — An experimental feature shot in live action (by Richard Linklater) and then painted over via computer (by, or under, Bob Sabiston): neither fish nor fowl, though certainly fishy and possibly foul. The undulating, sloshing animation on top of the already unsteady camerawork is very hard on the eyes. And any added visual interest from this cinematic hybrid, or mutant, is actually a distraction from the droning verbalizations on fate, free will, existentialism, evolution, reincarnation, linguistics, the “ontology” of film, etc., spiced with literary allusions to Lorca, Lawrence, Stevenson, Mann, Kierkegaard, etc. — something like a semester’s worth of highlights from a Philosophy major’s bull sessions. The desultory narrative apparently depicts — we cannot be completely sure — the adventures in the afterlife of a laid-back slacker (Wiley Wiggins, from Dazed and Confused) who gets run over by a car. More precisely it depicts a vision of the afterlife as an endless and uninterrupted sequence of dreams. A more precise title for the film, therefore: Unwaking Death. 2001.

● (SAN DIEGO PUBLIC LIBRARY, 12/20, 6:30 P.M.)

What the Bleep Do We Know? — Essentially an old-fashioned classroom film presented (at a price) in theaters: a team of scientists and scholars, with heavy grounding in quantum physics, take turns explaining how the brain shapes reality.

Illustration comes from computer cartoons on a par with TV ads for household cleaners, and a live-action Marlee Matlin in an underdeveloped fiction. It’s interesting material, but it’s not a movie. See Alain Resnais’s Mon Oncle d’Amerique for a better model. Directed by William Arntz, Betsy Chasse, Mark Vicente. 2004.

CSRs take initial loss reports, verify information and process claim files. You should enjoy working in a dynamic environment and have good decision making skills. CSRs are important because they embody the trust every customer places in GEICO. PREVIOUS INSURANCE EXPERIENCE NOT REQUIRED.

We seek candidates who are committed to a professional, highly customer-focused call center environment. In addition to working for a stable and growing company with extensive opportunities for advancement, we offer our associates fantastic benefits, which include medical, dental, life and 401(k), plus profit sharing, on-site credit union, cafeteria, fitness center and tuition reimbursement. This is a business casual environment.

If you're ready to steer your career onto the right track, then e-mail your resume to: sdjobs@geico.com. Job code SDR-DH must be included for consideration.

Man, there's a lot that I don't talk to my parents about. I don't talk to them about my credit card debt; I spend a lot of money on my fiery Cuban-Irish girlfriend because she's an OC girl who enjoys the finer things. I have a really traditional Irish-Catholic family, so there are plenty of things that are taboo. It's gotten so that I can't even tell them that my bruises are from my girlfriend; my girl means well, but sometimes her passions get the best of her.

Nicole Mallory
Elementary School Teacher
Ocean Beach

Sex. They know I'm not a virgin; I'm sure they know that in my years on this earth and in this life, I've had my share of sex. I'd rather talk to my parents about sex than the future. I'll talk to them about politics and worldly matters because they're open-minded people and they like to explore an issue before they make any decisions. Conversations get awkward when they start asking what I plan on doing with my life; that's the point in the phone call when I tell them, "Can you hear me now? I have to go; I've got water boiling and I think I left the iron on, or was it the oven...the house is going to burn down if I don't [go.] You're cutting out; I'm going through a tunnel. Love you, bye."

Carmen Santos
Pharmaceutical Representative
La Jolla

My sex life is off limits. You won't hear me talking all Sex and the City at the next holiday dinner. I mean, if I have daughters [when I'm older], I don't want to hear, "So I got really drunk last night and I hadn't gotten laid for a couple of months, so the next thing you know I wake up next to this guy with a goatee and tattoos all over his arms." I don't care how moist the stuffing or turkey [at that holiday meal] is, after that kind of comment, I think everyone would be choking on their food and clearing their throats. I love my parents and I believe love entails a certain amount of discretion and healthy helping of consideration.

Rogerio Mendez
Waiter
Ocean Beach

I talk to my parents about a lot of stuff. I'd never talk to my parents about smoking marijuana. They're fairly conservative people, so they wouldn't want to hear about my views on recreational marijuana use. I know they had fun when they were younger, drinking and such; I don't see a real difference between the two things. My parents still live in Brazil, so they haven't met my beautiful American girlfriend. From what they know about her, they approve...then again, they haven't seen the picture I have of her wrestling with this other girl on the beach: it's hot! Of course, my parents always ask me when I'm coming back to Brazil, but I tell them that I'll tell them when I know.

Fiona Magnus
Travel
Pacific Beach

Everything that matters to me. Our conversations tend to fall into mundane, everyday kind of stuff. Growing up, we'd have good, open chitchat; my mother was always the person who I could talk to about almost everything. I don't really feel like there's a lot that I couldn't talk to my mother and stepfather about, but there's that piece of yourself that you have to keep for yourself; all your selfish and sometimes childish desires, impulses, and feelings that everyone has. I don't think people always act on these deep feelings because it's hard to transcend to that deeper level of connection on an everyday basis. Maybe that's why I'm in the business of travel; I like to be outside of conventional surroundings because that's when you learn the most about yourself.

Tony Shafer
Clairemont

As a kid, my understanding was that I could speak to my mother about anything; by nature, she's a very open person. The paradox that her openness presented conflicted with my adolescent instinct to rebel. The most simple act of rebellion that most youths become reliant upon is the ability to shock authority with their frankness or callousness. Since I knew that there wasn't anything that I could say that would shock my mother, it conversely made me more and more hesitant so that the only open act of rebellion that I could make was silence. The conversations I've had with my father have revolved predominantly on a very surface-level of communication, which might be inherent to his lack of education. He talks to me about his aches and pains. He tells me that his neck hurts and I leave it at that.

Call (619) 235-2415 day or night.

For just $20 per week, you receive:
▶ A 25-word printed ad in the Reader
▶ Also on SanDiegoReader.com
▶ Use of a 24-hour voice mailbox service
▶ Placement on the Roommate Hotline

1. Pay with Visa, MasterCard, Discover, check or cash. The cost is $20. No matter which payment option you choose, you must first call (619) 235-2415 to place your ad.

2. Write your 25-word Roommate ad on this form and be ready to dictate it when requested. You will have one minute of recording time. Begin with the neighborhood, then describe the property and list the rent. After dictating your printed ad, continue to describe your roommate situation. When you are finished recording, press 2.

3. Your print ad may not describe you or the person you are seeking.

LEAD STORY

— Eccentric British rock musician Genesis P-Orridge (born Neil Megson) and his wife and partner, Lady Jaye Breyer, are gradually transforming themselves surgically into gender-neutral human beings (“pandrogynous”) resembling each other. Eventually they will be indistinguishable in order to demonstrate how overrated gender is as a point of reference. (For example, he wore a lace dress at their wedding and she dressed as a biker guy, with mustache; for Valentine’s Day 2003, each got breast implants.) P-Orridge told SF Weekly in October that their goal is to jointly become a third person, distinct from either of them.

More Scenes of the Surreal

— (1) Katherine Williams was kicked out of the public library’s community flea market in Spring Hill, Tenn., in October because she offered for sale a yellow duck-shaped bath sponge, larger than a football, that vibrated (to the delight of her child, she said). City officials (who were apparently focused on the word “vibrate”) concluded that it must be a sex toy and said her booth violated the town’s adult-business law. (2) Archaeologists excitedly announced in October that in examining ruins on the Wittenberg, Germany, property of 16th-century philosopher Martin Luther, they discovered the actual stone toilet on which he composed the manifesto that launched the Protestant Revolution. (Luther suffered chronic constipation and thus spent much of his days on the toilet.)

Things People Believe

— In November, former mayor Diana Cortez of La Grulla, Texas, and the town’s former book-keeper pleaded guilty to taking $53,700 in federal community grant money and spending it all on psychic consultations. ... In August, Missouri’s St. Louis Regional Chamber and Growth Association fired psychic David Levin after seven years’ service, during which time it paid him $1.4 million in fees and expenses. Levin’s business card read “executive coach,” and the association president admitted Levin had “uncanny” abilities, but Levin prominently attributed his astuteness to his spiritual powers, which he said he has in common with his wife and 15-year-old son.

Life Is Too Long

— Showstopping designs for women during October’s Fashion Week in Paris this year included (according to a report in London’s Daily Mirror) a formal, plastic, nearly transparent bag, about three feet by four feet, designed to be worn over the head (from Dutch designers Viktor and Rolf); a set of deluxe armor plates resembling football shoulder pads (and helmet) (from Alexander McQueen); and an outfit seemingly consisting of more than a dozen foot-long black tied bows extending from the shoulders to below the waist (Viktor and Rolf).
— Mr. Ilker Yilmaz, 28, of Istanbul, inspired to bring pride to Turkey by achieving a Guinness Book world record, decided to challenge Canadian Mark Moraal’s 8.7-foot mark for squirting milk out of his eye. In October, exploiting what he called an anomaly in his tear gland, he sucked milk up his nose and pinched it 9.223 feet out of an eye socket in front of several witnesses and is now awaiting official recognition.

The Continuing Crisis

— In one of the stark reminders of regional language variations in the United States, a game resembling horseshoes is fast becoming a pastime in the Midwest that likely would not be so popular under the same name in the South. In this game, contestants throw beanbag-like bags of corn toward a platform that has a hole in the center, trying to score points (in the hole, on the platform, or knocking your opponents’ bag off the platform). Some refer to the game as Corn Toss, but the more popular name, according to a September report in Ohio’s Columbus Dispatch, is Cornhole.
— Included among “weapons” allegedly found on inmates at the Grafton prison in Australia, reported in September in Brisbane’s Courier-Mail, were four venomous redback spiders that an inmate said were “pets” that were regularly “milked” of venom by inmates in order to produce a toxin that they could inject to help them get high.

The Laws of Irony Are Strictly Enforced

— (1) Friends tried to persuade a 37-year-old man at a party near Greenville, Mich., in September that he was too drunk to drive home safely, but the man became enraged; in the ensuing brawl, the man was clubbed in the head with a flashlight and died. (2) Parent Deborah Meister, 46, was charged with assault in Anchorage, Alaska, in September following a public meeting on school policies at Central Middle School; according to police, Meister roughed up an assistant principal because she thought he had been too cavalier about the problem of student bullying.

Creme de la Weird

— Among the unsuccessful 2004 write-in presidential candidates (according to a November report on NJ.com): Jack Grimes of Maryland, who admires the leadership methodology of Saddam Hussein but would rely on telepathy and astrology to make tough presidential decisions; Sterling Allan of Utah, who alphabetized and then numbered every word in the Bible and said that the codes he produced told him to return the United States to the gold standard; and Randy Crow of North Carolina, who says that, despite a government-implanted chip in his brain, his administration would crush the “Omega Agency,” which he says steals from people, staged the Sept. 11 attacks, and may have the ability to vaporize everyone.

Least Competent Criminal

— It was one of the classics, but it happened anew, in Bloomington, Ill., in October. Donald R. Hilger was arrested and charged with robbing 11 local businesses during the previous two weeks. He was picked up shortly after the robbery of a Jewel/Osco store, and police brought two of that robbery’s witnesses by the arrest scene to see if they could identify him. According to police, however, as soon as the employees spotted Hilger, Hilger pointed at one of them and blurted out, “That’s the one I robbed.”

Recurring Themes

— A 47-year-old tribesman from Vietnam, who had relocated to a U.S. government-sponsored Montagnard community in North Carolina to escape persecution, got homesick and headed back to Vietnam in September. However, he lost his papers and is now stranded at Los Angeles International Airport because no country will issue him a visa, in a dilemma reminiscent of that of Merhan “Alfred” Nasser, who has been chronicled several times in “News of the Weird” since 1988 (and in the recent movie The Terminal) and who remains at Charles de Gaulle airport in Paris. The tribesman is convinced that his only chance of repatriation will be lost if he leaves the airport, but at press time, he was continuing to examine options while making his home in an airport chair.

Readers’ Choice

— Robbers stole $70,000 from the Lucky Dollar Casino in Greensburg, La., in November, and, acting on a deal-seeking tip from one of the robbers, police checked a creek near Baton Rouge, where two of the three moneybags were recovered. A search downstream turned up the third, which had been carried away by beavers and used in the construction of their dam, with apparently all of the money still inside. Jacqueline Wall, 25, was charged, and at least one other arrest was expected.

More Incompetent Criminals

— Joel Crytzer, 63, was charged with marijuana possession in November in Butler, Pa., when officers spotted some pot on the floor of his car. Cops stopped him because Crytzer had been cruising down the road on three tires. ... Kevin Martzett, 39, was charged with robbery in Cass County, Neb.; according to police, besides taking money from the victim, he also forced the victim to cash a $75 government check made out to “Kevin Martzett.”

It's a CRIME

FALSE IMPRISONMENT

Location: [4500] Pescadero Avenue, Ocean Beach
Time/Date: 2:00-4:40 a.m. on 11/14/04

Investigation: On 11/14/04 at 10:32 a.m. I received a radio call to evaluate an incident, which had been reported as a possible kidnapping. I arrived at N.D.'s house and spoke with her...she was waiting with her three small children and her husband.

Throughout our interview, her husband repeatedly answers questions aimed at her. I was forced to remind him that I was questioning her, not him. At that point he stepped out of the room with the children.

According to N., she was at her friend R.F.'s home. At 2:00 a.m., F. began to drive her home but experienced mechanical difficulties a few blocks later. He parked the vehicle and they walked back. From there F. called for a Yellow Cab.

The driver was instructed to pick them up in the alley. The driver was told to take them to F.'s vehicle so F. could unhook the battery. F. finished and walked back to his home. N. remained in the cab. The driver asked her if she had money to pay for the ride and she told him that she only had $2, but her husband would pay.

N. said that her answer infuriated the driver. Instead of telling her to get out of the cab, the driver took off down Adair Street. The driver sped up and down several dark alleys. N. said he was going so fast on the uneven alley pavement, her head struck the ceiling of the vehicle as they went over a bump.

She demanded that the driver stop and let her out. The driver refused, telling her, "I'm so pissed off with you." When the taxi reached Sunset Cliffs Boulevard...she opened the back door. The driver asked her what she was doing. She said she was getting out. The driver stopped the cab. She jumped out, calling the driver "a freak."

She ran back toward Newport Avenue, where there was an open gas station. Several men were walking around outside so she asked them for fifty cents so she could call another cab. The men gave her $5. The clerk of the station walked outside to see what was going on. N. told him what happened to her and he called North City Cab to take her home. N. believes it was about 4:30 a.m. when the second cab was called.

N. described the cab driver as possibly being Middle Eastern, in his late 30s, with short dark hair combed over his head, facial stubble, wearing a dark leather jacket, dark pants and a blue collared shirt. He had an accented voice but spoke English very well.

I telephoned Yellow Cab and requested to speak with a supervisor. A male named M.L. leases [the cab in question]. The cab was in service during the time N. said this incident occurred. Records indicate that a male named R.F. called for a cab at 3:20 a.m. Records show that M.L. was driving the cab until midnight, but after that the records don't distinguish who was driving the cab. There is no indication that the driver of the vehicle changed, but the company is unable to positively say who was driving the cab after midnight.

BOMB THREAT

Location: 700 Orange Avenue, Coronado
Time/Date: 11:54 p.m. on 11/17/04

VERBATIM POLICE REPORTS

ferred from the California Highway Patrol advising that a bomb had been placed inside of the police department facility. The caller indicated that the device would detonate in three hours.

Several streets around the building were briefly blocked off while Coronado Fire Department and Navy Bomb Technicians searched the facility with explosive-detecting canines. The area was reopened around 3:20 a.m. when it was determined that there was no threat.

Detectives identified David F., a 48-year-old transient, as a suspect in this case. They were able to identify him by cell phone records.

TERRORIST THREAT

Location: [1400] J Street, East Village
Time/Date: 12:30 p.m. on 11/20/04

Investigation: B. was called into the Human Resources Department and was subsequently suspended from work for three days. When B. came out of the office, he walked over to S. [his immediate supervisor] and said he had been suspended. B. then said, "I guess I should go home and polish my .380." S. told me he did not take the comment seriously and that he was not in fear. S. then went and told the Human Resources manager about the statement.

STRONG ARM ROBBERY

Location: 415 S. Cedros Avenue, Solana Beach
Time/Date: 5:45 p.m. on 11/30/04

Report: Since the employees [of Leo Hamel Jewelers] electronically control access through the front door, two white male adults smashed a large window leading into the store. The men were wearing hooded sweat-shirts and ski masks. One of the men ordered the employees to get down on the floor and threatened them with a dark colored handgun. The other suspect was carrying a silver colored automatic handgun. They proceeded to smash the glass of the display cases and remove the jewelry. No one was injured in the commission of the crime and though a dollar amount was not given for the loss, it was considered substantial. The suspects fled the scene and later abandoned their getaway vehicle. A later check of that vehicle disclosed that it had been stolen earlier in Escondido.

“With all that fidgeting, I looked like a damn monkey.”

By John Brizzolara

A real possibility for this Friday night, at the Cygnet Theatre Company at 6663 El Cajon Boulevard near Montezuma Avenue and San Diego State, is the play by David and Amy Sedaris titled The Book of Liz. Since it was reviewed in these pages recently, I will not, as we young African-American chicks say, go there. Stage criticism and what-not, I mean.

In fact, the only comment I will offer is a confession consisting of the phrase “I left at intermission.”

That’s just me. I polled audience members at random during halftime and received multiple thumbs-up. And the folks at salon.com would not have left when I did in favor of a taco over Amy Sedaris; they quoted her about her appearance on Conan O’Brien. She said, “God, with all that fidgeting and unfocused energy I had, I looked like a damn monkey. So annoying.” To which salon.com drop-spaced and fashioned as a single paragraph the sentence: “Some call it quality entertainment.”

Well, okay. Had I not been enduring hunger pangs and a headache, I might easily be on the same page; but I still, several days later, wonder if I can fashion a metaphor for comedic dialogue

The draw here is clearly the magazine works and collections of David Sedaris (Barrel Fever and Me Talk Pretty One Day, etc.) and the Comedy Central series starring Amy Sedaris as a 46-year-old prostitute and drug addict. A. Sedaris’s character, Jerri Blank, returns to high school in the offbeat and flat-out funny Strangers with Candy, a fish-out-of-water premise as likely to put the “Z” back in bizarre as to gag you with sudden hilarity from far left field.

The Book of Liz is another fish-out-of-water gag, but not the only one. The riffing on the Amish (here referred to as the Squeamish), cheese balls (one is nearly clubbed over the head — figuratively — with cheese balls), gays, alcoholism and AA (the Big Book is described as something like an instruction manual for sucking the life out of everyone in a room). Then there is the restaurant business and Sister Elizabeth Donderstock’s excessive perspiration, which all combine in a sort of absurdist stew that kept me grinning surely enough. What I did not do once — nor did I witness anyone else at this — was to slap my thigh, guffaw, snort, or blow anything through my nose.

So much for resisting my temptation to review. It is just that I have yet to be compared to George Bernard Shaw or Max Beerbohm, and this oversight must cease.

The play was directed by Sean Murray and features ace acting by Melissa Fernandes, Annie Hinton, Michael Grant Hall, and David McBean, but one wonders how Fernandes and Grant Hall alone could memorize the staccato, machine-gun lines and deliver them sensibly. They did though.

Included in the program is an interview conducted by Nathan Rabin with Amy Sedaris. Rabin asks at one point, “What’s your collaborative process like?” Meaning, of course, with her brother. A.S. tells him.

“We come up with an idea. Sometimes I’ll be, like, ‘I want to do something with miniature doll furniture,’ or ‘I want to do something where I live in a shoe.’ I’ll throw something out and we’ll obsess about it for three months, and we’ll exhaust it, joke-wise. The whole time, David’s taking notes. Then when it comes time to get together and start writing, which is usually two weeks before they need a script, we’ll just sit down and laugh and improvise. Then, when it comes to casting, we usually use the same people, and we read it, and then we throw it away, and then we start again. We ask everybody in the group, ‘What do you think you do best?’ And then we’ll take advantage of their talents and write specifically for them, and then we’ll usually have a script. We usually don’t have previews. We’re always still working on it constantly throughout the show. We don’t even have full scripts of anything we’ve done. We’ve got pages of misspelled words and pages are missing. [Publisher] Little, Brown wants to do a collection of the plays eventually, so what’ll happen is we’ll have to sit down and write those. David will write a new ending or something that never existed.”

Following this excerpt from the interview in the program is Amy Sedaris’s recipe for cheese balls. I should not divulge the deal here because I still think attending the theatre tonight or any weekend night until December 23 to see this thing — or David Sedaris’s Santaland Diaries, running through December 20, which I have not seen but am angling on — is a good bet. A Friday-night cheese ball of merriment. Or Saturday or a Sunday afternoon matinee. Don’t make my mistake and show up very hungry and with a headache. You would be less likely to leave during intermission.

Okay, one thing. I think the key in the recipe is A1 steak sauce.

Amy Sedaris

Minnesota Focus

Cole Klick came from Minnesota in a 2001 Ford Focus station wagon to attend college in San Diego.

"It's a nice trip once you get past Nebraska," he says. "Deserts and mountains make it interesting. It takes about 30 hours."

"Climbing the Rockies didn't slow the Focus down?" I ask.

"Not too bad. Going up, you turn off overdrive and that helps a lot. It's a four-cylinder, four-speed automatic. It's got enough power, though sometimes it would be nice to have more, when you're getting onto the interstate or changing lanes.

"It gets great gas mileage, 30 miles per gallon, almost. And the Focus — especially the station wagon — is a good car to have if you're an active person. You can fold the backseats down. I can just open the back and throw my wet suit and all my surfing gear in there.

"I can hold five people comfortably with all kinds of gear. And if I want to go to the drive-in movie in Imperial Beach, which I do on a regular basis, I just back in and open up the gate, fold the backseats down. I bring a couple pillows and blankets and have a good time on a Friday night.

"It's got the surfboard rack on top, but if I don't want to bother with that, I can fit my board inside. I've got an eight-foot board and a six-six. If I'm using the six-six, I just fold the rear seat down and it fits right in. My eight-footer, I have to slide between the driver and passenger seats.

"I ride a racing road bike, and if I don't feel like putting my bike rack on, I can just fold the backseat down and fit it inside without even taking off a wheel."

"The Focus sounds all good so far," I say. "Have you had any problems with it?"

Cole says, "I had my door handle ripped off by a couple of security guards at a dance club. I went there with a couple friends, and one of my friends got kicked out. I went out looking around for him, and he calls to me and comes running. He jumps in and shuts the door; and then all these security guards were all over my car, and one of them ripped the handle off. I've tugged on a lot of door handles and not had any break off. So I was surprised.

"I've had a couple other problems that I guess are typical of the Focus. Even if the brakes aren't bad, they squeak. Another thing that's not really bad but it kind of fools you into thinking the car's got more power than it really does — right when you give it gas, the accelerator's really touchy, so it kind of throws you back, even if you try and creep it up."

Since Cole's from rural Minnesota, I ask, "How do you like driving in San Diego?"

"It's just more of everything, more lanes, a little more traffic. If I don't make an exit ramp, sometimes it's a little scary. Having five lanes is nice, though. You can get in the left lane and not have to worry about people going slow. And there's no snow and ice like I'm used to."

“You know, I had my doubts that this sign would be assembled, given the short deadline, but I think the team can pull together and make it happen,” I say to the cameras. “We had a couple minor setbacks when Mark smoked a bunch of pot at lunch and broke a rack of glass tubes, but I think we’ll be able to move past those mistakes and still get this project out on time.”

“Stay tuned as Ollie assembles yet another neon sign in his minimum-wage production job,” the announcer commands as we cut to commercial. Then the screen announces my endorsement of Milwaukee power tools and instructs how you can own your very own DVD copy of this episode.

Thinking of my life as a Discovery Channel program is about the only way I can make it through the day. Cameramen and producers follow me around the shop as I rivet together metal letters, wire electric lights, and glue on plastic faces. The viewing public watches as I smack my thumb with a hammer and cut my hand with a utility knife. My fan base likes it when I cuss, and all they hear are a string of censoring beeps.

Although it is a big boost to my production, it has also made for some uncomfortable moments.

“Okay, boss. Sorry,” I say as the owner leaves me in the bathroom. “That was ‘Macho Man’ Randy, owner of American Neon, and he’s not happy with Ollie’s fiddle-fucking around while he’s supposed to be scrubbing toilets,” I announce into the wooden microphone with a voice in a much deeper range than I normally use.

As a consummate professional I handle every aspect of the production. Including the graphics and text that would sit beneath my framed image as I work. I’m forever changing and reworking the words to best describe me. First it was “Fabrication Expert.” Then I changed it to “Maestro of Manufacturing,” and then ultimately to “Creation Maven.” But if my life at work were really a TV show, my title would probably be “Dumbass Who’s Late Getting Back from Lunch and Talks to Himself a lot.”

WHAT I WILL AND WON'T WATCH THIS WEEK

Pee Wee’s Playhouse on DVD

My roommate Kip is reliving his inebriated college days by introducing his skeptical wife to this 1980s phenomenon. We force her to sit on the couch, and she grouses in discomfort at every scene. “What the hell is this? I don’t get it.”

“You’re not supposed to get it,” Kip and I relay. “It’s American television’s introduction into gay subculture and stereotype. Look, there’s Jambi the dishy queen, Dixie the butch cab driver, and Tito the bodybuilding life-guard.” We let her draw her own conclusions as to Phil Hartman’s orientation as lusty seaman Captain Carl.

I wonder if Larry Fishburne still puts “Cowby Curtis” on his résumé.

Dr. Wayne Dyer: The Power of Intention
PBS 11 8:00 p.m.

I wish PBS would stop playing this hogwash and get back to art, music, and photography profiles. This guy can weave a fine tapestry of anecdotes and pseudo-science together with a touch of good old-fashioned bullshit to pitch his multimedia self-help suite all he wants, but I’m not going for it. Apparently, the “Universe” and “Karma” favor snake oil over sincerity.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17

Wing Nuts
DSC 35 9:00 p.m.

Here is yet another pipe-dream production. Along the same vein as the other Discovery Channel builder-and-mechanic acts, this program’s premise is about taking scrap airplane parts and making upscale furniture. I haven’t seen it yet, but the idea of it hits me where I live. If they can use a skilled technician in the art of making abandoned spools into coffee tables, then I may have found my next calling.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 18

On Deadly Ground (1994)
TNT 34 10:00 p.m.

Paunchy and over-the-hill Steven Seagal gets in touch with somebody else’s roots as he defends Inuit land against a big oil company. The closing scene has activist Seagal giving a conspiracy speech that fills my mind not with ideas of energy-efficient fuels, but with the suspicion that he has a tinfoil hat under his pony-tailed wig.

Queer Eye for the Straight Guy
BRAVO 42 5:00 p.m.

Moving into a new place with zero furniture has left me watching a lot of decorating shows. My inflatable mattress on the floor and cardboard-box chairs could use some flair. I like Queer Eye because while others may have an unspoken theme, this one just comes right out and kicks you in the shins with it: gay men equal design taste, you lazy slob.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 19

The Ultimate Poker Challenge
KUSI 9 6:00 p.m.

Anything that handles Deadly Sins, not as undertone but as its foundation, has my attention. I’m a lemming to TV poker in the hopes that I, too, can make a million in quick cash by way of greed, lying, and pride, all in one sitting. Cardinal Virtues just don’t play that well in my house.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 20

South Park
COMEDY 48 9:30 p.m.

South Park

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 21

Father of the Pride
NBC 7 9:00 p.m.

NBC postponed any new episodes of this raunchy 3-D cartoon because they had the bad luck of premiering it the same year Roy Horn was mauled by his own tiger. It looks as if the network executives realized Roy is not going to get any better, and they are not going to get any richer by delaying it further. By all means, carry the hell on.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 22

The King of Queens
CBS 8 9:00 p.m.

This show is so stupid. I have watched a couple episodes, and the only plank of comedy holding this weak platform together is Jerry Stiller. You have to wade through 20 minutes of crap to get to his two minutes of gold. Even Patton Oswalt is dimmed down by the writers. I heard Leah Remini has porked up to a decent weight, though, and that’ll make this worth the effort.

Buffy the Vampire Slayer
UPN 13 7:00 p.m.

I can’t stop watching this. What I originally deemed as a “crapfest,” I now categorize as “oddly compelling.” I had no interest in this during its original run at the turn of the millennium because the corresponding movie was so terrible. The writing on TV is volumes better. The movie’s only memorable mark was Paul Reuben’s post-masturbation return to Hollywood. And, we’re right back to Pee Wee. It’s the circle of life, folks.
